JAYNES MEMORIAL PULPIT DEDICATED

Chancel of West Newton Unitarian Church Reconstructed and Adorned with Many Gifts

The outstanding event of the close year was the dedication of the Jaynes memorial pulpit at the Unitarian church of West Newton. This impressive ceremony took place on Sunday afternoon and attracted a large and distinguished audience.

The program included an organ prelude played by Mr. E. Rupert Sireom, church organist and choirmaster, invocation by Rev. Dr. Francis G. Shady of Harvard University, a foreword by Rev. Paul S. Phalen, the minister of the church, addresses by Rev. Charles E. Park of the First Church of Boston, and by Rev. Dr. J. Edgar Park, pastor of the Second Church of West Newton, prayer by Rev. Howard N. Brown of Kings Chapel, hymns and anthems by the vested choir and congregation.

Rev. Paul S. Phalen, the minister of the church, spoke briefly calling attention to the fact that the rebuilding of the Chancel to conform with the original design of the architects of the church had long been the cherished dream of a member of the Society, Mrs. Nella J. Pearson. That it was an accomplished desire to make some need and permanent addition to the already beautiful interior of a church for which she had deep affection. That the gift and the other gifts of a communion table also given by Miss Pearson, the Clergy Chairs, in memory of Frederick Luther Felton, given by his family, the Carroll Hymn Board, the two Memorial Pews, one in memory of Edwin B. Haskell, one the proprietor of the Boston Herald, and for a long time an influential member of the Society and given by his family. The Channing Pew in memory of the great Interpreter of Unitarianism in America were all parts of a plan formulated and developed by the Committee on Memorials and Endowments, made up of Mr. Arthur E. Pearson Chairman, with Mr. Maynard Hutchinson, Mr. Joseph T. Gilman and Mr. Alfred T. Haskell.

In speaking of the Jaynes Memorial Pulpit, Mr. Phalen called attention to the long and distinguished ministry of Mr. Jaynes in West Newton, where he served his only pastorate for over thirty-seven (37) years with work as a preacher as fine and expressive as the rich and beautiful carving of the pulpit given by loving friends and dedicated to his memory.

Rev. Dr. Chas. Edward Park said in part:—When St. Paul alludes to the foolishness of preaching, he strikes a responsive chord in the hearts of all those who have engaged in that difficult but absorbing vocation. "A wise man once said that when a minister is young he wonders why everybody does not come to hear him preach; but when a minister grows old why anybody comes to hear him preach. We are inclined to surmise that Paul's reference to the foolishness of preaching must have dropped from his pen at some time well past middle age when long experience had disciplined his first enthusiasm and had taught him that it was a vast amount of breath to make any appreciable difference in the quality of a man's conduct, or to change that conduct from bad to good, or from good to better."

The best professionalism, in fact the only professionalism permissible in a preach is to completely forget his profession and speak as a self-interested unit, so that every word is headed up and countersigned by every part and payment of his being. The man who preaches that way will move mountains and inspire crusades and reform whole cities, even though the things that he says are the tritest of platitudes. And the man who preaches in any thing less than that way might just as well save his breath even though his sermons are technically faultless.

In the second place the Congregation are to blame. They listen courteously to what is said, but save in rare instances they do not take to heart what they hear. The sermon gets into their consciousness as far as the vestibule of their souls. But behind that vestibule and the inner chamber of the soul there is a heavy oaken door which is usually shut and jealously guarded. The normal soul of man feels an instinctive pride in its own self sufficiency, its own independence, its own invisibility. It is naturally jealous of intrusion, and only in exceptional cases will it suffer such intrusions from without. When the soul goes to church it is instinctively on its guard. Look out it says, somebody is going to preach to me, somebody is going to try to gain entrance into my inner sanctities. Shut that door—Let these intruding thoughts come in and sit down in the vestibule, and let them wait there until they get tired and take their own departure, how it takes a preacher who is spiritually loved and spiritually trusted, and it takes a sermon that possesses all the tenderness and reverence of genuine spiritual sympathy to force open that door and gain entrance into the inner sanctities of the soul. Such preachers and such sermons are rare.

The secret of Mr. Jaynes' success as a preacher has already been indicated. It was twofold. First of all, his whole-hearted sincerity. You never thought of him as a professional sermonizer, discharging a professional position. The whole man was in his sermon. The whole sacrifice, integrated personality were called into action when he preached, and found expression in the utterance. The effect was forceful, powerful, productive preaching. People talk about his simplicity, his straight-forwardness, his earnestness, his humor, his habit of hitting out straight from the shoulder, his directness, his positiveness. They use these terms to define his sermons, they do not realize that these terms do not define his sermons so much as they define him. Just because he himself was simple, earnest, straight forward, positive, direct with no time for doubtful disputation, but internally and absolutely practical—withal it followed that his sermons were of the same quality. He did not know how to pretend, or affect, or how to act a part. His sermons were simply himself at his best vocalized.

Next to his sincerity, the secret of his success was his sympathy. Some men like people but don't really understand them. Some men understand people and therefore cannot like them. Once in a while we meet a man of deeper visions and bigger heart—he

GIRL SCOUTS

Four of the Newton Golden Eaglets, Ellise Barber, Lisbeth Leighton, Barbara Partridge and Elizabeth Plimpton, with Miss Caroline Freeman and Miss Marjorie Clapp are the guests of Mrs. Frank A. Day, Commissioner for the Newton Girl Scouts, in Washington for a week of the Christmas holiday.

They are stopping at the Grace Dodge Hotel and are having a most enjoyable time visiting the many points of interest in and near by that wonderful city.

Two of the parties given by the Girl Scouts this Christmas were of especial interest. The Newton girls, Troops 2 and 10 packed a big box to overflowing with Christmas gifts which were sent to a family which Santa Claus would otherwise have been unable to visit.

The West Newton Scouts, Troops 5 and 15, gave a party the Saturday before Christmas to the Troop at the Peabody Home for Crippled Children. The party was held in the Parish House of the Unitarian Church and 102 Scouts were present. The three troops lined up for the opening meeting during which 2 Tenderfoots and 1 second Class were enrolled in Troop 12 and 2 Tenderfoots and 2 Second Class Scouts in Troop 5. After the formal opening 3 games were played, the girls being divided into 5 large circles. Patrol C of Troop 5 then gave a short version of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" after which Santa arrived with presents for all the little visitors.

Supper was provided by the Troop Committee, Mrs. Herbert Andrews, chairman, for Troops 5 and 12 and was served by Troop 15. This troop of older girls set the tables and also did the clearing up afterwards, washing the dishes and leaving everything in real Scout-like order. Mrs. Albert Blunt, a member of the Troop Committee, had charge of the transportation of the Scouts from the Peabody Home. It was a merry party and a very happy group of Scouts sang Taps at 6 o'clock when it was all over.

Santa Claus visited the 2 Brownie Packs in Waban the Wednesday before Christmas and found them having a party around a lovely Christmas tree which they had trimmed themselves. When he showed them his empty pack they immediately filled it with the presents which were piled up under the tree and after he had given each one of them a candy cane he drove away with a filled pack—tree all trimmed ready to visit the Brownies in Nonantum and to make their Christmas a merrier one.

MRS. EDWARD SMITH

Mrs. Edward Smith of 8 Melville terrace, died early Monday morning at her late residence after a long period of failing health. Mrs. Smith, whose maiden name was Annie Joyce, was the daughter of the late John Joyce of Thornton St. and before her marriage was connected with the Newton Graphic. She is survived by her husband and one son. Her funeral services were held on Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's Church, Watertown, and interment was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Waverley.

ALDERMEN GRANT LICENSE TO OPERATE BUSES

Middlesex and Boston Agrees to Change from Trolleys to Motors on Several Lines During 1926

For two years the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company and the Newton aldermen have been dickering over replacing electric cars on various lines in this city with busses. Monday night the dickering ended and the aldermen emerged the victors. Before automobiles became as essential to modern family life as bathtubs, telephones and electric lights, the Middlesex & Boston managed to make both ends meet. But in recent years the buzz wagons so cut down the patronage of the street railway that the company has been in a precarious financial condition. Its cars have been sadly in need of replacement and repairs and its tracks became so wobbly that the passage of the antiquated cars over them produced more noise than a boiler factory and aroused loud and continued protests from persons residing along the streets where the M. & B. lines run.

Two years ago the aldermen conferred with the street railway officials regarding the placing of busses in operation. The company stated that it was prepared to replace the electric cars with the motor cars to care for its regular traffic, but that its financial condition would not permit it to purchase and operate the extra busses which would be required to carry school pupils at half fares. The M. & B. people stated that a subsidy of $20,000 a year for at least five years would be necessary in order to reimburse the road for the purchase of the extra busses for High School pupils and to make up the deficit incurred in carrying the pupils at a five-cent fare. The aldermen decided that this figure was too high and compromised with the railway company on a figure of $12,000 per annum. After more discussion this sum was further reduced to $10,000 a year for five years. About the time that the aldermen were ready to sign a contract, City Solicitor Bartlett ruled that such an agreement would be illegal as it is against the law for any city to subsidize a transportation company. After considerable discussion a plan was conceived whereby the city might pay the M. & B. a certain amount to compensate it for losses sustained by carrying the school pupils. This compensation would be $10,000 for the first year and a decreasing sum for four succeeding years. While some of the aldermen favored this bonus, others were opposed to paying the railway company anything. Last Spring the M. & B. sent a communication to the aldermen stating that they would put busses into operation on certain of the lines within a few months and after the close of the last school year the road would not provide extra busses for the school pupils nor carry them in busses for half fare.

The matter hung fire. The road did not start operating busses and it has continued to carry the pupils in the electric cars at the old rate. In the meantime the M. & B. has been under pressure by the city authorities of Waltham to place busses on the Cross Town and Bemis lines. Finally the street railway officials decided that between the coercion on the part of the city of Waltham and the campaign of attrition being waged against it by the Newton aldermen, they must make the best of a bad matter and they agreed to place the busses in operation without any bonus from the City of Newton.

The Newton aldermen have been severely criticised by persons who have chafed over the delay in the replacing of the electric cars by busses. While this delay may have prolonged the strain on the nerves of those who have been disturbed by the noise made by the combination of old cars and uneven tracks, the refusal of our local legislators to grant any bonus to the M. & B. results in a saving to the taxpayers of perhaps $50,000 during the next five years.

At the last regular meeting of the aldermen, held on Monday, December 20th, Alderman Baker announced that the M. & B. was ready to yield to all the conditions specified by the aldermen as necessary before buss licenses would be granted and he moved that a special meeting be held on Monday, December 27, to take action on this matter. Accordingly the special meeting was held last Monday. But in the meantime another meeting had been held by the aldermen to discuss the intricacies of the bus situation. President Parker called a meeting which was held last Sunday afternoon at the Newton Club. It was not a regular meeting because regular meetings cannot be held on Sundays. And regular meetings must be held in City Hall, even though the Newton Club was the place where in bygone years many important city matters were settled. The gathering at the Newton Club on Sunday was a sort of Committee of the whole affair or an informal Round Table conference or something of the sort. Thirteen of the twenty-one aldermen were present; also Mayor Childs, President Pitt Drew of the M. & B. was at the club and during the aldermanic pow-wow was called in at times to furnish information. Many details and mooted points of the bus problem were considered and ironed out.

This conference Sunday was the third held by the aldermen in secret session on the bus situation. Once before a special meeting had been called where the aldermen argued without any reporters being present to quote or misquote them and on another occasion an open meeting was converted into a secret session when Alderman Lloyd moved that the Board go into executive session and all the other aldermen concurred with him. At least none of them opposed his motion. At that time the aldermen in general and Mr. Lloyd in particular were severely criticised in local papers for their action in keeping the public in the dark as to the bargaining proceedings between the M. & B. and the city representatives. The aldermen asserted that nothing transpired at these "closed door" sessions which could not have stood the light of a public meeting and the only reason for holding them was—that so many little details had to be discussed, that it was impracticable to talk them over in a regular meeting.

The special meeting on Monday night was supposed to start at 7.45, but the aldermen retired to a committee room to still further discuss the pros and cons of the bus matter and it was 9.10 before President Parker called the meeting to order. Aldermen Bail, Crosby, Leahy and Madden were absent. Alderman-elect Hodgdon was present, but had no voice or vote, as he does not take office until January 1st. However he was on the job to see that his balliwick was properly cared for.

The first number on the special bus program was a reading by City Clerk Grant of the amended regulation regarding the liability insurance to be carried by the M. & B. in connection with the operation of the busses. Alderman Lloyd then moved that the rules be suspended so that the matter of amending the bus regulation could be acted upon at once. He explained that one change was for the extension of the duration of the bus licenses from one year to such a period as the aldermen might decide. President Parker asked Alderman Lloyd if he desired the question of granting a franchise to the M. & B. taken up at the same time that the amendment was to be discussed. Mr. Lloyd gave an affirmative reply, and suggested that the petition from the M. & B. and the terms of contract be considered paragraph by paragraph.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

Edited by WARREN K. BRIMBLECOM

BURKHARDT TO COACH BELMONT

Edgar S. Burkhardt, former Newton High and B. A. A. hockey star, has been appointed to coach the Belmont High school hockey team this winter.

The appointment was announced Monday morning by Physical Director Louis Harris, who was himself a star football and baseball player when at Newton High.

Burkhardt was a graduate of the class of 1914 at Newton High and played hockey during his four years there. He is also a former member of the B. A. A. amateur team which this year includes five former Newton High puck chasers.

Burkhardt took charge of the Belmont squad Tuesday afternoon, meeting a group of about thirty candidates, four of whom were members of last year's team. Belmont High is one of the recent additions to the Greater Boston Interscholastic Hockey League.

SPORT NOTES

The Newton Athletic Association will hold its January meeting at the Newton Club Tuesday evening at eight o'clock.

The appointment of Edgar Burkhardt as coach of the Belmont high school hockey team makes the second appointment this winter of a former Newton boy as hockey coach of a high school in greater Boston. A week or so ago Leo Hughes was appointed coach of Brookline.

Malcolm Hill, youthful tennis star from Waban, and generally considered the favorite in the national junior indoor championship tournament being held this week in New York, was unexpectedly defeated in his first round match with Julius Seligson of New York on Monday. The scores were 6-1, 6-2.

George Owen was the big gun in the victory of the B. A. A. over the New York A. C. hockey team Sunday night at the Madison Square Gardens. The Newton boy scored three of his team's five goals and was almost a whole team in himself. Clark Hodder, Joe Stubbs and Prescott Drowne, all Newton boys, also played in the first amateur Sunday game in the Eastern league.

The high school hockey team opens its 1926 season with Brookline next Thursday on the Brookline rink. Captain Holbrook and his mates are anxious to avenge the defeat of the football team on Thanksgiving Day and will give their best to annex a victory.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team will play the Quincy Y in a Two-State league game next Wednesday night on the local court. The local boys hope to annex their second league victory next week. To date the Y team has won from Somerville and lost to Cambridge, the league leaders, Brockton and Everett.

At the annual open house at the Y. M. C. A. on New Year's night the first and second teams will play a basketball game. The second team is out to give the first a good stiff rub and the first team will have to play their best to win.

At the present rate it won't be long before former Newton boys will be dominating hockey around the Hub. With five former orange and black representatives on the B. A. A. team, two as coaches of scholastic hockey, and several among the various colleges Newton is pretty much in the limelight in the ice sport.

Clem Coady will play his first varsity hockey game of the winter Saturday night with the Harvard sextet. He will play the outer defense and is expected to bolster up the Crimson front to considerable extent. Since the football season ended the big Newton boy has taken a short rest from athletics, but has kept himself in condition and is now ready to put on the runners.

Arthur Noble of Newton Centre and one of the seeded players in the national junior indoor tennis tournament being held this week in New York, was unexpectedly eliminated Tuesday when he went down to a 6-0, 6-0 defeat at the hands of Judson Morris of Hartford, Conn.

The first ice carnival at the Brae-Burn Club, West Newton, on Tuesday evening, was a great success. Exhibition skating by Mr. and Mrs. Mueller and Mrs. Louis Washburn, a hockey game in which the club team defeated the Wanderers, 4-0, general skating and refreshments featured the program. Prominent local amateur and former college stars were in the Brae-Burn lineup. G. Scott scored two of the goals and Stubb and Pratt each scored one.

The sports committee has arranged an attractive series of sporting events for New Year's Day for both young and old members of the club. In the morning there will be skating races for children with suitable prizes. The Brae-Burn hockey team will play a team composed of Dartmouth Alumni in the afternoon. Later there will be an exhibition of figure skating. If there is sufficient snow the ski jump and toboggan slide will be opened for the season. The new slide and jump which has been built on the side of one of the steep hills is said to be one of the best around Boston. Amateur ski jumpers are invited to be guests of the Club on New Year's Day in order to try out the new jump.

Other carnivals will be staged at the local Country Club at later dates.

Dartmouth Freshmen expect to have a fast ice team this winter. Rogers, formerly of Newton High, is a candidate for a position on the sextet.

Dick Vaughn, Newton high and Andover player, is making a great bid for a regular position on the Yale varsity hockey team this winter. He was the outstanding player on the blue freshman team last year as he was when at Andover and Newton a few years ago.

Marion Frost has been elected captain of the girls' 1926 field hockey team at the Newton High School. Gina Hodder, this year's captain, was chosen manager. Thirteen girls received their "Ns" which were presented by Coach Jones. Miss Jones was presented with a token of appreciation from the team. Miss Frost has played on the team for the past two years and has been one of the leading players of the squad. Prospects for a good team next year are bright.

The class track teams at the high school are preparing for the interschool meet which will be held January 8.

Newton High is well represented on the ice this winter with eight teams practicing for the coming class games. The varsity, captained by Guy

Holbrook, centre ice for the last three years, is eagerly awaiting its first game with Brookline at Brookline, January 7th.

MacMILLAN LECTURE

The long-anticipated lecture by Donald MacMillan of Arctic fame comes next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Community Theatre in Newton.

It is not often that the residents of Newton have an opportunity of hearing such a famous speaker in their home city, and it is hoped that every seat in the theatre will be filled with enthusiasts of all ages—those to see pictures of the Frozen North and hear one of the most popular lecturers of the day.

An additional attraction will be organ selections rendered by Mr. Chas. W. Norby of West Newton.

The Newton Mothers' Club and The Mothers' Council have made this event possible, and it will not only give pleasure to the listeners at the lecture, but the proceeds will help both clubs in their philanthropic and charitable work.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by LEVERETT D. G. BENTLEY

Here it is 1926. A new year lies before us. We have in our hands a clean slate, or is it a freshly-turned page? Whichever it may be we have determined to be careful that the slate or the page shall not contain too many black marks. About the only way to avoid this, as we see it, is to select some of the major weaknesses and list them. When we have then enumerated and set down according to their relative importance we should read them over, placing at the head those which seem the most conspicuous. It will take some time and it may be that we have other plans for the holiday. Then comes the question—shall we lay this matter aside until, say, next Sunday afternoon when we have more time for serious consideration? Naturally one needs an uninterrupted hour or more for this and therefore we have a legitimate excuse for postponing. But what was that we heard the minister say about procrastination, or was it a radio speaker's advice? Now if we should really decide to let this weighty matter slide for 48 hours what about that pet special weakness of "putting things off"? Shall we really devote a part of the holiday to checking-up on ourselves with pencil and paper or shall we not? It seems a pity not to make the most of a holiday by indulgences of the innocent sort, and yet we are not quite sure that we shouldn't take the first day of the new year to a preliminary survey of the house which we are so sure we will set in order. Just how far shall we go in this introspection—this self-reform movement? If we make it too extensive isn't it likely to fail? Spreading out the fresh white paint over too much ground causes the coating to run very thin in certain spots. Therefore, we must not be too exacting with ourselves, no more than we would with others. No, nothing shall be put off until tomorrow that may well be done today? No, sir! What's that? A friend insists that we drop everything and accompany him. He promises some delightful diversion. If we don't go we may lose his friendship and if we do accept his invitation what about that list of personal faults we were going to make?—We pause to think. Meanwhile 1926 is getting a good start and we simply find ourselves in the midst of the regular New Year's struggle. Same old story, isn't it? But we are not alone, a large and cheerful majority of human kind is in the same boat. And that's a comfort—and a weakness of character as well. Heigho! What's to be done about it?

We are sure, however, that we aren't going to sit back as a good friend of ours is wont to do. This chap, a good citizen, a well-behaved individual is the model pessimist—if such there may be. We don't know how many times we have seen him carefully fill his pipe, light it, sit back and sigh, "I wonder what the world's coming to?" With this as a text he launches a vigorous attack on the misdeeds of other people. Now if there is one topic that is inexhaustible it is criticism of somebody else. The most considerate and forgiving mortal will find himself putting somebody on the rack now and then. We recently tried the experiment of convincing this friend that he was a bit off in his views. The holiday season gave us a good case. We pointed out where a very wealthy man had carefully planned to provide for many needy people by the expenditure, in various ways, of a small part of his large income. It struck us that this was not the only instance of generosity. In fact we were able to cite several examples. Our friend the pessimist listened patiently. In fact, he was so attentive we began to get nervous, waiting for him to spring something. And he did. After we had praised these rich men and women for their acts, our cynical friend asked, "Is that all?" Our reply was, "No, there are a lot of such cases." And what was our friend's comment. He only shrugged his shoulders and said, "Well, they ought to—they can well afford it." Our comeback was, "Yes, but see how many people of means there are who hang on to every cent, grinding others and making no presents or gifts or even charitable contributions?" Again we were up against a stonewall. Our pessimistic friend retorted, "That's what I've been trying to say—the world's all wrong." And there you are—the eternal circle that the pessimist travels with apparently so much gleeful satisfaction.

The other morning during our daily shaving operation we heard a loud voice in the street. We suspended our task as a beauty expert and rushed to a front window. There we saw the driver of a garbage wagon quarrelling with his horse and yanking on the bit. The streets were slippery, yes, we will say it was almost a glare of ice, for that describes conditions accurately. The nervous animal seemed worried about his footing and we did not wonder. The driver used no whip but he did not spare the horse's feelings. It was all over in a jiffy—so quickly did everything happen that by the time we had lifted the window to do a little yelling on our own account, the horse had been turned around and started up the street. Perhaps those familiar with handling horses—we admit that we are not—will tell us that it was necessary to yank on the bit and jaw in a loud voice in order to have the horse understand what was expected of him. We do not believe it was but are willing to listen to those who may argue against our point of view. Somehow we were as surprised as we were angry at this treatment of the horse. It seemed unnecessary to pull the bit back and forth in a vicious saw-saw; that Newton should permit one of its hired drivers to do it was a bit of a shock. We are well aware that the removal of garbage is not done by the city itself and that the contract is let out to a private individual. Still, this does not relieve the city of any responsibility. We have always thought that all city-owned animals, particularly those in Newton, were the best fed and best cared-for of any in the land. And we have no reason to think otherwise. Furthermore, there is no reason they should not be. If a city expects its citizens to behave themselves and conduct their lives in an orderly manner, including fair treatment to dumb animals, it should set an example. It seems to us that after all, this period of the year is actually the "be kind to animals season" and the horses which are forced to heavy hauling should receive the consideration they deserve. In spite of the fact that horses have not yet obtained the ballot we look to City Hall to protect them and see that drivers are commanded not to resort to brutality at any time.

The phrase "double cross" originated, we understand, among criminals and was used to describe the act of going back on a friend. It has obtained a much wider application and now when one man deceives another and his deception is found out he is accused of "double crossing." We can't just think of a better phrase in pointing-out how mankind frequently does the same thing and, in fact, has done it so often that it has made a pretty mess of things. To be specific, we refer to the kindly automobile owner who has pulled-up to give a stranger a "lift" along the road only to find he had picked-up a robber. Instead of a "thank you" or other word of gratitude he finds himself prodded in the ribs with a revolver while in his ear is shouted, "Come on, give us your money." We have read of these things but it quite surprised us to learn that this very term of court in one of the larger counties of the Commonwealth five cases were tried where the circumstances revealed the trusting nature of an automobile owner and the "double-crossing" by a hold-up man. This of it, five cases in one county within a few months. It appears that the cases were almost identical. Either the driver had stopped to pick-up a lone traveller or he had pulled up to offer assistance to somebody whose car had broken down or been damaged. The trick of the robbers in several cases was to appear to be having great trouble to start his car. When the Good Samaritan came along, stopped, and said, "Can I help you?" he was asked to step out and look at the car and, if possible, suggest a remedy. Then when it was certain that he could not make a quick getaway he was held up and robbed. We do not know how many such cases have happened that never got to court, but we feel safe in assuming they constitute the vast majority. It is quite proper that the police should advise, "Don't take any chances, drive right on and keep out of trouble." But what is the man with a big heart to do (and there are many such driving cars in spite of the speed maniacs and road hogs in our midst) when he wishes to extend a helping hand? Perhaps he had better play safe and "step on it," leaving the other to his troubles. Yet he might carry a revolver, himself, and then he could stop, "cover" the other man until he was satisfied it was a genuine case deserving of sympathy. That, however, would be a trifle inconvenient and one has enough things now to think about in driving without adding firearms to his equipment.

It was that morning recently when the sidewalks and the streets were slippery and the street department was doing its best to spread sand everywhere. The time was morning and the place a sidewalk on the side of a hill. We were walking up the grade. "Well, the problem of riding a bicycle on the sidewalk has passed out of the picture temporarily," we reassured ourselves. The youngsters can't do much in that line now." At this moment a citizen of middle-age, bearing himself with all the dignity that becomes a prosperous Newtonian, came out of his house and started to walk down the hill. In the distance, and approaching at a good clip was a boy on his Christmas sled. The boy, no doubt, was so delighted with the gift that he thought little of other folks. In fact he did not give the man ahead any warning, but bumped him in the legs. Down went the man, sliding rapidly into the street. On went the boy. The man spurned our offer of assistance, muttered, something that wouldn't sound very nice if printed in this column, and proceeded on his way. Have we got to begin a campaign against coasting on the sidewalk? We hope not. Rather we will go out spreading sand ourselves. The problem of bicycle riding on the sidewalk must be solved before we undertake any new campaign.

EDITORIAL

We must confess that we do not join in the general acclaim over the so called settlement of the buss situation with the local street railway company. The men who have put their money into the street railway business in this city and who have for years supported a concern almost bankrupt are entitled to some consideration in making a new deal in the matter of transportation. We object in particular to the requirement that school children should be transported at half fare at an admitted and serious loss to the railway company. It would be only fair at least to reimburse the company for its actual loss in this direction and we believe that legislation should be requested to authorize this payment.

We are glad to note the growing tendency of illuminating the houses and grounds on Christmas. Now that the electric candle has superseded the dangerous wax candle, it is possible to have the illumination without the possibility of fire. Let us make a New Year's resolve to enlarge the number of illuminated residences next Christmas.

The controversy over the length of women's skirts recalls the vaudeville skit that they should be long enough to cover the law and short enough to be interesting. Why not compromise with the length half way between the knee and the ankle and be both sanitary and decent.

One of the excellent features of Christmas in this city is the fine spirit by which members of the Highland Glee Club put themselves to much inconvenience in order to sing Christmas carols in all parts of the city.

Parents as well as automobile operators should exercise the greatest care where coasting is allowed in this city. It is an open question whether coasting should be allowed on public streets, the danger is so great.

May the new city government avoid the mistakes of the past and act wisely in the future,—is our New Year's wish for Mayor Childs and his associates at City Hall.

No one seems to have visualized the further congestion of Nonantum Sq. when the new busses get into operation.

TO RUN BUSES IN NEWTON

The Middlesex & Boston was not the only transportation company to receive a license to run busses in Newton on Monday night. Permits were also granted to the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company and to the New England Transportation Company, the latter being under the control of the New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railroad.

The Boston & Worcester was granted a license for one year to run eight busses. Some of these busses will be of the de luxe type made by the International and Pierce Arrow companies and will seat 28 and 25 persons respectively. Others will be of the Mack type and will seat 29 and have standing room for 21 passengers. These latter will be used on the Framingham run while the de luxe busses will run to Worcester.

The New England Transportation Company will run a bus between Newton Highlands and Needham Junction in place of the present steam trains, except during the morning and evening hours when traffic is heavy. As these busses will compete with those of the Middlesex & Boston between the Highlands and Needham, an agreement has been reached between the two roads regarding compensation being received by the M. & B. from the other corporation. The fare between Newton Highlands and Needham on the new bus line will be 14c, and the local fare will be 10c.

NEWTON CLUB CONCERT

The second in the series of Sunday afternoon concerts held at the Newton Club, Newtonville, will take place next Sunday at 3.30 o'clock. The program will be rendered by Virginia Farmer, cellist; Gladys De Almeida, soprano, and Lucy Chase Simonds, pianist.

Critics of these artists have nothing but the highest praise for their technique and ability to interpret the best music.

These concerts are in charge of a committee consisting of Messrs. K. B. Hastings, Henry W. Merrill, E. S. Burkhart, W. D. Henderson and Allen Sanford.

ABOUT TOWN

Older residents of Newton who have been recently in the vicinity of Jewett street and Waban Park note the decided contrast in the appearance of the former D. R. Emerson estate. Mr. Emerson and his son, Mr. Charles Emerson took considerable pride in keeping their estate very attractive. They kept an expert gardener constantly employed about the place and it was one of the finest estates in that part of the city. Recently the estate was sold and cut up into house lots. The old mansard roofed mansion is surrounded by less costly houses of an entirely different type and the effect is not calculated to arouse enthusiasm in those who remember the place as it was in the past.

Persons not so old remember when bath tubs were a luxury. Likewise electric lights, telephones and various other modern improvements which now are regarded as necessities. Automobiles today are owned by so many that they are regarded almost as much of a necessity as the household conveniences just mentioned. Where one has plenty of land surrounding one's house, it is an easy matter to find room for a garage, but where one lives in a house located on a small lot, it has been the practice largely in the last couple of years to build the garage under the house, reserving part of the cellar for that purpose. Not only does this save space, but it permits the heating of the garage by the same heater which heats the house. These "built-under" garages are good things from these two angles, but the sharply inclined driveways leading into them frequently are excores to the rest of the neighborhood. Alderman Fitts at a meeting some months ago objected to the increasing practice of digging into sloping lots to build garages adjoining or under houses. He said such garages look like tombs.

The observance of Christmas surely is growing. The Puritans and their descendants frowned on the "Merry Christmas" of Old England and it was not until the third quarter of the last century that the day began to be generally observed throughout the country. The change was largely due to the influence of the millions of German and Irish immigrants who came to America during the latter half of the nineteenth century. It is not so long ago that Christmas trees were the exception in homes. It is rare now to find a home in which there is a child, that does not contain a Christmas tree, be it ever so small.

Many of the residents of this city, who are fortunate enough to have an evergreen tree on their lawns, have adopted the practice of using it as a living Christmas tree. It is a happy idea and should spread, so should the custom which has become prevalent on Beacon Hill in late years—of caroling and illuminated windows.

Hoseman Tom Encogess of Engine 1 informs us that the statement made in this column last week "that he became wedged in a window at the A. & P. store at Newton while assisting in extinguishing a fire" was not in accordance with fact, and that his comrade on Engine 1, who gave us this information (or misinformation) was prevaricating.

Something will have to be done to fasten the manhole covers in the streets of Newton, in place, so that they will not tip when stepped on by pedestrians. A number of persons have sustained serious injuries by falling into manholes and the city is now engaged in litigation as a result. Automobiles passing over the manhole covers, jounce the cover out of position and the first pedestrian to step on such a cover is apt to tumble into the hole.

The cars of the Boston Elevated have their heaters controlled now by a thermostat. Sunday morning we entered a Boston Elevated car and found the temperature apparently about ten degrees colder than that outside. If this car is a sample of automatic heat control, the Elevated had better return to the old method of allowing the conductors to regulate the heat in the cars.

The new busses to be placed in operation on the lines of the M. & B. are superior in type. The chassis is made by the White Motor Company and the bodies by the Bender Body Company. Comfortable seats, upholstered in heavy mohair will accommodate 29 persons and there will be standing room for 21 more passengers. It is not the intention of the company to limit the number of busses so that it will not be necessary for passengers to stand except during rush hours. The busses are well ventilated and heated, attractively finished in Duco and should afford much more comfort to the passengers of the M. & B. than the present cars give. It is much safer than the rear of the busses will not only give greater riding ease, but will act as a safeguard against skidding. A number of the employees on the Cross Town and Bemis lines are being trained to operate the new vehicles.

Parents should warn their children against coasting on highways other than streets especially set aside for middle of our highways. The first flurry of snow around Boston caused many little ones to start coasting on the streets with the result that a number of children were killed and injured by colliding with automobiles.

Bullough's Pond gains in popularity as a skating resort. It is kept cleared of snow, is well supervised and has many conveniences for the skaters. It is much safer than the river, which because of its greater area cannot be thoroughly patrolled. Boys and girls skating on the river should not skate under the bridges. They are trifling with death when they do.

Now that the M. & B. is to run auto busses, there will be less excuse for the "thumb waggies" standing in the middle of our highways to beg free auto rides from persons who are utter strangers to them.

BOY SCOUTS

Tuesday evening, Dec. 22nd, the scouts of troop 5, Newton Centre, were guests of Chief Ranlett at the Newton Centre Fire Headquarters. The scouts were shown how to ring in an alarm, how to lay a line of hose, connect it to a hydrant and operate the nozzle. Hand extinguishers were demonstrated as well as the method of recharging, and the scouts were shown the complicated machinery in the fire station and apparatus for receiving alarms and recording them, also the gas masks for working in smoke and other fumes. Chief Ranlett provided each scout with a card showing the location of all alarms and giving them instructions as to sending in an alarm and what to do when the apparatus arrives. The scouts were given a cordial invitation to visit the fire station and they were unanimous in their opinion that the evening was very interesting. The cooperation of the officials of the fire and police departments with the scout organization is a great help. Several are assisting now in Merit Badge instruction and examination and more have volunteered to help.

Registration for the coming year is now due and each scout should see that he is on the list of his troop. When the papers are filed at the office, each scout receives a "Certificate" identifying him as a member for the coming year and this certificate is necessary when purchasing uniforms and restricted equipment. Parents are urged to see that scouts get on the list of their troop and keep up-to-date.

A Court of Honor will be held the second Tuesday in January at Newtonville. Formal notices will be sent out within a few days.

The Annual Meeting of Norumbega Council, Inc., will be held the third Wednesday in January. Members of the Council and others interested are asked to save this date and plan to be on hand. There will be election of officers and the annual reports of the officers. This is the big meeting of the year.

Scout week begins February 7th this year with every scout attending church in uniform. Pastors of the different churches are being asked to refer to the 16th Anniversary of Scouting and to call attention to the Scout Movement in general and particularly our local organization. The Rally will probably be held Friday evening of that week.

CAMP FRANK A. DAY REUNION

Monday evening, the parents and boys of Camp Frank A. Day held their mid-winter reunion at the Y.M.C.A. One hundred and thirty-seven gathered to talk over last summer's events, to meet friends, and to receive suggestions and plans for the 1926 season.

After the supper served by C. C. Whittemore, the Camp Director, Clyde G. Hess outlined the plans for next season. Camp will open on June 25th, close on August 20th, and is limited to 98 campers. Last year many were unable to go because of late enrollment.

Greetings were extended to the campers from a former Camp Director, Mr. C. C. Noble and from leaders who were unable to be at the reunion. Pictures of camp activities were thrown on the screen which brought to memory the days at camp.

Mr. C. D. Kepner, Chairman of the Camp Committee, spoke about the camp being a part of the great "Y" program. Jake Stafford entertained with his slight of hand tricks and feats of magic.

Twenty applications have been received for the new season. An early enrollment is expected. Those present were: Leaders: Clyde G. Hess, J. W. FOUND DEAD IN SHOP

Luke McEnroy, who conducted an upholstery shop at 247 Washington street, Newton, and who slept at that address, was found dead there on Sunday afternoon by a friend who had not seen him for a few days and who went to see him, fearing he might be ill. His friend upon entering the shop, found McEnroy apparently lifeless and called a doctor who, upon his arrival, pronounced the man dead, death being due to natural causes. His funeral services were held on Tuesday morning at the Church of Our Lady and interment was in Calvary Cemetery. The deceased was 54 years of age and was unmarried.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Sunday afternoon at 1.40 a Stewart truck, driven by Max Cohen of Grant street, Waltham, skidded on the ice and knocked down fire alarm box 34 at the corner of Waltham and Derby streets. A number of auto accidents have occurred the past few days because of autos skidding on the icy streets. Too many drivers take chances and do not put chains on the tires of their machines.

Saturday evening at 10.25 an Auburn sedan driven by George B. Goodsell skidded into a Middlesex & Boston car on River street. The glass on the car vestibule was shattered and the auto was badly damaged. Mrs. Goodsell received a cut on the face, a brown wrist and a dislocated shoulder. She was taken to the Newton Hospital.

Thursday morning an auto driven by Mrs. John Geary of Brighton skidded into a car owned by Edwin T. Fearing of Park street, which was parked on Centre street near the building of the Newton Trust Company. Mr. Fearing's car was pushed onto the concrete fountain nearby and slightly damaged. The fountain was demolished.

Christmas morning at the corner of Cherry street and Cherry place, auto driven by Daniel Palmer of Belmont and Peter Johnson of 35 Derby street collided. Both cars were slightly damaged and Mr. Palmer's wife and daughter were slightly injured.

At 9.30 Christmas morning auto driven by Legbert Allen of Attleboro and Albert Pawlosky of Carl street, Newton Highlands, collided on Boylston street near Hurley place. Mrs. Ellen Pawlosky received minor injuries in the crash.

WALDRON-BREWSTER

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Brewster and Mr. Arthur Scott Waldron of Somerville took place Wednesday, Dec. 23, at the residence of Mr. William R. Brewster, the bride's brother, at 21 Church street, Newton.

The wedding march was rendered by Walter S. Brewster of Dayton, O., brother of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. George E. Leighton, pastor of the First Universalist Church of Somerville.

Miss Margery Parks Brewster, a public school teacher in Framingham, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. George E. Clements of Taunton was best man.

The wedding was followed by a family reception in which the bride couple was assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Waldron, Mrs. Clark, mother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Brewster, the host and hostess, who informally observed the sixth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Waldron will be at home in The Somerset Chambers, 156 Summer street, Somerville, after Feb. 1.

The bridegroom was graduated from the Somerville High School in 1911, and from Tufts College in 1915. He served 18 months overseas with Co. C, 101st Engineers, Yankee Division, and is a member of the Veterans' Association of the First Corps of Cadets, Boston Chapter of Y. D. Veterans' Association; Delta Phi Sigma Fraternity of Tufts College and Oasis lodge 149, I. O. O. F. He is employed as a Superior Court stenographer.

The bride is a graduate of the Windsor (Vt.) High School, and in 1918 was graduated from the Waltham Hospital Training School for Nurses. For two years she was in the Government service at the Parker Hall Hotel in Roxbury and later, for three years, was instructor of nurses at the Lowell Corporation Hospital.

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

Mr. Willis R. Fisher of Waban, president of the Lawrence Leather Co. of Boston, was the guest and speaker Monday noon at the luncheon of the Newton Rotary Club held at the Woodland Golf Club. Mr. Fisher gave a most interesting talk on the leather business, tracing the making of leather from the raw skins to the finished product. Hides, he said, were the skins of large animals, while skins came from the smaller animals like calves, sheep and goats. Hides are used for sole leather, calf and goat for upper leathers, and sheep for lining. The distribution is world wide, cattle hides coming from the United States, South America, China, India and Australia, while calf skins came from dairy countries, Europe and the United States. The skins require tanning and for years tanning was accomplished with hemlock bark, accounting for the location of small tanneries in the rural districts. The tanning process takes the hair and bristles from the skin and changes the texture making it pliable and wearable. Mr. Fisher gave some interesting incidents showing how the styles and customs affected the leather business. Twenty years ago, books were bound in sheepskins, now in buckram. The change in woman's boots and shoes from leather to silk and cloth made a material difference in the consumption of leather. The war also produced many substitutes for leather, so that since 1920, the leather industry has had its back to the wall, but was now working its way out.

Mr. Fisher's talk was illustrated with many samples, showing the wide use of leather products.

MR. LUTWELER EXPLAINED

Last Friday a measure was introduced in the Legislature by Representative Clarence Lutweller of Newton Highlands providing for the creation of a Division of Preventive Medicine. Mr. Lutweller subsequently wrote a letter to the Boston Herald stating that he is opposed to this measure and presented it because he had been asked to do so by one of his constituents. He gives as reasons for his opposition "that the measure is paternalistic, impractical, would involve the expenditure of millions of dollars and is at variance with the doctrine of economy which is now being preached."

A. L. AUXILIARY

The Auxiliary to Newton Post, American Legion, will meet in Denison Hall, Newtonville on the third Wednesday of each month. The annual meeting will be held on January 20th.

POLICE NEWS

Three new patrolmen have been appointed—Joseph T. Carroll of 78 Dalby street, Thomas F. Dargon of 38 Court street, and George Henrikus of 34 Sumner street. The wave of banditry which has been prevalent throughout the country caused the Newton Trust Company to ask that a police officer be on duty every day in the vicinity of its various offices in this city. The Trust Company made it plain that it sought this protection not for itself but for its patrons. For many weeks it paid for this police protection until money could be appropriated by the aldermen to provide for the extra patrolmen. The new men will be rated as reserve policemen for a probationary period.

Claude K. Doe of Framingham was fined $5 by Judge Weston on Monday for driving the wrong direction on a one way street at Newton Corner. Mr. Doe told the court that the Chief of Police in a nearby town had advised him to plead "nolo." Judge Weston would not accept this plea and found him guilty.

Motor meter thieves continue to show activity in Newton. If your meter is not locked in place, watch out.

Thomas Grasso of Needham was fined $150 by Judge Bacon on Saturday for making an illegal sale of liquor. Grasso made the sale to Patrolman Johnnie Green, who was supposed to be laying in a stock for the holiday. Green obtained two quarts of "Lewis Hunter Pure Rye" alleged to have been distilled in Lair, Kentucky. Grasso could not have been bootlegging very long. He had but $50 to pay on his fine and asked for six months in which to pay the balance. He was accorded two months for his deferred payments.

Emmett Grow of Watertown had an expensive Christmas because he confused the Yuletide spirit with spirits of another description. Mr. Grow steered his auto into the signal beacon at the corner of Centre and Hall streets. The auto was badly wrecked when it ran afoul the concrete base of the signal. The signal was reduced to junk. In court Saturday Mr. Grow was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. His case was continued for one week.

Robert Goode of Roxbury was fined $10 on Saturday for speeding.

Albert Daly of Pearl street was fined $25 on Saturday for driving an automobile without a license.

CENTRAL GARAGE OPEN

All Newton has been waiting for the opening of the Central Garage, Inc. This new 150-car garage is the last word in garage construction, having four entrances and exits, making it possible for rush hour accommodations. The floor is so arranged that it will be possible to go in or out any time of day or night without moving another car, the aisles are so spacious that a beginner need not be afraid of damaging other cars, and unlike any other garage in Newton it is possible to enter and leave the garage without crossing sidewalks. It would be almost a duty to the residents of Newtonville to inspect this building and see for themselves that a real up-to-date garage is in their midst.

Donations of money and candy were generously given by the committee by the merchants and as the children sat down to tables decorated to the king's taste by a corps of efficient volunteer help, the audible comments of the well wishers who "dropped" in were, "the best ever." The invocation was given by the Rev. Dr. Ellis of the Central Church. With so many worthy causes calling upon one's purse great credit is due to the merchants who contributed so bountifully in order that those who might have doubted the authenticity of a Santa Claus are now aware that the jolly old fellow is no longer a myth.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Edited by EMMA D. COOLIDGE

[Editor's Note.—Owing to the fact that the date of publication of the Graphic this week falls on a holiday, Friday, January 1, material had to be fully set up by the evening of Wednesday, and the Club Column had to be in the printer's hands on Tuesday. It has, therefore, been necessary for your editor to consult the Year Books for information as to coming meetings, in those cases where notices had not been sent in on Monday by Press Chairmen, or leave out the program altogether. This is why she has asked in the past that notices be sent so that she receives them at the latest on Monday of the week in which they are to appear. Ordinarily, even, the column goes in on Wednesday morning, and the editor needs at least a day to assemble material.]

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

A trite expression? Possibly. But, in this world that has from the very passage of time and laws become conventional, is there anything that is not trite? And, paradoxical as it may seem, the greater and finer and nobler the words or sentiment expressed, the more are they likely to come under that accusation of triteness. The truth is that because a thing is fine or splendid or worthy of sentiment it is appreciated by all people, used by all, and constant use makes for triteness. To analyze this greeting that is around us in this holiday season, A happy New Year. One's first impression of this salutation is that someone is wishing for us happiness, success, prosperity, advancement—all that is within the yearning of ambition—in the 365 days to come. Surely this is indicative of friendly interest for another, and of true charity and forgiveness. And as such makes worth while—and certainly not trite—this universal greeting of the season. But—is happiness, then, based always on things to come? Is there not happiness while looking over the year or years already passed? May not a happy New Year comprise rejoicing over accomplishments and achievements won—in far better taste, perhaps, than in hope for things to be showered in the future?

So, in taking stock in this happy New Year, let us not forget to count our blessings already bestowed, in things accomplished, friendships won, progress made, and inspirations already added to our hearts and minds! To the women's clubs there come two New Years—and this is another proof of our many blessings—one by the calendar, when all are taking stock, and forecasting the output of the months to come, and one in the Fall, when we begin our new year of service to our members, our Federation, our communities, and our country. We are well under way in our club year, and many plans can not be changed, but in these days when cold strengths and hours lengthen, we may have new ideas that we may be shown how to weave into our programs and meetings, so pressing forward in new strength and in new light ourselves that the end of our year—in May—may give us added blessings to recount on that new calendar year, January 1, 1927.

And so, a Happy New Year to all earnest club women, and may the vision of courage and faith lead us to do what we believe is best and right, no matter if in treading this path we may not be travelling the easy one that seems to have been hewn out for us!

STATE FEDERATION

In proof that as the days begin to lengthen and the cold begins to strengthen the women's clubs set a harder pace of activities, one only has to look over events scheduled for this our first month of the New Year. So many varying interests surely will appeal to some club women throughout the city, and it seems wise, therefore, to list here some of these opportunities offered by the State Federation.

Musical Opportunities

January 8. At New England Women's Club Rooms, 585 Boylston St., Boston, a musical program, to which two members from each club are invited. Mrs. Mary E. Obendorfer, Music Chairman of the General Federation, to be guest of honor.

January 15. Ends the State Song Contest. With the delegation going to Atlantic City we should have a State Song to put our messages across!

January 25 to February 6. The Chicago Grand Opera is to be in Boston, and Mrs. Drayton, State Music Chairman, has suggested a pleasant Get-together in the form of a Federation Night to hear "Traviata," Wednesday evening, the 27th. Muzio and Schippa in the principal roles. Seats to be procured direct from the box office of the Boston Opera House.

January 21. At 2 P. M., Disabled Veterans' Benefit, of "Abie's Irish Rose," at the Castle Square Theatre, Boston.

Drama Opportunities

January 12 and 26. Drama Class at State Headquarters.

January 18. State Conference at Copley Plaza, with speakers, Barrett H. Clark, writer and dramatic critic; Montrose J. Moses, writer and editor; and George Junkins, of Drama League. Reception at 12.30, followed by luncheon. The main object of this conference is said to be to incite interest in observing Drama Week which comes February 14-20.

Civic Opportunities

January 11 and 25. Course on Federal Administration, 3 Joy Street, Boston.

COMING EVENTS

Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands

What more appropriate with the thermometer registering near the zero mark than a Quiz upon "Winter's Tale," Acts I and II, before the Shakespeare Club at their first January meeting—the 2nd! Mrs. F. S. Keith is hostess for the members at her home, 20 Hartford street, and Mrs. W. E. Moore is in charge of the Quiz. The following meeting, on the 16th, will be a continuation of the same play, the Quiz being on the 3rd Act. There is the hope that this choice of subjects may not once more be so successful in sending the mercury hovering around that exclamation cipher.

Waban Woman's Club

"A Family Affair," scheduled as "Oiling the Financial Machinery of Family Life," is the intriguing title of the program for the meeting on the 4th of the Waban Woman's Club. Visions of a play—a comedy of modes and manners of a household—fit through one's mind, but this is not the case. The members are promised, instead, a rare opportunity to get a little New Year advice from one who can give it with humor, imagination, and common sense, on that hardest of problems—the domestic budget. Miss Agnes Donham, who is to be the lecturer on this subject, is a specialist in income management. She is an author, lecturer, teacher, and consultant, and an instructor on her topic of income management at the Garland School, the Gibbs School, and at Simmons College. To start the year 1926 with such a lecture ought to point a way for a brighter New Year, financially, at least, in 1927.

Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club

Mrs. Ida Porter Boyer, known as a Current Events lecturer, is to give the program for the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club on the evening of the 4th, in Emerson School Hall. Her subject is "Our Picturesque Pacific Islands—Hawaii and Guam," and Mrs. Boyer's trip through the Far East enables her to give accurate, as well as entertaining, information about this interesting part of the world. Miss Nellie M. Osborne is chairman of the evening.

Newtonville Woman's Club

A Cantata is the program to be furnished by the Music Committee at the meeting of January 5th of the Newtonville Woman's Club. There will be a speaker and tea will be served.

Newton Highlands Woman's Club

The holiday respite from club activities will be broken Tuesday, the 5th, when the Newton Highlands Woman's Club resumes meetings for the remainder of the season. Owing to delay in completion of alterations on the Congregational Parish House, the place of meeting is transferred to Lincoln Hall, instead of following announcement in the Year Book.

A former Newton Highlands girl, Miss Flora M. Bosson, now living in Newton City is to furnish the program of the afternoon, reading Bernard Shaw's well-known drama, "Arms and the Man." Miss Bosson was graduated from the Leland Power's School of the Spoken Word, and through her artistic and sympathetic interpretations of well-known writers, has already won recognition in her chosen profession.

At this meeting, Mrs. Lyman P. Briggs will give a report of the State Federation meeting in Springfield in November.

The first meetings of the French classes, with Mrs. Frederick Badger as teacher, are scheduled for next week, the intermediate class for women, meeting in the Library, Thursday morning, the 7th; Friday afternoon, the 8th, members of the elementary class for women will convene in the Hyde School building, and Saturday morning, the 9th, Mme. Jane Clauzel will teach the children's class in the Library.

Auburndale Woman's Club

On January 5th also, the Auburndale Woman's Club is to meet, and the program scheduled is on "The Responsibility of the Community Toward the Adolescent." Miss Mary Elizabeth Driscoll is to be the speaker. Miss Driscoll, as Field Agent of the National Civic Federation, has been in charge of a survey of the protective work for women and girls which has been made through Massachusetts. She is a member of the Boston Licensing Board and of the Massachusetts Probation Commission, so that she comes with authentic information on her subject. The Civics Committee, of which Mrs. Arthur W. C. Desoe is Chairman, is in charge of the program. There will be singing by the Club Chorus, and tea will be served.

Auburndale Review Club

Club women, being efficient in business matters, as well as in cultural, not only begin a new month in consideration of practical matters such as finances, family and club, but quite rightly start the New Year with a consideration of budgets. The Auburndale Review Club has for its first meeting in January, therefore, on Tuesday the 5th, a business meeting in project, at the home of Mrs. Samuel W. Dike, 113 Hancock Street.

Social Science Club

The regular business meeting for the first Wednesday of the month is scheduled for the Social Science Club at the Hunnewell Club on the morning of the 6th at ten o'clock.

Newton Community Club

Mrs. Ida Porter-Boyer will give the third in the series of six Current Events Lectures in the Underwood School hall on Thursday, January 7th, at two-thirty o'clock. Tickets for the three remaining lectures may be procured from Miss Margaret H. Aubin.

There will be a short, easy walk, under the Public Health Committee, with Miss Margaret S. Ball as leader, on the morning of Tuesday, January 12th. Those planning to go are to meet in front of the Post Office at 9.15 to take the Framingham car leaving the Square at 9.30. The walk will be through Quinobegun Road from Newton Lower Falls to Hemlock Gorge and Echo Bridge, Newton Upper Falls. If there is enough snow, snow-shoes will be used.

Newton Centre Woman's Club

Current Events will also interest the members of the Newton Centre Woman's Club at their next meeting—the 7th—when Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole will lecture in the Club House at 10.30 A. M. This club is one of the few to have the honor of the Ex-President of the State Federation as their Current Events Lecturer, and as this capable, clever and witty leader among women is now even more in the limelight as the candidate for Recording Secretary of the General Federation, Newton Centre has even more cause to delight in her as one to bring to them in a vital, entertaining, sane, and wholesome way the world's events.

It is perhaps not too early to remind club members and other lovers of Bridge that the 11th is the next date scheduled for an afternoon of this profitable and pleasurable pastime—pleasurable for the table parties, and profitable for the club finances.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

Past President's Day the club celebrates its 45th anniversary with a reception next Friday, January 8th, at 2.30 P. M., in Players' Small Hall. The guests of honor will be Mrs. Arthur D. Potter, First Vice-President of the Massachusetts State Federation; Mrs. Ellis Spear, Jr., of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Joseph Congdon, District Director.

The program is in charge of Past President of the club, Mrs. Walter A. Beedle, Chairman.

Yvonne Des Rosiers, soprano, and Marie Stratton Watson, pianist, will entertain, as will also Miss Louie Mudgett, reader.

A large birthday cake will be the central table decoration.

Mrs. Charles L. Anderson, Mrs. Luther B. Woodward, Mrs. Frederick H. Ward, and Mrs. Alvah L. Jordan will be hostesses for the social hour.

SIXTH LANE

THE MONDAY CLUB OF NEWTON HIGHLANDS

The Constitution was the subject of Monday's meeting at the home of Mrs. C. S. Luitwieler. "What the Constitution Means to Me" gave Mrs. C. G. Wetherbee opportunity to sketch briefly the history of the Constitution and of the patriots who drafted it, and to emphasize the privileges and responsibilities of citizenship under the Constitution.

Mrs. E. C. Simpson's paper on "Our Foreign Relations" was most interesting and enlightening.

Auburndale Review Club

The Club left New England far behind during the holidays and on Tuesday morning arrived in Africa, where, at the home of Mrs. A. C. Farley, on Central street, they learned much that was instructive and interesting of that great continent.

Mrs. J. G. Patterson gave an excellent account of Africa's physical geography, its flora, fauna and climate, its three remarkable rivers, its many lakes, its unusual coast line with very few harbors, a country lying as it does almost equally on either side of the equator and containing features of all sections of the world.

Miss E. A. Rider's subject was the Geology and Ethnology of Africa and she went back to the time when the continent was united to Europe by two land bridges, one at either end of the Mediterranean Sea, and the Sahara was a sea instead of a desert. North of this sea the inhabitants were largely of the Caucasian race while negroes constituted the population of the southern division. Among the Africans the women are as large and as strong as the men and have often served in the army.

Miss Rider showed some curios brought from Africa. Mrs. H. H. Longfellow described some of the islands around about Africa, and especially Madagascar, with its temperate, healthful climate, its fertile soil and its product of precious stones and many woven articles of silk and cotton. Madeira and its industrious people whose beautiful embroideries are known everywhere; St. Helena with its tragic associations. At the close of the regular program a guest, Mrs. Ransom, who has lived for many years as a missionary in Africa, gave a graphic account of the country, the people, the flowers, fruits, etc., in southern Africa, where her

SCHOOL NOTES

F. A. Day Junior High School

The Boys' Sports Club sent a "Christmas Stocking" to the State House for a disabled veteran, in response to the radio message. Each member contributed to this benevolence.

The eighth grade dramatic club under the direction of Miss Sanborn presented a Christmas program with Dicken's "Christmas Carol." The stage was very cleverly partitioned to enable the cast to give tableaux. The following pupils took part in the play: Raymond Blair, Adrian Delerzon, William Loud, Kathryn Keith, Dorothy Stickney, Joseph Mazzola, Louise Kimball, Martha Olcott, Lois Stafford, Henry Batstone, Marjorie Mighill, Frank Batstone. Mary Louise Foss and Dorothy Tylee were in charge of the singing and tableaux arrangements.

Charles Fowler sang a Christmas Carol in French.

Mason District

The Christmas program at the Rice School last week Wednesday was most enjoyable.

The children sang their Christmas Carols and then came the toy orchestra, followed by a fancy dance. Perhaps the most interesting part was the giving of presents, made by the boys and girls, to fathers and mothers.

All the Christmas decorations were made by the pupils, with their teachers' help.

Mason's Christmas. Programs as given in last week's Graphic, proved very interesting.

Act II, with the shining star, the lovely singing of the children, and the solemn procession, was easily the finest number.

All enjoyed the Christmas Carols.

With all of its faults, the income tax law has cured a lot of people of the habit of bragging about their money.—Los Angeles Times.

PULPIT DEDICATED

both understands people and likes them. Mr. Jaynes was a hard man to hood-wink where human nature is concerned. A deep nature and an exhaustive experience had given him an exceptional discernment into the workings of the human heart. Yet with that discernment he retained in full measure his generous love of mankind. He had a natural gift for friendliness. He liked folks and trusted folks. He would treat people with a frankness that was disconcerting, and yet with a sympathy so true and kindly that he won their love in spite of themselves. All this means that he had the ability of winning his way into other people's hearts. People gave him their affection, confidence, because they felt it was safe to do so. And this ability was a great element in his success as a preacher. People would take things from him just because they trusted him. The door which was kept shut to others was opened to him. He held the passport of sympathy. Influences that coming from another, would have been kept in the ante-chamber, were admitted because they came from one who would not violate the sanctity of the soul, but who was wise enough and friendly enough to tread with tender measure upon that sacred ground.

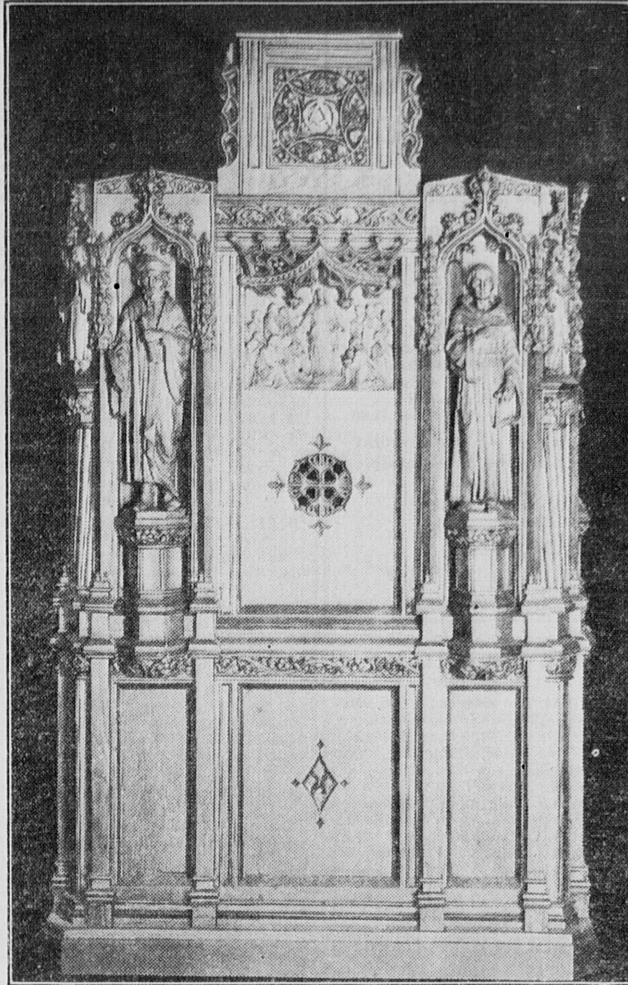

Rev. Dr. John Edgar Park said in part: "Mr. Jaynes could hardly say anything in precisely the same way as any one else would say it. Little characteristic quips and turns of phrases and daring attacks of humorous fancy irradiated his conversation. He became the ideal after dinner speaker and many of you will have fresh in your minds the turns of phrase and sallies of wit which brought joy to many an audience. He was interested to note that he hardly ever told an after dinner story of the 'meeting tonight reminds me of the story of the two Irishmen' type. His wit was original and not borrowed from the tag ends of stale stories. He had cultivated his voice so that he became one of the most effective readers of the Bible anyone of us had ever heard and his annual reading of Dicken's Christmas Carol on the Sunday evening before Christmas became one of the events of the year.

"Coming to a village afflicted with a rather narrow form of Puritanism, as indeed all the villages of the time were, he inculcated it with his own liberality, his own love of beauty and interest in culture.

"But the aspect of Mr. Jaynes' character which we shall all remember longest was not his scope from narrow his liberality, and become a denominationalist rather than a Christian; it was due to something over which he himself had no influence, namely the fact that he was one of the people who happen to have received at birth the fairy gift of personal charm. Mr. Jaynes could go into a house where he was an absolute stranger and stay ten minutes and leave everyone in the house his scene taken from the Bible like the story of the Good Samaritan or the scene around the Cross, you will remember the spell which he cast over his congregation. It was the poetry of great rhetoric and perhaps cannot be caught upon the printed page; it was so much a part of the living man who saw and spoke and felt with you.

"His real humanity manifested itself when he happened to come into contact with ordinary folks in the midst of the discharge of their regular duties. There was then none of the embarrassment which he seemed all ways to feel about going and proffering to others his service or his friendship.

"So the very streets of West Newton as well as this sacred House are haunted by the presence of him who had no narrowness or hatred, who never strove or cried or bustled around but in all leisureliness and quietness of spirit labored with earnestness and sincerity to give to the people Sunday after Sunday the very best he was capable of thinking and feeling, one who could not meet you for the merest moment at the corner of the street without leaving you with the inexplicable sense of having been in touch through his courtesy and humor and diffidence with one of God's gentlemen."

The pulpit is of oak and of Gothic design. In rectangular form, it stands forth from the chancel parclose. Each side of the pulpit is divided into an upper and lower series of panels, the upper series having the greater height, and each series consisting of a main center panel with two much narrower panels at each side. Each center panel carries pierced tracery, and the three center and upper panels carry bas-reliefs of the following subjects: On the front panel, Christ preaching to the multitude; on the left, Saint Paul preaching to the Romans; on the right, Luther before the Diet of Worms.

Each of the beautifully detailed carvings is surmounted by a Gothic tracery curving from the plane of the panel and simulating a crown. The six smaller panels in the upper series are so constructed as to provide niches for carvings of characters from history indicating the development of Unitarian thought. The figures were designed by Signor Angelo Luadi.

Beginning at the left there is Saint Paul, the Apostle; Saint Augustine, who brought Christianity to Britain; Wycliffe, who translated the Bible into the English language; Martin Luther, the leader of the Reformation; Biddle, the Unitarian martyr under the Commonwealth and the later Stuarts; and Channing, interpreter of Unitarianism in America. All these figures are on pedestals and below delicately carved Gothic arches.

At each corner, on pedestals surmounting twisted octagonal and curved faceted columns are singing angels holding scrolls. The borders of the panels and the upright before the reading desk consist of beautifully carved floral and conventional tracery; in the center of the upright appear the symbols of Alpha and Omega intertwined. The bronze tablet bearing the inscription is sunken in the incline of the reading desk. A clock, the gift of a group of ministers, is set in the inside of the pulpit.

On the pulpit appears this inscription:

In Memoriam
Julian Clifford Jaynes
1854-1922
Ordained Minister of the First Unitarian Society in Newton
January 28, 1885
For Thirty-Seven Years the Eloquent Interpreter of Its Faith
This Pulpit is the Gift of Parishioners and Friends
A Loving Tribute to His Consecrated Service A. D. 1925

The chancel has been extensively rearranged. The gallery screen has been removed and the rear wall oak paneling dropped except in the center recess. A heavy pinnacled canopy immediately below the Lovett window in the chancel, extends across the five central panels and beneath it is the new communion table. The Walton lamps, memorials from the old chancel, have been placed on each side of the communion table and within the newly constructed sanctuary, which is enclosed by an open communion rail. The panelling, canopy, table and rail are all in oak. The organ console has been changed from the left to the right side of the chancel and an added line of choir stalls placed on each side. The floor levels also have been changed. The parclose has been lowered and extended and the chancel lighting rearranged.

The communion table is a work of art. It is of heavy construction. On the front are three panels, separated by octagonal twisted columns. In the center panel are four smaller panels bearing the symbols of the four Evangelists. The other panels and the edges of the table are ornamented with rose design and Gothic tracery. In a wide border under the table top are the mingled designs of the bird, the grapes and the pine cone, an idea borrowed from a similar and common usage in the churches of England.

The Felton clergy chairs, to the right and left of the chancel, one in the rear of the pulpit and the other behind the Pearson Lectern, are massive affairs of solid oak. The large back panels are relieved by a linen-fold design. The uprights of the back carry poppy-head finials and in the centers of the open Gothic tracery above the high panelled backs appear the design of the pomegranate, the symbol of faith. The inscriptions are carved on the backs of the chairs.

The Carroll hymn board is similar in design to the Newhall hymn board previously used, being of Gothic type. The distinguished feature is the symbol carved in the orb held in the hands of the angel, the Holy Grail. The memorial pews are not different from the other pews except that they bear inscriptions. The Haskell pew is No. 24 and the Channing pew is directly below the pulpit.

The Jaynes pulpit committee consists of Frank W. Remick, chairman; Mrs. Ellery Peabody, Mrs. A. Stuart Pratt, Arthur T. Lovett, Arthur P. Friend and Norman W. Bingham, Jr. The committee for memorials and endowments includes Arthur Emmons Pearson, chairman; Maynard Hutchinson, Joseph T. Gilman and Alfred T. Haskell. The committee on dedication is headed by the minister, Rev. Paul S. Phalen, with whom are associated the Jaynes pulpit committee and the committee for memorial and endowments.

BUS LICENSE GRANTED

provide that within sixty days after the agreement shall have been signed by the representatives of the M. & B. and the City of Newton, busses will be placed in operation on the Cross Town and Bemis lines. These two lines are to be motorized first because by so doing the railway company will be freed from the complaints of the city fathers of Waltham.

Section 3 deals with the installation of busses on the Needham-Watertown, Highlands-Lake Street and Newton Centre lines. The company promises to use its best efforts to motorize these three lines on or before October 1st, 1926. This section also provided that four extra school busses would be furnished between Upper Falls and the High School, two extra busses between Newton Highlands and the school and two extra busses between Newton Centre and the school. Alderman Heathcote asked if any provision had been made to shift these extra busses so that if fewer should be required to care for the Upper Falls pupils, one or more of them can be transferred to care for pupils from Newton Centre, should such a shift be needed?

Alderman Baker answered that such a provision had not been considered at any of the deliberations and passed the buck to President Pitt Drew of the M. & B. Mr. Drew said "that he could not conceive of having any dispute with the city over any such question, but that he wanted no ambiguity and was willing to have such a provision made." Alderman Heathcote said that a ten-year contract should have some flexibility. Alderman George Pratt said that he thought the matter had been arranged for in the conferences. Alderman Lloyd explained that the Board of Aldermen had reserved the right to change schedules. Alderman Heathcote was not satisfied with Mr. Lloyd's explanation and asked for an opinion from City Solicitor Bartlett. Mr. Bartlett ruled that the M. & B. as a street railway is under the control of the State Board of Public Utilities, but that the bus regulations are within the control of the aldermen.

He also told Alderman George Pratt that the M. & B. can abandon any or all of its bus service with the consent of the Public Utilities Commission.

Tracks To Be Removed

Section 4 of the agreement deals with the removal of tracks. In conformity with the laws of the Commonwealth the M. & B. agrees to remove its tracks, sleepers, poles and wires on the lines where busses replace electric car at its own expense. The railway company agrees to allow the city to place a temporary surface of tar or other material over the tracks if the city so desires. Alderman Heathcote remarked that we can't hope to have the streets in good shape until January 1st, 1927. President Parker agreed that this will be the case in so far as the streets are concerned where the Needham, Lake street and Centre car lines run. Alderman Heathcote next commented that nothing is said in the agreement as to what condition the streets will be left in after the tracks are removed. City Solicitor Bartlett explained that the streets must be restored to the condition they were in when the tracks were laid, that the company perhaps cannot expect help on this work from the city, and that the roads should be restored to a condition suitable for use by automobiles.

Section 5 gives the M. & B. the right to operate motor busses on all the routes it now serves whenever the company so requests. When this section was read Alderman Heathcote remarked that he wished some of the other aldermen would join in the discussion. He explained that he did not receive a copy of the contract until 7.15 Monday evening and that as he read it, the M. & B. can place busses on the Framingham line if it so desires. He felt that this was granting too much leeway to the railway company without further consideration. Mr. Bartlett informed Mr. Heathcote that the Public Utilities Commission must rule on such a change. Mr. Heathcote replied that he did not consider this a sufficient check and that the aldermen should retain the right to decide on this point.

Alderman Baker said that the only lines of the M. & B. in the city upon which electric cars are to be continued in operation are the West Newton-Waltham, Framingham and Commonwealth Avenue. He thought that soon a request may be made to substitute busses for electric cars on the Waltham line, but as the other two lines are run at a profit, it is reasonable to suppose that the cars will be continued in operation upon them. Mr. Baker opined that if the time comes when it will be more profitable and feasible to operate busses on all its lines, the M. & B. will do so. Mr. Heathcote replied that he was surprised to hear a lawyer talk of contracts in such a manner and that the M. & B. will shift to busses on all its lines if it finds it profitable to do so. He suggested that this section should be amended.

Section 6 provides that the M. & B. bus contract will expire on December 31st, 1935, that it will operate any and all bus lines which the aldermen may determine to be required by public necessity and convenience, except for such routes as are now served by existing street railway companies. If, however, the aldermen determine that public convenience requires a bus line over any route not served by the M. & B., they shall notify the company in writing of such determination, and it within 30 days of said notice the M. & B. does not file a petition for a license for such a line, then the city may grant to another the right to operate busses over such a line. If, however, the M. & B. desires to operate over any new route specified by the city, it will file a petition stating that it will operate such a line within a reasonable time. Alderman Heathcote objected to the clause granting "a reasonable time" to the company to institute new bus routes. He said that the company will give the city but 30 days' notice if it decides not to operate new lines and that the agreement should be on a 50-50 basis. Some definite time should be specified within which the company must start the new routes, either three months or more if necessary. In his opinion, if things are clearly defined there will be less trouble. Mr. Drew replied that he had no objection to three months in which the company must start new routes upon request.

Section 7 of the contract reads "It is further understood and agreed by and between the parties hereto that, notwithstanding the execution of this agreement, the operation of bus lines by this company in and over the highways of the City shall be subject to the bus regulations, so called, of the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton, as now existing or as hereafter may be amended, subject, however, to the provisions of Section 47 of Chapter 159 of the General Laws." This section drew criticism from someone other than Alderman Heathcote. Alderman Pincley called it ambiguous. He said it would violate the contract according to opinions expressed in some of the conferences, and cited as an example the change in size of the busses, should larger or smaller busses be required or desired. Mr. Bartlett ruled that on such questions the Public Utilities Commission can be appealed to.

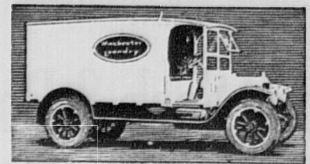

Section 8 of the contract read, "It is understood and agreed that the company will not assign, grant or transfer its rights under the contract or any licenses heretofore or hereafter granted to it within the period of ten years to any other person or corporation, and it is hereby understood that this agreement is not assignable and that the busses herein referred to are not to be operated by any other person or corporation."

Alderman George Pratt raised the point "if the mortgage bonds of the M. & B. which become due in 1932 are defaulted, and a new corporation succeeds the M. & B., would this section as written preclude turning over the bonds because the license cannot be transferred? City Solicitor answered in the affirmative and suggested that the aldermen might agree to change this section to provide for any such exigency. President Drew unravelled this difficulty by adding the words "not a successor to the company" to the section and his amendment was accepted.

Alderman Earle agreed with Alderman Heathcote's suggestion that Section 3 of the contract be amended so as to make the matter of providing school extras more elastic. Mr. Bartlett remarked that President Drew had told him he preferred not to have this section amended, but Mr. Drew stated that he would not stand in the way of the change. Accordingly Mr. Heathcote offered an amendment which was accepted. The amendment reads "It is understood and agreed that the eight school busses be so handled as to best serve the children of the respective districts as determined by the Mayor of the city."

Mr. Drew objected to the change in Section 5 as suggested by Mr. Heathcote. He said the Public Utilities Commission would accord the city a proper hearing before the M. & B. might be allowed to replace electric cars with busses on the Framingham line, that the state, and not the several cities and towns through which this line runs, should have control over this matter, and that from a business standpoint and justice the city should not insist on this change. Alderman Baker stated that throughout the discussions it had been agreed that the M. & B. should handle the transportation throughout the city, and that if the time comes when this company thinks that it will be more profitable and public convenience will be better served by placing busses in operation on all its lines, it should be allowed to do so.

Alderman Heathcote argued that the cars should be kept on the Framingham line, that the contract should be scrutinized with both eyes and the rights of the city guarded. He urged that the aldermen retain the right to compel the road to keep electric cars on this line if they so desire. Alderman Lloyd commented that the city gave away its rights when it granted a franchise years ago to the street railway company. Mr. Heathcote replied that the city at that time granted a franchise for electric cars, not for busses. President Parker asked if anyone seconded Mr. Heathcote's amendment, but no alderman concurred with the Ward 4 representative that the M. & B. shall be prevented from placing busses on all its lines in Newton if it so desires.

Alderman Heathcote then launched an attack on the manner in which the question of busses had been handled by the aldermen during the past year or two. He told his colleagues they had bungled the situation from start to finish, that the select committee appointed to consider the question had thought only of the Walnut street complaints, and had the matter been handled in a different way it would have been settled long ago. He criticized the aldermen for discussing the bus matter behind closed doors in committee rooms, stated that nothing had been transpired in the open and asserted that the public had a right to know all details. He asserted he had received the contract agreement to be signed by the city and the M. & B. only 46 minutes before the time at which the meeting was supposed to be started and stated that two or three men decided things in private and then expected the rest of the aldermen to agree with their findings.

Alderman Collins answering Mr. Heathcote said "that the select committee called a public meeting at which over 100 citizens were present to talk over the bus problem, and that at every conference held to discuss the busses, a committee of citizens was present by invitation." Alderman Lloyd said that he had been severely criticised in the papers for his part in asking for a closed session of the aldermen to discuss the bus question and that he had been home the day he was about to terminate his service with the aldermen, he felt that he could in justice to himself and his colleagues on the Board, state that before he had suggested the closed meeting, he had conferred with a number of other aldermen and all had agreed that the closed session should be resorted to.

The amended contract agreement was unanimously adopted. So within a short time passengers on the Cross Town and Bemis lines will be riding in busses and the clatter of the antiquated cars will no longer bother residents of Crafts and Waltham streets. And before the leaves fall next autumn, persons living on Walnut and other streets along the South Side routes of the M. & B. will rest in peace, at least so far as noisy street cars are concerned.

LOVEJOY-TOWLE

A delightful Christmas wedding was that of Miss Evelyn Marion Towle, the daughter of Mrs. Loren D. Towle, and Mr. Walter Edward Lovejoy, of Lenox street, West Newton. The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock Christmas evening at the home of the bride on Franklin street, Newton. Rev. Dr. J. Edgar Park, pastor of the Second Church of West Newton, was the officiating clergyman.

In recognition of the holiday, the house was attractively decorated with Christmas evergreen cones, holly, poinsettias and twining Southern smilax. At the end of the Colonial dining-room was an altar effect with wrought iron candelabra and white candles. Aisles were made with white satin ribbon.

The bride was gowned in white satin with pearl and rhinestone ornamentation on bottom of panels and skirt, with long satin sleeves and white satin train. The veil was of Brussels lace with Russian coronet of real old lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley and an orchid spray.

Her sister, Miss Charlotte F. Towle, was maid of honor and wore gold lace and green chiffon, gold slippers and stockings and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses.

Mr. Richard B. Cole of West Newton was the best man and the ushers were Messrs. Wentworth P. Blodgett and Nathaniel T. Lovell of West Newton.

A reception followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Lovejoy and Mrs. L. D. Towle. Mrs. Lovejoy wore blue panne velvet and carried Columbia roses and Mrs. Towle was in fur trimmed gray chiffon and carried a bouquet of orchids.

After a wedding trip to the north for winter sports, Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy will reside at 15 Appleby road, Wellesley, where they will be at home after February 1st.

The bride is a graduate of Dana Hall, 1921, and Wellesley, 1925. Mr. Lovejoy is in the wool business in Boston.

COMMUNITY THEATRE

Commencing Sunday, January 3 and running to Wednesday January 6, "The Vanishing American" occupies the leading position on the Community Theatre program. Richard Dix in the stellar role makes the most of this, the greatest opportunity of his screen career.

The companion picture "The Calgary Stampede" starring "Hoot" Gibson is one of the greatest western thrillers in a long time. It is really two shows in one.

On the last half of the week, "Seven Keys to Baldpate" promises much entertainment. It was written for the stage by George M. Cohan from Earl Derr Biggers' tremendously popular novel. It contains all the elements that McLean insists his stories must have.

"The Midshipman" starring Ramon Novarro contains all the lure and romance of the sea. It is a gripping story of Annapolis Naval Academy life.

FIRE RECORD

Friday afternoon at 12.30 a still alarm brought the firemen to the house at 66 Davis avenue, West Newton, occupied by Douglas Furush. An overheated stove pipe caused the blaze.

Sunday morning at 5.55, Box 224 was for a fire in the house at the rear of 21 Dalby street, owned by John Sampson and occupied by Edward Norcross. The blaze was extinguished before much damage resulted.

Tuesday evening at 6.45 Box 36 called the department to the Woodland Park Garage where a gasoline pump had caught on fire. A lighted cigarette caused the blaze. Lighted cigarettes and gasoline make a dangerous combination.

Monday evening at 7.30 a chimney fire at 258 Prince street in the residence of James Bushway, caused an alarm from Box 391.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Neighbors and friends of Mrs. Gladys H. Tracy, the wife of Mr. George H. Tracy of Lowell avenue, Newtonville, were shocked to learn on Christmas day that she had been fatally injured in an automobile accident at the junction of Worcester and Cochituate streets, in Framingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy with their three daughters were driving to South Manchester, Conn., to visit relatives over the holiday, and their car came into collision at this point with a trolley car of the Boston & Worcester Railway Co. The occupants of the car, which was demolished, were injured, and Mrs. Tracy, who was removed to the Framingham hospital, died a few hours later.

Mrs. Tracy's maiden name was Hutchinson and she was 46 years of age. Besides her husband, who is a member of the Newton School Committee, she is survived by her three daughters, the Misses Gladys, Barbara and Priscilla Tracy. GOV. JOHN A. ANDREW HOME

Christmas week has been a busy time at the home. On Christmas Day Santa Claus paid the home a visit and loaded the tree which had been placed there with many beautiful and useful gifts, every member of the home being generously remembered.

Checks of generous size were received from the Chapter Masons of Newton, also from the United Spanish War Veterans, the Auburndale Woman's Club, and several of the allied organizations of the Grand Army of the Republic.

In addition to the checks many gifts of aprons, handkerchiefs and other articles were distributed.

On Sunday afternoon the Department of Massachusetts Daughters of Veterans visited the home, bringing with them gifts which again filled the tree to capacity. A check of a goodly amount was presented to the home by the Sewing Circle of Tent 36, of Boston. An entertainment of music, including singing and cornet solos by Miss Gerry of Melrose was greatly enjoyed. Ice cream and cake were furnished to all present and the home people realized that they were well remembered by the Daughters of Veterans. Among those present were the Department President of the Daughters, Mrs. Helen A. Phinney, and Mrs. Florence Hutchins, Chairman of the Home Committee, each of whom spoke interestingly to the members of the Home.

MOVING PICTURE CONTEST

A Newton Beauty Contest will shortly be inaugurated for the purpose of electing the most beautiful and talented Newton girl who will be given an opportunity to support Douglas D. Furbush, well known Newton personality in an original and elaborate comedy to be entitled "His Holiday." The production will be made under the direction of H. Bennett FaRelle, supervising director of the Colonial Play Corporation, Colonial Building, Boston, from an original story written directly for Mr. Furbush.

The fortunate girl who will be selected by a committee of well-known local men is not only assured of the opportunity of appearing in support of Mr. Furbush in this particular production, but will receive under the personal direction of Mr. FaRelle such training and instruction in screen technique as will fit her for future motion picture engagements.

The production will be made entirely in the Newtons, utilizing the beautiful exteriors for which the district is famous. Other characters in the comedy will be portrayed by Newton girls selected from the entrants. It is the desire of Mr. Furbush and Mr. FaRelle to make this production, as far as is possible, truly representative of this district, accordingly the beauty contest will be open only to bona fide residents of the Newtons.

The comedy will be scheduled for early theatrical release.

Complete details will appear in an early issue.

FIFTY THIRD CITY GOVERNMENT INAUGURATED

Mayor Childs Enters Upon His Thirteenth Year. George W. Pratt Elected President of Board of Aldermen, John C. Madden, Vice President.

For the thirteenth time Mayor Edwin O. Childs walked into the aldermanic chamber at City Hall on New Year's afternoon to deliver an inaugural address and despite the ill-omened number, nothing happened to mar the proceedings. Alderman John Madden of Ward 1, the senior member of the Board, presided at the opening of the exercises and appointed Aldermen Gallagher, Hinckley and Hodgdon as the committee to escort the Mayor into the chamber. His Honor was accompanied by Rev. Robert L. Rae of the North Congregational Church and Ex-Mayor Charles E. Hatfield. The assemblage rose as the Mayor and his escort entered the room and kept standing until Mr. Childs gave one blow of the gavel. Then all the spectators sat down. Apparently most of those in attendance belong to fraternal orders.

Prayer was delivered by Rev. Mr. Rae, who has officiated in a similar capacity at every inaugural of Mayor Childs. City Clerk Frank M. Grant then administered the oath of office to Mr. Childs, and he in turn administered the oath of office to the aldermen-elect and to the members-elect of the School Committee. Those subscribing to the oath were Aldermen William E. Earle and John C. Madden of Ward 1, George W. Grebenstein and Daniel O'Connell of Ward 2, William B. Baker and Richard T. Leahy of Ward 3, John H. Gordon and William M. Noone of Ward 4, Walter A. Hodgdon and Charles L. Favinger of Ward 5, Norman F. Pratt and George W. Pratt of Ward 6, Benjamin S. Hinckley and Fred A. Hawkins of Ward 7, Mrs. Helen S. Hutchinson of West Newton and Joseph Lockett of Newton Centre were the members-elect of the School Committee.

Following the ceremony the Mayor delivered his address. In general it bore considerable resemblance to his addresses of preceding years. In slightly changed words Mr. Childs repeated his observation, made in past inaugurals, that economy should be exercised in spending the city's money and that Newton is a corporation in business for service and not for profit. Once again the Mayor eulogized City Solicitor Bartlett for his skill in solving knotty problems which confront the executive and legislative departments of the city.

The special committee of the aldermen which handled the matter of buss service was commended by Mr. Childs. After the slamming this committee received from other sources, this praise from the Mayor should have acted as Balm of Gilead. Ex-Alderman Thomas W. White came in for high praise from His Honor. This was a disappointment to those who had anticipated that Mr. Childs would continue the controversy which Mr. White and he had participated in prior to election. Another member of the White family, Daniel A. White, City Comptroller, also was the recipient of platitudes from the Mayor. His Honor asserted that Newton has an accounting system modernized by the state and steadily improved by Mr. White. This tribute to the Comptroller smoothed to a degree the irritation caused by a reference made to some phases of the bookkeeping of the city by Alderman George W. Pratt at a recent meeting of the Board. Although Mr. Pratt intended no criticism of the City Comptroller, some persons misconstrued his remarks.

The Mayor stole some of Assessor Henry Bailly's "stuff" when he spoke of the many improvements on a large scale made by this city in the "nineties," such as the widening of Washington street, the construction of a sewer system and the building of Commonwealth avenue. He told how the Legislature readily granted permission to Newton to borrow money for these permanent improvements, and he feels assured that the Legislature will again give without hesitation, authority to this city to extend its debt limit. Mr. Childs is of the opinion that the "Pay As You Go" policy is not practicable and that much money can be saved by issuing bonds to provide for needed improvements now. He believes that future generations should help pay for advantages they will enjoy and that the present taxpayers should not be saddled with the whole burden of many improvements which will be handed down to future citizens.

As an instance of false economy the Mayor cited the mistake made when Washington street was widened, in not taking Brackett's coal yard and all the property on the south side of the street between Centre Place and Nonantum Square, including the bank building.

Alluding to the fact that Newton's tax rate is lower than that of most cities in the Commonwealth, the Mayor suggested that by a reasonable increase in our tax rate during the next five years, plus an increase in our borrowing capacity (which is equivalent to still added taxes) the city can pay for needed schools and other public buildings. Advocating increased taxes seems to be quite popular with city executives today, so Mayor Childs and Mayor Nichols are but following the vogue in their inaugural addresses in this respect. It is more than probable that many of our citizens, whose wages and incomes are not only not increasing but in many cases decreasing, would welcome some measure to curtail rather than increase public expenditures, thus reducing rather than increasing the burden of taxes.

The Mayor paid attention to the great amount of building which has been going on in Newton in the past few years, a fact largely responsible for our tax rate not being considerably higher. He recommended that our building code be revised wherever possible to reduce the present cost of construction. This is a familiar recommendation but so little attention has been paid to it in the past that persons intending to build in Newton have little hope that they will enjoy relief from unnecessary costs entailed by requirements in plumbing and other construction that can well be modified.

Mr. Childs differed greatly in his ideas on modern education from Hon. James M. Curley. He contends that while the present educational program is expensive, it is worth all it costs and that the best sort of education means the best sort of future citizens. Mr. Curley believes that there are too many frills in the curriculum of public schools today and that pupils are trained as if most are to have a college education, whereas the reverse is true. The former Boston mayor argues that less money should be spent on schools and that studies should be limited to those necessary to prepare pupils to engage in manufacturing and business pursuits.

Mr. Childs took issue with his late opponent, Mr. O'Neil when he said that we will have to be satisfied with the type of street surface now common in this city. He admitted that solid cement roads are the only kind that will withstand modern traffic, but citing $50,000 a mile, they are too expensive to build. He advocated the granting of the petition received from residents of Hunnewell Hill for a foot passage from Washington street to Tremont street. At present there is no public way between Waverley avenue and Hill Top street, Brighton, and pedestrians have to walk several hundreds of yards to travel from Washington street to the cars on Tremont street.

The Mayor again praised prohibition and took a slap at those influential and prosperous citizens, who by not obeying the 18th Amendment, encourage the commitment of crime by the lower elements in society. He asked for at least twelve more traffic officers and two additional motorcycle policemen. He also recommended a new ladder truck at Newton Corner to replace the old aerial ladder now there. The present truck was bought in 1891 and breaks down every time it attempts to answer an alarm of fire.

He asserted that Thompsonville, Chestnut Hill and Newtonville lack sufficient playgrounds and that West Newton will need additional ones in the near future. He suggested that Dolan's Pond, off Auburndale avenue, West Newton, and the land above the old stone quarry off Lowell avenue should be developed into playgrounds. At the latter playground, should one be developed there, the children could be trained for membership in the Appalachian Club.

The Mayor's recommendation concerning Bullough's Pond will meet with the approval of the thousands of skaters who patronize this place. He referred to the large amount of mud washed into the pond every year by the brooks running into it and suggested that a large catch basin be built which will catch this mud and prevent the continual filling of the pond. He also wants attractive, permanent buildings erected to replace the shanties now provided at the pond by the city. Other playground improvements asked for by Mr. Childs are: increased and improved bathing facilities at Crystal Lake and an up-to-date athletic field for the High School, the use of this field to be extended to the public when not needed by the high school pupils.

Mayor Childs asked that the city immediately take the land bounded by Commonwealth avenue, Homer and Walnut streets for civic purposes. He said that it is an ideal location for a Soldiers' Memorial and intimated that it ought to be the site for a new City Hall and Court House. But he

Representatives from troops one, four, five, seven, nine and eleven were in the Ohio last week-end or for New Years. Scouts from troops four and eleven remained up there overnight. The work on the new camp of troop one was pushed hard in order to get the camp in shape for overnight hikes. Troop nine of West Newton set the foundation posts for their new camp and expect to have the lumber on the ground next week. Mr. Lichtenthaler, the scoutmaster of troop 4, Newton Highlands and a group of older scouts, some of whom were home from college for the holidays spent Friday and Saturday at their camp south of the Ohio.

A Court of Honor will be held at the Headquarters of troop 1, Newtonville, Tuesday evening, January 12th, for those scouts certified on or before Saturday, January 9th.

The Annual Meeting of the Council comes on January 20th, the third Wednesday evening of January. At this meeting there is the election of officers and the annual reports of the different officers. A planning committee for the finance campaign for 1926 will also report at this meeting.

Scout week begins with Sunday, February 7th. It is hoped to see every scout in uniform in church that Sunday. On Friday evening of that week will be the Annual Indoor Rally and on Saturday a Council Hike to the Ohio.

Two new assistant scoutmasters have been added to troop eleven, Newton, Mr. Harvey Macuen and Mr. Elliston Day. These young men are too well known to need any introduction and it is very sure that they will be of great assistance in the work. Both have been prominent in the work for young people in Elliot Church and the Scout Organization in the Ohio.

DEFEATS BROOKLINE

In the local opening of the Greater Boston Inter-scholastic League series yesterday afternoon Newton High defeated her ancient rival, Brookline High, 2-0. The game was originally scheduled for the Brookline rink but due to poor ice was transferred to Bulloughs Pond, Newtonville. The ice there was in better shape, but was none too good, the wet places hampering the playing of both teams.

Brookline was weakened by the absence of Fogarty, its regular goal tend, but it wasn't until the third period that the orange and black could get the puck past Arthur Haid, who had never played in a game before. After three minutes of the third period Captain Guy Holbrook got the puck near mid-ice and dashed down towards the Brookline goal. Splitting the defense, he slapped the disc squarely into the net for the first count. In the last minute Junior Stubbs picked the puck out of a scrimmage in front of the cage and drove it home.

HELEN F. HULL

Miss Helen F. Hull of 29 Ivanhoe street died at her late residence on Wednesday. She was born in Boston 59 years ago, the daughter of George A. and Marian Freeman Hull. Her funeral services will be held at the Second Congregational Church in West Newton, on Saturday afternoon at 2 P. M. Burial will be in Forest Hills Cemetery.

much pleased to welcome them into the work.

The name of Mr. Arthur M. Ziegler has been added to the troop committee of troop one, Newtonville. Mr. Ziegler has a son in the troop and has been very helpful in troop one's large undertaking of building a camp in the Ohio.

OPEN AGAINST CAMBRIDGE

The Newton High School swimming team opens its season next Tuesday afternoon at the Newton Y. M. C. A. pool with a dual meet with Cambridge High and Latin. The team has been practicing for several weeks under the direction of Coach Hess and Manager Phil Perry, captain of last year's mermen.

With but three vacancies, Captain Osborne, Green and Essen, as a nucleus, prospects were none too good at the first practice but three freshmen are showing up excellently well to the surprise and gratification of water sports. As a result prospects for a successful season have taken a decided boost and the orange and black should be in for another good year in the pool. Osborne's knee which he injured some time ago and which it was first feared would prevent him from doing his best has rounded into shape.

Captain Osborne is the leading swimmer of the team and in practice has done the 100 yards in 1.04 which is almost his mid-season form. Besides competing in the 100 yard he will swim the 200 yard, on the relay team and if not too tired may try the 40 yard back stroke.

Lane and Stein will be the other orange and black entries in the 100 yd. Two freshmen, Siron and H. Lodge, will be entered in the 40 yd. dash. The dive and 40 yd. breast stroke will be well taken care of by two veterans, Green and Essen. The 200 yd. swim, besides Osborne, will see Stein and Wakefield competing for points. Frank Perry brother of Phil Perry, and either Captain Osborne or Phil Lane will swim the 40-yard backstroke.

The relay team will probably consist of Siron, leadoff man, Lodge, Greeney, and Captain Osborne at anchor. The three first named are all freshmen and before they graduate should form the nucleus for a record breaking relay team.

ALUMNI WINS

On New Year's morning at Bulbough's Pond, Newtonville, the Newton High school hockey team was shut out 2-0 by the Alumni. Thayer and Nixon scored the two goals for the graduates, the former scoring in the first minute of play in the third period a rebound shot and the latter caught one five minutes later on another rebound.

Captain Guy Holbrook and Stubbs played well for the school team but the excellent goal tending of Howland kept them from breaking through.

HILL AND JOHNSON WIN TITLE

Henry Johnson, Jr., and Malcolm Hill of Waban captured the indoor Junior doubles title for the third straight year last Friday by defeating Edward Jacobs and Everett Smith of New York, 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, at the championship tournament held in New York. The superior team work of the two local youths enabled them to retain their doubles honors in spite of the brilliant individual playing of both the New Yorkers.

The victory of the Waban boys in the finals followed their semi-final triumph over John Millen and Milton Horkin of the University of Pennsylvania 7-5, 6-4.

PAIS IN LEAGUE GAME

Playing their first game in the Amateur Inter-City Hockey League at Bulbough's Pond last Sunday afternoon the Newton Pals held the Brighton Catholic Institute to a 2 to 2 tie. McGovern and Nugent each scored for Brighton. The former in the first period on a brilliant dash down the ice and the latter in the second period on a pretty pass from a teammate. The Pals staged a rally in the final period and tied up the count when Wright and Aucoin each caged the puck unassisted. "Howie" Aucoin and "Izzy" Wright were the outstanding stars in the Pals lineup although several brilliant stops by "Rudy" Cavanaugh, in the cage, kept the Brighton team from scoring. McGovern, crack forward of Boston College, and Nugent shone for the visitors.

FOUR TEAMS IN TIE

The candle pin bowling tournament just held at the Newton Y. M. C. A. has just ended with a tie of four teams for first place. The time for the roll-off will be announced by the Bowling Committee.

The high strings made during the past week were: Rodman 101, Lawrence Trowbridge 102, Dobler 101, Morrell 121, Lane 112, W. H. Haynes 106, Macpherson 104, Arthur Haynes 118, Louis Bills 105.

Arthur Haynes had a total of 335 for the High Three Strings during the week and therefore wins the cup for the highest three string during the tournament. August Osterlund with 135 wins high single, and A. F. Tucker wins High Average with a grand average of 97.

The Boston Pin Tournament will begin next Monday with ten or twelve teams enrolled.

SPORT NOTES

The Union A. A. of Newton lost a closely contested hockey game last Saturday at Manchester, N. H., to the Manchester Hockey Club, 3-2, in a New England league game. Roberts of Somerville, playing goal for the Granite state team, was the star for the winners while the three Hall brothers and McKenna played best for the local sextet.

The swimming team starts its season Tuesday against Cambridge in the Newton Y pool. The orange and black mermen are hoping to start the year off with a win.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball teams journey to Belmont Monday night to tackle the fast Alpha Pi Club. The Belmont team is piling up a long string of victories by overwhelming scores. Last Monday night they took over the Boston Y. M. C. A. team by a 60-24 score. The local quintet will have to extend itself to bring home the bacon.

Clem Coady played the defense for the Harvard hockey team last Saturday night against McGill University of Montreal in a game at New York which the latter team won. He sailed head first into the boards and cut his head slightly. When he returned to the game in the third period he wore a bandage.

The Newton Pals hockey team journeys to Neponset Sunday afternoon to face the Redberry Council K. of C. of Neponset. A fast game is expected as both sextets are playing a strong, snappy game.

The Newton Pals basketball team annexed another victory Wednesday night when they defeated C. C. 101st Field Artillery team 26-10 at Armory Hall, West Newton. Daniels starred for the Pals, scoring half of his team's points with six goals from the field and one from the foul line. Ryan featured for the Guardsmen.

In an exhibition basketball game at the Y. M. C. A. open house last Friday evening, the Y second team defeated the first team.

TY-THIRD CITY GOVERNMENT

mind his auditors that land adjoining our present City Hall was donated to the city with the provision that a new City Hall be erected on that site.

If the recently published book by John Samuel L. Powers, "Portraits of Half a Century," will not be read by many Newton residents, it will not be the fault of the Mayor. He urged the reading of this book at the rallies at which he spoke before election, and again commended this work of Mr. Powers at the inaugural. In the third chapter of this book Mr. Powers wrote, "We have always been surrounded by interesting and kindly neighbors and have had the satisfaction of living in a city as well governed as any in the country." The Mayor commented that this compliment, at least for twelve of the forty-three years during which Mr. Powers has resided in Newton, might be relished by himself. Mr. Childs ended his address by saying, "We have just repeated the words—'So Help Me God.' Gentlemen, I am confident that He will help us if we are fair with Him." A complete copy of the address will be found on another page.

Following the inaugural exercises on Monday afternoon the Board of Aldermen organized for 1926. Alderman George W. Pratt of Newton Centre was nominated for President of the Board by Alderman Weeks. He had no opposition and his election was made unanimous. Alderman Earle nominated Alderman John C. Madden for Vice-President and like Mr. Pratt, the Newton alderman had no opponent. Francis Newhall was again elected City Treasurer and Frank M. Grant was once more chosen City Clerk by the aldermen.

President Pratt announced the following committee appointments:—

Finance:—Weeks, Chairman; Collins, Favinger, Flitts, Heathcote, Madden, G. W. Pratt.
Public Works:—Earle, Chairman; Baker, Gordon, Hinkley, O'Connell, N. F. Pratt.
Franchises and Licenses:—Bliss, Chairman; Gallagher, Grebenstein, Hawkins, Hodgdon, Leahy, Noone.

Claims and Rules:—Madden, Chairman; Baker, Bliss, Grebenstein, Hinkley.
Public Buildings:—Flitts, Chairman; Baker, Collins, Gallagher, Gordon, Leahy, N. F. Pratt.
Education:—Collins, Chairman; O'Connell, N. F. Pratt.
Legislation:—Baker, Chairman; Bliss, Earle, Hawkins, Heathcote, Hodgdon, G. W. Pratt.
Kenrick Fund:—O'Connell, Hawkins, Leahy.

After expressing his appreciation of election as president Mr. Pratt welcomed the new members of the board and complimented the retiring members.

He said in part:—
There are three cardinal points in Newton's successful financial policy, which is due, as I have said, more to Mr. White than to any other man. They are these:—

1. Pay-as-we-go! In other words, minimum of bond issues, both as to frequency, size and term. We agree with the Mayor, however, that in any case Newton must "go!"

2. Adherence to a carefully prepared budget—in other words a minimum of extra or post budget appropriations.

3. A moderate tax rate. As a matter of fact our tax rate is one of the lowest in the State.

Newton has proceeded along these lines for the past four years, and no doubt this board will adhere to the same policy. We can do no better—our credit today is as high as that of any city in the country.

Before we take up the detailed and routine work of the year, the chair wishes to invite you to take one look ahead and consider in the large a few of the city's problems.

To the Public Buildings Commission the chair commends attention to the problems of adequate accommodation for the departments and the public here in City Hall. The chair is satisfied that the public has not the convenient access to the departments to which it is entitled, and that some of the departments are badly handicapped by inadequate and poorly arranged quarters.

Our garbage contract expires in October 1927, if we are to replace our present method by one involving any permanent equipment or plant, we shall have to begin to consider the matter this year. The chair is advised that the City of Indianapolis is now experimenting with a method of garbage disposal that involves neither direct feeding or incineration—at all events the chair commends the subject to the Public Works Committee for serious consideration some time during the year.

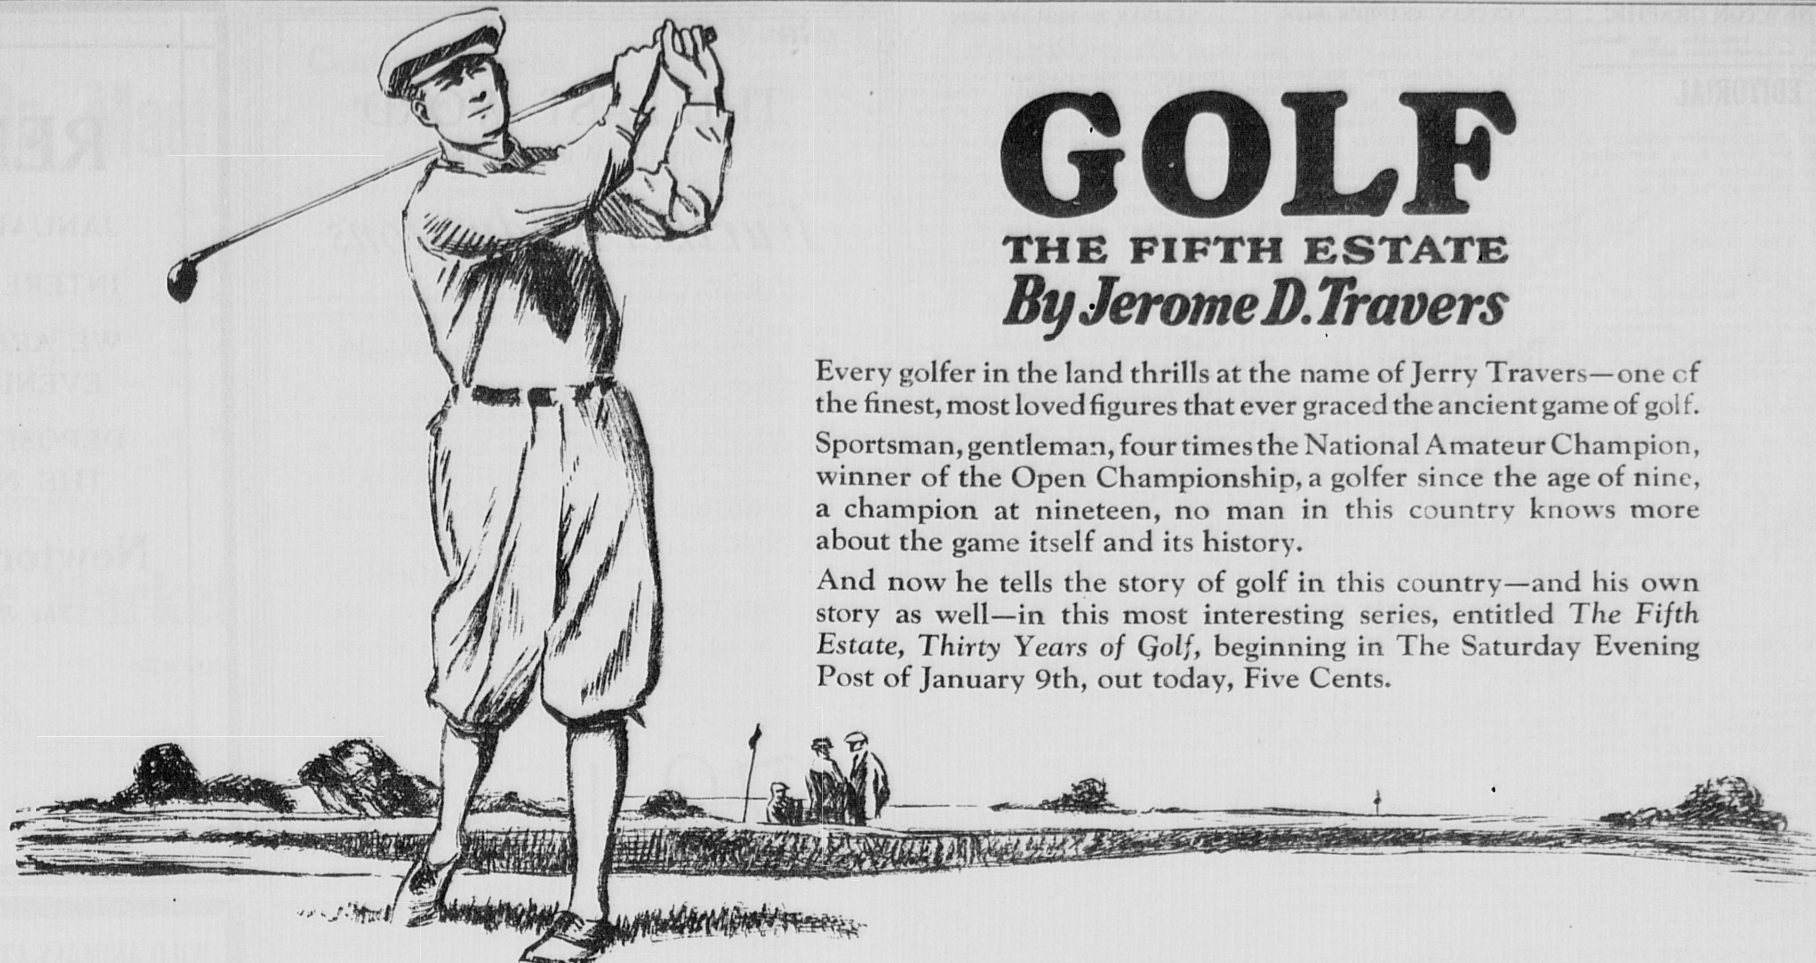

More important and more pressing than either of the foregoing, is the subject of our water supply. Our present average daily consumption is 1,500,000 gallons. Our maximum daily supply is 4,100,000 gallons. In other words our daily consumption exceeds our own daily supply by 50,000 gallons.

In three years Newton's consumption has increased 300,000 gallons per day, while our supply has increased only 100,000 gallons. Moreover, at times and in places, the quality of the water we do get is poor. The chief of the Fire Department has called our attention to the need for more hydrants especially in the newest sections of the city.

It is the purpose of the chair that the dockets of this board be so arranged that the discussion of important measures will come at reasonable hours, and not as has so often been the case, after eleven o'clock at night.

After all our mission here is something more than seeing that Newton's municipal problems are decided promptly; her public works maintained and provided for adequately, her public service properly manned, and the right of petition guaranteed to her citizens.

The common indictment of government in the United States is that local self-government, particularly in cities, is often corrupt and still more often totally inefficient. We do not have to go out of Massachusetts, or even out of Middlesex County, to find this indictment lying at this every moment.

PRESUMPTION

By F. Scott Fitzgerald

A lonely, inarticulate boy of twenty grows to manhood with an inferiority complex.

His humiliation; his astonishing—though wholly undeserved—business success; and his final, glorious triumph; make the best short story Mr. Fitzgerald has yet written.

To his always matchless skill in the depiction of present-day youth is now added a mellowness of spirit, a deeper insight—and a surprise ending that O. Henry himself well could envy.

The Whole Case of the World Court of Justice

At The Hague sit fifteen black-robed judges. Before them nations plead their cause.

The World Court of Justice. What does it promise us? Empty futility—or the beginning of the end of war?

Shall we join? No question before us today demands clearer thinking. Here, "without partisanship and with dependence for the facts solely upon the documents in which they are contained," is the whole story of the origin of this Court—the first available basis for a sound decision of the question.

"AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION"

You can subscribe through any newsdealer or authorized agent, or send your order direct to THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

This being so, it is the more our opportunity and our duty to hold up here in Newton a standard of municipal conduct so high and so far-reaching that we may be a very pattern and example of American local self-government.

Where if not in Newton would you look for the American institution of local government to justify itself?

Whither, if not to Newton, would you have other cities turn for high standards of municipal conduct?

VETERAN TEACHER DIES

Miss Minerva Leland, for 38 years a teacher of science and mathematics at the Newton High School, died Wednesday night at her home, 2072 Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, after a long illness.

Miss Leland retired a year ago last Christmas because of declining health, but returned to school this Fall after a relapse, however, forced her to discontinue teaching after the Thanksgiving recess.

She was born in Newton in 1859, the daughter of Luther E. Leland, who served as master of the Hamilton School of Newton Lower Falls. She was educated in the Newton schools and took her degree at Colby College in 1882. About two years ago she was awarded an honorary degree of Master of Science by her alma mater. Upon the completion of her course at Colby, Miss Leland first taught school in the Seaboard High School and then at the Springfield, Vt., High School, where she was a member of the faculty under Federal Judge George Anderson, then headmaster. While at the Newton High School, Miss Leland gained considerable prominence as a tutor for students preparing for Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Among the persons whom she tutored and who have since gained prominence are Prof. Percy Bridgman of Harvard and Dr. George Burgess of the Bureau of Standards at Washington, D. C.

Aside from her school work, Miss Leland took an active part in the church work of the city. For many years, she served as the clerk of the Lincoln Park Baptist Church in West Newton.

She is survived by two brothers, Samuel Leland of Chicago, and Waldo D. Leland of Washington, D. C., and a stepmother, Mrs. Ellen M. Leland. Funeral services will be held at her late home, 2072 Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

DEATH OF MISS ROBINSON

The death of Miss Harriet A. Robinson on Wednesday takes from Newtonville a resident of more than 50 years. She was born in Bangor, Maine, in 1846, where she lived with her mother, Mrs. John W. Blanchard, until the latter's death, then with her half-sister, Mrs. William Jones of Crafts street, until their home was broken up.

Miss Robinson was one of the early members of the Central Congregational Church and was a charter member of the Newtonville Woman's Club.

Although handicapped from childhood by a disfiguring scar and failing eyesight which resulted in total blindness during the last two or three years of her life, she always had a keen interest in affairs of the church, the city and the world, and no one, not even her best friends, ever heard her complain of her lot.

Hers was a cheerful, brave and gallant spirit.

RETIRES TO PRIVATE LIFE

Mr. Frederick N. Wales of Pulsifer street, Newtonville, executive secretary for the Department of Public Works of the Commonwealth, retired to private life last week Wednesday, when he reached the age of 70 years and following 44 years of service to the state.

The event was marked by a gathering of the commissioners, division heads and employees of the department that afternoon, and the representation of a purse of gold by Mr. William F. Williams, chairman of the Commission. That evening Mr. Wales was the guest of honor at a banquet given him by the commissioners and department heads.

Speaking of the retirement of the secretary, Commissioner Williams said:

"Mr. Wales leaves a place in the department's service which it will be well-nigh impossible to fill. Modest, retiring and highly efficient, he knew in detail the history and work of the department for forty-four years, and this background of information was invaluable to us. He came to the State's service as a youth of twenty-eight years, and has given to the Commonwealth the best of his life. He leaves with the heartiest good wishes of everyone in the department, from the commissioners to the newest employee."

Mr. Wales was born in Providence, R. I., Dec. 30, 1855, and entered the employment of the Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners as its only draughtsman, in January, 1882. The commission was then engaged in filling the South Boston flats, and the drafting of plans for this work fell entirely to him. John E. Sanford, who formulated many of the policies still in effect in the department, became chairman of the board in that year, and a lasting friendship was formed between the two men.

In 1892 Mr. Wales became clerk of the board and in 1911, when the directors of the port of Boston were created, he took on, in addition, the work of clerk of that board as well as becoming acting chief engineer of the Harbor and Land Commission. This work continued until 1912, when the directors of the port of Boston were combined with the Commission on Waterways and Public Lands. He became until Dec. 1, 1919, when, with the creation of the present Department of Public Works, he became its executive secretary.

PROVES TO BE SUICIDE

Late Tuesday afternoon as Nunzio Vespa of 28 Beecher place, was walking through the woods near Hammond Pond, he came upon the body of an elderly man lying on the ground a few hundred yards in from Boylston street. He communicated the news of his discovery to the Newton police and Sergeant Joe Seaver and Inspector Richard Conroy rushed to the scene. As the place where the body was found is a Metropolitan Park reservation, the Metropolitan Park police at Brighton were notified and they took charge of the corpse.

Medical Examiner West was sent for and upon his arrival he discovered that the man had died as a result of a pistol shot through the head. As no weapon was found near the body and the clothes of the deceased were torn as if in a struggle, it appeared at first that a murder had been committed. The body was taken to the morgue of the Newton Hospital and remained unidentified until Wednesday night when it was identified by Thomas O'Brien of 14 Bolton place, Charlestown. Mr. O'Brien said the remains were those of his father-in-law, Lyman A. Call, who had been missing since December 26th. After his disappearance on that date, Mr. Call had sent his daughter and Mr. O'Brien a postal card on which he had written the message that they would never see him again.

Upon further search Wednesday morning in the woods where the body was found, the police came upon a 25 calibre automatic pistol 125 feet away from the spot where Mr. Call's remains had been discovered. It is supposed his clothes were torn as he crawled over the rocks and underbrush from the place where he shot himself to the spot where he died. Medical Examiner West, after performing an autopsy on the body, pronounced the death as due to suicide.

MacGillivray, Shields and Brimblecom made the majority of the baskets for the first team, while Wellman, Hardy, McDonald and Brennan scored for the second team. Two new players were used on the second team, Coulter and McDonald. Both games were fast and clean.

—The evening service at the Church of the Messiah on Sunday evening was especially interesting. It was the Feast of the Epiphany celebrating the coming of the Wise Men to the Infant Jesus. A beautiful pageant was given by the girls in Miss Uquhart's Sunday School class.

—The different festivals of the Church year, each one carrying a shield decorated with the mystic sign for that occasion, and wearing the suitable colors. Appropriate music accompanied the whole series. At the close of the pageant the Candle Service was given: all the electric lights were lowered and from a large central candle on the altar small ones were lighted and given to every one in the house. This service is purely symbolical. The large candle represents Christ, as the Light of the World. His disciples and followers carry the light through all the world. Before the candle service the Wise Men of the East came into the church and marched up to the altar carrying gifts for the Christ Child. The church has recently been redecorated and the Christmas greens were still in place. This year the decorations have been more beautiful than ever. Small pine trees and branches were used on the arches of the screen in front of the chancel and around the altar itself while scarlet flowers and gilded cones were scattered among the green boughs. With the white altar trimmings it was a most beautiful sight, and the sermon was worthy of its setting.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

State Federation

Club members interested in activities from the State Departments must bear in mind the following interesting dates:

Drama Class, with Home Talent Day, Tuesday, January 12th, at 10 A. M., to be held at State Headquarters, 687 Boylston street, Boston. On Monday, the 11th, at 3 Joy street, Boston, at 10:30 A. M., George A. Loveland, Director of Weather Bureau, is to be the speaker in the Course on Federal Administration planned under the Civil Service Department.

Radio fans will not be the only ones who will take pains to listen in over WNAC on January 13th and 19th. Mrs. G. Warren Ross, District Press Chairman for District Four, is in charge of these radio programs for any federated clubs that desire her assistance, and the first one of January 6th included speeches by Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, and the Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith, assisted by a vocal soloist. The program of the 18th is to be one of Home Economics, in charge of Mrs. Harry A. Burnham, assisted by Mrs. Otis Drayton, State Chairman of Music, who will speak on "Musical Interpretations." Tuesday, the 19th, is Budget Day in the club world, and will be in charge also of Mrs. Burnham from 3 to 4 P. M., with ten-minute talks and a musical program.

January 13th to 15th, under the auspices of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, there will be a school at Radcliffe on Foreign Affairs.

And a bit of personal gossip of interest, is the news that Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith and Mrs. Harry A. Burnham will attend the General Federation Executive Board meetings to be held in Washington, D. C., at General Federation Headquarters, January 13, 14 and 15. Women representing all States of the Union are coming to Washington for this Board meeting, and plans in the eight departments of work will be talked over and set in motion. Besides these regular channels of activities one of especial fascination just now—and one to which Press Coolidge has offered every encouragement and aid—is the contemplated Home Equipment Survey. It will be well worth hearing about, and Newton women should remember that at our own coming Board Meeting of the Newton Federation on Monday, the 18th, we shall have opportunity to learn of this far-reaching betterment, from our own Chairman of the American Home Department.

Newton Federation

Our own important bits of business are coming to the fore in this strenuous month beginning a new year, and three events must be marked in red on the calendar:

January 18th, the Board Meeting at Newton Club, Newtonville, at 10:15 A. M.

January 22nd, the State Conference on Legislative matters for the 12th District, for which we are hostesses, for which the Newtonville Woman's Club must kindly offer its hospitality at Central Congregational Church, at 2:30 P. M.

Inspiring speakers, including Emma Fall Schofield on the Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws, Speaker John C. Hull of the House of Representatives, and it is hoped Payson Smith on Educational Survey, and others on new bills coming up before Legislature, such as the Forestry bill regarding fire protection, and school age and employment of children, in so far as affected by physical examination by school rather than home physician, are among the matters upon which we may receive new or renewed information. A most helpful meeting is promised to thinking club women.

And lastly, and a meeting right upon us, and one that should be excellently attended, is one arranged on worthwhile educational problems that are at our door in practice, not in theory of far-off, general interest. Mrs. Walter Van Patten Steiger, our Education Chairman, has secured Miss Mabel Bragg, assistant superintendent of schools, as speaker on the new system of Report Cards, now in operation in elementary schools, and she will explain this so that parents, and all others who wish to keep abreast of their school-times, will be losing a valuable opportunity for information if they do not go to the Technical School Library, next Monday afternoon, the 11th, at 3 o'clock.

Federation Paper

Has every club woman of Newton—and we are four thousand strong in the Federation—subscribed to the Newton Graphic? If so, we are assured of carrying through our splendid aims in philanthropic and civic works that are so near to our hearts in aiding our community. If not, club women who desire to add to our funds for excellent purposes, and who desire to support the accredited news of the clubs that appear in the Graphic, and who wish to benefit by being one of the citizens of their home city to uphold it in all its activities—activities recounted and made public through their community newspaper—will hasten at once to subscribe. So do they not only do a good deed in club work, and do their duty as citizens, but they save themselves nearly two-thirds of that precious dollar that means so much to the Federation funds. The club woman who purchases her paper weekly at seven cents a copy spends for the year $3.64, while a sixty-four cent more than she would pay by subscribing, direct from the Graphic office. It is a wonderful thing when charity strikes home as well as abroad! Let every club woman, therefore, ponder this sum in arithmetic, and, being wise, send in her subscription at once!

There is another matter that may be an inducement. Only a limited edition of the Federation Paper could, of course, be printed, and the opportunity to purchase these copies must now be withdrawn, since it is necessary that these be kept for future reference—and they will be referred to many years hence for information as to early history and present personnel. The only way in the future that copies may be obtained will be as a premium to subscribers, so that any who now wish to obtain copies may do so by subscribing, otherwise the chance to file away one of these papers has passed into the group of lost opportunities. If you want a copy, subscribe, or if you want to do a kindness to some friend, or give some token of regard, subscribe for them.

RECENT EVENTS

Social Science Club

On Wednesday, December 30th, a guest meeting of the Social Science Club was held in Stanley Hall. Miss Lulu Giralda Adams gave an illustrated talk on "Religious Customs in Spain." Miss Adams, who is an instructor in the Brookline High School, has spent much time in Spain, and not only appreciates the beauty of the country, natural and artistic, but understands its spirit, which she characterized as half pagan and half medieval. It is still a medieval country, and the people cling to old traditions. The account of the celebration of Holy Week in Seville was especially interesting, though much of it was more pagan than religious. Miss Adams spoke particularly of the washing of the feet of the beggars by the King and Queen which has become a meaningless ceremony.

She showed slides of many beautiful cathedrals and picturesque old streets, and also views of the Alhambra where, in one of the largest courts, she witnessed a gypsy festival at which 4000 people were gathered. The last pictures were of the immense Escorial palace, especially associated with Philip II.

On Wednesday, January 6th, the usual business meeting of the Social Science Club was omitted, and Dr. H. H. Powers spoke on the subject, "Expansion over Seas," to members and guests. There was a large attendance of members and their guests.

Dr. Powers traced the expansion of our continent, giving briefly and tellingly periods, causes and outstanding results of each annexation of territory. His opening remark that volition paid only a small part in our expansion policies, but that we seemed predestined to expand overseas, since our earliest settlers along the Atlantic coast found exploration of the sea far less formidable than the wilderness at their back, might be taken as the keynote of America's growth in territory through its entire history—a matter of destiny.

Waban Woman's Club

Miss Agnes Donham gave practical advice as to "Oiling the Machinery of Family Life," and the joy of saving through the budget, to the members of the Waban Woman's Club on Monday afternoon. She suggested that the business of the family be carried on as is every other business, with regular conferences on wages and means, and whereof the children of the household; this last in order that they might be trained on their responsibilities as to income in later years, and know the value of money in its buying power, and in its satisfaction of saving. Miss Donham quoted the horror of one woman in a former audience at the idea of the children knowing the income of the family, possibly to speak of it to neighbors, and declared that our neighbors already have a fixed idea as to our incomes, based on observation as to our methods of living, and that no remark of a child could change or shake that fixed idea, but that it would be discounted as childish imagination.

Three major modes of expenditure were classified: first, those expenses that are fixed, or absolutely known, such as taxes, insurance, etc.; second, the approximate, such as food, fuel, clothing, all of which are variable with market conditions; and third, those that could not by any means be estimated, but might be affected by accident, chance, or other emergency. For this last contingency, she stressed the need for the saving toward the emergency fund.

Methods suggested, advice—which the speaker herself has followed that she might the more wisely and sincerely explain her topic—were an inspiration, and, if followed, would lead to much solving of household difficulties and to the restoring of peace of mind, through curbing of extravagance, or desire to "take a chance," which so often only leads to worry that could have been avoided, by act of wisdom.

Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club

A kindly New Year's greeting from the president opened the first meeting of the 1926, on Monday evening.

An interesting report by Mrs. Warren Hoey, Chairman of Community Service, revealed a very successful Christmas Americanization party on December 21, a tree, gifts, and plenty of delicious eats, for mothers and children of the foreign-born, and free of cost to our club through Mrs. Hoey's efforts, as collector.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan's report of $20 realized at a whist for the piano fund, and $125 collected so far for health seals, brought a round of applause for her work.

After the business reports, Mrs. Ida Porter Boyer, kept her audience interested for forty-five minutes with her descriptions, of our picturesque Pa-historical, geographical and political clime Isles, Hawaii and Guam.

In proof that Women's Clubs cultivate their members' minds with introspection, retrospection, and inspection, not to mention circumspection—one has only to glance over the programs in the columns today, dealing with Makers of America as retrospection; travels to Africa and Hawaii as inspection; budgets, world peace and abolition of war (as Rabbi Levi is sure to mention in his coming address) as circumspection (not to add the perpetual need for fact in clubdom); and lastly the study of character as portrayed by Shakespeare for introspection—which we find in the meeting of the 2nd of January for the

Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands

On Saturday last, the Quiz on "Winter's Tale," in charge of Mrs. W. E. Moore, was enjoyed by members of the Shakespeare Club at the home of Mrs. F. S. Keldth, 20 Hartford street. The charm of "Winter's Tale" was most pleasantly brought out in the discussion of the setting, with the delightful pastoral scenes presided over by loyal shepherds, and the beauties of nature in the glory of moon and stars. The relationship of the two countries—Bohemia and Sicily—was admirably explained through the characteristics of representing personages in the play. Introspection through the study of character development, in the jealousy of Leontes, King of Sicily, a habit of mind that proved that all that was wrong existed only in his unchecked thought; the reflectiveness, composure, unvaried dignity and queenliness of Hermione, who showed herself a pillar of strength; and the phases of character of other persons in the play, formed a most fascinating Quiz. Mrs. Moore also added to the pleasure of the meeting by inaugurating a new departure from the usual discussion, in having a fellow-member read Robert Greene's "Pandosto," a work famous in its day, for it went through fourteen editions, and was dramatized in France and Holland. It was upon this work that Shakespeare's "Winter's Tale" was based.

Newtonville Woman's Club

Flowers and song attracted a goodly gathering of the club on stormy Tuesday, Mrs. Charles Kepner, presiding, was most felicitous in her comments and announcements. She recommended the Club Cook Book which is especially valuable in containing menus for young children, contributed by Mrs. Frank R. Clark. She advocated joining the Posture Class which can still receive members. The value of the "Graphic" was stressed, with its offer of $1.00 of each new subscription to go to the Federation. An opportunity was given by Mrs. Timble to members to subscribe and to buy copies of the Federation number.

"There must be composers among us," said Mrs. Kepner. "Our Massachusetts State Club song is still lacking music and needs a voice that it may be heard at the Atlantic City Biennial."

Mrs. Andrews, Chairman of the Education Committee, brought before the club a petition asking for the erection and maintenance of a tunnel connecting the High School buildings. She announced that Miss Bragg would explain to parents the new report cards on Monday, Jan. 11th at three o'clock.

It was pleasing to learn that the President, Mrs. A. H. Decatur, had written inquiring about the club. Her new address will be Madura, India. "We can be in the land of flowers in spite of storm," said Mrs. Kepner, in presenting Prof. Clark Thayer of Amherst Agricultural College. His lecture on "Flowers for the Home Garden" was attractively illustrated and the suggestions made will no doubt blossom in the gardens of Newtonville next summer. He showed how it is possible even in these cold climates to have flowers eleven months of the year, the Christmas rose and the snow drop almost connecting with the bloom of spring.

Among other suggestions he encouraged the planting of iris which can be selected in varieties which last from early spring to mid July, when the Japanese flowers of three and six petals are in bloom. Crocuses are successfully grown in grass, provided the lawn is not mowed too early to interfere with the plant's growth. Of lilies, Prof. Thayer admires the Madonna lily which must be started in August or early fall so as to make leaf growth the year before it blossoms.

It was surprising to see how the Glebe Club, which last year was a double quartette, had grown into a chorus of 30 voices. "Each singer is One of Ours," said Mrs. Kepner, "and we are proud of it." Mrs. Julia McCormick of Taunton was the director of the cantata, "The Fisher Maidens," by the English composer Henry Smart. The solos were rendered deftly by Mrs. Clinton Kyle, Mrs. L. L. Pettys, Mrs. Carl C. Davis, Mrs. F. W. Woodcock, Mrs. W. F. Ferrin, and others taking minor parts. There was vocal group singing and the feeling conveyed to the hearers was that each voice was adequate in the part. The shading in the choruses was delicate and interpreted the thought of the cantata. The Chairman, Mrs. Edward P. Hendrick, and the Committee are to be congratulated on presenting home talent so well trained. Miss Dorothy Curtis at the piano accompanied charmingly.

Tea was served, the hostesses being Mrs. Walter B. Judkins and Mrs. George A. Edmunds. Presiding at the table were Mrs. C. W. Colman and Mrs. Florence A. Rose.

On Tuesday, January 12th, at three o'clock, at the Junior High School Library, the class in dramatics will meet, with Mrs. Clinton Kyle presiding. The subject is Russian Drama, and "The Boor" will be read by Miss Marie Bartlett and Mrs. Clinton Kyle.

MAYOR CHILDS' ADDRESS

Gentlemen of the Board of Aldermen:

I wish for each of you and for all of the people of Newton a very happy and prosperous New Year, with the accent on the New. A new start we make today fully realizing that there are new opportunities and new responsibilities ahead. May it be for each one of us a year when we shall have new apprehensions of truth, new adventures of the spirit—when new experiences shall be fathomed and new service tried.

We have been selected to conduct city business. This consists largely of spending the people's money which is raised by taxation. In this we should exercise economy but economy that is wise. Municipal progress and development is always expensive and Newton is growing rapidly. Our methods, however, can be businesslike, even though we serve a corporation which is in business for service and not for profit. Seeing clearly and acting wisely will enable us to render the service expected of us.

Before calling to your attention the condition of the city and mentioning some of her needs let me express my thanks to the members of last year's Board of Aldermen, to the members of all City Boards and Commissions, to all heads and acting heads of departments and to all who work for the city in any capacity for their very great assistance and their constant cooperation in the administration of city affairs. Credit for any successes must be shared by all.

I am grateful, too, for the splendid influence exerted by our business, fraternal, charitable, military and religious organizations. Their leaders have been most helpful with advice, suggestion and support. The work of our Representatives and Senator on Beacon Hill deserve special mention. They have been watchful over the city's interests at all times.

I speak for all at City Hall when I thank the City Solicitor for that patience, careful attention to detail, skill and legal ability applied to every problem presented to him which has often led us up through the wilderness into the Promised Land.

A new contract with the Newton Hospital and one with the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway Company were signed yesterday. The bus contract, so called, will we trust advantageously affect all of our people. The special committee of the Board of Aldermen which had this matter in hand deserves great credit for a difficult task well done.

I am glad to express at this time my appreciation of the service rendered the city by Alderman White who resigned his office in December, at the call of President Coolidge, to accept the position of Collector of Internal Revenue. No more capable Chairman of Finance or President of this Board has served our city within my recollection. Our best wishes go with him to his new field of activity and we hope to even higher service.

During the past year death has claimed two of the members of the Playground Commission, William C. Brewer and Ralph V. Angier. Both were high-minded men who believed that youth is a city's greatest asset and that the interests of the children and young folks come first and last longest. The Planning Board has lost Vernon B. Swett, a man of vision, who gave much time and thought in planning the Newton which is to be.

They rendered most important service to the city, made a host of friends, and many there are among us who miss their warm and stimulating comradeship and whose hearts are sad because they are no more.

To the common task ahead of us I welcome each one of you, in commenting upon the condition of our city let me assure you that our financial position is sound. We have a system of accounting modernized and systematized. Installed originally by the State, it has been steadily improved by the Comptroller. A survey of our municipal history reveals the fact that our city fathers have always been careful in putting out debt. They have never run riot. The prices which our bonds have brought during the past year are an indication of the financial position and strength of Newton's obligations as an investment. It is interesting to recall that early in the nineties with the population and valuation as they then were, the abolition of grade crossings, the widening of Washington street, the Sewer System and the Boulevard were all started. The possibility of undertaking these gigantic propositions inside the debt limit were out of the question. The then city governments realizing the need, courageously met it. They were criticised. The boulevard was the most foolish project yet attempted according to some of the critics of that day. Nevertheless, the city went to the legislature, presented its case, procured the necessary authority to borrow outside the debt limit, completed the job promptly and the city never felt the burden. Distributed aright a financial municipal burden can be borne without embarrassment. If the "pay as you go" policy had then been adhered to, the work could never have been undertaken. "Pay as you go" sounds most attractive, but for the average city, growing rapidly where permanent improvements are required, it isn't always practical. Furthermore, it is hardly fair to the taxpayer of today to make him pay in full for those lasting benefits which future generations will enjoy as much as he. The city of Newton need never be ashamed to go to the Legislature for help in meeting legitimate needs. She can always go with clean hands and ask to be in a position to meet demands as they come.

Governing powers in this city will not abuse the confidence of the Legislature in the future any more than they have in the past. We stand for honesty in government, not because it is the best policy but because it is right.

To undertake at the present time to give to our city all that she needs by way of improvements would be as nothing compared to what was undertaken in those earlier days and yet wise planners then made one mistake in not taking Brackett's coal yard and clearing the south side of Washington street from Centre Place to Nonantum Square, including the Bank property. This should ever be a reminder to us of this later day that money may be saved temporarily without there being any net gain in the end, and that spending money today may turn out to have been thrift and economy tomorrow. A few figures may be of interest.

The City of Newton is growing fast and all the problems face us which accompany steady growth. The state census shows a population of 53,003, an increase of as much in five years as in the ten years previous to 1920. The total valuation on April 1, 1925, was $117,850,800. Buildings were valued at $70,650,050.00; land at $30,848,750.00; and tangible personal property at $16,352,000.00. The tax rate was $27.40. This rate was higher than that of five cities in the Commonwealth, the same as that of two cities and lower than that of thirty-one. It was between $3.50 and $4.00 lower than the average rate of the thirty-nine cities of Massachusetts.

Newton was founded in 1630. We celebrate in 1930 the 300th anniversary. With a reasonable increase in our tax rate and a reasonable use of our borrowing capacity, we ought to be able to pay for school and other public buildings that we shall need during the next five years and come up to our anniversary in splendid condition.

Building operations in 1925 forecast a large increase in valuation on April 1st, 1926, and although there may be less building the present year, there is no question but that our city is bound to have a good steady growth indefinitely. The estimated cost of buildings for the year is $12,297,313.

Of this $9,527,990 is for dwelling houses. This is an increase of 42% in building over 1924.

Our building department is well organized and is functioning satisfactorily. Old buildings in the city are fast disappearing and are being replaced with modern structures. Careful inspection has been made of all schools and hospitals and means of fire prevention and egress are good.

Our building code should be studied and revised where necessary to allow the use of new materials, new methods of construction, and modifications of the present requirements which will help to reduce the cost of construction.

The Zoning Ordinance is working satisfactorily and is proving a great asset to the city.

Our school buildings in general are in good condition. During the past year, electric lights have been placed in the Stearns, Burr, Hyde, Emerson, Lincoln and Elliot Schools, and new fire alarm systems have been installed in the first four. A new heating and ventilating system has been installed in the Elliot School. I would recommend electric lights for the Bigelow School the present year and the painting of class rooms where it is necessary.

The Oak Hill School sooner or later must be replaced, and a new school will be needed at Chestnut Hill in the near future. The Hamilton School should be completely remodeled.

Excellent progress has been made on the new High School, and it will be completed on time and ready for use next September. Plans are now under way for the new Junior High School in the Auburndale-West Newton district, and construction ought to start about the first of April.

The modern educational program is expensive, but it is worth all it costs. The best sort of education means the best sort of citizenship later on. Better education calls for better instruments for educating youth, wise leadership and teachers capable and unhandicapped. And after all said and done, the teacher is the big factor. We, here in Newton, ought to be proud of those who lead and instruct our children.

Kindergarten, primary, grammar, junior high, high, evening, continuation schools and Americanization classes are all functioning properly, and the foundation for health, mental soundness and good American citizenship is being laid day by day.

The departments of public works have met the demands made of them—the Street, Water and Engineering Departments working harmoniously together.

Sewers have been laid in the West Newton, Newton Highlands and Chestnut Hill districts at Taft Avenue, Brewster Road and Hayward Road. Laundry Brook has been improved at Newtonville, and eleven streets have been built under the betterment act.

The Planning Board, acting as a Board of Survey, was organized May 22d, and at ten meetings, twenty-five petitions have been acted upon.

Drainage work should be continued the present year. Three important drains deserve attention. Laundry Brook, from the Boston and Albany Railroad to Hull Street, should be completed. That portion from the new High School to Hull Street should be done this year, together with Cheesecake Brook from Prospect Street through the new Junior High School lot. The Newtonville Drain from Crafts Street to Central Avenue should be completed as soon as possible.

Our streets are in fairly good condition, but more money must be spent on street construction and maintenance each year if we are to keep pace with what necessity requires.

The automobile is largely responsible for increased street costs. When MacAdam, the Scotchman, produced the crushed rock road, it was thought that the end had been reached in road building. MacAdam was the standard and was all right for steel tires and iron shoes. The auto with rubber tires tears it to pieces.

The solid cement road with proper foundation is the only kind that can stand up under traffic today. The cost of $50,000 and upward per mile is prohibitive.

Here in Newton, we are doing the best we can and with satisfactory results.

Plans are now being made for a south side City Stable, and this work should be completed.

The matter of the improvement of North Street to correct an injustice of earlier years which comes to you from last year's Board should receive due consideration. I shall be glad to act with you in a way which will be fair to the city as well as the property owners there.

A petition has been forwarded to your Honorable Board this day from the residents of the upper part of Hunnewell Hill asking for a right of way for foot-passengers between Washington and Tremont Streets. This should receive careful consideration and the prayer of the petitioners granted if it can be reasonably done.

The work on the new twenty-four inch reinforcing water-main for which an appropriation was granted in July has been completed from Walnut Street to the reservoir wall, and the placing of a check valve and some interior piping is all that remains to be done before this line can be put in service.

I recommend the completion of this line from Walnut Street to Washington Street the coming year. This will greatly increase the flow and pressure available for both hydrant and domestic service throughout the entire city.

As a supplement to this increase in carrying capacity, I recommend an appropriation for a twelve inch main from the existing twelve inch line in Waverley Avenue at Church Street through Church, Park and Washington Streets to Nonantum Square, replacing smaller lines and connecting with the twelve inch pipe in Centre Street. This will greatly increase the pressure and flow in this thickly populated and important business district.

The demands for main extensions have exceeded those of 1924, and the house connections have been 30% in excess of the previous year. Sixty hydrants have been added, and it is hoped that one hundred additional ones may be installed this year.

New pumping equipment is needed at the main station, and another well ought to be driven at a point on the water works land in Needham where water of fine quality and sufficient volume is known to exist.

Life and property in the City are well protected. Our Police and Fire Departments function promptly and properly. Newton is an orderly city, as orderly as any, more so than some.

The problems of prohibition are evident and are slowly being solved. Prohibition is being tested in this country under a constitutional mandate. The experiment should be afforded every opportunity for success. It cannot be called a failure, never having been fully tried but a partial trial throughout our land, on all the evidence, shows that even partial prohibition is a blessing and not a curse.

Respect for law and order is the need of the hour. They who stand for it show the finest sort of citizenship. The fact that so many influential and prosperous people who are looked up to for example in many things ignore both the law and the constitution when they interfere with their own comfort and pleasure may have something to do with law violations lower in the scale. A campaign for law and order started in the home whereby a child is trained in morality, taught to control self-will and brought under the influence of religion will develop character and solve many perplexing problems which cities large and small face today.

Training the young by precept and example makes decent and useful citizens.

It is encouraging to find that the records of our Police Department show an absence of some of the crimes which have stirred other communities and which have been perpetrated for the most part by young men.

The problems which the automobile presents are continually being studied and an honest attempt is being made toward a solution which will be just to all.

The police signal system should be revamped in order that it may operate more efficiently. This can be done by purchasing a new police desk and new instruments which will bring the boxes up to date and take care of the four circuits contemplated for the future. In order to protect property, properly patrol routes, direct traffic and care for school children, at least a dozen officers should be added to the force. Two additional motor cycles are also needed. The motor cycle officer is the greatest preventative of law violation. More are needed in this city.

The Fire Department has come through the year without serious loss or accident by fire. Boston, Waltham, Watertown and Wellesley have cooperated with our department, and our department has reciprocated. Plans have been made for connecting the Newton and Brookline fire alarm systems. This can be done with little expense and will prove most beneficial to the Chestnut Hill section.

The old aerial ladder now located at Newton should be replaced. This piece of apparatus has been in service since 1891, having been a horse drawn vehicle purchased by Chief Bixby. It was motorized in 1913 and has been running ever since. The ladders are not safe and every time it has a run, it has a breakdown. Five additional men will be requested for the department this year.

The name by which our city is known "The Garden City" naturally suggests a residential suburb with parks and playgrounds. We have many such beautiful and utilitarian spots. We cannot have too many in a growing city, if properly placed.

Prevention of congestion is always cheaper than applying the remedy later on. Newton, on account of its vast area, is likely to become a city with several over-crowded districts. Careful consideration should be given the matter as to where parks and playgrounds and schools may be needed in the future. The survey made some years ago by the Planning Board should continually be studied. It is a very good guide as to what we ought to do.

Thompsonville, Oak Hill, Chestnut Hill and that part of Newtonville lying between Watertown Street and Charles River are the areas which at the present time lack parks and playgrounds. West Newton will soon need additional area. Dolan's Pond, so called, if acquired and filled could be turned into a real recreational park. This would eliminate ugliness and create a positive item of attraction.

West Newton hill, as well as that part of Newtonville lying between Lowell Avenue and Walnut Street would be well served by developing the land now owned by the City above the old stone quarry.

Edmunds Park, with its 32 acres, should receive attention. The land should be cleared, and a plan for its future development prepared by a landscape architect and horticulturalist. There are splendid possibilities here for an arboretum, bird sanctuary, and a real toboggan slide.

Bullough's Pond has become a very important part of our winter recreation scheme. It is a valuable health centre and helps many thousands of our young people, as well as older ones, to spend hours a day under wholesome and safe conditions out of doors. It should also be made an asset for summer activities for the little folks.

Surrounded as it is by valuable residences, it should become a real estate asset. The pond is really nothing but a catch basin for an enormous amount of water from about one-half of Newton. Thousands of cubic yards of mud have been deposited in the pond since it was first constructed. This nuisance has already reached such a height that a large part of the pond is a mud bank cutting down the skating area. It has become an odorous nuisance during the summer. The mud should all be dredged out and used along the banks. Careful plans should be made with the help of the City Engineer and others, to clean up the pond and to build a large catch basin which will take care of the mud which comes down with every rainstorm. This will avoid future large expense for periodical dredging. If such a large catch basin is not constructed, the pond will have to be dredged every few years and the cost of such dredging could easily pay for the cost of all improvements needed. Owing to the fact that large numbers use the ice and accommodations daily, it becomes necessary to build a substantial building for the public convenience. This need is now emphasized by the fact that number of substantial residences have lately been built on the side of the pond where thus far we have only maintained little shanties. A great many objections to our present buildings have been raised in the neighborhood, and these objections should be heeded. The whole project has been studied by the Playground Commission for a number of years, and the Playground Commission has advocated these changes for some time.

Crystal Lake is being used annually by larger crowds for swimming and for skating. The sanitary accommodations for swimming which we have thus far been able to make are very objectionable and endanger the purity of the water. The lack of accommodations for dressing, etc., make it very hard to regulate the crowds and the supervision. We fear accidents from drowning unless we can effect greater control. This can only be done by the City controlling the areas next to the bathing beach. This area should be bought before the price goes up much more and when this is done, a proper bathhouse should be erected.

The development of an up-to-date High School athletic field, for which there is a great demand in the City of Newton, should require careful consideration by every department in the City. It is of the utmost importance that a generous and efficient layout be given to the department of Physical Education of the High Schools, but it is equally important that the whole plan be so developed that it can also be used by the general public when the schools are not using the equipment.

The popularity and constant use of our playgrounds call for more money for care and maintenance. This should be forthcoming. Planting and fencing should also be given systematic attention.

The new land acquired at Newton Highlands should be developed at once in order that that section may have a regulation baseball field.

The new Junior High School and the surrounding grounds should be planned to serve both the School and Recreation Departments.

Our Public Library continues to serve our people and is doing more and more as the years go by to interest young and old in good reading.

Mr. Harold T. Dougherty resigned as Librarian during the year to enter business, and Julius Lucht has come to us from Wichita, Kansas, with a wide experience in library work.

Public spirited citizens in West Newton and Auburndale are already at work planning for local village libraries. Such buildings are needed in every village, and all that is necessary to bring them about is public spirited citizens who are willing to take the lead.

The work of the Board of Health, Planning Board, Charity Department, City Physician and Sealer of Weights and Measures is most important work carried on without attracting much attention, due largely to the fact that what they do is not seen by the general public. The work done by these departments during the past year has been most satisfactory. We have had no serious outbreak of disease and the health work in our schools has attracted attention throughout the entire country. Many cities are modelling their health programme after the one carried on here.

The poor and sick are always among us. Their needs have been cared for wisely but sympathetically. The close co-operation of the Charity Department with other agencies relieving distress prevents duplication of effort and makes possible more effective work.

I commend our Scaler of Weights and Measures, who is also the Registrar of Labor, for voluntarily and, in addition to and outside of his regular work, seeking to find positions for many who have been out of work. This real service has relieved distress in many instances.

The offices of the City Clerk and the City Treasurer, though decidedly crowded, have at all times rendered to the public all necessary service.

The Board of Assessors, the great revenue producing body of any municipality, has done splendid work.

The City Messenger has been faithful to every trust.

I again call to your attention the importance of the immediate taking of the triangular lot bounded by Homer, Walnut Streets and Commonwealth Avenue for civic purposes thus preventing a beautiful boulevard from being disfigured with a business or industrial boulevard.

A park there properly laid out would make an ideal Soldiers

Memorial. The need of a new City Hall, Court House and Central Fire Alarm Station should also be seriously considered. A program should be formulated for the completion of these needed improvements by 1930.

I believe that the Legislature should be petitioned for leave to go outside of the debt limit in reference to the City Hall and Court House and that plans should be made for the filing of that petition in 1927. The taking of the land at Homer Street should not be delayed. It has been suggested that the lot being in the geographical centre of the city and in what will be the centre of population a few years hence would make an ideal spot for the civic buildings. No city in the country has such an admirable site for its public buildings, and yet we must bear in mind that land adjoining our City Hall has been given by public spirited citizens on condition that a new City Hall be built there within 30 years of the date of the deed of conveyance.

Where to locate a new City Hall should be definitely decided. The present quarters have been outgrown, many offices are congested and new and better vaults are needed.

I have thus outlined some of the needs of our city which loom up as we face the future and look ahead.

A microscope is a most helpful instrument for some purposes: for other purposes a telescope is better. In municipal government, there is need for both, and they should be used freely. Let me assure you of my co-operation as you try to meet whatever needs may arise. Together let us go forward and in all that we do endeavor to create a city with a soul.

We are public servants placed here by our fellow citizens. No political party, group or faction elected us. We are servants of all.

We know no race, no creed, no color. All look alike to us. "Equal consideration for all sections of our city" should be our slogan.

All the power we have we hold in trust not for ourselves but for the public good. We succeed as public servants when we measure up to this standard. When we fall short of it, we fail.

Good government has always been demanded in this city, and what the people want, they usually get. What is right in government they appreciate. To hear public expression of this appreciation is always gratifying.

During the past months, there has come from the press a book of more than ordinary interest. It was written by one of our fellow citizens, a man appreciated and respected for ability and public service, recently honored by the bench and bar of Massachusetts at the completion of fifty years of service in the practice of the law, a man accustomed to marshal facts and weigh evidence.

The book is entitled "Portraits of Half a Century" whose author is our own ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers. I commend this book to any who want most interesting reading.

When a man comes to review a long and useful life and tries to record experiences and appraise the things which have contributed to his happiness, as a rule, he doesn't indulge in idle chatter but rather puts in print those things which are indelibly written in his heart. As he looks toward the sunset he usually tells the truth.

The third chapter of the book closes with these words "In 1882, we established our home in Newton, and are now occupying the same house which we took possession of forty-three years ago. During this long period, we have always been surrounded by interesting and kindly neighbors and have had the satisfaction of living in a city as well governed as any in the country."

As I travel around the city meeting all sorts and conditions of men and women and little children, I find that this sentiment is shared by many of our people, by the older residents as well as by that large company of those who have recently come to make their home among us.

No higher tribute could be paid to those who have been privileged all these years to serve the City in the Board of Aldermen, in the School Committee, or as Mayor, and no finer thing could possibly be said of that neighborliness and friendliness which characterizes every village which makes up the City of Newton.

Let us as men and women called by the voters for public service so conduct municipal affairs that they who speak so kindly of past endeavors may not be disappointed in the future.

Let us, then, go forward, meeting the duties of the New Year as they shall come to us, ever realizing that the great force which made our City at the beginning will keep it to the end. We have just repeated the word—"So help me God."

Gentlemen, I am confident that He will help us if we are faithful with Him.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by LEVERETT D. G. BENTLEY

Our idea of the model Newton citizen is the man, who while walking from Watertown to Hunnewell Hill, makes a point to observe all the traffic signs and, irrespective of the fact that he is a pedestrian, circles the bank building and does all the other funny things required of automobile drivers.

The city of Newton, with the aid of the Middlesex & Boston street railway company, is soon to buss itself. (We hope that the compositor does not rebel at this one and light his pipe with the copy.) As far as we have been able to observe from reading what is proposed, the arrangement will merely provide a new form of conveyance on the present long established lines. We must admit that we had hoped that something would be done towards bringing nearer together the larger North side village and the larger South side village. Just what objection there may be to a bus line from Newton to Newton Centre we have not yet been able to learn. We always believed, when first such an abhorrent scheme was suggested, that it would be wrong to place electric car rails on Centre street between Ward 7 and Ward 6. That would have been a mistake and would have caused the ruin of one of the most beautiful thoroughfares in these parts. But to run a bus line over the street does not seem to us something to be dreaded. At present no kind of vehicle is barred and we have the heaviest kinds of trucks moving up and down Centre-street hill. It is not unreasonable, to our mind, to expect a more convenient arrangement for getting from Newton to Newton Centre than exists at present. Here we find that the population of Newton is 52,000 and still we are called upon to go all around Robin Hood's barn to travel a distance that an automobile can cover in a very few minutes. Only one evening recently a good friend of ours, who does not possess a car, was saying how much he would enjoy attending church occasionally in Newton Centre or taking-up in some social affair on the South side. We assume that the people at Newton Centre would like to drop in on their Newton Centre friends more often if some means of public transportation, more attractive than which now exists, were provided. Let it be understood that we are not anxious to see Newton buss-ridden. We have no desire to have busses flying about all over the city. We think it is well that there should be a single transportation company but believe that it should serve the entire city. And that leads us to ask, aren't we just a bit slow and short-sighted in Newton about such matters?

Since we wrote in this column that letters addressed to a Ward 7 resident had been delayed several days or otherwise interrupted in their course through the mails, we have learned a few things we never knew before. The first revelation was that hundreds of people, some of them good Newton citizens, show little thought in addressing mail. In fact, they seem to have a complete disregard of the fact that there has been a tremendous increase in the amount of mail handled in the Newton offices. To our great astonishment it was shown to us that more than one thousand and nearer fifteen hundred improperly addressed letters are received daily at the Newton postoffice. Daily, mark you! That seems incredible doesn't it? It is true, nevertheless. And this in ordinary times. When Christmas and the holiday season arrives the number becomes appalling. We were astounded the other morning when invited to gaze upon a huge pile of letters that bore incorrect or incomplete addresses. When such letters arrive, as they do with every incoming mail and with every street collection, clerks are required to sit down with street directories before them and see what they can do to straighten out the muddle. It appears that people living in distant places feel that if they address a letter or package to a friend in Newton they need only write, "Newton, Mass." regardless of the fact that the person for whom the missive is intended may reside in Chestnut Hill, Lower Falls or Newton Highlands. There are scores of letters received each day with the name of a person and "Newton, Mass." underneath—no street and number. Naturally such a letter is held-up until a clerk has found the right address and forwarded the letter to the station from which it may be properly delivered.

It seems, at least we so judge from a personal inspection, that a great many people write, "Mr. B. Blank, Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, Mass." Any Newton resident will agree that this is a pretty knotty problem for a postoffice clerk in view of the fact that Commonwealth Avenue is served by several stations but not by the station in Newton Centre. We saw a letter marked, "1090 Salem St., Newton, Mass." which we thought was enough to set a clerk or carrier into a high gale of exasperation. Another bore "Malden Street," which clearly is a new one, we must confess. But a favorite custom seems to be to write the name and then merely "Newton, Mass." Either the person thus addressing a letter believes that "everybody knows" the person for whom the letter is intended, or he has an idea that Newton is a small town where the people drop-in for a chat with the postmaster and to get their mail each morning and evening. It is inconceivable to us now that we have had a chance to get a close-up on conditions, that the postoffice clerks in the different stations of our city do as well as they do in figuring-out these haphazard addresses. If fifteen hundred improperly addressed letters come to one of the larger Newton stations in a single day what must be the total for the whole city? And if that is the situation in normal times then how big a task is there around Christmas time? We have never heard that any applicant for a position of postoffice clerk or letter carrier was expected to display clairvoyant powers. But we have about reached the conclusion that the possession of second-sight or psychic skill in some form or other is really necessary.

We happened to have written something about ill-treatment of horses a subject which provides altogether too much material, we regret to say. So we think we ought to tell of a man we saw who fed his horse from a feed-bag near the State House. There was a dog on the seat of the wagon and the way the canine showed his affection for the driver made a group of newspaper men agree, "Well, that man is probably a kind-hearted chap." But greater still was our surprise when we saw the driver remove the feed-bag from the horse and then produce a cloth with which he carefully wiped the horse's jaws and head. Think of it—applying a napkin after a meal to a friend who couldn't do that little thing for himself! It made the sophisticated onlookers want to go out and shake the driver by the hand and tell him it was good to see such an act of consideration if it was a trifle unusual. On top of this, a theatrical man told us that in one of the big plays in which a horse-race was staged, they inadvertently discovered an amazing example of equine intelligence. The horse-race of set produced by the use of treadmills, set flat on the stage. The horses galloped, but of course made no headway. In order to give the appearance of one horse gaining on the other the treadmill which the winning horse occupied was pulled ahead by ropes not visible to the audience. This made it appear as if the animal had been the victor. "We found," said the man who told us the story, "that horses don't like to lose regularly any more than people. We had the same horse winning every night and couldn't understand why the other horses showed so little interest. We found that we were unintentionally developing a yellow streak in all but the winning horse. So, in order to keep the spirits of all the horses up to par we had different ones win from time to time. Then they all seemed to find the race great sport." We know that lovers of horses will not be surprised at this incident and we hope that those who are not especially interested in horses may read it and appreciate what it means.

It seems to us that the new auto registration plates are the most attractive, or perhaps we should say the least ugly of any we recall. We doubt, however, if Registrar Goodwin had any intention of adding to the charm of landscape by this color scheme of blue and white. While the plates remain fresh and clean the sight of them will be far from disagreeable. We would, however, make bold to suggest an extension of this blue and white idea. We rather approve of the owner and occupants of a car dressing to fit the situation. In other words, let there be a sympathy. This could be produced by plenty of blue and white in the apparel of men, women and children. Let hosiery, suits overcoats, hats, neck wear and everything in fact be "auto blue." Let us have snappy styles in "Goodwin blue and white." Let designers throw their imagination into high gear. Let us call them fast colors and keep them going fast. So fast, indeed, that they stop at and for nothing. In other words, let us make 1926 a panorama of blue and white, with plenty of dash and go and no thought of brakes.

Auburndale Woman's Club

A regular meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club was held on Tuesday, January 5, at the Auburndale Club House. There was a very good attendance in spite of a rainy day and a most interesting talk was given by Miss Frances Mayer of Boston, who is connected with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Her subject was the "Modern Cinderella," and she showed, during her talk, pictures and work done by the children that they are interested in. During the last year 13,000 children have been under their care in Massachusetts.

Another interesting feature of the afternoon was music furnished by the Auburndale Woman's Club Chorus consisting of four songs which were rendered with much brilliancy and color.

Tea was also served.

Monday Club of Newton Highlands

"American Artists" is the topic of the Monday Club for their meeting on the afternoon of the 11th. Mrs. L. H. Marshall and Mrs. H. B. Hopkins will present the distinguished geniuses for the delectation of their fellow members, and Mrs. S. L. Eaton will add to the afternoon's happiness by being hostess at her home, 340 Lake avenue.

C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands

"Makers of America" has been the delightful choice of study of the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands for their meetings since the first one in the fall, September 28th, and the last of these great "Makers" is to be taken up for the program of the next meeting also on the 11th of the month.

Washington, Franklin, and Jefferson have been admired, discussed and absorbed into friendly understanding, and now the man Alexander Hamilton, in his life, in fiction, and in his writings, is to be presented for the next two meetings. Mrs. Andrew B. Wright will tell of Hamilton "In Biography and in Fiction."

The burial will be held at the home of Mrs. Isaac Goddard, 154 Lincoln street.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

Mrs. A. D. Batson is opening her home for a meeting of the Travel Class on Monday, January 11th, at 2:30 P. M. Papers are to be given by Mrs. J. D. Starkie and Mrs. Austin S. Kilburn. There will be music and tea will be served.

Possibly there is one striking feature in considering the meetings of our clubs, and that is the wide scope of their plans in programs. Each week this is borne in upon your editor who assembles your material. One might almost speak of your achievement as belonging in a class of "Three B's": Entertainment, Education, and Efficiency, and certainly they seem always accomplished with at least one of the e's—namely ease! From Modern Arts and Affairs to Olden History of America's Famous Makers, and now to Africa, is accomplished in lightening change during a few moments of reading these lines and each has its appointed place in the consideration of our members.

Auburndale Review Club

On January 12th, "Africa in General" is to be brought before club members of the Auburndale Review Club, with Mrs. Susan F. Tuttle presenting its "Early History and Discoveries"; Mrs. George E. Martin its "Portuguese, Dutch and English Discoveries," in the four-hundred year period in 1482 to 1850"; and Mrs. Samuel W. Dike telling of "Living Stone and Stanley." Mrs. Frank F. Davidson is hostess at 59 Woodland road.

Boston Woman's Civics Club

Wednesday, the 13th, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Hotel Brunswick, as usual, the Boston Woman's Civics Club will hold their meeting. The subjects that had been made for a most enjoyable reception to club members by their delightful President, Mrs. May Dickinson Kimball, have had to be postponed, but an interesting program is promised. The subjects in which these club women are informing themselves are always most progressive, as well as entertaining, but the meeting for the 13th seems to have resolved itself into a demonstration of State Federation, celebrated by and topics. Mrs. Kimball herself is widely known throughout her State and almost the entire country for her broad efforts as a State Chairman of Mothercraft and a club woman of great force and level-headedness, so that to see on the program the names of her fellow-State Chairmen, while not surprising, certainly makes one's eyes open wide in anticipation of so much Statestanship, so to speak.

Mrs. John H. Kimball, State Chairman of Education will tell of the work of her department, and special music, as a treat most unusual, is promised under the direction of Mrs. del Castillo, the former State Chairman of Music.

The State Federation, too, is shown again in the special feature of the afternoon, a Legislative Debate between Mrs. Wenona Osbourne Pinkham, Secretary of the Massachusetts Civic League, and Hon. E. Leroy Sweetser, Commissioner of the State Department of Labor and Industries, on the question: "Shall the Veterans' Preference Under Civil Service in Massachusetts Be Made to Correspond with the Federal Law?" Mrs. Pinkham takes the affirmative, and Gen. Sweetser the negative. Since the State Federation has lent itself to furthering the initiative petition sponsored by the Massachusetts Civic League on the veterans' preference, it is evident wherein the State Federation is once more shown in the afternoon's proceedings. Mrs. William E. Birdsall is in charge of this debate, and Mrs. Miner H. A. Evans will be in charge of the Current Events talk of the day, a presentation of live topics that is always immensely enjoyed by all present.

Newton Community Club

OPEN MEETING for the 14th is the announcement of the Newton Community Club, and this will be of great interest to all citizens of Newton, for Rabbi Harry Levi, Rabbi of Temple Israel, Boston, has made a reputation for himself as a speaker of great force and eloquence, as well as convincing, because of his sincerity, and quite evident deep thought upon vital matters. All who were so fortunate as to hear him a little over two years ago when he appeared before the fall meeting of the Newton Federation at West Newton can testify to the fact that an opportunity is being offered by an individual club that is well worth availing. The meeting is for two-thirty o'clock as usual, in the Underwood School Hall.

Rabbi Levi's subject will be "Getting To-gether." The Rabbi was born in Cincinnati, and was educated at the University of Cincinnati, graduating in 1897, and he was ordained in the same year. He has been at the Temple Israel since 1911. This is an outstanding impression that he gives is a splendid outlook upon world conditions and world advancement through understanding and peace, and his messages are especially inspiring.

The club continues its activities in many fields, and not the least of these are the hikes sanctioned and planned by the Public Health Committee. There will be such a hike—a short, easy walk—with Miss Margaret S. Ball as leader, on Tuesday, January 12th. Those who wish to indulge will meet in front of the Post Office at 9:15 A. M. to take the Framingham car leaving the square at 9:30. The walk will be through Quinobeguin road, from Newton Lower Falls, to Hemlock Gorge and Echo Bridge, Newton Upper Falls, and if there is enough snow, snow-shoes will be used.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on January 13th, Mrs. Joe Gervy will read a paper on "Daniel Webster."

Newton Centre Woman's Club

The Club Bridge, an entertaining way of adding to the needed funds of the Newton Centre Woman's Club, takes place on the afternoon of the 11th, in the club house, at two o'clock. The date of this bridge had been given in the Year Book as the 14th, but has been changed to the 11th, owing to the program arranged by the Literature Committee. Mrs. E. Ross Spaulding, Chairman, for the morning of the 11th.

At 10:30 on this latter date Agnes Knox Black is to give her "Symbolic and Spiritual Interpretation of Peleas and Melisande." This reading is invaluable to those expecting to hear the opera when it is given in Boston on February 2nd, and is equally enjoyable for all club members or their friends. Non-members of the club will be admitted to this entertaining program on payment of the fee of fifty cents.

The club also opens an exhibit of Enlightenment, in the Art Room, which opportunities are always eagerly awaited, as so much that is worth-while, beautiful, and talented, is presented to this fortunate club.

Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands

Act III of "Winter's Tale" is to be the subject of the Quiz for the Shakespeare Club at their January 16th meeting, and Mrs. W. J. Bicknell is in charge of the Quiz. Miss Alberta Crombie is the hostess of the morning, and entertains at the home of her friend, Mrs. Hiram Miller, 85 Elm Avenue. An equally enjoyable morning of "introspection" is promised, as was enjoyed on the 2nd.

DEATH OF MR. STUDLEY

Mr. J. Butler Studley, a resident of Newton Highlands for over twenty years, died early Sunday morning at his home on Allerton road, after an illness of four weeks.

Mr. Studley was born in Rockland, Mass., and was 48 years of age. He was graduated at Harvard with high honors in 1899. While a student there he was assistant to President Lowell, who was then a professor of government. He also was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary scholastic fraternity. After receiving his academic degree, he enrolled in the law school, and was on the staff of the Harvard Law Review during his course.

He started the practice of law with Brandeis, Dunbar & Nutter, which firm later became Dunbar, Nutter & McClenen.

Mr. Studley was an active member of the Newton Centre Unitarian Church and a member of the Boston, Massachusetts and American Bar Associations, and had achieved a high reputation as a trial lawyer.

He is survived by his widow and a son, Linnell Studley, a student in the Harvard School of Business Administration.

There was a large attendance at the funeral services held Tuesday afternoon in the Unitarian Church of Newton Centre. The minister of the parish, Rev. George Lawrence Parker, officiated. Edgar J. Smith of Newton Highlands, a friend of Mr. Studley was at the organ, his selections including "Vision" by Rheinberger, "Paradisiun" by Dubois, "Andante" by Rabey and two hymns.

Burial was in the Newton Cemetery. The pallbearers were: Two brothers, Ira Studley of Rochester, N. H. and Horace Studley of Rockland; two partners, E. F. McClenen and George R. Nutter; and two friends, Fred H. Hayward and Frank L. Richardson, both of Newton Highlands.

J. Butler Studley

Those who knew Butler Studley will carry, as they journey on without him, a loving memory. Of attractive physique, with well-knit frame and always the color of youth in his cheeks, it seemed impossible that he should not face death and come off the victor. He had singular ability, the Phi Beta in college, the honor degree in the Harvard Law School, and yet has never marred his powers with conscious display, but was always modest and unaffected. Sound in his learning, sane in his judgment, he walked in the difficult path of the law, with its highest standards always in his sight. He won the esteem of his clients, the devotion of his friends and the respect of his community. He was singularly fond of flowers with all that such fondness implies, and remembered that "God the first garden made," and so planted the seed of his own character that it came up to beautiful fruition. MacMILLAN LECTURE

Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer, spoke Sunday afternoon in the Community Theatre, before 1500 people, on his recent trip to the North. Part of the proceeds was devoted to the fund for relief work being done by Dr. Grenfell in Labrador, and among persons in the audience were Mrs. Grenfell and her mother, Mrs. Thomas Weston, wife of Judge Weston of West Newton, was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

Capt. MacMillan showed eight reels of motion pictures of the Arctic, dealing for the most part with the people of those regions, and he explained the various pictures as they were screened.

Capt. MacMillan told his listeners that he had brought back 770 different kinds of flowers and had found a seam of coal, in which could be seen remains of 30 different kinds of tropical trees. The ice at the pole today, he stated, was 10,000 feet deep, and as yet he has been unable to plumb the depths of the Polar Sea. Capt. MacMillan said he will return to the North next year, in hope of finding a race of people in unexplored regions at the pole. He said he expects to find a purple-blooded Esquimaux race. Stone houses have been found that are believed to be thousands of years old, and somewhere in the thousands of square miles of Iceland he believes are the descendants of these people.

FESTIVAL OF LIGHTS

One of the most beautiful and impressive services of the holiday season is the Festival of Lights as carried out last Sunday evening by the rector and parish of Trinity Church of Newton Centre.

The choir, led by the Three Wise Men, in costume, came into the church (which was lighted only by the star) singing, "We Three Kings of Orient Are." Hymns and carols and a short service, and an address followed.

After the Benediction, the Rector took a light from a large candle on the altar, which symbolizes the Light of the World, and lighted the tapers of the Wise Men. They, in turn, lighted the tapers of the end choristers in the choir stalls, who passed the light along the stalls, each lighting his neighbor's candle. Then the Wise Men went down the centre aisle and lighted the tapers of the persons at the ends of the pews, who turned and lighted the candles of their next neighbors, and so the light was passed along the pews. Each person received a taper, children as well as adults, and each received the light and gave the light.

When everybody had a light the choir marched out, carrying their tapers, and singing an appropriate hymn. The people then carried their lights out into the night—having put on their wraps before the candle lighting began—and strove to protect the flame from the wind, and each endeavored to carry the light as far into the darkness as possible.

FATHER'S AND SON'S NIGHT

Newton Council, K. of C., held a Father's and Son's Night on Tuesday at its quarters in Elks' Hall. Speeches were made by Mayor Childs, Rev. Timothy Curtin of the Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre and William (Dyer) Doyle, the former football star of Boston College. An entertainment was given and a buffet lunch served.

WELFARE WORK IN NEWTON

Discussed at Luncheon of the Newton Central Council Held at Newtonville

The Community Welfare Centre, at 2 Austin street, Newtonville, was the scene of a lively gathering of 50 men and women interested in Newton welfare work, at noon on Monday, January 11. This house is the headquarters for the American Red Cross, the Newton Central Council, the Newton District Nursing Association and the Newton Welfare Bureau, who were present as hosts at one of the monthly conferences on welfare problems, held under the auspices of the Welfare Division of the Newton Central Council.

After a buffet luncheon at which those present had an opportunity to become acquainted with each other, Mrs. Irving O. Palmer called the conference to order, introducing Miss Carolyn A. Butters, the new General Secretary of the Welfare Bureau, who welcomed guests to the house in behalf of all the hostess-organizations.

Mrs. Palmer then introduced an out-of-town speaker, Miss Laura G. Woodberry, Secretary of the Boston Social Service Exchange. Miss Woodberry told how the idea of "exchanging" information about clients had developed first in Boston, among a few of the welfare organizations there, and later spread throughout the country. The exchange is an index which records the organizations which have had contacts with a certain family or individual, and is used by other organizations to find out whom to consult in trying to solve family difficulties. Its real object is service to the client and to the community. One illustration was that of a widow who was ill and needed an expensive form of treatment which she could not afford to take. Through the Exchange information was given as to the societies already interested in the family, and from one of them it was learned that the woman's husband had been a Mason. The necessary financial assistance was obtained through that Order, and treatment was given which would otherwise have been impossible.

Miss Walker, Secretary of the Newton Social Service Exchange, gave facts to show the number of organizations using the Newton Social Service Exchange, which is a department of the Welfare Bureau. The figures even showed that this service could be advantageously used by a much larger number of organizations. There are seven thousand cards in the index of the Newton Exchange. Miss Ross, Superintendent of the District Nursing Association, gave an example of the help which the Newton Exchange had rendered in her work; and Miss Tarplin, the Assistant Secretary of the Welfare Bureau, gave a striking instance of the way in which a family of the floating type had been properly looked out for through consultation with the organizations recorded by the Exchange.

INVALID WOMAN FOUND DEAD

Mrs. Nora O'Connor of 46 Walnut Park, Newton, widow of the late Michael O'Connor, was found dead in her home Thursday afternoon by Sergeant Vedeucio and Officer Dowd. Her husband, who was a well known real estate and insurance broker, dropped dead in City Hall on September 8th, 1924, while attending a meeting of the aldermen to advocate the granting of a permit to a restaurant in which he was interested. About a year ago, Mrs. O'Connor suffered a severe shock and had since been confined to her home.

Officer Dow, who patrols Walnut Park, had noticed that for a number of days, a light had been burning day and night in the O'Connor house, so yesterday afternoon he notified Sergeant Vedeucio and they went to the house, accompanied by two daughters of the woman, one 18 years of age and the other 14. Mrs. O'Connor was discovered in her bed, dead. Medical Examiner West was notified and stated that the woman had been dead at least a couple of days. The older girl told the officers she had visited the house two days before.

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

The Rotary Club observed Good Roads week by having as its guest and speaker at its weekly luncheon last Monday at the Woodland Golf Club, Street Commissioner George E. Stuart. With a record of 48 years in the street department of the city, no one has a wider knowledge of its affairs than Mr. Stuart. He gave a brief account of the activities of his department, which covers 155 miles of public streets and 82 miles of private streets. Thirty six hundred permits are issued to public service corporations to dig up the streets, but Mr. Stuart believed they did a good job in replacing the surface. Mr. Stuart said that permanent pavement, such as that laid opposite City Hall, costs over $4 a square yard as compared with a cost of $1.80 per square yard for the kind of surface the department is now laying. Mr. Stuart stressed the importance of a large appropriation for the maintenance of streets.

OBSERVES TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Central Church of Newtonville Addressed by Two Former Pastors, Rev. Dr. Stocking and Rev. Mr. Muste

The Central Club held on last Sunday and Monday an enthusiastic observance of the twentieth anniversary of their organization. On Sunday morning the men of the club marched in to church together and occupied the front pews, there being 80 who were thus seated together. A chorus of 30 voices from the club sang several anthems effectively. Rev. Dr. A. M. Ellis preached an appropriate sermon.

The club gathered Monday evening in the church dining room and held a celebration notable for its enthusiasm and good fellowship. An appetizing dinner was served by the ladies. When the first courses had been cleared away, the lights were turned down and a procession of 20 of the waitresses marched around and among the tables, each one of them carrying a frosted cake lighted by a candle. Original songs were sung to the tune of "Old Oaken Bucket" and "Pack Up Your Troubles." Dr. Harold W. Shedd was pianist. An intermission followed with singing of popular songs.

After the tables had been removed the president, Mr. A. H. Burdick, called the gathering to order and spoke appropriately for a few minutes on the many achievements of the club in the years that had passed. Dr. Percy G. Stiles, secretary, gave a history of the club compiled from its records. He congratulated the organization on its present prosperity and large membership, and its success in attracting the younger men. Dr. Ellis spoke briefly with the grace and humorous touch that is characteristic of him. A telegram of congratulation was read from Dr. M. H. Lichliter of Columbus, Ohio, recently pastor of the church.

The two principal speakers of the occasion were two former pastors, Rev. Dr. T. Stocking, and Rev. Dr. A. J. Muste. Dr. Muste was the minister at the time the club held its 10th anniversary. He expressed his warm appreciation of the opportunity thus given him to address the men of the church, and referred humorously to the experiences of his pastorate here. He paid a hearty tribute to the men who had enlisted and served in the war, and expressed warm regard for the club and the church and for the rewarding friendships he had made while here. He went on to say a few words as to the three forces which he felt would be most influential in shaping social development in the coming years. These he said were the church, science, and the labor movement. The recent controversy over evolution, he remarked, represented the effort to accomplish some better adjustment between the church and science. He spoke of the great power which the labor movement had gained, and he felt that it needed the spiritual influence of the church, or it might express itself through destructive channels.

Dr. Stocking gave a talk which was full of humorous suggestion and bright anecdote and pleasant reminiscence. He went on to remark that for many years the men had passed over to the women the duty of attending to their religious interests. He thought this was not right, and was a condition that did not exist in the early church. In addressing the students of the men's colleges, he had found them responsive on questions of religion. He said that he had given much attention in his recent preaching to the subject of individual development. He felt that the tendency of the times was rather against the individual. Evolution did not seem to leave much hope for the individual. He seemed to be largely ignored in modern business and the labor movement. He felt that this was contrary to the spirit of Christ, who emphasized the value of the individual person. The parable of the ninety and nine brought out the idea that the shepherd sought very carefully after the one individual who had gone astray, while the modern sheep raiser would think very little of the individual sheep, but would consider the welfare of the flock as a whole. He noted that the book sellers are having a marked demand for works of biography, showing that the people feel the need of the inspiration which is derived from the study of the careers of individual people. He spoke of two colleges that had responded to this interest by establishing chairs on biography. He referred to the historical authority who felt that the development of the world could be divided into about 10 epochs, each one of which had been largely influenced by the power of one man. The ten men who he thought had exercised this moulding power were Socrates, Alexander, Caesar, Paul, Luther, Bacon, Rousseau, Washington, Lincoln, and Woodrow Wilson. Dr. Stocking did not think that he would place Mr. Wilson among the first ten, but he did feel that the inspiration of individual personality was a principal force in shaping human progress.

Dr. Stocking eulogized the work of the Central club during the past years, and felt that the social influence which it created was an important force in the development of the community. Dr. Stocking was the founder of the club, and he expressed the hope that 20 years from now he might have the pleasure of attending its 40th anniversary observance.

Mr. Charles H. Clark, Treasurer of the Newton Savings Bank, gave a very interesting talk on "Thrift" at the Fellowship Club last Monday evening. There was a large attendance and many questions asked Mr. Clark after he finished his talk. This subject was especially appropriate as the week January 17th to 23rd has been set aside as Thrift Week. The speaker next Monday will be Dr. L. R. Daniels of the Hood Rubber Company. His subject will be, "A Modern Industrial Health Program."

The four teams which were tied for first place in the candle pin tournament just closed will roll off for first place and second place on Thursday, January 21st.

It may not be generally known that the celebration of Thrift Week which is now observed closely throughout the country was first proposed by the Young Men's Christian Association. New many organizations are joining with them in the celebration of this week. Sunday, January 17th has been set aside as Share With Others Day, Monday is Thrift Day, Tuesday is Budget Day, Wednesday is Life Insurance Day, Thursday is Home Ownership Day, Friday is Safe Investment Day, and Saturday is Pay Your Bills Promptly Day. It will be of benefit to those who are not in the habit of keeping their financial affairs in good shape to consider the matter of Thrift and the Proper Adjustment of Budgets.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

NEWTON SWIMMERS WIN

In the opening swimming meet of the season the Newton high mermen routed Cambridge Latin, 54½ to 16½, in the Newton Y. M. C. A. tank Tuesday afternoon. The local swimmers captured first place in all the events. Captain Osborne of Newton was the high point scorer taking first in the 100 and 200 yard swims and swimming anchor on the winning relay.

The orange and black started right off by taking the relay by a margin of the length of the pool, each man gaining about five yards. Green, the veteran diver, took first place in the dive. His front somersault and a half was a beauty and he cut the water clean.

Osborne and Stein had little difficulty capturing first and second places in the 200-yard swim and Essen and Serkin had a safe margin over Vincent in the 100-yard breast stroke. It was a close race between the two Newton boys in this race, but Essen touched the end of the tank a scant fraction of a second ahead of his team-mate. This was the best race of the afternoon.

Hammond easily won the plunge with a distance of 56 feet. Kimball of Cambridge was second with 49 feet. Brooks of the Cantab team annexed a tie with Essen by making 43 feet on his second plunge.

In the back stroke Wakefield won out over Daly of Cambridge by several yards. "Bud" Perry, brother of Phil Perry, last year's Newton captain, took third.

Lloyd Osborne won the 100-yard in the fast time of 1:03 3/5, but was closely pressed by Merrill, his teammate. Goldenberg of Cambridge was third.

40-Yard Breast Stroke—Won by Essen, Newton; Sircom, Newton, second; Daly, Cambridge Latin, third. No time taken.

40-Yard Swim, Free Style—Won by Lodge, Newton; Daly, Cambridge Latin, second; Greeney, Newton, third. Time 21 4/5.

40-Yard Back Stroke—Won by Wakefield, Newton; Goldberg, Cambridge Latin, second; Perry, Newton, third. Time, 30s.

100-Yard Free Style—Won by Osborne, Newton; Merrill, Newton, second; Barber, Cambridge Latin, third. Time, 1m. 3s.

200-Yard Free Style—Won by Osborne, Newton; Stein, Newton, second; Barber, Cambridge Latin, third. Time, 2m. 34s.

Diving—Won by Green, Newton; tie for second place between Hoff, Cambridge Latin, and Essen, Newton.

Plunge for Distance—Won by Hammond, Newton, 56 ft.; Hansen, Cambridge Latin, second, distance, 50 ft.; Essen, Newton, third, distance, 48 ft.

Relay Race, 150 Yards—Won by Newton (Serken, Merrill, Lodge, Osborne).

NEWTON "Y" WINN CLOSE GAME

Newton Y. M. C. A. first and second basketball teams have each added another victory to its schedule by defeating the strong Alpha Pi Club teams of Belmont, the first team winning a fast game 42-40, while the second team won easily 20 to 11. The Alpha Pi Club has met and defeated several of the Y. M. C. A. teams of eastern Massachusetts this season, including Boston "Y."

MacGillivray led Newton "Y" in points scored with 7 from the floor and five from fouls, making a total of nineteen points. When Brimblecom at center, and Vuilleumier right guard were removed from the game on four personal fouls, Hardy and McIntire of the second team were put in their places and showed up as good prospective material for the firsts.

Of the seven games so far this season the Newton "Y" firsts have won three and lost four, while the seconds have won five and lost two.

ALUMNI TO HAVE STRONG TEAM

The alumni of the Newton high school will place a strong team on the track tonight at the high school gym in an endeavor to duplicate the feat of the alumni hockey sextet by handing the schoolboys a defeat. Manager Warren Adams of the high school team has lined up many of the stars of recent years and the meet should furnish good competition and experience for the school team. A partial list of probable competitors for the graduates includes the following:

Shinburt, Owen, Macomber, Hardy, and Dewing.

Broad Jump: Pierce, Hardy and Ellis.

High Jump: Pierce and Thompson.

25-yard dash: Mercer, Fay, Ryall, Pierce and Miller.

30-yard low hurdles: Mercer, Hardy, Thompson, Henrich, and Gallagher.

30-yard high hurdles: Thompson, Henrich, and Gallagher.

300-yard run: Fay, Miller, and McQuiston.

600-yard run: Duane, Mercer, and Carr.

1000-yard run: Clausen, Cronin, Ryall, Saunders, Chambers, and De-fazio.

Relay: Mercer, Ryall, Duane, Fay.

WRESTLING AT NEWTON Y

The Newton Y. M. C. A. wrestling squad is fast rounding in shape for the Two-State Y. M. C. A. meet at Cambridge, on January 30th. This group has been meeting weekly for practice, under the direction of Gus Carlson and Barrows Whittemore. During the last two practices the squad has been receiving special instruction from Dr. Sims of the Boston Y. M. C. A. Entries from the Newton "Y" will probably be Joseph Santillo 118 lb. class, Francis Cassidy and George Vachon 126 lb. class, Barrows Whittemore and Henry Vachon 135 lb. class, Joseph Arsenault 147 lb. class, John Beck, Frank Creed, and Joe Vachon 160 lb. class, and Gus Carlson and Adolph Scott 175 lb. class.

This meet is an annual affair among the Y. M. C. A. of Massachusetts and Rhode Island. In 1924, when the meet was held at Cambridge, it was won by Holyoke, and last year, at Holyoke, the meet was won by Cambridge.

STONEHAM SPRINGS SURPRISE

In an interscholastic league hockey game at Bullough's Pond Monday afternoon Stoneham high felled league followers considerably by defeating Newton high 2-0. The ice was in wretched condition and Captain Guy Holbrook was given little opportunity to break lose. He was covered closely by Captain Ramsdell of Stoneham.

Holbrook, Stoneham left wing, scored both goals. In the second period he caged a pretty shot from the left boards on a fast drive and in the last period he drove the disc nearly the length of the ice into the Newton goal. Hunt, goal tend for the visitors, saved his team many a goal, especially in the first period when his stops were remarkable.

The summary:

STONEHAM

Ramsdell, c. C. Holbrook

Coogan, rw. lw. Powers,

Fletcher, ld. rd. J. Proctor

De Mello, rd. W. Proctor

Hunt, g. g. White, Thompson

The annual inter-class track meet of the high school was held last Saturday night, the juniors coming out on top with 43 points. The seniors were a close second with 38 points and the sophomores were third with 8 points. The freshmen were shut out.

The most thrilling event of the evening was the 300-yard run in which Fullerton and Buswell breasted the tape together. Fullerton was the star for the juniors with 13 points. He won the 25-yard hurdles, and the high jump, tied for first in the 300-yard run and tied for second in the broad jump. Buswell was the high scorer for the seniors.

The juniors cleaned up in the 1000-yard run and the seniors took all three places in the 25-yard dash and the shotput.

The summary:

25-yard dash—Won by Moore, S.; second, Buswell, S.; third, Collyner, S. Time—31.5s.

BOYS' ATHLETIC CONTEST

The first event, the 50-yard dash, of the Boys' 1000 Point Athletic Contest of the Y. M. C. A. of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, has been run off in the boys' classes of the Newton Y. M. C. A. The contest will last ten weeks with one event a week, in which the competitors must win 500 points or more of a possible 1000 points, in order to earn the Newton "Y" Association athletic emblem. The event for this week is the five potato race, and for next week the 18 lb. shot put.

The following are the best ten records in the 50 yard dash:

Class A—under 110 lbs.—J. Cooney, 6 3/5 seconds; W. O'Connor, 6 3/5 seconds; W. Floring, 6 4/5 seconds; C. Kittredge, 6 4/5 seconds; F. Lane, 6 4/5 seconds; H. Woods, 6 4/5 seconds; E. Clark, 7 seconds; D. Plouff, 7 1/5 seconds; W. Woodard, 7 1/5 seconds; L. Cousins, 7 1/5 seconds.

Class B—110 lbs and over—J. Spalding, 6 4/5 seconds; G. Moonjy, 6 4/5 seconds; R. O'Connor, 7 1/5 seconds; H. Hillson, 7 1/5 seconds; J. Graham, 7 1/5 seconds; H. Stoney, 7 1/5 seconds; W. Pearce, 7 1/5 seconds; R. Hunt, 7 1/5 seconds; F. Becker, 7 1/5 seconds; A. Kander, 7 1/5 seconds.

B. A. A. NOSES OUT WABAN

Wednesday night in the final match of the bottlepin tournament of the Newton league B. A. A. by virtue of its win over Cochato, nosed out the Waban Neighborhood club which cleaned up in its match with Commercial, by two points in the final standing. It was one of the keenest battles ever waged for the league title.

Fighting off the threatening advances by Waban, Commercial and Middlesex, all of which had a chance to come through and gain the honors, the B. A. A. team took two of the three matches with Cochato and stayed off defeat. Waban grabbed second place away from Commercial, which finished a single point behind the local club and a point ahead of Middlesex, in fourth place.

The second division teams did not change their standing and finished in the following order: Cochato, fifth; Hunnewell, sixth; Maugus, seventh, and Newton club eighth.

SPORT NOTES

With fifteen sporting events of all kinds on the calendar between now and the end of next week sports fans have plenty of chance to take in the sport they are most interested in. Track, swimming, hockey, basketball, and bowling all have their place in the sport world during the winter season, the busiest of them all.

In an Eastern Amateur league hockey game in New York Sunday night the B. A. A. suffered its first defeat when it came out on the short end of a 3-2 score with the Knickerbocker team. It took an overtime period to decide the game. Joe Stubbs and Fynan of the New York team were both knocked out when they crashed together just as the latter shot the winning goal. George Owen made some remarkable drives for the Boston team.

Tomorrow night there will be a big pin roll-off at the Hunnewell Club. The two men on each team in the Newton league having the highest averages are the qualifiers.

The Massachusetts Golf Association committees for 1926 have been named by President Gardiner. Several Newton men have been chosen as committee chairmen. Alfred D. Locke of the Brae-Burn club is chairman of the advisory committee; S. Harold Greene of the Charles River Country Club, chairman of the tournament committee; William F. Garcelon of the Commonwealth Country Club, chairman of the state team committee; William S. Carleton of Brae-Burn, chairman of the caddie committee.

In the Massachusetts Squash Racquets association tournament Newton Centre went into the lead in Class B by defeating Lincoln's Inn Society last Saturday, 4 to 1. In Class C Newton Centre is in third place and the Newton Club in ninth place. In this class Newton Centre shut out Lincoln's Inn 5-0 and the Newton Club lost to the Harvard freshman 2-2.

Paul Watson of the Harvard club won the Middlesex Bowl tournament conducted by the Newton Centre Squash Tennis Club last Saturday by defeating Arthur Holt of the Newton Centre club 3-1. All the games were hard fought, the fourth and deciding game going to Watson 18-17.

The B. A. A. defeated Pere Marquette last Friday night 6-1 in an Amateur league hockey game. George Owen and his running mate, Joe Stubbs, played their positions in rare style and were tremendous threats when they teamed up for an attack down the ice. Owen packed his usual cannon ball shot and caged two of his team's goals. Clark Hodder was also in the B. A. A. lineup while Roland O'Donnell, the former Newton high star, played for the "Caseys."

The Newton Y basketball team played its best game of the season Monday night nosing out the Alpha Pi club of Belmont 42-40 on the Belmont floor. The game was undecided until the final period when the Newton team caged two baskets to even up the count. From then on the Belmont team would go ahead, Newton would even it up again and just before the whistle blew the local team went into the lead. The playing of Phil Hardy at center in the final period enabled the Newton team to pull through.

Tomorrow night the Newton Y basketball team travels to Worcester to meet the Worcester Y in a Two-state league game. The Worcester team recently defeated Quincy, which trimmed the local Y last week, on the Worcester court. The local quintet, therefore, has another stiff opponent to face.

The Belmont team, coached by Edgar Burkhardt, former Newton high and B. A. A. star, sprung a surprise by holding Arlington to a tie in its opening league game. Coach Burkhardt had done exceptionally good work with the material at Belmont.

While Captain Guy Holbrook's 1926 hockey team got off to a flying start in the interscholastic league by defeating Brookline last week Stoneham high sprung a surprise Monday and nosed out a 2-0 win. The playing of Hunt at goal for the visitors prevented the orange and black from scoring, as many of his stops were remarkable.

Wallace Fullerton, of the high school track team was of the leading scorer in the interclass meet last week. This lad looks good for a successful year on the boards, as he is one of the best in school in the dash and three-hundred. His activities are not confined to these two events, however, as he has displayed considerable ability in the high and broad jumps and in the hurdles. Last year he grabbed a tie in the hurdles in the State meet and this year is conceded more than an even chance to win the event.

The high school hockey team will be without the service of Frankie Spain for a few weeks. The little forward will, however, be ready to play again near the middle of next month and his presence will no doubt add to the secondary strength of Captain Guy Holbrook's sextet.

Tonight local fans have an opportunity of witnessing a college swimming meet in the Newton Y. M. C. A. pool. Boston University will meet Syracuse.

The annual alumni track meet will take place this evening in the high school gym. The schoolboys will get a real test when they compete against the graduates who will have several of the star track men of recent years. Among the alumni who will compete are Mercer, Fay, Ryall, Pierce, Gallagher, and Henrich.

Newton high school has entered a relay team in the B. A. A. scholastic games which will be held at Mechan-

The Newton Pals basketball team journeys to Charlestown Tuesday evening to play the Colonials at the Charlestown high school gym.

The lineups of the Dartmouth and Harvard alumni teams which met last night in a hockey game at the arena read almost like the former Newton high alumni teams. For Harvard, George Owen, Joe Stubbs, Willard Rice, and Clark Hodder were the local players while Dartmouth had Ted Larnard at goal and Stan Lyons in the forward line.

Allen-Chalmers basketball team lost a close game to Wellesley high school Wednesday afternoon at the Wellesley gym. The score was 30-27. Wellesley lead from the beginning of the game and the local private school lads could not quite catch up to them. Nute at center and Geldert at left forward starred for the Allen school.

The Newton Pals hockey team will face the Suburban Club of Cambridge in a New England league game Sunday afternoon at Bullough's pond.

COMMONWEALTH COUNTRY CLUB

On Wednesday evening, January 20th, Mrs. Albion M. Boothby of Newton and Mrs. Frank C. Shepherd of Chestnut Hill will be the hostesses at an auction bridge party. More than one hundred seventy-five members and guests enjoyed the Copley-Plaza Concert Ensemble which gave a concert last Sunday afternoon, at the club house from 4 to 6.

HART-BAIRD

ONE OF THE NEW BUSES ON CROSS TOWN LINE

The New buses to be operated by the Middlesex & Boston are well constructed and possess a number of features to provide comfort and safety for the passengers riding in them. The seats are large and well upholstered, the hand straps have sanitary enamel grips and the floor is covered with heavy linoleum which in addition to cleanliness will prevent any fumes working into the buses from the motor. Ample illumination is afforded by eight dome lights and five ventilators will keep the air pure in the vehicles.

The rear windows contain shatter-proof glass, this being an extra feature specified by Manager Hanson of the M. & B. to obviate the necessity of having protective rods on the rear windows, as such rods would impede the view of passengers. Rods have been placed outside the side windows of the buses to prevent juvenile passengers from sticking their heads out of the windows. The management of the M. & B. is sincere in its efforts to provide satisfactory conveyances for its patrons and if the general public could realize the fact that the company is endeavoring to do its utmost in the face of the very adverse conditions confronting it in recent years, perhaps much of the unfair criticism against the road would cease.

WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

Mrs. W. F. Warner and Mrs. Samuel Thurber were the hostesses at the annual meeting held on January 6. Under the leadership of Mrs. Lester B. Hunter the luncheon was attractively served, and the occasion was a delightful one. "Home Day," it was called as Dr. Ellis was the speaker and he had hopes of getting some useful article. But his homes were rudely dashed when upon opening the parcel he discovered that he had obtained a combing jacket. Not only was this garment rather effeminate for a sturdy policeman, but its recipient is as bald as a bat.

As workmen were building a new house at Cedar street, Newton Centre, a few months ago, they came upon a two-inch water pipe in the ground. As the house was being erected in a newly developed neighborhood, curiosity was aroused as to how the pipe happened to be there. Investigation revealed that it had furnished water to the locker building of the old Cedar Street athletic grounds. This athletic field was constructed about 35 years ago by "Ned" Bowen, Allan Hubbard and other Newton Centre young men who had been prominent college athletes. They had the co-operation of Arthur C. Walworth and other residents of Newton Centre and the field was built and maintained without any aid from the city.

Yale, Dartmouth and other colleges played many games on the old field. The contests between Newton, Hyde Park and the Boston A. A. brought thrills to thousands. The Newton club for years supported a baseball nine that would have given keen competition to any major league club. Its pitchers, Ed Dowd and Andy Highlands were sought by many of the big league clubs, but they did not do it. "Red Grange," the famous Ned Bowen and the famous Hubbard and other Newton Centre young men who made personal sacrifices to establish athletics in this city deserve to be remembered and thanked by the boys and girls of the present day.

Douglas Furbush of Davis avenue is making rapid progress in his new field of endeavor. He has abandoned the automobile business for the "movies." For the past year "Doug" played minor parts in comedies filmed by Boston producers, but now he is the principal in a number of films to be shown soon. He also has broken into vaudeville and has some desirable contracts ready for his signature any time he wishes to accept them. "Doug's" friends hope that the time is not far distant when he will see his name blazoned along the Rio.

Mayor Childs paid a deserved compliment to Andy Prior, Sealer of Weights and Measures, when at the inaugural he told of Andy's efforts to obtain jobs for men out of work. If you need a man for almost any kind of work, see Andy. The chances are that he will be able to supply your need.

Ex-Aldermen White, Parker, Walton, Lloyd and Crosby deserved the praise bestowed upon them by President Pratt of the new board. Whether or not they agree with Mr. White's political views or not, one must admit that they rendered very valuable service during the past four years to the city. Mr. Parker's efforts to properly zone the city have already borne considerable fruit and as the years go by, the wisdom of this zoning will become more evident. Mr. Walton displayed a devotion to duty, independence of action and desire for fairness equalled by few who have served in the Board. Mr. Lloyd gave his time most generously while serving on the License Committee and Mr. Crosby was faithful in attending nearly all meetings. Too few Newton citizens realize or appreciate the time and energy contributed by those serving on the aldermanic body.

John Temperly of the "Town Crier" is more opposed to cigarettes than Mrs. John B. Robinson. If John had his way, no cigarettes would be permitted at the press table in the aldermanic chamber at City Hall. The dean of Newton's newspaper men claim that the "coffin nall" do not smell as sweet as new mown hay. So Mr. Temperly was pleased at the last aldermanic meeting when John Barry of the "Globe" started to smoke cigars rather than "fags." Asked why he had made the change, Barry explained that he had received a few gifts of cigars from some persons for whom he had done favors. John Temperly remarked "that he hoped all of the

The Boston & Albany railroad has filed a petition with the Legislature seeking to exchange land with the Metropolitan District Commission. At present the tracks of the Lower Falls Branch run on the northerly side of the Charles River at Newton Lower Falls. The railroad company desires to relocate the tracks on the southerly side of the river and to do so wants to exchange 172,000 square feet of its land for an equal amount owned by the state.

One public improvement that has been badly needed for many years is a convenience station at Newton Corner. Thousands of persons pass through Nonantum Square daily and many of them have been inconvenienced from sticking their heads out of the windows. The management of the M. & B. is sincere in its efforts to provide satisfactory conveyances for its patrons and if the general public could realize the fact that the company is endeavoring to do its utmost in the face of the very adverse conditions confronting it in recent years, perhaps much of the unfair criticism against the road would cease.

A well-known member of the police department attended a Christmas party conducted by an organization of which he is a member just before that holiday. The gift he drew from the tree was wrapped up in a good size parcel and he had hopes of getting some useful article. But his homes were rudely dashed when upon opening the parcel he discovered that he had obtained a combing jacket. Not only was this garment rather effeminate for a sturdy policeman, but its recipient is as bald as a bat.

Some storekeepers and some householders in this town should be more careful of the manner in which they prepare the waste paper from the premises for collection by the employees of the street department. At this time of the year high winds are frequent and it is getting to be a common sight to see the streets and yards littered with old paper. It would entail no expense and very little effort, to tamp waste paper solidly into the receptacles in which it is placed for collection by the city teams, and to put a weight of some kind on top of it, to prevent this rubbish from being blown all about surrounding neighborhoods.

In the days prior to the big mistake of 1914, when Kultur prevailed in Germany, the all-powerful government of that land had many laws regulating the conduct of its inhabitants. And these laws were rigidly enforced. Persons residing in Der Vaterland were "verboten" to do this and "verboten" to do that. Much ridicule was heaped on the former subjects of William Hohenzollern because of these statutes, but there are many in this country who maintain that on the whole these "verboten" regulations were very desirable.

We perhaps have as many "verboten" laws as Germany had. But most of these are not enforced. One such law forbids spitting on public sidewalks, in public buildings, or in public conveyances. There is a growing disregard for this law. One lady in this city asserts that she finds it necessary to wear rubbers whenever she goes out of an evening because of the filthy condition of our sidewalks. It is difficult to apprehend those persons, who because of lack of proper training, exorcise on sidewalks and on the floors of buildings and conveyances. But if any of our policemen do detect such offenders, they should arrest them. And if any citizen detects these menaces to public health, he or she should report them to a policeman, if an officer is in the vicinity.

ASKS FOR FILLING STATION

Among the petitions received by the aldermen at the last meeting was one from Henry C. Bourne asking for a permit to establish a gasoline filling station at the south-west corner of Beacon and Walnut streets, Newton Highlands.

The land at this corner was included in a general residence district until December 21st. On that evening the aldermen, at the request of J. Weston Allen, changed this land into a business zone, and the way having been paved, the application for a filling station followed. Just across the street, on the north-east corner of Beacon and Walnut streets, is a very attractive filling station that has been in existence for a couple of years. It is run by the Jenney Company.

At a recent meeting of the aldermen a motion introduced by Alderman Lloyd and favored by Alderman Parker was passed. This motion would stop the granting of any new permits for gasoline filling stations within a half mile of an existing station. As there is a filling station, directly across the street from the locus sought, and another filling station on the same side of Beacon street about an eighth of a mile distant, it will be very interesting to see whether or not the aldermen will respect the action they took some weeks ago when they passed the restricting order pertaining to gasoline stations, or whether they will ignore it. There will be a hearing on this matter on January 18th.

On January 18 a hearing will be held on the petition of Fred W. Webster and others to have about 500 feet of Washington street near Waban avenue changed from a residential to a business district.

REAL ESTATE

Henry W. Savage, Inc., reports the sale of the 2-family frame house at 281-283 Lowell avenue, Newtonville, consisting of 5 and 6 rooms, and 2-land in the lot, assessed for $1700, car garage. There are 9501 feet of Edith R. Dunton conveyed to Marjorie M. Vaughan of Waltham. The total assessed value is $12,000, but the price paid was greatly in excess of this

ARTICLE No. 13

In a preceding article it was suggested that a good way to improve one's game was to put the expert "under the lens" at every opportunity and carefully examine and analyze his methods of bidding and play. The following hand is a fine example of how the expert handled a difficult but not unusual situation. It was rubber game and YZ were no score and AB were 2 down and 1 down. The expert, gave YZ just that much better chance to save game. If B passed, Z also would undoubtedly pass and A would be bluffed from further bidding. It was a bold bid and well thought out. B happened to have a good hand, however, so bid three hearts and all passed. The hands of all four players are as follows:

Hearts—10, 9, 6, 2
Clubs—8, 6, 3
Diamonds—K, 7
Spades—10, 8, 4, 3

It was a hand with which practically every player could otherwise, would have passed with the thought, "Well, here goes game and rubber," but not so

Hearts—K, 7, 4
Clubs—Q, J, 7
Diamonds—A, 8, 2
Spades—K, J, 9, 2

Hearts—A, 5
Clubs—5, 4, 2
Diamonds—Q, J, 10, 5, 3
Spades—A, Q, 7

In the play of the hand, Z opened the queen of diamonds and he and his partner made five tricks, two hearts, two diamonds and one spade trick. On the next hand, YZ made game and rubber so Y's courage and daring received a proper reward.

The expert is continually striving to improve his game. One of the best ways to accomplish this result is by eliminating chance whenever possible. In the old days if your partner bid one no-trump and you had good support, you

Diamonds—7
Spades—A, J, 9, 5

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no-trump and A passed. Under the old system Y would have passed and let Z play the hand at no-trump. A would have opened his queen of diamonds and Z would have made but two winter reports on earth or its permanent industrial, agricultural and horticultural stability, than a boom engineered by market manipulators in the stock market where the public are fleeced out of millions, has to do with the business stability of New York, Boston or Chicago. Because a set of swindlers lay out worthless subdivisions, and by establishing offices all over the country misled people because of the general awakening of the people to the truth about Florida, is no more a reason why there should be criticism of Florida as a State and its clean institutions placed critically in the eyes of the public, than for New York, Boston or Chicago to receive a blanket condemnation because of the swindlers who operate from there, and this applies to every State and every City in the United States.

Newton Master Painters' Association

AN OPEN LETTER TO PROPERTY OWNERS

At this time every year the painting industry is confronted with an acute economic situation. Age old traditions and customs seem to withhold the placing of contracts for any kind of painting, making it difficult for established firms to maintain a year round organization.

With the coming of the holiday season, the condition becomes acute. After much discussion, the Newton Master Painter's Association proposes to avert the annual upset in the industry by issuing this statement. We ask you to consider, for our mutual benefit, that

NOW IS THE TIME FOR INTERIOR DECORATING

In order to keep our organization intact, it is necessary to operate throughout the winter. We are fortunate in having honest, experienced workmen. To avoid the waste and uncertainty of gathering new groups of workmen in the spring we must afford our present reliable men continuous employment.

Interior decorating may be done now to good advantage. Those who are going away for a month or two may arrange to have the work done during their absence. This method has served very satisfactorily in the past. A continuance of this service is possible only by keeping our dependable workmen employed on a permanent basis. Any of the members listed below will be pleased to serve you now.

BURRISON-HATCH

A beautiful and impressive wedding ceremony took place in the Fairfield, Maine, Baptist church Saturday evening, Dec. 28th, at 8 o'clock, when Katharine Hatch, daughter of Mrs. Hugh Ross Hatch, was united in marriage to Ralph Lothrop Burrison of West Newton, Mass. Upon the platform and in front of the church were evergreens and lighted candles, which gave a wonderful setting to the service. The church was filled to its capacity by friends of the family who were shown to their seats by four ushers, Vera Day, Lucille McLaughlin, Ruth McLellan and Ruth Daggett, who in their gayly colored gowns gave an attractive bit of brightness to the decorations of the church. Just before the entrance of the bride procession, Corona Hatch, sister of the bride, sang "O Promise Me," by Reginald De Koven at the close of which, to the strains of Lohengrin wedding march played by the church organist, Warren Swett, the bride party led by the four ushers, entered the church. Following them was Rev. Mr. Henderson, the flower girl, Katherine Rollins, the little ring bearer, Ruth Henderson and the bride couple. The single ring service was used.

The bride was charmingly gowned in georgette crepe and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. The dainty flower girl was in orchid crepe de chene and carried a basket of sweet egyptian and pink roses. The little ring bearer was dressed in white and carried the ring on a white satin cushion.

The bride is a graduate of Colby college and was doing secretarial work in the chemists' employment bureau in New York City just before her marriage.

She is the daughter of the late Hugh Ross Hatch, who was professor of mathematics in Colby college.

The groom who is in business in New York City is the son of the late Prof. Burrison, for over 30 years professor of mathematics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The bride received many beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Burrison left on the Pullman for their home in New York and are followed by the best wishes of their many friends.

RED CROSS

The following letter has been received by the Newton Chapter of the Red Cross from Headquarters Company, 19th Infantry Brigade, Camp at Gatun, Canal Zone.

December 25th, 1925.

Dear Friends,
I received one of your Christmas gifts which I distributed among the men in the United States Army, and I cannot say how much I appreciated it. It is wonderful to know that someone in our homeland thinks of the soldier in time of peace, and it is a great help down here in the Tropics, where there are very few English speaking races, to know that someone thinks as much of you as if you were at home.

There were about five hundred men in this post who received bags today and I am very sorry that some member of your organization was not here to see how happy they were after the bags were opened. I believe if it wasn't for looking at the childish half of them would have cried with joy receiving a Christmas present from someone they did not know.

Will now close wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and thanking you many many times for your gift.

Yours Very Truly,

Last year Newton has 5,919 Red Cross members; this year only 4,556. Subscriptions to membership in the Red Cross are acceptable at any time. If you have missed the opportunity to join this year you are urged to send your membership fee of one dollar to the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, 12 Austin street, Newtonville, Mass.

THE CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

"The Christmas Seal Sale" in Newton for 1925 has gone well "over the top." The success of the sale is due not only to the untiring work of the village chairman, but to the fact that so many individuals have expressed in a substantial way their interest in the health work being carried on for the children of Newton.

The Committee herewith expresses much appreciation to the citizens of Newton for the generous support which they have given the campaign.

The report by villages follows: Newton Centre, Mrs. D. G. Nutter, chairman, $151.30; West Newton, Mrs. Hubert L. Carter, chairman, $150.50; Newton, Mrs. Fred H. Loveland, chairman, $143.50; Newtonville, Miss Mary L. Rolfe, chairman, $110.79; Waban, Mr. Guy B. McInerney, chairman, $82.40; Newton Highlands, Mrs. E. G. Swift, $61.50; Chestnut Hill, $53.40; Auburndale, $54.97; Newton Upper Falls, $125.00; Newton Lower Falls, $90.60. Total, $829.76.

THE CAMP FIRE GIRLS

The Camp Fire Girls of Newtonville, the Cheskamung group, met last at Mrs. Walter R. Storer's home on Wildwood avenue. The meeting was entirely given over to the rehearsing of "The Three Pigs," in which are Mary E. Gallagher, Lois G. Potter, Ruth C. Filene, Margaret H. Storer, Nancy W. Mechar, Marion A. Welt, Mildred C. Curless, Barbara H. Dobyns, and Estelle L. Cyr. The guardian is coaching the first play to be given by the new group.

BUILDING PERMITS INCREASE

The figures from the Buildings Department for the year 1925 show an enormous gain both in number and value over 1924. Last year, 1878 permits valued at $12,297,313 were issued as compared with 1554 permits valued at $8,646,331 in 1924. This increase is largely in the class of dwellings as the following figures indicate: 1925 511 single and 244 double dwellings valued at $9,527,450 as compared with 409 single and 143 double dwellings valued at $6,534,336 in 1924.

GIRL SCOUTS

The New Year has marked a number of changes in the officers of our Girl Scout troops, thus relieving many of the captains who have been doing double duty and giving each of them one troop instead of two. So many girls have joined the organization and the troops have become so large during the past year that in every village but one the troops have been divided, all the Scouts in the grade schools being members of the Junior troops and the high school girls of the Senior troops.

The Junior troops are as follows: Troop I, Newtonville, 80 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Lucy Larcom of West Newton.

Troop II, Newton, 31 registered Scouts. Captain, Mrs. Ezra Eaton, of Newton Highlands.

Troop III, Newton Centre, 60 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Priscilla Ordway of Newton Centre.

Troop IV, Waban, 49 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Cornelia Holmes, Newton Centre.

Troop V, West Newton, 48 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Doris Lovell of West Newton.

Troop VI, Nonantum, 35 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Mary Sprague of West Newton.

Troop VII, Newton Upper Falls, 27 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Dorothy Colby, of Newton Upper Falls.

Troop VIII, Auburndale, 43 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Adelaide Ball of Newton.

Troop IX, Thompsonville, 14 Scouts. Captain, Miss Virginia Gray of Newton Centre.

Troop XI, Newton Highlands, 51 registered Scouts. Captain, Mrs. Lilian J. Collins of Newton Highlands.

Troop XII, Peabody Home for Crippled Children, 27 Scouts and Brownies. Captain, Miss Caroline Freeman, West Newton.

The Senior troops are: Troop X, Newtonville, 25 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Dorothy Fairbrother of West Newton.

Troop XIII, Newton Centre, 31 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Isabel Skipwith, West Newton.

Troop XIV, Waban, 17 registered Scouts. Captain, Mrs. Leslie Warren of Waban.

Troop XV, West Newton, 26 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Caroline Freeman of West Newton.

Troop XVII, Newton Upper Falls, 27 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Margaret Gould, Newton Upper Falls.

Troop XVIII, Auburndale, 9 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Adelaide Ball of Newton.

Troop XX, Newton, 13 registered Scouts. Captain, Miss Madeleine Converse of Newton.

Troop XXI, Newton Highlands, 20 registered Scouts. Captain, Mrs. Joseph C. Allen of Newton Highlands.

This makes a total of 633 Girl Scouts in Newton. All the troops have girls working on the Tenderfoot test, and when these girls are investiture it will make the number even larger. On Jan. 1st, 1925, there were 439 Girl Scouts in Newton. Scouting is growing in our city. We need more troops to take care of the girls who wish to become Girl Scouts and we must have more officers to make the new troops possible.

A training course for Girl Scout leaders will be organized early in February. For fuller information apply to the local director.

PRACTICAL GOODWILL

In spite of the fact that the Christmas spirit was more than ever alive this year in Newton, eighty-eight families might possibly have had to go without Christmas dinners if it had not been for the Christmas Clearing House, conducted by the Welfare Division of the Newton Central Council, of which Mrs. Irving O. Palmer is chairman. Besides Mrs. Palmer, the Clearing House Committee consisted of Miss Florence S. Fitzgerald, Acting Overseer of the Poor, and Miss Esther M. Walker, Office Secretary of the Newton Welfare Bureau.

The Clearing House appears to the eye as an index-filing box, filled with clipped and signalled cards. How uninteresting it looks! But how interesting it suddenly becomes when an inquiry is made, and one realizes that each card means a roast and cans of vegetables and jelly and squash and all sorts of goodies for someone who otherwise wouldn't have these things on Christmas. The telephone rings. "Is the Blank family on your list?" "Yes, the Elks are giving to them; but there's another family we've been asked to find someone to care for. Wouldn't you like to take them in?"

A young man comes with a long list of names to check up. They are copied and filed, and duplications immediately are obvious. This list has come in late, and baskets are already planned for many of the families. But requests to have dinners sent to certain families have also been received, and the names of these families, not yet cared for, are listed and suggested as substitutes for the duplicated names. So Christmas is really "passed around."

Last year there were 251 inquiries; this year 349. Last year 54 of these names were duplicated ones; this year 176. The Charity Department, the Welfare Bureau, the Elks, the Knights of Columbus, the Stearns School Centre, the Girl Scouts, and the Methodist Church of Newtonville, were some of the organizations asking that their lists be checked. Much checking was also done informally before names were actually listed. Names of families who should have dinners were sent in by five organizations.

It ought to be emphasized that all names passing through the Clearing House are treated as confidential information, and that the lists are destroyed after the holiday season.

There was doubtless more basket giving in Newton than was registered by the Clearing House, but the advantage taken of the service this year was far greater than last year, and it is hoped that next year the Holiday Clearing House will be even more widely used, as the knowledge of the service it can render is more generally known to the community.

THE OUTCAST

It was Christmas 1925: the snow had formed a white carpet on the ground just as it did almost two thousand years ago, and the morning of the Christ Child's birth had been ushered in at one of Newton's largest institutions with music and singing by well trained voices from various churches; in fact it was a day of rejoicing, and happiness seemed to penetrate every nook and corner of the large edifice.

A good sized group of people were gathered in one of the rooms exchanging greetings and seeking news as to gifts received.

In the gathering might be noticed a female form, strong and rugged despite the fact that she was nearing the allotted three score and ten years, who, in answer to the question, "What did you get?" replied with just a trace of bitterness, "Nothing; I'm an outcast."

The overworked mailman had done all that physical energy and a desire to perform his duty could be expected to do; but in this single instance, one, and only one person had been forgotten by Santa Claus. But not the words had scarce escaped her lips when someone who was active in distributing mail called her name. A light in her eyes betokened her surprise and pleasure as she answered "Here I am."

Ellen handed her an envelope which when displayed was an Xmas card with an appropriate greeting, and the noisy welcome that attended the reception of the letter spoke volumes for the joy of all present.

The sender of the simple reminder of the spirit of the day was a well known resident of Auburndale, and the effect of her thoughtfulness as reflected in the face of the one who received the card, she would have been amply repaid for her kindness.

Kith and kin (if she had any) had forgotten her, and it remained for a stranger to bring warmth and cheer to gladden the heart of the outcast.

It requires no great stretch of imagination, to feel that the song that flowed from the voices of the choirs was wafted upward and carried on its waves to the throne of the King of Kings, the record of the little Christmas card.

NEWTON AS SEEN BY EDITOR WHITE

Christmas day we enjoyed a walk in the environs of West Newton with our host, Mr. Cole of the Boston News Bureau, and his son who is associated with him. The trip took in the upper or western part of the city, passing Auburndale and Waban, in the direction of Weston. The City of Newton, which has over a dozen named divisions, reaches from the Boston line to the border of Weston. Its 1925 population is 53,000. It is increasing at an unparalleled rate. Five hundred new houses are being built each year to take care of this increment of people. This adds ten millions a year to the assessed valuation for residences alone. There is no manufacturing. A weighty problem before the city government is to provide for all this growth, school accommodations, new streets, sidewalks, curbing, water, sewerage, light, in fact all kinds of public service and the cost of administration. An addition to the city hospital to cost $150,000 is planned and the campaign is on to raise the money. A problem for it cannot be met or any part of it by tax. As we walked new residences were passed everywhere. One of the first, a mansion in style, with grounds, covers a corner lot where on our trip early the year before was a piece of ground of the roughest sort, covered with great rocks, stumps and big trees, the entire surface ridgy and uneven. The price of the lot in its native shape was not high but it took courage to put the money into grappling with the conditions. The owner is making a beautiful place of it. The new homes generally average $20,000 to $25,000 but some of them in West Newton proper, built of red brick, which is the fashionable material at present, add $100,000 to these figures. Waban, where is the home of Mrs. Doran (Ruth Donovan) Lyons, is the fastest growing section of the city. It is new, on our trip a year and seven months ago they were still cutting streets into the forest. Mr. Cole said a thousand homes have been built in this new development. Beacon street, Boston, ends in the center of the village. Just beyond is some very pretty scenery, while Waban has all the charm of modern artistry.

The return was by another route, farther south. It skirted the west and south sides of the extensive grounds of the Braeburn Club of West Newton. These are out in the country, with varied landscape, some forest, a small pond, extensive meadow, bordered on the south by a sharp hill which it takes skill to drive golf balls to the top. It ends on the border of another street. The 18 hole old course takes a walk of three and a half miles to play one game, so with two games a day, as on a holiday, it makes a good bit of exercise. A new 9 hole course is early completed, with an abundance of "bunkers" and cost to make including the land thirty thousand dollars. Golf is every year getting more and more to be second to base and foot ball a national game. It is no longer by a long ways now confined to the wealthy class, the common phrase of the past "rich-man's game," no longer fits, ladies, students, young people, all may be seen on the links in many of the courses. Still it is an expensive game when we add a commodious club house with its many appointments.

Edited by DOROTHY E. BUSHNELL

General

There are many persons agitating a twelve-month school year in place of the present ten-month one, and from the various arguments I have heard those in favor of such a plan often have for their underlying reason a certain rather vague feeling of procuring what seems to be the "just" thing. The fact that teachers have a vacation in the summer time has long ranked in the minds of a few misguided "dogs-in-the-mangers." And when you pin them right down to facts about this twelve-month scheme it is very easy to perceive that they have few convincing arguments that such an arrangement would be of real benefit to the children—for each is rather unpleasantly flavored with the ancient "teachers have it too easy" theme.

However, there is argument on both sides, as is quite usual, and the strongest will eventually win as is also quite usual. But—a word for the teachers! And for the present!—New Year's Day begins in reality nothing but a new cycle of months. September begins a new vision, new ambitions and renewed strength. What if New Year's Day were the only fresh start the schools would have? Those two summer months are for the express purpose of refilling the "trunk in the road" and it takes fully two months to make the necessary repairs both for teachers and pupils. With great added expense the school systems might have a double teaching force, one to replace the other at specified seasons; but such a solution deals not at all with the children. Where and when would they find their fresh start, their stimulation of "work laid down and freshly renewed?"

However the subject is viewed—no group of teachers could last through twelve months. The nervous strain of teaching is too great. The best way for these theoretical on-lookers to find good for the children is to give greater—not less consideration to the welfare of their teachers. They might even try teaching—to see how easy a thing it really is!

F. A. Day Junior High School

The girls and boys have all co-operated so well that the skating rink is now under construction. The rink is to be 100 ft. x 65 ft. It is to be used for class practice by both boys and girls. The boys' varsity hockey team will play their games on the school rink. It is hoped that at the end of the season every boy and girl in school will have mastered the art of skating.

The assembly program this week is under the direction of Mr. Barber, with the following program: Piano solo, Barbara Billings; violin duet, John Richmond, Dean Handy; Moving Picture Film, "A Woolen Yarn." "Light of a Race."

Gwendolyn Ormond was announced the winner of a library contest under the direction of the school librarian, Miss Blake.

The boys are anticipating a skating rink to be constructed in the near future on the school playground for hockey. At the first assembly for this new year Mr. Carr appealed for sincere resolutions conducive to the best in character. The pupils will soon attempt to measure their improvement by a suggested scale.

The film, "From Bale to Cotton," shown under the direction of Mrs. Holleran and announced by Daniel Harrington made graphic the skill which is necessary for such an industry.

The lunch-room has been equipped with a machine for making fresh fruit drinks.

Mason School

Monday afternoon after school, the teachers had the pleasure of meeting the new member of the School Board, from ward six, Mr. F. Lockett. In the course of his remarks, he stressed particularly four things in which he was very much interested. These were the matter of transportation of school pupils, the housing conditions needing attention, when six rooms in the Mason average 45 or more pupils, the number of exits for rapid emptying of the building, and finally the matter of health—the care which the school doctor uses in the examination of pupils, in order to prevent epidemics.

The Newton Centre School Association holds its next meeting in the Mason Hall on Wednesday, January 14. Already on notice has been sent home to the parents, and another is to follow shortly.

There is to be a food sale which always brings very satisfactory returns. The money raised is wisely spent for the benefit of the four schools in the district.

A goodly number of the Mason District teachers attended the very fine lecture on "California, the beautiful" given Tuesday under the auspices of the Newton Grade Teachers' Club by Mr. Henry W. Poor.

Stearns School

The Special Class which was formed at the Stearns School on December first for Grammar Grade boys is proving to be a real opportunity for each boy. Mr. Sears, who has charge of the class, has won the confidence of his group so that the boys find pleasure in their work and enter into the new program with a spirit of goodwill and earnestness. They do well in their shop work. An attempt is being made to fit the academic work to their special needs so that close correlation between all subjects may be obtained. Mr. Sears has already taken the class on two trips in order that the boys might see and appreciate the handicraft done by others. These trips were taken in December, the objectives being the Perkins Institute for the Blind at Watertown, and the Barnard School at West Newton.

Thrill was the jolly companion of many boys and girls in the Stearns

School last week. We hope more and more of the pupils may get to know this splendid friend of youth as this new year advances. The largest amount saved by an individual during the last week was twenty dollars. There are eight rooms on the Honor Role for Thrift. The lowest for the week was two dollars and a half.

Moving pictures entitled "The Romance of a Grain of Wheat" and "The Story of the Banana" were shown to the grammar grade children of the Stearns School Monday afternoon, December eleventh. All that happens to the wheat from the time of its passing from the seed drill into the friendly arms of Mother Nature up to the time when its flour has been made into bread was well shown on the screen. Both films were of real educational value. The story about the banana illustrated the cutting of the banana seed from the root of an old banana tree, the planting and growth of such seeds. The transportation of bananas from Havana to our country was shown very effectively by pictures of Havana harbor, where one of America's transportation ships was being loaded. These moving pictures were given to the school children through the courtesy of the Industrial Film Company of Boston, the Massachusetts Department of Public Safety, the Fruit Dispatch Company and the Hecker Flour Company of Boston.

Lasell

The Paul Shirley Symphony Artists presented to the Lasell students and friends at the Auburndale Club Auditorium on Tuesday afternoon a most enjoyable program.

The Lasell Mandolin and Glee Clubs under the direction of Rev. Earl E. Harper of the Centenary Church, supply the musical numbers of the program to be given Friday evening, Jan. 15, 1926, at the Harvard Church in Brookline, to the students of Greater Boston, by the Brookline Young People's Inter-Church Council. A former reception in the Hall was attended by representatives of thirty colleges, representing thirty-five states and several foreign countries.

On Sunday evening, the Mandolin and Glee Club will give a concert at the Franklin Square House in Boston. Lasell Seminary combines with the Woman's Club of Auburndale in presenting Mr. Geoffrey O'Hara in his recital-entertainment—"How Music is Made," on Wednesday evening, January 20, at the Congregational Church at eight o'clock.

Dr. James Gordon Gilkey of Springfield, Mass., will be the speaker at Vespers on Sunday evening, January 17th, at Bragdon Hall, the hour being seven forty-five instead of the usual hour of six-fifteen.

The coming of the snow has stimulated a great interest in all the winter sports and the recreation grounds on the campus are in fine condition for skating, tobogganing, etc. A number of students, too, are enjoying their first sleigh rides.

All Newton Music School

The All Newton Music school will give a Schumann evening at the Peirce school, West Newton, on Friday evening, January 22nd.

Miss Laura Taylor will play Schumann's Papillons and there will be a Quintet played by members of the faculty with remarks by the Director. The Quintet will be played by Lillian West, piano; Elizabeth Fyffe, Director; first violin, Irene Forte; second violin, Mary Pucarelli, viola, and Ruth Masters, cello.

MRS. GEORGE MAY

Mrs. Abbie S. May, widow of the late George May, a resident of Newton Highlands for over twenty years, passed away January 12th in Philadelphia, Pa., where she has for several years made her home with her daughter, Miss Mary W. May.

Mrs. May was born in St. Johnsbury, Vt. in 1846, and her girlhood and early married life were spent there. Like her husband, who was for many years a Deacon of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church, Mrs. May was deeply devoted to her church and was actively identified with the organization and work of the Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society.

She was a charter member of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands, and though declining to serve as its president, her brilliant intellect contributed largely to the life and growth of the Club.

Mrs. May is survived by three children, Mrs. Edward W. Vail of Upper Montclair, N. J., Miss Mary W. May of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mr. Kenneth S. May of Newton Highlands.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Newton Cemetery Chapel, Dr. S. H. Woodrow, pastor of the Newton Highlands Congregational church, officiating.

MISS BRAGG TO JUDGE PLAYS

Miss Mabel C. Bragg, assistant superintendent of the Newton schools, has consented to serve as one of the judges in the second annual National Playwright Contest being conducted under the auspices of the National Tuberculosis Association. Much interest is being manifested in this contest by pupils in the high schools of this state. The competition will end April 1st.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

Lieut. Edward Burke of Engine 1, continues seriously ill at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. He went there some weeks ago with an infected finger, the result of a cut received at a fire. At first it was thought the finger could be saved, but it was eventually amputated. Other complications have ensued and Mr. Burke will have to undergo another operation. He is one of the most efficient and conscientious members of the department, and his many friends hope for his speedy recovery.

THE MUNSEY LEGACY

The act of Frank A. Munsey in leaving his enormous fortune to the Metropolitan Museum of Art has been praised and condemned. Some persons contend that Mr. Munsey would have done much better to have bequeathed his millions to hospitals and other charitable institutions. Other persons laud his bequest because they believe that it will stimulate appreciation of art by the American people. Undoubtedly the great fortune donated to the New York art museum will in time help appreciably to increase the interest of a certain percentage of our population in the works of painters and sculptors.

But love of the artistic, appreciation of fine paintings and masterpieces of carving, cannot be created in a generation or two. It will take centuries. And our national characteristics will have to undergo considerable changes if the bulk of Americans will ever become lovers of art. No race appreciates art more than the Italian. Humble Italian immigrants, many of them illiterate, can be seen every Sunday at the Boston Art Museum, displaying keen pleasure while viewing the treasures shown there. They inherit their love of art and music from their Roman ancestors of centuries ago.

Recently we spent an evening as the guest of a prosperous resident of this city who was born in Italy. This gentleman's beautiful home contains a number of excellent paintings and statues. During the evening he showed two other guests and the writer his art objects. One picture depicted a scene in the Alps, not far from the birthplace of our host. Another picture was a view of a little river flowing under an old stone bridge with several small stucco buildings standing on the bank of the stream. The artist's name on this picture was Morello. Our fellow guests viewed our host's exhibits in silence so we felt it incumbent upon us to evince some appreciation of them. As we gazed on the Morello painting we observed "This is a typical Italian scene," "No," replied our host, "that view was painted near the Fenway in Boston."

One of the other guests was a well known local attorney who is possessed of a biting wit. We waited for some of our error, but he kept silent. At least he kept silent until we took leave of our cordial host. As soon as we reached the outer air our fellow guest started a sarcastic dissertation concerning our ability as an art critic. And on divers occasions since he has revived this subject. Our error was excusable. Anyone might well suppose the combination of a quiet stream passing under the gentle arches of a stone bridge, flanked by stucco structures and bearing the name "Morello," to have originated in Italy. How were we to know that the location was Muddy River, and the buildings only prosaic garages? Even bequests such as Munsey made will never succeed in instilling into persons of the type of our sarcastic friend, a love of art. His kind would have to be reincarnated before they could appreciate things beautiful.

NEWTON CHORAL SOCIETY

COMMUNITY THEATRE

The society resumed its rehearsals Tuesday night and received the following new members, Dr. and Mrs. N. Paul Hudson, Miss Marguerite Madlin, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Twombly, Mr. C. B. Harrington, Mr. James A. Brickett, Mr. William F. Moffat, Mrs. Edward J. Burnell, Mrs. T. Edwin Rush, all of Newtonville; Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Thompson of West Newton; Mrs. A. W. Ayre of Waltham; Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Clark of Auburndale. New members can be received at this time, but they should come in as soon as possible. The Tuesday rehearsal was spent in hastily going over Gounod's "Redemption," which is to be presented in April, and next Tuesday intensive work will begin on the choruses of this great masterpiece. Rehearsals each Tuesday evening at 7.45 at Central church, Newtonville.

FIRE RECORD

Shortly after 5 Saturday morning fire was discovered in the residence of Frank I. Rounds at 131 Prince street, West Newton. The fire department was notified and Box 39 was sounded at 5.09. Upon the arrival of the apparatus at the house, the blaze looked so threatening that a second alarm was pulled. The fire, which started from an unknown cause in the rear of the house, worked up into the attic and through the roof. The damage will amount to about $7,000.

Saturday morning at 8 a defective chimney started a fire in the home of Nathaniel Doten at 51 Forest street, Newton Highlands. The firemen came in response to a telephone call and soon had the blaze under control.

Box 115 was pulled on Monday morning for a chimney fire in the block at 409 Centre street, owned by Louis F. Bachrach. The damage was slight.

THOMAS F. BRADLEY

Thomas F. Bradley died at his late home, 115 Webster street, West Newton on January 9th. Mr. Bradley, who was 81 years of age, was born in West Meath, Ireland, and came to Newton 68 years ago. During the Civil War he served with the United States Engineers. His funeral services were held at St. Bernard's Church on Tuesday, a solemn requiem mass being celebrated by Rev. W. J. Dwyer; Rev. W. J. O'Brien was deacon and Rev. Robert Mantle of Newton, sub-deacon. The deceased is survived by a widow, three daughters, Mary G. Bella and Elizabeth Bradley of West Newton; and three sons, James Bradley of Belmont, Stephen Bradley of Pittsburg, and Thomas Bradley of West Newton. The interment was in Holyhood cemetery.

LODGES

John T. Fitzpatrick, lecturer of Newton Council, K. of C., has arranged for Prison Commissioner Henry A. Higgins to address the Council in Elks Hall, Newton, on Tuesday evening, January 19.

"The Eagle" starring Rudolph Valentino comes to the Community Theatre for four days commencing Sunday, January 17. Those qualities of fire and passion expected of Valentino have been subordinated in this, his latest picture. It is a romantic comedy, magnificently produced, and the star's role is largely made up of lighter moods which he handles skillfully.

The companion picture, "Why Women Love," starring Blanche Sweet and Robert Frazer, is a stirring melodrama, which keeps one well on the edge of the seat with fires, explosions, and many other exciting scenes to hold the interest.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday "Lightnin'" heads the list at the Community.

The companion picture, "The Splendid Crime," in which Bebe Daniels portrays a new type in this human and romantic crook-play.

MRS. PATTERSON APPRECIATED

How many church-goers in Newton, when they have heard of some so-called heathen sitting up all night over the Bible as over a veritable revelation, or when they have read of the life of Sadhu Sundar Singh, have wondered how much of that spirit is to be found among us today?

To such, the title of Mrs. Patterson's last week's talks in Newtonville and West Newton was immediately compelling, and the many people from nearly all the churches of Newton who attended doubtless look upon the week as a memorable one, and hope that she may return in order that more of our people may share the privilege of hearing her.

H. H. WILLCOX.
Newtonville, Jan. 12.

USE STREETS AS GARAGES

Many complaints are heard about the practice of using public streets as garages. A number of automobile owners in this city park their cars every night in front of their homes. These cars are not lighted, in direct violation of the law, and some of them are parked on the wrong side of the road. They are a menace to traffic and have nearly caused a number of collisions.

Prior to the advent of automobiles, owners of horses never used highways as stables. They are not intended to be used as garages, and many cities have taken active measures to prevent persons from economizing by resorting to the practice of parking their cars in the street every night. Our local police should at least insist that parked cars be properly lighted.

SNOW QUICKLY CLEARED

The small snowfall of Saturday was well handled by the street department and the Middlesex & Boston. Little delay occurred on the various car lines, and the plows pushed by the big city trucks kept the highways in good condition for traffic.

EDITORIAL

Including President Thomas W. White, who resigned a few weeks ago, five members of the board of aldermen and one member of the school committee retired from office with the close of the year. Mr. White has been the dominating member of the city government during the past four years, during which he was chairman of the Finance Committee for three years and president for nearly one year. It is not too much to say that the tax payers of Newton are under deep obligations to Mr. White for acting as a veritable watchdog of the treasury during these years. We have not agreed with Mr. White on many important matters, but we admire his ability and his courage in maintaining his position in face of severe adverse comment and pressure. Alderman J. Earl Parker, who has acted as president since Mr. White resigned has served three years and has been a valuable member of the board. Waban has always sent good men to City Hall and Mr. Parker has worthily maintained the high standard his predecessors have set. Alderman Henry D. Lloyd has served three years and has been most of that period a member and chairman of the Finance Committee. Franchises and licenses, possibly the government. Mr. Lloyd has been a most troublesome committee in the city careful, conscientious and indefatigable member of that committee. Aldermen Horace M. Walton and Perley F. Crosby have served but two years each and have not had that opportunity to distinguish themselves which comes with longer service in the board. Mr. Salmon W. Wilder retires from the school committee after six years of valuable service.

All these gentlemen carry with them the gratitude of the citizens of Newton and the consciousness of work well done. With continued practice in making inaugural addresses Mayor Childs has produced this year about the best of the thirteen messages he has given in coming city governments. It is an address well worth reading even if one does not approve of the sentiments embodied therein. The mayor has made a number of definite recommendations, some of which he ought to follow up with further details and stronger emphasis. One of the suggestions in the address that the "pay-as-you-go" policy should be modified, will undoubtedly meet with strenuous objections in many quarters, particularly if that policy is to be changed to allow a new City Hall to be erected. A glance at the financial statement in the address shows that there will be $176,000 more required for serial bonds and water receipts in 1926 than was required in 1925, that there will be some $21,000 additional for interest requirements, a total of nearly $200,000, all of which will have to be raised in the tax levy. If we embark on a building program (merely to be proud of the city in 1930), we must go to the Legislature for authority to borrow outside of the debt limit, as there is only about $400,000 available without that authority. If that authority is obtained and any extensive work begun in 1926, a substantial amount of the cost of any such work will also be added to the tax levy for 1926. To these amounts will have to be added the normal increase in the budgets of the different departments, and all in all we fear the tax payers of 1926 will have some unpleasant moments when the tax bills are out next fall. It is rather curious that Mayor Childs waits until Mr. Thomas W. White has retired from the city government before he broaches his plan to abandon the pay-as-you-go policy.

Governor Fuller's recommendation that all checks and money orders for all bills due to cities and towns should be made payable to the municipality and not to individual officials of the city or town, meets the hearty approval of Mr. William F. Brennan of this city, who has been working for some years to have this method followed in Newton. It seems rather a cumbersome process to require legislation to bring about this simple change in procedure.

Mayor Childs' opinion of Ex-Alderman Thomas W. White as expressed in his inaugural address is somewhat different from Mayor Childs' characterization of Mr. White in campaign speeches in Nonantum.

JURORS DRAWN

A special meeting of the aldermen was held Tuesday evening to draw jurors. Those drawn to serve at the session of the Superior Court at Cambridge on February 1st, were: William V. Craig, 18 Avonmore; Walter Chapman, 39 Forest street; Richard H. Cronin, 12 Oak street; Arthur L. Gaw, 287 Cherry street; Burt M. Rich, 337 Washington street; and George C. Twombly, 166 Melrose street. To serve at the session of the Superior Court, starting February 8th, the names of William G. Hambleton, 79 Webster park, and Josiah Hurst of 177 Langley road, were drawn.

GIRL SCOUTS

As we walked up Lexington avenue about 56th street in Washington, the Girl Scout Banner came in sight. We stopped and looked—"Girl Scouts of America." Quite a thrill went through us as we read the words and looked at the building—National Headquarters, new and shining—a brick building, four stories high. How the girls all over this country worked to earn those bricks—and every girl who paid for a brick, individually or through her troop, should feel that she had a share in building the new National Home and also that it is hers to see and use.

As we entered the wide door, we were welcomed with a warmth which made us feel at home at once. Miss Edith Conant, whom so many of our Scouts met at Camp Mary Day, when she gave a short training course during the last week of our camp season, and who has been the guest of our Girl Scout Officers' Association, took us over the building and showed us everything from the shop on the ground floor to the American Girl office at the top of the building.

One of the most interesting things we saw was a sampler made by Mrs. Jane Deetee Rippen, our National Director, which hangs on the wall in her beautiful office. It is made as the samplers of old were made, cross-stitched on canvas, and tells of her Scout life. On the top on either side are two pine trees and between are the words "This is the sampler of a Girl Scout Leader—New York." Below is the date of her institution as a Tenderfoot, then comes where and when she was made Second Class and below that when she became a First Class Scout, and here she had embroidered at patrol of Scouts with a leader.

Girl Scouts will be interested to know that Mrs. Rippen first became interested in Scouting in 1918 (it tells us so on the sampler), that she was invested as a Tenderfoot in Cincinnati in 1921, and that besides all the work she has done for the girls and the organization, she has earned thirteen merit badges—on one side near a pine tree, and the home and civic badges across from there near a building.

The "American Girl" office was especially interesting and Miss Ferris (the editor) sat and talked with us of the magazine, telling us of many interesting plans for different issues this year, and showing us pictures which are to be reproduced for the girls. On the walls of her office were many of the originals of the covers we have all seen and welcomed. Every Girl Scout will want the "American Girl" this year.

We were interested to visit a meeting of the National Field Committee, which was in session, in the beautiful large assembly room on the ground floor. There we saw Mrs. Rippen, Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. Newell, and our own dear Juliette Lowe. We were asked to say a few words about Newton and we told a little about our "Cookie Day" and our Officers' Association.

We visited the Educational Department and talked a few minutes with Dr. Adams, head of that department, and Dr. Cady, who has made the Nature Study so interesting for us. Of course, the shop was most attractive. As like a banner on the wall took our eyes, on which were all the merit badges, some of them new, and for which our girls will soon be working. The troop emblems were also on this banner and we saw among them some new and very attractive ones.

The building, inside and out, is simple, and gives one the feeling of solidity and the atmosphere of friendliness and welcome is felt the minute the front door is opened. Our visit was such a pleasant one—so enjoyable, and we shall feel nearer to the National Organization for having visited its headquarters, having seen the departments we all know so well and having talked with the heads of these departments. 670 Lexington avenue, New York, is a headquarters of which every Girl Scout may be proud, and it houses an organization that upholds the highest aims and standards for girls, and each one of us who is connected with it, girls and leaders alike, should do her utmost to further those aims and ideals and live so that she may be worthy the name, Girl Scouts.

Miss Caroline Truman will return from her vacation which she has been spending in Washington and New York with Mrs. Frank A. Day, this week, and will resume work in the Girl Scout office on Monday, January 18th.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

The School Committee has organized for 1926 with Maxwell C. Hutchins as Chairman and George Kellar as Secretary. At its last meeting, held on January 11th, the committee voted to approve the layout and designs of the proposed new junior high school for the West Newton-Auburn district, as submitted by Hubert G. Ripley, the architect of the building.

The annual parish meeting and parish supper of St. Mary's Church will be held next Wednesday evening.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

Due to the fact that this is the second session of the same Legislature and it is possible thereby to have bills for legislation filed and printed earlier than the date of re-assembling, the work starts off with considerable speed. Heretofore committees have had to wait for the second Saturday of the month to come around before assigning hearings on pending bills. Already some of the important committees have arranged for a large number of hearings and some reports have even been made. Mr. Armand C. Bang of this city was about the first victim as his bill for the creation of a division of preventive medicine in the State Department of Health was given leave to withdraw on Wednesday.

Members of the Legislature and a wide circle of friends were shocked to learn early this week that Patrick F. Brennan, one of the most popular Messengers at the State House had died suddenly from heart disease. Mr. Brennan was called "Pat" by everybody with that intonation of affection and regard which testified to the high place he filled in the thoughts of his many friends. He will be sadly missed.

A hearing was held on Wednesday on the recommendation of the Division of Metropolitan Planning of which Mr. Henry I. Harriman of this city is the efficient chairman, on the matter of constructing a parkway through Hammond pond woods. City Solicitor Bartlett and Representative Saltonstall were present and the latter suggested that the committee should refer the matter to the next annual session.

While the time for filing new bills does not expire until tomorrow afternoon, Representative Luitwieler of this city has been kept busy introducing petitions on many subjects. Among those he has introduced are the following—On his own petition:

For an amendment of the law relative to evidence of former convictions in criminal trials; that persons convicted of any felony or other offense for which a sentence in jail or house of correction was or might have been imposed be disqualified for jury service; for an amendment of the law relative to bail in criminal cases; relative to the issuing of process and rendering of judgment in cases of default on recognizance; for further legislation relative to punishment for theft of motor vehicles and relative to the powers of district courts; that the powers of district courts be limited to punishment for the unlawful taking and operation of motor vehicles; relative to entry of nolle prosequi in connection with indictments charging felony; that the power of courts to place persons on probation be limited and relative to the arrest of persons on probation; for legislation to limit the power of district courts to suspend sentences; for legislation further to limit the power to release prisoners on parole; for legislation further to limit the stay of execution after sentence has been imposed in cases where no exceptions have been allowed and no appeal taken.

He also has put in a bill by which he would amend the preferential voting act of the city of Newton so as to allow eight words to be inserted on the ballot after the name of the various candidates; the petition of Armand C. Bang of Newton for the creation of a division of preventive medicine under the direction of the Department of Public Health and the establishment of a state fund for paying benefits to contributors in cases of sickness, accident or death; and of the United Improvement Association for the mayor of the city of Boston be authorized to appoint the heads of departments and the members of municipal boards.

Representative Saltonstall has put in petitions of Leland Powers of Newton relative to providing refunds of business corporation taxes of 1925 collected through disallowance of claim for deduction on account of machinery used in business; of Leland Powers relative to extending to all business corporations the deductions allowed to manufacturing corporations subject to local taxation on machinery; of the Commonwealth Service Association relative to an investigation concerning reclassification of appointive offices and positions in the government of the Commonwealth; of the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards relative to the better enforcement of zoning ordinances and by-laws; and of Philip Nichols of the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards relative to authorizing cities and towns to wholly exclude certain noxious industries from within their limits.

Senator Rice has filed a bill to increase the salary of the Commissioner of Insurance to $7500.

One bill in which Newton will take an active part is the bill for the Boston Democrat. It provides for the appointment of a special recess committee of sixteen members to study the advisability of grouping the cities and towns within a radius of ten miles of Boston city hall into a greater municipality to be known as Boston. The order provides for a committee of six senators, ten representatives, one member to be named by the governor, and one from each municipality affected.

At the hearing of the recommendation of Mr. Henry F. Long, Tax Commissioner, to allow exemptions from taxation only to exclusively charitable institutions, Mr. Joseph W. Bartlett city solicitor of Newton spoke in favor and said that the Newton Centre Woman's Club, holding property under which a tax of $2000 would ordinarily be paid, had been exempted from taxation, after litigation in the courts. He felt that such organizations should be taxed.

—The Young People's Association of Central Church met on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. A. H. Burdick as leader. She read a very instructive paper based on "Looking Ahead with Latin America" by Stanley H. Since the middle of the last century evangelical missionaries have been working in those countries, with many obstacles to overcome as they have met with much opposition. There is now promise of a better tomorrow and higher standards of education, less extremes between the classes and a different attitude toward women are noted. We should have more of the "big brother" attitude and less of the "big stick" in our dealings with these neighbor nations. Tea was served with Mrs. Albert M. Lyon as hostess. Mrs. C. C. Briggs and Mrs. A. L. Gordon presided at the tea table.

West Newton Women's Educational Club
Last Friday afternoon this club had its most festive and gala meeting in celebration of its 45th anniversary, and in delighting to honor many of its former presidents. Small Players' Hall was metamorphosed, with many tables laden with attractive china and flowers, and a most welcome and cheery fire in the fireplace. Large Players' Hall was the scene of the program, and the stage, set most modernly with overstuffed chairs and divans, and gay draperies, whisked the audience into the idea of the play read by Miss Louise Mudgett.

Mrs. John R. McLean, the President, opened the meeting with a word of welcome, and a bit of club history, the latter item having been planned for Mrs. Bernard Early to present, but members were sorry to learn that Mrs. Early could not be present, due to an accident that had resulted in a broken wrist. This was the only item to mar the occasion. Mrs. Arthur Potter, First Vice-President of the State Federation, as an honored guest, brought a message from the viewpoint of the State organization, and most pleasingly portrayed the dignity, humor, and idealism of the all-around club woman. She amused by saying that the American woman—due to her many alert interests—has come to be termed "migratory," and the grandmothers are accused of being runaways, but she proved that these many broadening interests, and the very act of running away, brings women running homeward with so much gained that they are much more interesting, and worthwhile, even as home companions.

Mrs. Ellis Spear, Jr., President of the Newton Federation, congratulated the club upon its birthday, upon the vision that had caused this first of women's clubs to organize the Newton Federation, as well as their own club, and quickly excused her congratulation on a 45th birthday, as being something that a club was proud of, although the individual might not enjoy this birthday as much!

Mrs. Joseph Congdon, the third guest, and the Twelfth District Director of the State Federation, in a worthwhile way brought out a message upon the power of vision—the same attribute that had brought into existence this club. She also called attention to the coming Legislative Conference next Friday.

Guests of honor were decorated with flowers, and the platform guests carried bouquets, bestowed by the generous hostess. Presidents of many Newton Clubs, and officers and chairmen of the Newton Federation were included among these so invited to enjoy the birthday.

Past Presidents of the club were in charge of various features of the afternoon, the flowers, the hospitality, and the program. Mrs. Walter A. Beedle introduced the "talent," saying that each was a member of the Professional Woman's Club. Yvonne des Rosiers was most pleasing with her soprano selections, two of which were especially suited to the dramatic qualities of the club. Her personality, too, added to the charm, and quite appropriately emphasized the French songs she so wisely chose to render. Marie Stratton Watson was that rare and beloved accompanist that filled in delightfully, but always gave the lead to the real artist of the occasion, the soloist, Miss Louise Mudgett read the play "Mary the Third," which is amusing in its modernism, while at the same time not always as pleasing in its text and viewpoint. Miss Des Rosiers, in costume, then sang "The Little Damsel." At the close of the program all stood and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

The gaieties of the day followed in the party, the chatting, and enjoyment of the refreshments, not to mention the birthday cake! Mrs. George D. Phipps, who has been a member of the club for 42 years, cut the first piece of the birthday cake, which was borne on in triumph with its 45 lighted candles to its place upon the table, by two junior members of the club.

The interest of the Travel Class in the story of the Bible continues keen. Two splendid papers were given at the meeting on Monday, January 18th—"The Gilded Kings—Saul and David" by Mrs. J. D. Starkie, and "The Psalms" by Mrs. Austin S. Kilburn. The roll call selections were the Psalms, Music and tea completed the program, with Mrs. A. D. Ratson, hostess.

Auburndale Review Club

At the regular meeting Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. F. F. Davidson, the study of Africa grew more and more interesting as the members listened to the unfolding of the story of that great continent from the earliest days down to 1840. Rains have been found indicating a wonderful civilization long before the Christian Era. For a long time only the northern part of Africa was known, for the Egyptians were not navigators. The Phoenicians were really the beginners of the civilization 3,000 years ago. Later the Portuguese navigators came into African waters, and went around the "Cape of Storms" which they named on their return voyage "Cape of Good Hope," because after rounding it safely they had hopes of reaching home.

December 1197 the names of Natal in memory of the nativity of our Lord. The Dutch followed the Portuguese and were the first permanent white settlers in southern Africa.

Mrs. Tuttle's paper carried the history to 1450 and Mrs. Martin brought it to 1850. Mrs. Dike told the very interesting story of David Livingstone, who grew up in the Highlands of Scotland, prepared to go as a medical missionary to China but instead went as an explorer in 1840 to Africa. He braved all sorts of dangers, suffered all sorts of hardships, discovered many things, went further into the heart of Africa than any one had ever gone, and finally died there without discovering the thing he went for—the source of the Nile. His body was taken back to England and buried with great honors in Westminster Abbey.

Mrs. Freeman played two beautiful piano solos, a Russian Gavotte and "The Gazelle."

NEWTON COMMUNITY CLUB

The Current Events Lecture of January 7th was the third in the series of six lectures given by Mrs. Ida Porter-Boyer. Mrs. Boyer's main topic was the "European Situation." She showed a map of reconstructed Europe and pointed out the countries she spoke of them. Since the war, she said, there are many new and reconstructed nations in Europe; Finland, which is now independent; Estonia; Latvia; Lithuania; Rumania, now three times larger than before the war; Czechoslovakia, where there are four million disoriented Germans; Jugoslavia, a new country with diffuse nationalities; France and Italy have both gained some European territory. Austria-Hungary stands among the tragedies of Europe, three-fourths of Austria being given to other countries.

There were many interesting facts told to the audience about all these countries. Mrs. Boyer, in closing, spoke of the Air Inquiry at Washington, and of the means of Extra-Territoriality, and the situation in China, where the north and south are contending for supremacy.

Social Science Club

At the meeting on Wednesday, January 13th, Mrs. Joe W. Gerrity read a most interesting and exhaustive paper on Daniel Webster, tracing his life from its beginning in a small two-room New Hampshire farm-house in 1772, through Exeter, where shyness made it impossible for him to go to Dartmouth, where a tablet now proclaims him its second founder, to Washington, where most of his important speeches were made, and where he sat in two cabinets as Secretary of State, and finally to Marshfield, where he died in 1852 and was buried in the little colonial graveyard on his farm. At the close of the paper, Mrs. Parker was asked to read Whittier's seething poem "Ichabod," and Miss Spear to read the "Last Occasion." The first poem, written after his speech of March 7th, when he seemed to the Abolitionists to have deserted their routes, the last, when his motives for the speech were understood, after the Civil War.

COMING EVENTS

Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands

January 16th is the date of the next meeting of the Shakespeare Club, when members will enjoy searching of characters in "Winter's Tale," Act III being the subject of the Quiz, in charge of Mrs. W. J. Bicknell. Mrs. Hiram Miller opens her home at 85 Erie Avenue for the meeting, for her friend Miss Alberta Crombie, who is club hostess for the day.

Waban Woman's Club

A business meeting is scheduled for the meeting of the Waban Woman's Club on January 18th, when semi-annual reports of accomplishments will be given by the various Chairmen, and a general clearing of the past few months will take place, with suggestions for changes in the by-laws made to be considered at the Annual Meeting. This is the one club that indulges in a semi-annual clearance and the move seems a wise one, so saving the accumulation of the entire year to be disposed of at the Annual Meeting. The achievements of efficient chairmen can in this way be better presented, instead of clutter.

An announcement to be made by the President at this meeting is one that the Executive Board has considered. Ten Bridge Parties will take place simultaneously at the homes of ten members, who kindly act as hostesses, for the raising of funds. This innovation, which should make for coziness and added personal enjoyment, is to take the place of the large bridge party usually held.

It is hoped that Miss Mabel Bragg will be a speaker at this meeting, to present the many sides of the problem of parents consulting with teachers in regard to their children. Co-operation is always the solution of problems, but it should never be carried to the extreme of dictation on either part, as to the duties of the other, and there is a difference between interference and suggestion. Miss Bragg, coming from actual experience, should be able to bring much of value in her suggestions on this real problem of modern life.

Christian Era Study Club

Miss Margaret Haskell is hostess for the Christian Era Study Club on the 18th, also, at her home, 5 Vista avenue, Auburndale. Miss Haskell will read a paper at that meeting on "The French in Canada," and Miss Blanche Noyes will read one on "French Names in the United States." This tracing of French influence upon America should be especially fascinating, not only for the beauty of the language in providing names of harmony, but for the paths and appeal of the old Huguenot history that weaves such a spell upon the imagination, and upon the sympathy of all who follow it. Like so many other announcements of programs of our clubs, there is a wealth of allure and information behind the cold statement of coming events.

Newton Centre Woman's Club

January 18th is also the date chosen by the Newton Centre Woman's Club for a treat for all citizens of their village. At 3:45 P. M. Pro. Kirby F. tickets will give a talk, made real and entertaining in greater degree by lantern slides, on "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes." Admission is free, and teachers and Upper Grade children are especially invited. One knows that it will not be necessary to ask a second time for an audience to enjoy this talk and pictures!

Wednesday, January 20th, is the gala night of the year for the club, when Guest Night will be observed, at eight o'clock that evening. Membership tickets will admit club members, and non-members will be admitted for the fee of fifty cents. Guest tickets may be obtained from Mrs. H. A. Nissen, tel. C. N. 2387, at the same price. The entertainment promised is very attractive-sounding. Nena Fales Peck of Hartford, Conn., is an imitative singer and player, is spoken of as a very popular and charming entertainer, and one that keeps her audience in a gale of laughter, and one that is sure to please.

Certainly there is no better way to please than to make one's audience laugh, for nothing is more wanted in a world that sometimes seems sad and drear! Too often in trying to escape from one's woes—real or fancied—one stumbles upon an "entertainment" that would lengthen one's face as does the freak mirror of longitude! A successful guest night is, therefore, assured the Newton Centre Woman's Club.

The Activities Committee, with Mrs. Helen Bacon as Chairman of this special event is likewise providing another delightful affair for the club—namely a Minstrel Show, for which we are informed that tickets are "selling three weeks in advance." The date is February 5th, so that tickets are now going on sale, and since this, too, is advertised with "come and have a good laugh," those who wish to take this advice will do well to secure their tickets at once. The Newton Centre Woman's Club has certainly discovered the recipe for success—namely laughter. Another inducement should be the statement that this Minstrel Show is to be composed of Home Talent, and "there is enough ability among the men of our community to afford a most enjoyable entertainment." Of course there is! One almost wonders why this needed to be said, but since it is stressed a good way to prove it is to go to the show! Dancing will follow the entertainment until the hour of one.

Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club

January 18th, again, assuredly a most popular date in clubdom this month—the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club is planning Pinks and Daughters Night, when Pitt Parker has been secured to enliven with his quickly-drawn and clever pictures on "This Funny Old World." The possibilities to be thought of even in a few seconds assure sons and daughters, fathers and mothers, grandfathers, grandmothers, aunts and cousins a most amusing entertainment. Mrs. Charles A. Chadwick is Chairman for the party to the young people, which will be held in Emerson Kindergarten, at 7:30 o'clock. Refreshments and a social hour will follow the program, so providing a royal reception to the honored guests.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS WOMAN'S CLUB

Two men much in the public eye at the present time, are to speak before the members of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club, Tuesday the 19th, on different phases of "Respect for the Law and its Relation to the Home." "Frank A. Goodwin, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, will talk on the subject, "Making the Highways more Sane," a reform of equal interest to men and women, which has led the Club to make the meeting an open one at which all interested residents of the village will be welcome, whether members of the club or not. A special invitation has been sent to members of the Men's Club to attend, and it is hoped that many of the local men, whose business takes them to Boston each day, will be able to arrange their engagements to permit their taking the 2:30 train from South Station, which will give opportunity to reach Lincoln Hall in time to hear the speakers.

Captain Parker of the Prohibition Force, will be the other speaker of the afternoon, talking on "Law Enforcement."

The Civics and Legislative Committees have joint charge of the program.

The first meeting of the Literature Class will be in the home of Mrs. B. W. Godsoe, 1066 Walnut street, Wednesday morning, the 20th, when Mrs. Louis H. Marshall will speak on "Tendencies in Modern English Prose and Verse." There will be five meetings in the course and the proceeds have been most generously assigned by Mrs. Marshall, to the work of the Education Committee.

If the Weather Bureau provides suitable conditions, there will be a snow shoe "hike" the same morning, led by Mrs. R. S. Ingram. The party will go in the general direction of Oak Hill, taking along luncheon to be cooked over an open fire in the woods and return home later, by way of the Charles River Country Club.

NEWTONVILLE WOMAN'S CLUB

Home Talent is the popular program for the Newtonville Woman's Club on January 19th, and this will be given in the Auditorium of the Frank A. Day Junior High School, at 2:30 P. M. The Orchestra, directed by Mr. Merrilee Hallett, Glee Club selections, a play, a dramatic reading, a dance, and movies, the last by courtesy of Mr. William Dearborn, will comprise the program. "The Silent System," a one-act play, will be acted by Miss Helen Savage and Mr. Francis Bacon. Miss Jane Grant will give a "Bit of Sunshine" dance, and a dramatic reading will be given by the Thur-bas-boy Troupe.

On Wednesday, January 20th, at 2:30 p. m., at the Junior High School Auditorium, Mrs. Carl A. Schrader will speak on Popular Books of the Day. Mrs. Schrader is an able and delightful speaker and the Literature Committee are fortunate in securing her for the first of a series of classes, which they will conduct. An invitation is extended to all club members. The occasion will be social, and tea will be served.

The Volunteer Service Committee, Mrs. H. R. Bankart, Chairman, reminds the club members of the benefit for disabled soldiers at Castle Sq. Theatre on January 21st, when "Abie's Irish Rose" will be given for that object. Any who wish to join the group who will attend are requested to notify Mrs. H. P. Bankart.

AUBURDALE WOMAN'S CLUB

On Wednesday evening, January 20th, at 8 o'clock, in the Congregational Church, Auburndale, there will be a Recital and Entertainment by Geoffrey O'Hara, who will tell "How Music is Made."

This meeting is held under the joint auspices of Lasell Seminary, and the Auburndale Woman's Club and is free to the community.

Owing to a conflict in dates this meeting is to be held on the 20th instead of the 19th as stated in the Auburndale Woman's Club Year Book, and each member is to be notified of the change.

Geoffrey O'Hara is known as a composer, singer, and lecturer, his "K-K-K-Katy", composed while he was Camp Community Song Leader during the World War, having been widely known. He has also become known for his research among the original "airs" of the American Indians, many of whose typical and weird chants he has "captured," and now preserved for us for all time. His compositions show wide range, from the solemn beauty of "There Is No Death" to the rollicking and pathetic music written for some of Dr. Drummmond's "Habitant" Poems. It is said of him as a lecturer that his entertainments are replete with original songs, chatty talks, humor and philosophy. Altogether, it would seem that the Auburndale Woman's Club had been as wise and skillful as the Newton Centre Club in its happy choice of program for an open meeting.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

Luncheon will be served to the Home Economics Class at the home of Mrs. Fred M. Blanchard on Thursday, January 21st, at one o'clock, followed by a talk on "Drapery Fabrics, Draperies, and Their Making," by Mr. Walter H. Bartlett of Chase Bros. At the meeting on Friday, January 22nd, at 2:30 P. M., in Players' Small Hall, Mr. Guy Richardson, Secretary to Dr. Francis H. Rowley, President of the American Humane Education Society, will address the club. The meeting will be in charge of the Education Committee, Mrs. A. L. Jordan, Chairman.

There will be a musical program under the direction of Mrs. Herman W. Birgfeld. Tea will be served.

Social Science Club

Social Service Club meeting for January 20th will be held at the home of Mrs. F. O. Stanley, 337 Waverley avenue, at 2:30 in the afternoon. A group of girls from Simmons College will give Old Ballads and Lyrics of the British Isles under the direction of Miss A. Louise Crockett of the English Literature Department. It will be a guest meeting.

LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

By Miss Lucia C. Coulson, C.S. of London, England, at Community Theatre, Newton, Sunday January 10, Draws A Large Audience.

If there was any doubt as to the extent of the interest taken in Christian Science in our midst, it would have been dispelled by seeing the large and thoughtful audience that filled every seat in the auditorium and galleries and overflowed into the standing room of the Community Theatre last Sunday afternoon. Miss Coulson, a cultured English lady, had for her subject, "Christian Science: Divine Affluence and the Human Need," and presented the question of the divine, always available supply, as it is understood and used in Christian Science. The lecturer was introduced by Mr. Wentworth P. Barker, First Reader of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Newton, in these words:

We are glad to have you here with us this afternoon as our guests and to you, as such, we extend a most cordial welcome. We also extend to you an equally cordial invitation to attend services in our new church edifice which is rapidly nearing completion and within a few weeks will be ready for occupancy.

The lecture you are here to hear I am sure you will receive joyously, as you can take it home with you put it into practice and get definite results in health, happiness, harmony.

The speaker comes from across the water from our Mother Country with whose people we in the United States have joined hands to bring "peace on earth, good will toward men."

She speaks with authority as she is a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts.

It gives me a great pleasure to introduce to you Miss Lucia C. Coulson, C. S. of London, England.

Miss Coulson spoke as follows: During the last few years the world has gone through an economic upheaval, which is perhaps unparalleled in history. The heritage of strife is always want, and want is always expressed in limitation. To find the way out of limitation into the fullness of experience, the fullness of opportunity, the fullness of success is the goal of most people, individually and collectively, and therefore whatever promises the overcoming of limitation should find a warm welcome to-day. I am going to speak to you this afternoon on this subject, and I am going to be bold enough to state at the outset that there is a Science, the Science of Christianity, which leads out of all limitation, which will enlarge your scope of thought and your scope of action, will widen your outlook and your experience, will release you from that which is small, sordid, and conventional, and leave you unfettered and untrammelled to exercise the inherent capabilities for good which belong to every one of you.

Do not hesitate to make such a sweeping statement as this, because I know that it can be proved. I have proved it in my own experience, and so I know that it is scientific. Whatever is scientific is demonstrable, and so Christian Science declares that its every statement can be proved by demonstration. That is its method, its scientific method, and its purpose is to heal; its purpose is salvation.

Christian Science heals the sick! Do you ask what sort of sickness does it heal? All sorts. It heals sickness of the body, functional and organic. It heals sickness of the heart. It heals a sick, unhappy disposition. It heals unhealthy morals, and it heals a sick business. Then does it heal poverty also? as an incredulous friend once asked me. Yes, it does! It heals it perfectly and completely; for Christian Science takes as its premise that man is the image and likeness of God. According to this premise poverty is as much an error as is sickness, for both of them are unlike God, and reasoning from this premise, I shall hope to show that we obtain satisfactory conclusions. Now the Christian will probably accept this premise from the start; but the man who is not a religionist, who does not believe the Bible or who at least does not consider it as inspired, will probably reject it. He will not, however, reject sensible evidence; and I shall hope to show, as I said before, that reasoning from this premise, we do obtain certain and satisfactory evidence.

In the first place, then, let us get some clear idea of what God is, that we may be able rightly to conceive of His image. Before we can say of a picture that it is a good likeness, we must have known the original. Science and Health tells us that God is Mind, and moreover that this Mind is infinite, the divine Mind. Does this seem reasonable? Well, what is the greatest power that we ourselves possess? The power to think. Without it we can do nothing. You could not walk into this hall, you could not exercise free-will, you could not run a car or make a pudding, or even sit down in a chair unless you were able to think. Your every action is dictated by some thought—not a very high order of thinking, possibly, in some cases, but still on every instance it must be thought translated into action. Then we are certainly mental beings, are we not? So we must certainly be the product or consequent of Mind.

"Back of the beating hammer, By which the steel is wrought, Back of the workshop's clamor, The seeker may find the thought, The thought that is ever master Of iron and of steel, That rises above disaster And tramples it under heel!"

Berton Braley (From The Christian Science Monitor) But, one may ask, why do you insist that the Mind which creates is divine, or in other words, Deity? Is it conceivable that the universe should be the product of the human mind? Can that mind control the planets or the stars in their courses? Can it add one cubit to your stature? Surely the Creator must be able to govern His own universe. It is still more inconceivable to assume matter, unthinking matter, to be the creator of mind. Even the theory of evolution by atomic force only pushes the question further back, to seek the cause of that force or energy with its intelligent design. Thus we are forced to seek a higher intelligence as Creator.

In that tremendous statement known to Christian Scientists as the "scientific statement of being," on page 468 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mrs. Eddy makes this startling announcement, "All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all." Infinite! That is, without limits, without bounds. What does Mind consist of? Ideas. Then these ideas must partake of the nature of Mind; they must be without limit, infinite. Those are the riches of Mind, of God. He is rich in ideas, rich in thoughts. Then His image, or man, partakes of and reflects infinite intelligence. Now intelligence is power, even humanly. Any man who knows more than his fellows along any line, however humble, will lift himself to a position of influence in that particular line; he will possess greater power than his fellows in that direction. The whole progress of mankind has consisted of the discovery and application of right ideas or true knowledge, and the glory of ideas is that they multiply by being shared. The discovery of radio did not merely enrich its discoverer; it continues to enrich us all impartially. Fundamentally poverty is a dearth of right ideas, and poverty will not cease to exist as long as there is infinite Mind and the supply is inexhaustible. Then if you are in need, there is only one thing necessary and that is to gain these enriching spiritual ideas, these valuable ideas, which will literally bring you in the necessary supply, the necessary funds. You may think that your need is for money, or a home, but it is not! The money might be lost in a night, the home might be broken up, but the right idea of these things when once you possess it, cannot be lost. It is productive. It will produce and reproduce. The substance of ideas is eternal. Once it is yours, you can demonstrate right work, useful supply, a better home. You will not go to your grave with the visible manifestation of these right ideas; but the substance and continuity of them, that which produces them, consists in a right understanding that their source is spiritual, a right understanding that everything good and true exists as an idea in the divine Mind and that it is these ideas entertained which heal sickness, poverty, and sin. They must become a part of your consciousness, for once they are included in your consciousness they will be manifest in your experience. Do you ask how this is done? I will give you a simple illustration. The right idea of work entertained—the truth that all activity is spiritual, perpetual, harmonious, the birthright of every living creature—this truth entertained "expands into expression" as Mrs. Eddy tells us in Science and Health (p. 255). It manifests itself in better work, increased activity; it approximates the spiritual ideal of work, which is divine expression.

Even a child can readily understand and demonstrate this. I remember a wonderful answer being given me by a little boy in a Christian Science Sunday School. It was during the late war, when food was so short and prices so high, and the sense of lack seemed very great. I noticed that the children in my class were being affected by it, that it seemed very real to some of them. So I reminded them that Christian Science heals such conditions, and I told them the best of good activity, would be so much more successful. It would place him on the credit side, so to speak. On the other hand, if the employer, instead of trying to squeeze all he can out of his employees and give as little as possible in return, if instead of holding such an attitude of thought, he would realize that just and generous giving would enrich his business, and that it would enable him to get ten times as much out of his workmen, what would be the result? It would be on a fair way to solution. God lives to give, and man, God's reflection, lives in giving!

In the Christian Science textbook we read on page 79 that "giving does not impoverish us in the service of our Maker, neither does withholding enrich us." The "service of our Maker"! That is the crux of the whole matter. Every business can be made the Father's business, if we look to Him to govern and direct it.

There never was a greater giver than Mary Baker Eddy. She gave without stint of her time, her thought, her life's blood. There is a picture of Mrs. Eddy which those who knew her say is indicative of her nature and her attitude towards humanity. She stands on her balcony at Pleasant View, as she stood to greet her followers one summer day, and her hands are stretched out, open, as one would stand who scatters largesse. Thus in old days, the king's gold was given, scattered freely amongst the poor, the aged, the infirm, the destitute. And in modern days, this woman gave of the gold of her inspired health thoughts; gave to the sick and heavy-laden, gave to those destitute of joy and health, to those beggared of reputation and success, and thousands there are in this and other countries who bear witness to the fact that her thoughts and words have healed them. Yes, thousands upon thousands today rise up and call her blessed.

For to this woman was given to discover a great Science, to found a great religion, and she was the first woman in all history to do either. In the early sixties woman was hardly emancipated. If she wrote at all, it was under a non-de-plume, and she chose a man's signature in order to have her work a chance of success. Moreover, let us take into consideration the environment in which Mary Baker Eddy lived and wrote; a New England town, filled with simple, unlearned people for the most part, and governed largely by prejudice and convention. In an upper room, a little attic room of a modest house in that town, this woman sat and wrote from early morning until the sun went down. She had an open Bible before her and the thoughts came to her quickly. When night came, she tells us, the thoughts stopped coming, and then she would turn to the Bible, reading and pondering the Scriptures. So for three years she wrote and studied, and at the end of three years there came forth from that little room, in Lynn, a book which ran contrary to every accepted theory, a book which met with ridicule and resistance in all directions, and yet a book which has to a great extent revolutionized modern thought, a book for whose sake (while it has been translated into two languages) many, many people in foreign lands are today studying the English tongue in order that they may read it in the original. Is it too much to say that without an unconquerable faith in her divine mission, without divine aid, such a result would have been impossible?

It was the mighty truth which had been revealed to her, the Science she had discovered, which enabled her thus to achieve, and it is here today to lift us to achievement.

Now I said that the truth of the inexhaustible nature of supply must be demonstrated gradually, and there are several reasons for this. One is that the human mind is apt to run to extremes, and when told that supply is inexhaustible is inclined to be wasteful. Wastefulness prevents demonstration, because it is not in accord with divine law. When Jesus had just manifested his perfect understanding of supply, when he had produced food for the multitude, then, right then, he commanded, "Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost." There is no room for waste or for extravagance in the divine economy; and notice that economy is a divine idea, for that word means judicious expenditure, and however plentiful our supply, expenditure must always be judicious.

Another requisite for scientific demonstration is honesty, scrupulous honesty. If a man gives to himself and withhold from his brother, he is disobeying the Golden Rule that most successful of all business policies, which brings a sure reward to all who practice it. The man who is not strictly honest and yet talks of "demonstrating supply" can never succeed, even materially.

The busiest man or woman is often apt to keep his finger on the pulse of his business, so to speak; apt to watch it all the time, so as to be quite sure how the debit and credit columns stand. Now in turning to Christian Science for healing, the first thing the student learns is to "look away from the body into Truth and Love," as Science and Health tells us (p. 261), to turn away from the material evidence and fix the thought on the divine perfection. In the proportion that he is faithful in this effort, does he receive healing. There is the story of a little boy who was given a watch. After a very short time the watch stopped going. Then it was discovered that every half-hour or so the boy took it to pieces to see how the works were getting on. If the business man or woman would look upon their business as a means of self-expression and leave the results to God, they would give divine Principle a chance to operate.

And now let us return for a moment to the thought with which we started, the thought of God as source to whom alone we must look in working out our problem. If you are a child, your supply does not come primarily from your parents. If you are a business-man, your supply does not come primarily from your business. In every instance it comes from God alone, although He may choose these ways of conveying it to us. When we see this, we begin to worry less about ways and means. Worry is a habit of thought, and a very costly one. Confidence can also become a habit of thought, and it pays! Why should this thought of God as source fill us with confidence and assurance? Simply because this infinite Mind is also Love unspeakable. Have you watched a mother's solace for the comfort of her babe? Have you seen her eager ministry to its needs? Tenderly than the tenderest mother's care is divine Love's ministry to its own—the affluence poured forth upon its children.

There was once a blind man who was very poor, so poor that he sat by the roadside begging. Many there were who passed by and paid no heed to him; but at length, one day he heard the sound of a large crowd of people approaching, and he asked some one standing by what it meant. The bystander told him that "Jesus of Nazareth passed by." At those words the blind beggar roused himself and standing up, he cried, "Thou son of David, have mercy on me!" The people who were escorting the procession turned on him with indignation and told him to stop shouting and hold his peace. But that poor man was rich in some respects. He was rich in courage, rich in determination, rich in faith. The scorn of the multitude could not silence him. The more they rebuked him, the more he cried out, "Thou son of David, have mercy on me!" And then something unlooked for happened. The central figure of the procession suddenly stood still, and with the authority that characterized his speech, commanded the man to be brought to him; and when he was led up to him asked, "What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee?" And the blind man answered, "Lord, that I may receive my sight." Then said Jesus, "Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee."

Now, why did Jesus ask that question? Any one might have guessed that the man wanted healing of his blindness and Jesus must have known that. The reason for the question was, I think, made plain in the statement, "Thy faith hath saved thee." For Bartimeus's faith was being tested, and how did it stand the test? He did not ask an alms. He did not say, "Do something for me if you can," or even, "If you are willing, no doubt you can heal me." No, he asked instantly for the one transcendent gift of sight, the complete restoration of that which he lacked. He claimed it all and was evidently certain that it could and would be bestowed, and in this respect he gave us an example of true prayer. How seldom we claim enough! How seldom we pray with the certain conviction of a Bartimeus that our prayer will be answered!

The absolute truth for every one of God's children is infinite perfection. In our prayers we must always claim that and nothing less, for in Christian Science prayer consists more largely of affirmation than petition; even as Jesus the Christ at the grave of Lazarus exclaimed, "Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me." Before Lazarus had risen from the tomb. Again, by the bedside of Jairus's daughter he declared, "The maid is not dead, but sleepeth." So the Christian Scientist thanks God that He has made him whole, and in that sense he declares, I am not sick, because God made me in His image, and the Christ, Truth, is here to waken me to life and health. For the Christ is without beginning of years or end of days. The prophets of old perceived this Christ or Truth sufficiently to heal in many instances the sick and sinning. In this age the incorporeal Christ, whose mission is to redeem mankind from every ill that flesh is heir to, has become better understood and demonstrated. Therefore affirm your birthright! Claim more; expect more. Ask not merely for improved health, but claim your wholeness. Ask not for just enough to make both ends meet, but affirm the infinite abundance. Claim not just a job, but the very best work in all the world for you, that which will give you infinite scope, infinite opportunity. We cannot make our claims too large, because we cannot even begin to desire as great and infinite a blessing as is already ours in the truth of being, in the realm of the real, the infinite and unlimited universe where our work is to experience and express and enjoy infinite good, infinite liberty, infinite Love, infinite power. Thinking along these lines may not lift us all instantly into the full realization of our birthright, but it will begin to widen and enrich and enlarge our present experience.

Today the Science of Christianity, repeating in some measure the works of the healing Christ, calls aloud, "What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee?" What if at first there should be no answer? What if those should frown upon us? Remember Bartimeus was rebuked and Jesus at first was silent. Therefore persist!

"What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee?" And the answer should be the same. There is in reality only one need. That we may receive our sight! That we may see past the suggestions of lack, past the supposition of sickness, deep into the truth of being. That we may look through the apparition of matter, and discern the present divine reality. That we may brush aside the mist of sense-testimony and see things as they are,—look from God's side upon the universe, and see that it is good! There is no lack visible to that cleansed and spiritualized vision. No sick and suffering mortals mar its view,—only the sons and daughters of Elohim, glad with the joy of Life eternal, radiant with the shining of a love that is universal. Love is Life, and lives in giving and in blessing. Love that is substance, because our God is Love!

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by LEVERETT D. G. BENTLEY

This is the stock-taking season. Stores, manufacturers and mercantile establishments in general survey the goods on hand, arrange for profitable "turnovers" and outline the year's plans. Something very much like that takes place in every State and in the cities of every State. The Chief Executives, whether Governors or Mayors, present at public exercises the result of their thoughts and study and point out what should be done to improve conditions. We are sure it is for them a plain civic duty and we feel that their words ought to receive more consideration than is usually given. Although the public gets these addresses in full through the press, it is for the legislative body before whom it is delivered that the address is intended. The chief executive naturally prepares his observations for the benefit of the people at large, however. If he is a politician, or a man of keen political discernment, let us say, he can remark, "Well, I have told them what they ought to do and if they don't do it the people can't blame me." Not always are a chief executive's recommendations carried out to the letter. Sometimes there are good reasons why they are not. More often it is the lack of available funds. And other times sheer politics prevents the carrying-out of many admirable suggestions and recommendations. We feel that Massachusetts is blessed with a Governor whose vision is clear. It is our belief that the Legislature will seriously consider most of the things he has stated. "How many will they adopt? The same is true in our home city. The Mayor has, in our opinion, placed before the Board of Aldermen a document that is full worthy of their most respectful attention. We believe that it will receive it. Differences of opinion on matters not concerning the city's welfare have no place so far as the taxpayer's interests are involved. For that reason we hope for harmony, together with results that will make 1926 a memorable year.

Like the prohibition amendment, which we have no intention of discussing, there are other laws, rules and regulations that in some quarters are "more honored in the breach than the observance." Recently we heard Gov. Fuller's appeal for the restoration of the "old time respect for law" and we unhesitatingly agreed that the Governor, was, as usual, talking common sense. Although it was in the matter of grave offences that the Governor urged more rigorous legislation, we could not help but think of the minor things that indicate a disrespect for law and order. This is not intended to be a homily on behavior, but rather on thoughtlessness. We are not prepared to express our views on prison offences or even misdemeanors. What we have in mind is perhaps among the very last things that involves court procedure. There are many trifling misdeeds that are not committed because the public "won't stand for it." A community that has high ideals of personal conduct will not only frown upon but will even go further when an individual misbehaves. This resentment is aroused by the thought that the offender "dares to think it would be countenanced." In other words, the people set up a standard for themselves and without the threat of punishment they observe it and expect others to do the same. And yet there are some things which they refuse to take seriously and which in a way are equally important. For instance, in the railroad station at Newton is a sign, "No Smoking Allowed." Who will say that this is part of the campaign of the anti-tobacco movement. Of course it isn't for the sign has been there for years. And as far as that goes it might never have been put up at all for it is just a sign. As a tobacco user, let us say, we assume that the sign is a reminder that there are patrons of the road who must resort to the waiting room and who do not want to be smothered with tobacco smoke. They are not necessarily "kickers" or "fuss budgets." The smoke may upset them. Therefore they are entitled to consideration. The trains are quite all right. There is no smoking room at the depot, although there used to be one in the old Newton station. The other morning the station was well filled with men and women waiting for a Boston-bound train and a score or more of men—friends of ours among them—were smoking their heads off. We can almost hear a loud laugh as we describe the station. "It's a joke, isn't it? Well, there you are. One matter we take seriously and another we find the source of unbounded mirth. No crime has been committed; no one has been injured and the law hasn't even been fractured. We can say that it is poor taste and more or less the result of thoughtlessness.

We read the other day of a "drive to end drives." Such a thing might be highly desirable if human nature were constituted somewhat differently. Until, however, people realize their obligations in the matter of local philanthropies there will have to be letters of appeal sent out by those in charge of charitable or public welfare movements. The burden of this work falls upon willing men and women who are prompted by conviction and whose own attitude in taking charge of the soliciting of subscriptions proves their sincerity. Always there is to be found the selfish and close-fisted from whom it is difficult to obtain contributions. These latter are the people who make "drives" a necessity. Newton has one institution, which, it seems to us, ought to cause everybody to respond without hesitation. The Newton Hospital's needs have grown with the city. If no other argument were offered the very fact that the population of Newton has reached to more than 50,000 and that accidents due directly and indirectly to automobiles, are increasing, seems to us to prove that the demand for a larger and better equipped hospital is very evident. We can see it plainly as an economic proposition. Let us hope this may be the view of such of our fellow citizens not otherwise influenced. The Newton Hospital must be supported. Let it be maintained by the citizens on a plane as high as the highest of civic ideals.

There seems to have sprung-up from various sections of New England champion fiddlers who for one reason or another make themselves interesting to the public and profitable attractions from the viewpoint of theatrical managers. Does this mean a revival of old-time dances and if so what will come of it? We have had the pleasure of witnessing country dances, with a fiddler seated on an improvised platform, calling out the dances. To us it seemed a part of the general atmosphere. Not all the dancers, particularly the younger set, were committed to the old-time steps but as a general thing everybody participated in the square dances, so-called. It never occurred to us that any of the fiddlers we heard were so remarkable as to warrant public attention for his musical powers. We are not possessed of a musical mind, we regret to say, and for that reason it seemed to us that these fiddlers were best at scrapping. A sensitive musical ear would resent the alleged melody set forth. When men and women make a lifetime study of music, devoting hours and hours to practice and finally achieve accomplishment they are, in our opinion, deserving of praise and entitled to whatever monetary profit that may come their way. So few do gather in large sums for their labors that when some "great musician" is "discovered" the world pays him full tribute. We, however, would say a word for the musician who loves his profession, who likes to play to entertain others and who in teaching seeks to impart the best that is in him to his pupils. Such a man or woman has a background that comes only from many years of serious effort. He or she has learned that there are musical standards which must be observed. But does the public rush to applaud or praise these people? Not very often. And yet when somebody comes along with a fiddle and by his picturesque personality and not his music gathers thousands of dollars in a short time, the public puts him down as a "wonder." Is he, or are his patrons victims of their own credulity? Happily, the art of music will outlive these flashes of fame acquired by musical fakirs and the classics will survive. Earnest followers of Beethoven, Chopin and the other great masters have nothing to fear, although the coin may roll in upon the fiddle-scrappers and tin-pan players. The worth-while in music will never be smothered by the worthless, even though the latter receive generous public support and the former find compensation only in sheer love of art.

Freak legislation will not down. This year Massachusetts will have its share, although it may not be a large one. If it were not that publicity were given some of these grotesque bills there would be fewer of them offered. But we all like to know what is going on and if it provides us with a laugh so much the better. There is always opportunity for a few more bills so we think that we may, before the last hour for filing, provide our own little list. We may offer the following:

An act to prohibit the wearing of overshoes unbuckled in public places.
An act to prohibit bragging about the speed of one's car or the amount of mileage obtained on a single gallon of gasoline.
An act to prohibit dragging a friend in to hear a radio concert and then forcing him to remain while the owner of the set indulges in "station chasing."

An act to prohibit the giving of advice on how to cure colds by home remedies.
An act to prohibit requesting a third helping of ice-cream at a public banquet.
An act to prohibit stamping-off snow from shoes in a private citizen's front hall.

NEWTON SALES

Alford Bros. report that they have sold for the Newton Theological Institution a large tract of land bordering about 2,000 feet on Ripley street and Langley road, Newton Centre, to a group of Newton Centre men headed by W. Mark Noble, Jr. This land has been in the possession of the Theological Institution since its foundation and required intricate work in conveyancing as the title had to be searched through a period of years beyond the Revolutionary War. The total area of approximately 150,000 square feet will be divided into twenty house lots by the purchaser, on which either single or two-family houses may be built. It is understood that the greater portion of these lots have already been sold. This transfer is unique in that it is probably the last large transfer of available two-family land within five minutes' walk of the Newton Centre Station.

One of the fine old homes in Newton Centre located at No. 881 Beacon street has just been sold to the Crescent Real Estate Trust for F. L. Burditt. The property consists of a ten room house with three baths, and about 15,000 square feet of land. The valuation is about $17,000.

A new house at No. 12 Pinecrest road, Newton Centre, has been sold to F. L. Burditt for the Crescent Real Estate Trust. The property includes about 8,000 square feet of land and a heated garage; the whole is valued at approximately $16,000.

No. 7 Kingman road, Newton Highlands, has recently been transferred to Mildred H. Goodwin from Olga A. Pelrice. Mrs. Goodwin will occupy as a home. The property is valued at $9,500.

Arthur C. Badger has sold to Caroline S. Rogers a parcel of land of one acre on the southeasterly side of Dudley road, valued at about $4,500. The new owner intends to build a house for her own occupancy.

A COMMUNICATION

Dear Editor,
In view of the special interest in police work at present you may find space for the following story.

Not long ago a policeman was standing, late at night, in the square at Newton Centre. A man walked toward him.

"Hi," said the officer to himself. "He is down to the water-line, but seems to carry his load fairly well."

He stopped the man a moment to question him. The fellow seemed to be all right, and went on. As he passed under the light, however, the officer noticed that he was covered with dirt, and he called the man back.

Again the stranger answered his questions so well that he had no reason to arrest him, tho' still in doubt about his story.

The man asked the way to Watertown. He directed him down Centre street, and followed him with his eye till he vanished in the dark.

Two minutes later the light on his signal box flashed.

"Say," came the voice from the desk, "have you seen a man pass that way?"

A girl had been assaulted by a stranger, who struck her on the head with a whiskey bottle, breaking her teeth, and cutting her face.

"Yes," said the officer. "Drive up Centre street, and you may see him. I will walk down from this end."

The officer made all speed down Centre street. When he reached Homer street he could still see nothing of his man.

Suspecting that the stranger had turned that way, he turned into Homer street himself. Soon he spied the man ahead.

By a quick detour he got before the stranger, stopped him, questioned him, and arrested him. He was taken to West Newton, and proved to be the very man they were looking for.

But this is a story about the policeman, not the prisoner. The officer went back on his beat, and watched through the night till eight o'clock of a cold morning. Then, with a hasty bite, and a cup of coffee to prop up his drooping eyelids, he went to court, where he waited till the man's case was called, and testified before the judge.

The man was held for the Superior Court, and the officer was then free to get what sleep he could before he went on duty again.

Several weeks later, this policeman was planning his day off, which began the next morning. He was full of the plans for spending the leisure day, when a notice was handed him. The man he arrested on Homer street was up for trial in the Superior Court, the following morning.

Goodby to a leisure day. He must sit, perhaps all day, surely half of it, in a court room.

All plans were off till his next chance for a holiday came round.

As a reward for vigilance and care in his work, this policeman had to spend many hours in court, to lose part of one day, and all of another day, out of his own time.

This happens in Newton and every other community in the State as a part of the daily routine.

Every man who is asked his opinion, says it is wrong from every angle. There seems to be no argument about it. It is unfair to the officer. It is a stupid practice among people who hope for watchful protection by men half asleep from fatigue.

All agree that, instead of being penalized, an officer should get extra leave for such a service. It is the simplest thing in the world to adjust; merely a matter of money. A few extra men to take the place of officers thus engaged, will solve the problem.

Strange as it may seem, a man does not change into iron when he becomes an officer; and (all appearance to the contrary) the heads of other people do not turn into wood when they move into a large city.

Yours very truly,
ERNEST COBB.

DON'T WAIT FOR BREAKDOWN

Writer Gives Reasons Why It Pays to Have Regular Times for Physical Examinations.

Most people have had the experience of going to a doctor for an examination at some time in their lives, some have had to go many times. Usually they have gone because there was something wrong with them, pain, fever, a cough, a rash or what not, but anyway, something for the doctor to study, give a name to and prescribe for. But imagine the factory manager who waits for the machinery in his plant to break down before he gives thought to having it overhauled—how long would he keep his job? Is his machinery more important or more liable to accidents than that of your body? Don't you think it would pay to have it overhauled before the breakdown comes and to see if the machinery is really being run efficiently?

In Hygeia, Dr. Haven Emerson, professor of public health in Columbia university, gives reasons enough to convince the most skeptical that health examinations pay, not only in increased health but also in dollars and cents. "It has grown to be a custom" for people who employ men and women in large numbers in shops and factories "to have each new employee examined to see if he or she is in sound health." And again: "Many of the unions are requiring an annual health examination of their members, because they have found this the best way to prevent the illnesses which cost their sick benefit funds so much." If these people who are in big business find it worth while and economical there is probably something in it.

STILL AFTER BOLL-WEEVIL

Department of Agriculture Experts Looking Into Another Scheme for Pest's Extirpation.

An attempt to attack the conquering cotton boll-weevil by more subtle means than have hitherto been employed is about to be started by the Department of Agriculture. Such crude methods as gassing and poisoning having been ineffective, the insect is going to be lured to his doom through his sense of smell. At least such is the hope of the department experts.

A research is about to be begun to find out if there be any particular odor or emanation from the cotton plant which attracts the weevil. If such is found, it will be studied until the chemical substances which cause its action are isolated. It is hoped these may then be made synthetically and used to lure the pest of the cotton fields from the cotton to poison baits or else to cause him to raise a family before the cotton is developed enough to furnish them with proper means of support.—By Science Service.

Schools in Philippines.

The Philippine Islands have a total of 8,174 schools, public and private, with an approximate enrollment of 1,160,000, according to the bureau of education and the superintendent of private schools. It is estimated that the Philippines have a population of 2,500,000 children of school age.

Public schools alone number 7,641 and attendance reached a total of 1,094,472 during the last year, while private schools number 532 and have an enrollment of 64,835.

Eighty-five per cent of the private schools in the Philippines are religious institutions, and only 15 per cent secular. Seventy-seven per cent of the religious private schools are Catholic, while the remaining 8 per cent are Protestant.

The public school system, in which English is taught, includes 24,878 teachers, 341 of whom are Americans.

The Real Divorce Reason.

One of these solemn statistical researches into the divorce question has been completed back East, and the researchers have announced with proper impressiveness the result of their inquiry. They announce eight principal reasons for the prevailing instability of marriage. One reason is:

"Failure of contracting parties to regard properly the solemn bonds of matrimony."

The other seven reasons don't matter.

All divorce researches so far have been, in a sense, failures. That is, none of them has yet discovered that 35 per cent of all divorces result from refusal of the party of the second part to appreciate properly the humorous anecdotes told by the party of the first part.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Reason for Embarrassment.

I had always been accused of doing eccentric things, but I didn't realize the truth of it until one Sunday. I roomed just across the street from the church I attended. I went to church without an umbrella. When the services were over it was pouring outside. Having on a perfectly respectable undershirt, I turned my suit skirt over my head. Half way across the street a little boy rushed up to me and shouted: "Teacher, you've got both your skirts over your head!"—Exchange.

Honor Memory of Byron.

Recently the grammar school of Aberdeen unveiled a statue of Lord Byron, its most distinguished pupil, who died a hundred years ago.

The poet went north in 1792 and became a pupil of the grammar school in 1795, continuing there for three years. The places where he spent his vacations as a schoolboy are much visited by admirers.

JUST TALKED OF SQUIRRELS

Listener Discovered That "Big" Men Are Not Always Discussing "Big" Business.

Two pilgrims were following the road to Mecca. At the treasury steps they met up with a squirrel that reminded the one who looked as if he owned a railroad to say to the other: "I was showing my kid around the White House yesterday, and as there are no squirrels in the streets at home, it sort of frightened the boy when one of these little rascals tagged us. I told him that all it wanted was peanuts and that when it wanted we had none it would go away—whereupon the little chap had a bright idea.

"Well, daddy, you could give him a nickel, couldn't you?"

The two chuckled with the ease that comes of good nature united to health, and the other man—who looked as if he owned two railroads and a good mine—started in on a story of his own:

"I wouldn't be afraid to bet squirrels could learn to spend nickels, at that. One time we were having a rumput in the senate, with old Blank giving our side oratorical blood and thunder, and, sir, just as we were about to be flayed alive, along hops a squirrel up the aisle, jumps on Blank's arm extended in denunciation—sits on its haunches and begins to beg. It seems he had a pull on the old man, who always carried nuts in his pocket—and it saved the day for us."

And by that time the story was through with, and the two pilgrims had reached the Garden of Allah—with a listener behind.—Washington Star.

HAD NO FURTHER USE FOR IT

Little Sonny at Party Returned Empty Plate to His Rather Surprised Hostess.

Children are among the most beautiful springtime decorations of the national capital.

The freshness of these human flowers is something that never grows old. They are among the decorations that are with us always.

With this prelude here is another anecdote of Sonny.

When he was about two years old, just walking nicely and talking a bit, he was invited to a party given by a young lady of about the same age. His mother took him and left him there, then went away to return for him later.

After the children had played, the "eats" were served. Even the smallest ones were given a little ice cream. Sonny enjoyed his thoroughly.

Then he turned to his hostess.

"Here!" he said, handing her his plate, getting down from the table and making his departure.—Washington Star.

Getting a Spring Bonnet.

On a gusty day recently when the breezes were making playthings of one's headgear, a young woman was observed chasing her hat in Washington street, near Meridian street. It was a new spring bonnet, resplendent with gay flowers.

The wind was strong, and the young woman was not able to keep up. A gust tossed the hat in the air, and a hundred feet away. Two women, seeing the woman's plight, started also in chase of the hat. Suddenly, from the crowd, a fourth woman leaped out and grabbed the hat. With-out looking she made for the nearest doorway, holding the hat closely to her side. The other women started toward her, and she began to run. She gained the doorway, and was lost in the aisles of a department store.—Indianapolis News.

Children Like "Play Cars."

"Play as You Enter" is the welcome sign on the sides of the "Jollytown" trolley cars in Baltimore, near one of the city parks, where the traction company has set aside several cars for the children to play in. The cars are complete in every detail except that the power is turned off and they are anchored to the ground. Instead of the usual advertising cards, Mother Goose rhymes and animal pictures are displayed along the sides. The constant din of register bells, clanging gongs, starting and stopping signals, and the loud calling of imaginary and unheard-of street names afford a noisy proof to the amused passers-by of the extreme popularity of the "play cars" as the crews take them along fancied routes.

Pays Honors to Pasteur.

Admirers and disciples of Pasteur in France are commemorating his memory by scholarships as well as by centennial celebrations, according to information reaching Washington. The Association for the Extension of Pastorian Studies in Paris has established scholarships for young scientists amounting to 300,000 francs and is now issuing a special Pasteur medal as a means of raising additional funds for this purpose.

Lumber Production Decreasing.

Lumber production has been gradually decreasing in the United States, reports the Department of Agriculture. A survey recently made of 37 eastern and southern lumber-producing states showed that in one there was a slight increase made in 1920. On the other hand, states on the Pacific coast report substantial increases, showing that the center of production is shifting to the western states, the last of our softwood reserves.

LOOK FOR HOARD OF BANDIT

Exploring Party Believes It Is on the Right Path to Robber's Treasure House.

Psychic messages from St. Nicholas are said by an archeologist in charge of excavations in the Balkans to have led to the discovery of the subterranean stronghold of Ali Pasha, a famous bandit who terrorized the Balkans a century ago.

According to the London Express the skeletons of 25 men were found, believed to have been killed because they discovered the secrets of Ali Pasha's treasure house and its labyrinthine passages. The principal one is about 1,100 yards long, intersected by tunnels leading into darkness, or returning by devious routes to their main corridor.

All Pasha's father was murdered by neighboring chieftains, and his mother urged him to take revenge. His fierceness and indomitable courage brought terror to the Balkans. In avenging the death of his father he grew rich on the spoils of war.

All Pasha assisted the Turks in their war with Russia in 1787, and was laden with honors. He became the ruling power in Albania, and helped Napoleon, with the ambition of establishing his kingdom as a sea-power. Being disappointed, he next fought against Napoleon, and negotiated peace with Great Britain in the name of the Ottoman government. On emerging from the grand vizier's tent he was treacherously murdered.

The exploring party hopes soon to reach the crypt where the treasures are believed to lie. These riches are said to embrace money, jewels, tapestries and a collection of golden Byzantine chalices, stolen from churches.

TREAT FOR THE YOUNGSTERS

"Man on Horseback" Proved That He Could Unbend—Truly a "Very Lovely Sunday."

The man on horseback has stood through many centuries as the type of the haughty, superior person. He rides while others plod. He looks down upon the rest of us. And riders in the park are very superior persons indeed. Yet one who easily bestrode a handsome chestnut horse was seen the other Sunday afternoon to stop beside the railing near the Sixty-sixth street gate, westward, where stood a woman with many children.

He reined in, borrowed an urchin and set it on the pommel of his saddle. Very gently he trotted off, very lightly he turned and very softly he cantered back, never getting beyond the brave but anxious mother's sight. Then he borrowed another urchin and did it again. And then another. And each time, as he handed the proud child back, he slipped something into his hand.

A man who walks in the park regularly says he has never in many years of walking there seen the like happen before. It was a very lovely Sunday.—New York Times.

Europe's Surplus Spinsters.

The German statistics office has made the announcement that there are on the continent of Europe 25,000,000 women, the majority of them young and marriageable, who must either embrace polygamy or go unmarried, as there are not sufficient men to furnish them with husbands.

In 1913 Europe had a recorded population of 409,000,000 people, and a surplus of 9,500,000 women. The present population is estimated at 475,000,000, with a surplus of 25,000,000 women. To each batch of a thousand men there are 1,111 women.

Russia has the largest number of women, 1,229 to 1,000 men; Germany stands second with 1,100, Austria third with 1,069. Holland is the most favored in this regard, for in that country the surplus has decreased from 1,029 to 1,010 women to 1,000 men.

Immense Area of Yellowstone.

Yellowstone, in northwestern Wyoming, is the largest of the national park system, having an area of 3,348 square miles. It has more geysers than all the rest of the world combined. Furthermore, it has boiling springs, mud volcanoes, petrified forests and large deep lakes and waterfalls, one of which, the Great Falls of the Yellowstone, is nearly twice as high as Niagara. Its Grand canyon, remarkable for its gorgeous coloring, is incomparable, and except for small parts of the African jungle is the most thickly populated wild animal region in the world, including deer, elk, bison, moose, antelope, bear and mountain sheep, with endless varieties of wild birds.

Wrong Oil in the Salad.

We were having the bishop of the diocese to dinner one evening and I had included a salad in my menu.

My little daughter leaned over and whispered, "Mother, what's the matter with the oil on the salad? It tastes so queer?" What was my horror, on investigating, to find that the drug store had sent us castor oil instead of the olive oil we always bought for its purity. I have often wondered what the bishop thought.—Chicago Tribune.

Impressive Figures.

In the city of New York today there are 33,000 manufacturing establishments, with $3,940,000,000 of capital, employing in round numbers 640,000 wage earners, who receive $893,000,000 annually for their services in turning out products having an aggregate value of between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000.

FAREWELL DINNER

The aldermen tendered the farewell dinner to the retiring members of the Board at the Wardroom Club on Monday evening. The Wardroom Club is located on Rows Wharf, but has no connection with the Argonaut Club. It is a very decorous place with a nautical atmosphere. Nearly all of the members of the 1925 Board were present to honor their colleagues who have retired. Aldermen Crosby, Lloyd, Parker, Walton and White. Present as guests were Mayor Childs, City Solicitor Bartlett and City Clerk Grant.

The "piece de resistance" of the dinner was "Guinea chicken." Guinea hens may be no canary birds as vocalists, but, according to the aldermen, this breed of fowl in the flapper stage, is very tender, when cooked. The meal was judged delicious by the diners and conformed nicely to the requirements imposed by the 18th Amendment. No cocktails were served, not even oyster cocktails.

The dinner reflected the almost complete harmony which has prevailed in the Newton Board of Aldermen during recent years. A delightful camaraderie prevailed among all present, and the dove of peace hovered constantly, even though the Guinea chicken completely disappeared. Short speeches were made by the Mayor, Mr. Bartlett, President of the retiring members. Choral singing was indulged in under the lead of ex-Alderman Walton, with George King as accompanist.

A LITTLE PREACHMENT

With Apologies to Edgar A. Guest

At the beginning of this year I wish to make it very clear, It's wise to just "wash off the slate" And do it now, ere it's done too late— Just "cut it out."

If you've an ancient, cherished grudge Which will not down,—which will not budge, Somebody hurt you, years ago— You can't forget it, as you know— Just "cut it out."

You've had some disappointments too, Most of us do, before we're through. Do try and see how much remains, For losses bring their blessed gains. Just "cut it out."

If you have walked with Sorrow In the sad and lonely days, Look up! the glad Tomorrow, See! the Sun sends down its rays. Just "cut it out."

Freda B. Fisher.

DEATH OF WILLIAM BARNARD

Mr. William Long Barnard, for many years associated with R. H. Stearns Company of Boston as a buyer, died suddenly Friday night at his home at 16 Bonwood street, Newtonville. Mr. Barnard was born in Shelburne, May 15, 1848. As a young man he removed to Springfield where for twenty-five years he was in business under the firm name of Long, Barnard & Service. Later coming to Boston he was associated with R. H. Stearns Company, with whom he remained until ill health compelled his retirement several years ago. He is survived by his wife and one son, Edward Barnard.

NEWTON HOSPITAL AID

The monthly Board Meeting of the Newton Hospital Aid Association was held in the New Church Parlor, Newtonville, Tuesday, January 12, with good attendance.

The visitors for last month, Mrs. Polhemus and Mrs. Hardy, brought very interesting and satisfactory reports of their recent visits to the hospital.

Generous donations were voted at this meeting for purchases of new equipment and for replenishing, as necessitated by immediate needs at the hospital.

D. R. MEETING

Mrs. Edward P. Bosson opened her beautiful home on The Ledges road, Newton Centre on Wednesday afternoon for the monthly meeting of Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R. There was a short business meeting followed by an excellent reading of Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" by Miss Flora M. Bosson, daughter of the hostess. Mrs. Kirtley F. Mather was the pianist.

A social hour followed the formal program, Mrs. Bosson being assisted by the following hostesses, Mrs. J. C. Brimblecom, Mrs. James A. Curtin, Mrs. Ada E. Davidson, Mrs. Frank P. Fletcher and Miss Kate Fox.

"HIKES" GROW IN POPULARITY

City People Every Day Becoming More Addicted to Long Walks Through the Country.

Days of the hike picnic are here. The hike picnic differs from the old-fashioned sedentary picnic in that the picnickers do not sit on the grass, but walk on it.

It is an entirely peripatetic social function, except when those who walk stop briefly for rest or luncheon. These walking clubs now exist in cities all over the country. From the first one in Washington, they have multiplied greatly. New York city has hundreds of them, so that a wide page is devoted in some of the dailies to mapping out and describing "routes" in the nearby country.

Recently, in Kansas City, a walking excursion was advertised on a certain day, to which the invitation was general, and more than 1,000 excursionists were on hand on the bright and sunny morning with which the event was favored.

It might have suggested the beginning of Peter the Hermit's celebrated hike, although this time banners were neglected.

If hikes are to become one of the great outdoor diversions it may not be long until armies move down the country roads armed with sandwiches and tin drinking cups, filling the air with songs and conversational clamor of the populace.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

NEWTON HOSPITAL

Week ending January 2—Patients in hospital 123, patients paying as much as cost of care or more 62, patients paying less than cost of care 35, free patients, including babies 31, babies born 10, patients treated by out patient department 83, patients treated at eye clinic 2, accident cases 10, social service calls at hospital 16, at homes 1, patients transferred by social service car 3.

During December the hospital admitted 272 patients, and discharged 255, the largest number of patients during any twenty-four hours was 123, the smallest number of patients during any twenty-four hours was 89, making a daily average of 106.97 (the daily average one year ago was 109.18). Patients treated by the outpatient department 465, patients treated by the eye clinic 26, accident cases 49, operating room cases (including accidents) 192, X-Ray cases 177, social service calls at hospital 54, at homes 22, patients transferred by the social service car 25.

Although 10 babies were born during the week not one was born on New Year's day.

The Know More Kokki Klub held its usual meeting at the hospital Monday night, January 4. The Newton Hospital Training School held a meeting at the Hospital Monday afternoon, January 4. Previous to the meeting the members were taken to the diet kitchen where they were shown trays of special diets prepared by the students in the dietetic class. These included diets without sugar, diets of the coarser foods, diets where red meats are eliminated, etc.

On Thursday, January 7, 1926, Miss Doris P. Reed, R. N., second assistant to the superintendent severed her connection with the Newton Hospital.

Miss Reed, who came to the Newton Hospital as a student in the fall of 1915, has accepted the position of instructor at the Boston Lying-In Hospital. After her graduation Miss Reed became night supervisor in the Newton Hospital, leaving that position to direct the work in the operating rooms. Following that she took a course in Anaesthesia at the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital to prepare herself for the position of anesthetist at the Newton Hospital.

Thursday several attended the meeting of the Massachusetts State League of Nursing Education, at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. On New Year's Day the usual tea was given at the nurses' home. Of great interest was a tea wagon fully equipped with four dozen cups and saucers of an especially dainty design, four dozen tea spoons, a lemon tray and fork, sugar tray and tongs, creamer and sugar bowl, two cake plates, and two bowls, and an electric tea kettle, which was presented to the nurses by their friends. It is the aim of the hospital to maintain for the nurses a normal social life outside their duties and the tea cart with its charming accessories will facilitate this desire.

The children in Dennison Ward were delightedly remembered this week with a gift of candy animals, dolls, flowers and lollipops.

—The space reserved for the bus terminus on Centre street, in front of the Whitman Building, was marked off last week by lines and signs, painted on the street. The next day came a snowfall which completely concealed these markings. A couple of small "No Parking" signs were then placed on the adjoining sidewalk, but they are so inconspicuous, that little heed is paid to them. Until this reserved space is properly marked, it must be expected that auto drivers will park their cars within it.

STEARNS SCHOOL CENTRE

Report of Year's Work Read at Annual Meeting. Officers Elected for Ensuing Year

The annual meeting of the Stearns School Centre was held at the home of the President, Mrs. William E. Jones, 15 Farlow road, Newton, on Monday afternoon, January 18. The clerk read the following report of the year's work.

"This has been a year of varied activities. Although our worker has made many calls as a school visitor, he has centered her efforts upon recreational work. There have been clubs and classes for all ages from mothers down to the little tots in the story teller's group.

"The Mothers' Club of 85 members elects its own officers, makes its own program and pays its own bills.

"There is a flourishing Girls' Club of 60 members which successfully supports classes not only in millinery and fancy work and cooking but enthusiastically attends lectures on psychology and sends delegates to the meetings of the National League of Girls' Clubs. Emboldened by their success last year they have again chartered the Opera House for a play to be given in February.

"A new feature of our work is the Colonna Club made up of young Italian women who have been greatly helped by the leadership of a cultivated woman of their own race.

"The real challenge to our helplessness is in the large number of adolescent boys and girls who need to be taught group responsibility and how to enjoy clean and wholesome amusement. We are trying to meet this need in various small clubs for both boys and girls, with different degrees of success.

"There are many things besides clubs to keep our worker and our directors busy and to help exhaust our treasury. We share the expense of evening lights in the school house and help keep up the supply of chairs and tables, and tune the pianos. We take children to the hospital and the dentist and provide summer outings to say nothing of Thanksgiving and Christmas bounties. We have a Well Baby Clinic and a story telling class and this year we had a Community Night with an entertainment attended by 300 adults, and beautiful Christmas tableaux in the school house on Christmas Eve.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of Central Church was held January 15 at the church dining room. The room was crowded for this occasion, and the hour spent at the tables was a very social one. An attractive supper was served. After the tables were cleared, a brief devotional service was led by Rev. Dr. Brewer Eddy. Mr. Albert M. Lyon presided at the business meeting. The following officers were elected:

Moderator, Albert M. Lyon; Clerk, Wallace C. Boyden; Treasurer, Joseph B. Robson; Deacon, Frank G. Willson; Deaconesses, Mrs. A. H. Burdick, Mrs. H. S. Allen; Superintendent of Church School, W. H. Sears; Auditor, Percy G. Stiles; Collector, Miss Constance Lynde; Members of Standing Committee, Charles R. Lynde, Fred W. Rust, Robert E. Hills, Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, Fred C. Alexander, the above being from the Church; Mrs. J. F. Shattuck, F. Forrest Davidson, from the Congregation; Members of Nominating Committee, Mrs. W. S. Dame, Mrs. W. T. Kelley, Percy F. Williams, J. H. Hartford, Payson E. Allen, W. L. Vosburgh, Dr. William O. Hunt; Delegates for Suffolk West Conference, Spring Meeting, Ernest L. Miller, Mrs. George W. Auryansen, Charles L. Wilkins; Fall Meeting, Percy F. Williams, Mrs. Gorham W. Harris, Mrs. Irving O. Palmer.

The clerk, Mr. Wallace C. Boyden, read his annual report, which brought out the fact that the church now has a total membership of 653, there having been during the year an increase of 33 members. The total number of new members received was 56, which has been exceeded only three times in the history of the society. Of the 25 who were received on confession of faith, 17 came from the Church School. Mr. Boyden's reports are always anticipated as a very interesting feature of these annual meetings, as he has a special gift for interpreting the spirit and significance of the various church activities. There were also reports from Mr. W. H. Sears, as head of the work for young people; Mrs. J. F. Brant, for the Woman's Association; Miss Esther M. Walker, for the Central Guild; Dr. Percy G. Stiles, for the Central Club, and Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, for the Friendly Club.

The reports called attention to the need for some enlargements and improvements in the church building to provide for all the work that is being done. It was voted in accordance with the recommendation of the standing committee, that a special committee be appointed to investigate the question of alterations and improvements in the church property in anticipation of the 60th anniversary of the church which comes in 1928.

The Church School report showed a large increase in membership, and indicated that the school is doing very efficient work. A fine group of teachers has been secured, and special pains have been taken to select those who are well qualified for this task. Mention was made of the fact that the classes are scattered all over the building and that there is not suitable space for them all to meet. On the question of a young people's organization, it was reported that the young people did not seem to care so much as formerly for a meeting of the old prayer meeting type, and it was thought that some form of activity closely associated with the Church School could be worked out. It was noted that a considerable number of the young people were making themselves useful by teaching classes of children.

The report of the Woman's Association was presented by Mrs. Brant in a particularly graceful and interesting way, as she described the great activity of the women in many forms of good works, and referred to the able speakers who had addressed the meetings.

The report of the Central Club showed that that organization is unusually prosperous. The report of the treasurer, Mr. J. B. Robson, showed that all bills were paid, and the balance on hand amounted to $180. Mr. Robson noted that the expenditures of the club had increased during the past 20 years, which indicated the growth of its work. The reports indicated that much credit was due to the financial management. The benevolent contributions by the church and all its organizations for the year amounted to $10,770. The total expenditures for the running expenses of the church were $17,615. The Woman's Association had spent $2,903 in their various activities.

The moderator, Mr. Lyon, announced that at the close of the term for which he had been elected, he would feel it necessary to retire from this position. He expressed warm appreciation.

FATHER AND SON NIGHT

The West Newton Men's Club held the most interesting 'Fathers' and Sons' Night in all its history last Friday evening in the Parish House of the Second Church in West Newton.

President John A. Paine was in charge and the program was enjoyed by 265 members and guests.

After the usual banquet, Mr. Ralph P. Graham of Providence gave a half hour's sleight of hand which amazed old and young alike. Mr. Graham certainly mystified his audience.

This was followed by an exhibition by Troop 7, Boy Scouts, under the direction of Scout Master Katwinkle. The boys gave a fine exhibition of signalling, followed this with first aid and ended their stunt with a pyramid formation which nearly touched the ceiling.

Mavor Childs then gave one of his excellent talks in which he urged greater comradeship between father and son and which was usual "hit the nail on the head," as the saying goes.

The new division of Sea Scouting of the Boy Scout work was then explained by Commander Richard Brown, and the scouts showed how nautical knots were tied.

The principal speaker of the evening was Mr. George Owen, Associate Professor of Naval Architecture at Technology. And he was most appropriately introduced by his son, Mr. George Owen, Jr., the well known Harvard athlete. Mr. Owen first showed the importance of ships, stating that without them, there would have been no interchange of ideas between the continents and no civilization as we know it today. He sketched the growth of water transportation from the log and dugout of the Indian to the ships of the present day, the development of sails and steam propulsion. His talk was illustrated with models of boats and by stereopticon pictures.

An interesting feature of the evening was the exhibition of numerous water colors of ships and sea scenes of which Mr. Charles J. A. Wilson was the artist.

ALDERMANIC MEETING

Hearings on Petitions for Filling Stations and Change of Zone Attract Considerable Interest

The intersection of Beacon and Walnut streets, Newton Highlands, is a dangerous spot. Many automobiles are constantly passing on both these streets. At present this intersection is but 25% safeguarded. The Jenney Gasoline Company has a filling station (or, according to the latest version, a selling station), at the northeast corner. If the aldermen grant the petition of Henry C. Bourne, presented at their meeting Monday night, this crossing can be made 50% safe.

Mr. Bourne desires to erect a building at the south-west corner as a gasoline station; also to keep and store 3000 gallons of "gas" there. James P. Gallagher, who appeared for Mr. Bourne said, "I suppose every member of the Board is familiar with his location." This supposition of Mr. Gallagher's is perhaps incorrect. But it is safe to assume that at least all the members of the License Committee will visit this location and become familiar with it. Mr. Gallagher had photographs for the aldermen's inspection showing the three old buildings now located on the property which Mr. Bourne desires to have used as a gas station. He explained that one of these small buildings is used as a store, the second is an abandoned dwelling, and the third is a small building of an obsolete type. He referred to the heavy traffic in all directions at this junction; asserted that there have been several accidents there, and called attention to the open view on the north-east corner afforded by the Jenney station. Mr. Gallagher said, "There are two blind corners at Beacon and Walnut streets as one approaches from the south; the buildings now on this land are unsightly, and the change asked will be very desirable." No person appeared to oppose Mr. Bourne's petition. If the aldermen grant it, and cause this street intersection to become 50% safe, all that will then be required to make this traffic point 100% safe, will be the construction of two more filling stations on the south-east and north-west corners.

Robert H. Evans, speaking for the Newton Investment Company, of which corporation he is Treasurer, explained that his company is not asking for a 25 car public garage, as stated on the aldermanic docket, but seeks a permit for an automobile sales and service building at the corner. BOY SCOUTS

Troop 10 of Waban has their material for their new camp at the entrance of the Ohio and will get it in shape very soon. The cabin is one of the sectional type but will be built permanently in place on the next hill south of where troop 5 has its camp, Camp Stone.

Due to various delays the Annual Meeting has been postponed to January 28th and is to be held at the Parish House of St. Johns Church, Newtonville, at 8 o'clock. A short meeting of the Executive Committee will be held at 7.30.

The Winter Rally of the entire Council will be held at the High School Gym, Newtonville, Tuesday evening, February 9th. Friends and parents of Scouts are expected. No tickets are necessary. This is the time when the public may see what the Scouts are accomplishing and lend their support to the movement by their interest and attendance.

Troop 7 of West Newton and The Seascouts, troop 13, gave a demonstration before the West Newton Men's Club at the Second Church, West Newton, Friday evening of last week. Mr. Richard H. Brown, Portmaster for the Council, was in charge of the Seascout demonstration and talked briefly on the Seascout program before the demonstration. Mr. Brown said in part: "I am proud to say that we have the backing of one of the most efficient scout committees in the state, and a staff of officers that cannot be surpassed. The average boy when he gets about fourteen or fifteen begins to look around for some new activity in scouting and the Seascout program appeals to him. It will keep him contented and make a better scout of him. It is our plan to keep the standard high and we ask the support of all of you to help."

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

A REMARKABLE RECORD

L. Samuel Moore, a Newton high school senior and the son of Major and Mrs. Louis Moore of Mill street, Newtonville, made a remarkable record for bull's eyes on a 50-foot range with a 22-calibre rifle Saturday afternoon in attempting to regain the world's record which he lost last summer. One "doubtful" shot in a run of 2500 robbed the 17-year old youth of the chance. While Moore failed to establish a new record for consecutive bull's eyes he established another record—that of 2499 perfect shots out of 2500 in a period of six and a half hours of consecutive shooting.

Starting at 7.35 Saturday morning with his cellar for a range and Robert S. Lund, an official of the National Rifle Association, checking each shot, Moore attempted to beat the record of 1735 consecutive bull's eyes which was established last summer at Camp Perry, Ohio, by Clifford Poole, a Crestline, Ohio, boy. Poole wrested the title from the Newtonville boy in the national championships. One hour after he started Saturday morning, Moore had scored 500 without a miss. At noon he had rattled off 1795 which apparently was a new world's mark. However, a check on the target which carried the shots from 1540-1550 showed one shot which seemed to be just off the bull's eye. It was decided by the marksman and his companions, after measuring and testing the hole in the target with a gauge, to forego any claim of a record.

Moore, who is captain of the high school rifle team and is recognized as one of the best rifle shots in the country, shot from a prone position. As the hours passed and the shots continued to puncture the bull's eye he kept shooting rapidly though his rifle had become so hot that his hand was blistered. Stopping only to reload he continued shooting without a letup until a total of 2500 had been reached. Sometime later young Moore will make another attempt to break the record.

MEETS BROOKLINE IN TRACK

Tomorrow night in the Newton high school gymnasium at eight o'clock the Newton high school indoor track team will run the Brookline high team. Brookline's team is rated as one of the best in the state and the orange and black will have to turn in some fast time to annex a victory. The local outfit, while at present not as well rated as some of the previous teams at Newton high, is coming along fast and should give the Wealthy Towners an interesting evening. Captain Buswell, Fullerton and Hammond are the local school's leading performers.

NEWTON DEFEATS EXETER

Newton High defeated Exeter Academy at Exeter last Saturday in hockey 3 to 2 in a 10-minute overtime period. No score was made until the third period when Pitts, a brother of Roscoe Pitts, former Huntington and Harvard star athlete, caged the disc. Newton had but three men besides Thompson at goal on the ice at the time. Soon after Holbrook evened up the count and Stubbs put the orange and black ahead. Hill, Exeter centre, tied the score by scoring from a scrimmage in front of the Newton net.

With but two minutes of the extra period to play Holbrook took the rubber the entire length of the ice and caged it for the winning point.

The summary:
Newton High: Powers, Brown, rw; Holbrook, c; Stubbs, lw; Proctor, rd; Andrews, ld; Thompson, g.
Exeter: Crosby, Cookman, lw; Hill, c; Thomas, McGregor, rw; Carver, ld; Fitts, rd; Stearns, g.
Score, Newton High 3, Exeter 2. Goals, Holbrook 2, Stubbs, Pitts, Hill. Referee, H. C. Carrell. Time, three 12 and one 10 minute overtime periods.

SWIMMING TEAM WINS

The Newton High school swimming team defeated Rindge Technical school in the Cambridge Y.M.C.A. tank Tuesday afternoon, 39 to 11. Newton took every first place except the dive which was won by Hall of the Cantabs.

The closest race was the 40-yard free-style which Norman Boule of the local school won by half a stroke over Jostrzenskies of Rindge. Capt. Lloyd Osborne of the orange and black was the star of the meet winning the 100 and 200-yard swims. In the 100-yard he was over half the length of the tank ahead of Merrill, his teammate, and in the 200 he led Stein, another teammate, by half a length.

The summary:
40-Yard Free-Style—Won by Soule, Newton; Jostrzenskies, Rindge, second; Greaney, Newton, third. Time, 24s.
40-Yard Backstroke—Won by Wakefield, Newton; Perry, Newton, second; Wood, Rindge, third. Time, 28s.
100-Yard Swim—Won by Osborne, Newton; Merrill, Newton, second; Hall, Rindge, third.
200-Yard Swim—Won by Osborne, Newton; Stein, Newton, second; Walsh, Rindge, third.
Dive—Won by Hall, Rindge; Esos, Newton, second; Green, Newton, third.
Relay Race—Won by Newton High School (Serkin, Lodge, Merrill and Osborne); Rindge Technical High School (Hall, Milo, Jostrzenskies and Walsh).

NEWTON "Y" LOSES CLOSE GAME

Newton Y. M. C. A. lost a fast, hard-fought basketball game to the Worcester team at Worcester last Saturday night at Worcester 34 to 30. At the end of the first half Worcester led Newton 24 to 10, but at the beginning of the second half when "Phil" Hardy was shifted to left forward, the game became livelier. Things looked bright for Newton for a while when the score was evened and Newton led by one point, but a sudden comeback by Worcester put them ahead by four points when the period ended. During the second half Newton scored twenty points to Worcester's ten. The hard playing of "Phil" Hardy, although a novice at the game, is a great help to the Newton team.

Summary, Worcester 34, Newton 30. Goals from the floor—MacGillivray 6, Brimblecom 6, Hardy 1, McNelly 3, Beaumgarter 4, Rimes 9. Goals from fouls—Shields 1, MacGillivray 2, Vuilleumier 1, McNelly 1, Rimes 1. Referee, Shaw; Timer, Chaffee; Scorer, Livingston.

ALLEN-CHALMERS WINS

Wednesday evening the Allen-Chalmers school basketball team defeated the Thompson Club in a fast game at the Allen school gym. The score was 33 to 21. At half time the local private school quintet was but three points ahead, 13 to 10, but good work by Geldert and Nute in the second half gave their team a commanding lead. Geldert, Nute, and Salloway scored all of Allen's points, while Redman was the only player on the Thompson club team who failed to cage the ball. Kelding starred for the losers with 10 points.

ALUMNI DEFEATED ON TRACK

Last Saturday evening the Newton high school indoor track team had little difficulty in winning over a team of alumni 55-22. Several star performers were revealed among the undergraduates and the outlook for a successful season is far more promising than it was at the interclass meet the week before. Bill Seeley made the fast time of 2 minutes 28 seconds, in the 1000-yard run and if he had been at all pushed would doubtless have clipped several seconds off this time. Sam Moore broke the gym record for the 25-yard dash when he broke the tape in 3 seconds flat. Duane, for the alumni, thrilled the spectators when he led the field in the 600-yard run and smashed the record made by Tom Clausen a year or so ago. Duane's time was 1 minute, 19 2/5 seconds.

The high scorer of the meet was Fullerton of the school team who captured two firsts and ran at anchor on the winning relay. He won the 25-yard hurdles and the high jump. For the alumni Phil Hardy was the star with first in the shot put, which he won over Conniff of the schoolboys by a few inches, and with second in the broad jump.

The summary:
Twenty-five-yard dash—won by Moore, S.; second, Buswell, S.; third, Kolmeyer, S. Time 3 seconds.
Twenty-five-yard hurdles—won by Fullerton, S.; Gallagher, A.; Hendrick, A. Time, 2 seconds.
Three-hundred-yard run—won by Buswell, S.; second, Bengers, S.; third, Ramsden. Time 27 2/5 seconds.
Six hundred-yard run—won by Duane, A.; second, Stuart, S.; third, McManus, S. Time 1 minute, 19 2/5 seconds.
One thousand-yard run—won by Seeley, S.; second, Mcgrudren, S.; third, DeFazio, A. Time 2 minutes, 28 seconds.

NEWTON SHUTS OUT BELMONT

Newton High easily defeated Belmont 5-0 in an interscholastic league hockey game at Bullough's pond, Wednesday afternoon. The orange and black scored in every period and played fast hockey in spite of the slow ice. Belmont threatened but once. This was in the second period when M. Secor took a pass and carried the rubber to the Newton net but failed to cage it. Holbrook scored two of the local team's points while Stubbs, Powers and Andrews counted once each.

The summary:
Newton High—Stubbs, rw; Holbrook, c; Powers, Brown, Whittemore, lw; J. Proctor, W. Proctor, rd; Andrews, ld; Thompson, White, g.
Belmont High—R. Secor, lw; M. Secor, c; R. Ford, rw; Egan, ld; E. Ford, rd; I. Ford, g.
Score, Newton High 5. Goals made, by Holbrook 2, Stubbs, Powers, Andrews. Referee, Martin. Time, three 12m. periods.

Class A (under 110 lbs.)—E. Clark, 18 4/5 seconds; W. Floring, 18 4/5 seconds; C. Kittredge, 18 4/5 seconds; R. Dunbrack, 18 4/5 seconds; L. Cousins, 19 seconds; D. Crawford, 19 2/5 seconds; W. Lockhart, 19 3/5 seconds;

Class B (110 lbs. and over)—W. Pearce, 17 4/5 seconds; A. Findeklin, 18 seconds; J. Spalding, 18 2/5 seconds; G. Dyer, 18 3/5 seconds; G. Moonjy, 18 4/5 seconds; R. Hunt, 18 4/5 seconds; A. Kander, 19 seconds; A. Pearce, 19 2/5 seconds; E. Davidson, 19 2/5 seconds.

PAIS TO HOLD WHIST PARTY

On next Tuesday evening, Jan. 26th, at the Bay State Hall, Centre street, Newton, the Newton Pals Club will hold their first Whist Party of the season and there is every indication that this party will be the best that the Club has run so far.

There will be 20 fine Whist prizes offered, among which are several prizes in gold. A real good time is assured all who attend the party, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase equipment for the various sports.

Come and help the boys who have worked so hard to make this party a success.

SPORT NOTES

Hockey fans are awaiting the outcome of the game between the local high school and the Yale freshman team tomorrow with considerable interest. Melrose nosed out the Blue year lings 4-3 last Saturday and if Newton can bring home the bacon too it will create considerable interest in the coming Newton-Melrose tilt a week from Monday.

Syracuse University swimming team scored a decisive victory over the Boston University mermen in the Newton Y tank last Friday night, 39-20. The relay race was the feature event, the New York team winning by a scant six inches.

In Saturday's matches of Class B and Class C in the Massachusetts Squash Racquet Association series no changes in the standings resulted. Newton Centre won all its matches from the Milton Club in Class B.

The "Y" basketball team lost another game by a small margin at Worcester Saturday night. The home team lead at halftime by the score of 24 to 10. In the second half Hardy went in at center for Newton and at the end of the third period the local team was only four points behind. Two more baskets tied the score but Worcester caged a couple just before the whistle blew and won out 34 to 30.

At the Newton Y last Saturday the Whitney Class of Watertown went down to a 31 to 16 defeat at the hands of the Hight A. A.

Chalk up another victory for the high school against a prep school. Newton high defeated Exeter Academy last Saturday, Captain Guy Holbrook shooting the winning goal with but two minutes to play in a 10-minute overtime period for a 3-2 score.

Coach Simmons of the "Y" basketball team has made a change in the lineup of the quintet. Hardy, center on the second team, has been placed at center on the first team, replacing Brimblecom, who returns to his old position at left forward. He and McGillivray will play the forward positions for the local team. At Worcester Saturday night this lineup tied up the game and nearly won out. Wednesday night against Lynn the new combination showed greater speed and "fight" than the old lineup.

Captain Osborne's swimming team has started right off where Captain Perry's team left off last year. It looks as though there was another successful season ahead for the high school mermen. With meets against Exeter and Andover Academies the orange and black is going up against teams out of its class and while they may not win they are getting good competition and experience and should be given credit for the creditable showing they are making.

"Toots" Bowser, captain and guard on the Lynn Y. M. C. A. basketball team, which met at Newton Wednesday night, is playing his twenty-third year with that association. He is still one of the best amateur players in the game and, although playing in the back field is one of the highest scorers on the team. During the last five seasons the Lynn association quintet has played 125 games and has won all but ten of them. This constitutes one of the best records ever made by a Y. M. C. A. aggregation. The Lynn five captured the Two-State league championship last year and has yet to meet defeat in this year's series.

Country Day School overwhelmed the Rivers school 16-0 last Saturday morning on the former's new hockey rink at Cabot field. Eight goals were made in the first period, two in the second and six in the third. Dick Fisher, at left wing, was the high scorer with five tallies. Johnny Garrison was right behind him with four. Ware with three, and Wilbur and Kerns two apiece, scored the remaining points. Ellis and Briggs at goal had a comparatively easy time as the visitors never approached near enough to threaten but managed to send several long shots against the goalie's sticks.

At the roll off of two men from each team entered in the Newton Bowling League, held at the Hunnewell Club last Saturday night, Ambrose of Middlesex was high man with 977 and Willey and Hart of Maugus won the team prize.

In the opening matches of the Boston pin tournament of the Newton League Wednesday evening, Waban Neighborhood club took three of the four points from the Newton Club. Hunnewell opens its schedule tonight when it meets Middlesex on the Arlington club alleys, the match having been postponed.

The 25-yard dash at the Newton-Brookline meet tomorrow night should be the well worth seeing. Sam Moore, the best of Newton's dash men, will toe the Wallace Fullerton, the versatile star of the high school indoor track team, continues to pile up points for the orange and black. In the alumni meet Saturday night he breasted the tape in the hurdle race and then later won the high jump.

Clem Coady continues to figure prominently in Harvard sports. Wednesday night in the game with Williams, which Harvard won 4 to 1, he was in a large measure responsible for the goal in the second period which tied the score at one all. He made a long rush all the way up the ice and shot for the net. The disc was cleverly blocked by the Williams' goal tend, but the rubber went to the backboard. Coady followed up to pass back to Hamlin, who immediately shot it into the net.

EDITORIAL

One of the subjects not discussed by Mayor Childs in his inaugural message was that of pensions for city employees. The present non-contributory pensions plan in force in Newton cost us last year over $54,000 and will be larger the present year. With such an amount involved, we think it is high time steps were taken to put the pension system on a contributory plan similar to that now in vogue in Boston. The present plan in Newton does not cover a number of worthy cases at City Hall, and it is no more than fair that if part of the city employees are protected in their old age, that all should have an equal opportunity. Let us have the matter investigated and plans made for the future.

It seems to us that Waltham is getting the best of the agreement with the Middlesex & Boston Company in its use of busses. The worst part of the entire B. & M. system is the track condition on Walnut street and that situation should be remedied before the Bemis line is taken up. Why should Newton wait a year for the elimination of a nuisance just because the Waltham city government made a prior trade with the street railway company.

Prof. Smith has set a fine example in having a dedication service as he enters his new home. A good home deserves a dedication as much as a church or other public building. A house warming with good enough in its way is purely social and does not grip the finer sentiments which cluster about a home.

TALKS ON CRIME AND PROHIBITION

Henry Higgins, secretary of the Massachusetts Prison Association, gave an interesting talk on Tuesday evening to the members of Newton Council, K. of C., at its quarters in Elks' Hall. Mr. Higgins, who was formerly Master of the House of Correction at Deer Island, and a member of the State Parole Board, has made a study of penology and is regarded as one of the foremost authorities on that subject in this country.

He outlined the conditions responsible for the present crime wave in this country and told of the bootleg gangs that have been causing so many murders in Chicago. Mr. Higgins related a conversation he had recently with a former prisoner whose friendship he had won when he was in charge of the prison at Deer Island. This man, who had formerly been a thief, is now a very wealthy bootlegger, doing business on a wholesale scale. He told Mr. Higgins that he no longer associated with crooks, but mingled socially with his wealthy customers, who are numbered among the respected citizens of New York and Boston. In commenting on this change of social status of the former thief-turned bootlegger—Mr. Higgins remarked that the prohibition law is largely responsible for the present lack of respect for law and order. Persons, who before the Volstead Act was passed, were law abiding, have no respect for the 18th Amendment and condone bootlegging. This disregard and lack of respect for this very important law by the better elements in the country, causes those lower in the social scale to scoff at our laws in general.

Mr. Higgins told of some of his experiences while a member of the Parole Board. Politicians and unprincipled lawyers frequently attempt to coerce members of the Board, trying to influence them to parole dangerous criminals. He asserted that these attempts met with little success and lauded the sincerity of those in charge of our parole work. He took issue with Governor Fuller, and cited cases when it would be cruel and unjust not to parole prisoners when conditions warrant such action.

COYOTE CAPTURED!

As the "Graphic" goes to press a telephone message has been received that the much reported coyote, which escaped from Franklin Park Zoo, is lying in the woods off Kenrick street, Newton, near the Commonwealth Country Club, "all in." The animal which has been reported as having been seen in Taunton, Long Island, New York, and in other places within a radius of 300 miles, is being guarded by a Newton policeman, pending the arrival of men from the Boston zoo.

If it is finally determined that the animal, now lying fatigued in the woods off Kenrick street, is really the missing coyote, John Joyce and Bill Sprout, will be vindicated. Since they reported seeing the coyote near Mr. Joyce's gravel pit in Cabot Woods, they have been accused of not being able to distinguish between a coyote and a young police dog. As both gentlemen are expert dog fanciers, they resented the insinuations cast at their ability to tell a domesticated dog from a semi-wild prairie wolf.

INQUEST ON MRS. O'CONNOR'S DEATH

An inquest is being held today before Judge Bacon on the death of Mrs. Nora O'Connor. The woman was found dead in her late home at 46 Walnut Park, Newton, on January 14 by Officer Frank Dow. She had apparently been dead for some days, when the policeman made the discovery. Medical Examiner West reported that her death was probably due to heart trouble. She had suffered a paralytic stroke last Spring. Mrs. O'Connor had two young daughters, but for several nights prior to the discovery of her death, they had been sleeping in the employment office formerly conducted by their mother in the Bacon Building on Washington street, Newton.

PERCY THOMAS

Percy Thomas, of 335 River street, West Newton, died on January 15th, at his late residence after a brief illness. He was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, 43 years ago, and as a boy served in the Spanish-American war. He had been employed for many years as a janitor in the Newton schools, and is survived by a widow and seven children. His funeral services were held at his late home on Sunday afternoon, Rev. J. Edgar Park officiating. A delegation was present from Thomas Burnett Camp, S. W. V. Interment was in Newton Cemetery, where military honors were paid the deceased by a squad from members of the Regular Army, detailed from the Army Base at Boston.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN W. WEEKS AT OLD HOME

Ex-Secretary of War Weeks and his wife have been visiting the past week at their former home on Valentine street, now occupied by their son, Sinclair Weeks, and his family. They arrived from Washington on Saturday, and yesterday they departed for the Pacific Coast from whence they will go to Honolulu for the remainder of the winter.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

A very enjoyable afternoon concert was given at the club last Sunday afternoon. The artists were Alice Huston Stevens, soprano, Elford Coughy, harpist, and Richard Stevens, accompanist. The large audience greatly enjoyed the seven harp solos which were the features of the program. Mrs. Carl Pearce was the hostess and was assisted by Mrs. Sterling N. Loveland, Mrs. Charles Diman, and Mrs. Frederick N. Pierce.

ALDERMANIC MEETING

ner of Hovey and Washington streets. Mr. Evans told the aldermen that the building will be of fireproof construction, attractive in appearance and will cost at least $45,000. He said: "It will be away from the congestion in Nonantum Square, will improve the neighborhood, and will be in line with the natural development of Washington street as a business thoroughfare." There was no opposition to this petition.

Thomas Weston said that he appeared for Frederick W. Webster and others, who ask that land on Washington street, easterly for 500 feet from Waban avenue, be changed from a single residence district to a business district. He told the aldermen that the land in question runs 500 feet along Washington street, is about 80 feet in depth and for much of its length is from 10 to 30 feet below the street level. It is assessed low, according to Mr. Weston, because it is not suited for residences; but if changed to a business district, it can be filled in and will increase in value. Mr. Weston informed the aldermen that his clients are not asking that a single lot be changed from a residential to a business zone, but are petitioning that a long strip be changed; and that by so doing, are following the procedure advocated by City Solicitor Bartlett, who has said "that the districts rather than single lots should be included, when changes are made in district zones."

Alderman Baker asked Mr. Weston "What kind of business will be conducted along this section if the change is made?" Mr. Weston replied that this matter has not been followed through but that probably stores may be built, possibly a storage warehouse, and that it is within the range of possibilities that a gasoline filling station may be erected. He argued that within a few years, Waban avenue will be the direct connecting highway between Washington street and Waban and that it will be desirable to have a business section along this neighborhood. He remarked that Waban avenue is more adapted for business purposes than Quinobegun road, because the latter adjoins the Metropolitan Park Reservation.

Joseph Congdon said he has been developing Waban for 17 years and he thinks the results prove he has done a satisfactory job. He owns or is interested in 800,000 square feet of land in the section of Waban near the site where the zoning change is sought; and he objects to the value of 1,500,000 feet of land being depreciated to permit an increase in value on 50,000 feet of land. Mr. Congdon asserted that the west end of Waban will be developed with high class residences, such as have been built in the rest of the village and that the petition for the change of zone had been made by a man who owns two lots of land, and who is not even a resident of Massachusetts. Mr. Congdon had a more definite idea than had Mr. Weston as to what kind of business will be conducted if the change will be granted. He stated that there is no need of a gasoline filling station near Washington street and Waban avenue, as a filling station is already located nearby, just east of the hospital.

Mr. William Treffrey of Neholod road objected to the change in the recently purchased lots of land nearby, containing 290,000 square feet, which he intends to develop into a fine single residence neighborhood. Mr. Treffrey wants no stores or warehouse nearby, and remarked that the Lower Falls stores are near enough to supply this district. Waldo Leland of 2072 Washington street and George Dennis of 2122 Washington street also entered objections against the change in zoning, and Mr. Leland of 2139 Washington street. Mr. Leland said that the small increase in tax receipts the city would obtain by granting this petition, would be wiped out many times by the loss in taxes in future years caused by surrounding property having a lower value than it will have if this section is continued as a high class residential zone.

This petition, together with the Bourne and Newton Investment Company petitions, were referred to the Franchise and License Committee for further action.

To Regulate Truck Traffic
Alderman Baker told the Board that the Legislative Committee, of which he is chairman, had not enough facts presented to it, to warrant any action being taken on the question of excluding trucks from the residential streets in this city. As last Saturday was the final day on which bills could be filed with the legislature, the committee had requested City Solicitor Bartlett to file a bill authorizing the restriction of traffic on highways by city governments. If the new traffic committee decides that restrictions are advisable in Newton, the legislative committee will urge the passage of this bill; otherwise it can be withdrawn.

Alderman Weeks spoke of the numerous petitions received in the past few years to exclude trucks from certain streets, and related how Registrar Goodwin had refused to authorize such petitions, being granted. He added that Mr. Goodwin had expressed a willingness to cooperate if the legislature passes a law empowering local authorities to restrict trucking to specified highways. Mr. Weeks stated that he thought the petition to restrict trucks from Hunnewell Hill, is a reasonable request. Asked by President Pratt, if he deemed it advisable to appoint another traffic committee, he answered in the affirmative, and made a motion to create a traffic committee. This motion was carried and Aldermen O'Connell, Grebenstein and Hodgdon were appointed as members. It is more than probable that Alderman O'Connell will take action to have the traffic rules changed so that the 30 minute limit in Nonantum Square will not be enforced after 9 P. M.

Alderman Fitts informed the Board of the progress being made on the West Side Junior high school. The preliminary plans of the architects, Ripley and Boutellier, have been accepted, and detailed plans will be ready within a couple of weeks. The building will accommodate at least 700 pupils, will permit the abolishment of portable schools in West Newton and Auburndale and will provide a number of rooms for future growth in school attendance in the primary and grammar grades in those two villages. This new school should be ready for occupancy in 1927.

Alderman Earle of the Public Works committee told about the water situation. The working of laying the new 24 inch main is half finished and should be completed this year. Mr. Earle advocated that the recommendations made by Mayor Childs in his inaugural address, concerning improvements in the water system, be followed. He urged that a new well be sunk on the water reservation to furnish a needed increase to the supply and that a special committee be appointed to study the water problems. His suggestion was followed and the members who will become water experts are Bail, Favinger, and Gallagher.

Alderman Bliss next took the floor and stated that in the future the License Committee will conduct the hearings on petitions for one and two car garages. Heretofore these hearings have been held before the full Board. Mr. Bliss said that his committee deemed it inadvisable to have hearings on the larger so-called private and public garages held before the License Committee, because such garage petitions should be aired in open meetings.

to whose devoted and untiring service the success of the Girls' Club is largely due, had to give up the leadership, but so well has she built that the change has brought about no serious jolt and under Miss Parsons' care things are going on well. Mrs. W. H. Allen, for many years the efficient keeper of the treasury, resigned in May, and in the fall, Miss Yetten, our head worker for three years, left us with a large vacancy to fill.

"Mrs. Pitt Drew has succeeded Mrs. Allen and Miss Emily Reed has taken the place of head worker at the school. And now at the end of the year, Mrs. Jones, having ably and graciously guided our work for six years, is retiring. We do not like such changes, but are grateful for the unselfish service which has put something into our work at Stearns School Center that we can never lose."

After the reading of reports the following officers and directors were elected:

President, Miss Lucy E. Cobb; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Samuel W. Bridges, Mrs. Cecil W. Clark; Treasurer, Mrs. Pitt F. Drew; Clerk, Mrs. George W. Auryansen.

preciation of the honor which the society had conferred on him, and of the benefits he had gained from association with the officers of the church. Mr. Lyon's retirement from this position will be very much regretted.

The last feature of the program consisted of a brief address from the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. M. Ellis. Dr. Ellis expressed warm appreciation of the manifestations of sympathy extended to him during his illness of last summer, which had made him feel very deeply attached to the church and its people. He said he realized, after having come in contact with such previous ministers of the church as Dr. Stocking, Dr. Muste, and Dr. Lichliter, that a great responsibility it is to stand in this pulpit. He felt the year had shown some notable results, particularly in the work done by the junior choir and the improved results in the Church School. He thought the Church School had shown its usefulness by providing a large number of recruits for church membership. He urged the people to participate in a sincere and earnest observance of the Lenten season.

DEDICATE HOME TO CHRISTIAN IDEALS

Prof. H. Augustine Smith, Director of the Fine Arts in Religion, Boston University, dedicated his new home at 26 Rockledge road, Newton Highlands, with a service of consecration lead by Rev. Samuel Woodrow of the Newton Highlands Congregational Church. Participating in the service in addition to Prof. Smith and his family were Prof. Albert E. Bailey, Prof. Earl Marlatt and Charles I. Davis of Boston University; Miss Caroline Barker of New York and sixty students of the Fine Arts Club of the Boston University School of Religious Education. A part of the dedication consisted of the unveiling of pictures of the Holy Grail in the room of six year old Henry Smith, and Margaret Tarrant's "All Things Bright and Beautiful" in Patricia Smith's room.

The Newton Highlands home is the fourth home in nine years of Prof. and Mrs. Smith, but the consecration service is conducted by the family every Monday night, to stimulate the ideals of love, warmth and beauty in the home.

The guests started to arrive about 7:30 and at 8 Little Henry Smith started a stereoscopic show displaying views of China, India and Japan. He was assisted by his three year old sister, Patricia, who provided incidental music from the Victrola. At 8:30 the dedication service was started when Dr. Woodrow offered prayer and read lines from various poems touching on the home. Next, Miss Caroline Barker touched flame to the hearth fire to symbolize the warmth and cheer of the ideal home and Prof. Marlatt of Boston University read verses he had written for the occasion. The pictures in the children's rooms were then unveiled, to exemplify "beauty" in the home. Hymns, selected for their reference to the home, were then sung by the gathering. A social hour and a business meeting of the Fine Arts Club next followed.

Prof. Smith believes a forceful drive against the divorce evil is to dedicate homes and family circles. He has advocated this act in his addresses throughout the country, and has furnished rituals to newly married couples about to enter their new homes. This service of solemn and yet joyous consecration takes the place of the ordinary house warming with the mad wild finish of such a night on into early morning hours. The newly married couple will take their domicile or priest with them to the home and their first act will be the dedicatory act and service. Prof. Smith says this has been used in Michigan, Ohio, New York and other states. Mr. Smith is not an ordained man, so he does not participate in the ceremony, but does arrange it and does advocate its use as instrumental in tying the knot tighter and setting started in life with the right foot very much first.

MRS. EUNICE J. ESTEN

Funeral services were held on last Friday for Mrs. Eunice J. Esten of 39 Wesley street, who died on January 13th, Rev. J. West Thompson officiating. Mrs. Esten was born in Harborsville, Rhode Island, 75 years ago and had resided in Newton for 20 years. She had no near relatives.

Alonso Blood, a retired school teacher at one time principal of the Walpole High School, who three months ago obtained a license to marry Mrs. Esten, was with her at the end. Mrs. Esten became critically ill just after the license was issued, and the intended marriage of the aged lovers did not occur.

FRANK THOMPSON

Frank Thompson, son of Denman Thompson, famous as the star of the "Old Homestead," died on Tuesday at his late home, 153 Clark street, Newton Centre. Mr. Thompson was born in Toronto, 58 years ago, and as a boy was in the cast of the play in which his father won national fame. He later managed the production and afterward became associated with the Keith-Albee theatrical interests. He is survived by a widow and two sons. His funeral services were held this morning at the chapel of the Massachusetts Crematory Society in Forest Hills.

Merriam presided and Mrs. Goddard led the devotional exercises. Miss Olive Burrisson rendered two fine solos and Miss Mildred Beardsley gave some readings in her usual pleasing way. Mrs. Grace Hamilton gave a most interesting talk on "The Success of Prohibition" and the National Convention recently held in Detroit. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed by all present.

NATHANIEL T. LOVELL

Nathaniel Trowbridge Lovell, the son of Joseph N. and Gertrude T. Lovell of Otis street, West Newton, died Wednesday at the home of his parents after a three-day illness, in his twenty-sixth year. He was born in West Newton, August 3, 1900, and was educated in the Newton schools, graduating from the high school in 1919. In the fall of 1918 he enlisted as a private in the S. A. T. C. at Harvard, where he served the colors for several months.

After his graduation from high school he entered Yale University, from which he graduated in 1923 with the degree of B. A. While at Yale he was a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity and in his senior year became a member of the Elhiu Club, a senior society. After leaving college he entered the employ of the Gale Shoe Company at Manchester, N. H., with which firm he was connected at the time of his death.

While at high school and at Yale he was a prominent golfer. In 1918 young Lovell won the junior championship of Massachusetts and in 1923 was captain of the Yale golf team. He also played in many state and national tournaments. One of the most outstanding of his many excellent qualities was his great modesty. Many times he refrained from mentioning to even his parents that he had won an important match. Wherever he went he made a host of friends and his passing will be mourned by many.

Mr. Lovell is survived by his parents, one sister and one brother. Funeral services are being held this afternoon at the Second Church of West Newton, Dr. J. Edgar Park officiating.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by LEVERETT D. G. BENTLEY

"That door sticks." We started to keep track of the number of times we heard this repeated during the past few weeks but our powers of mathematical computation became exhausted and we had to quit. The interesting part of it was, that each time the information was vouchsafed we had, in the several preceding minutes, worked like a Trojan (assuming those hardy inhabitants of Troy were more used to heavy work than we Americans) to get a certain door open. We eventually made up our minds that this is the season for sticky doors. But like many other members of the herd of mankind we did not make the discovery without bitter experience. We were doing a bit of morning shopping and had a man's sized load of bundles in our arms when we had our first go with a sticky door. Following that well known and frequently resorted-to expedient we threw all the packages on our left arm and proceeded with our brawny right to lift the latch and step outside the store. But the door failed to respond. The clerks were sympathetic but busy and so we had to continue the struggle unaided. Finally it was necessary to place all bundles on the floor and take both hands. The combined strength of our mighty arms brought the door open. But there was a suddenness that upset our balance. It forced us to step on some of the bundles which we had placed on one side. More than that it sent us against some of the other patrons of the store who said nothing but who gave us some dirty looks. Yes, there was a comment. It came from a woman who said, "Well, I should think people would be more careful in a store full of people." The head clerk, seeing the commotion caused in his work and smiling in our direction said, "That door sticks." We felt that with such undisputable evidence before us there was nothing further to be said in the line of argument. In the next instance, we were leaving the house of a friend whose courteousness was great and far greater than his strength. His forceful assistance was so much appreciated that when both of us applied our united strength the door was opened and both of us fell backward, for the rug on the highly polished floor assumed the character and powers of a skating rink and there was a double tumble. "That door sticks," said our host. Again we refused to dispute the assertion. We later thought of what had happened and it seemed to us that a campaign against doors that stick might be waged with some measure of success. Just how would we go about it? Would we rush to the Legislature and propose for an act compelling landlords to keep their door sills in proper condition, or would we advocate a boycott on the stores where each customer found door trouble. It seemed to us too good an opportunity to ignore. We decided that we would take a stroll and think the matter over. We felt that a brisk walk in the frosty air would quicken the action of the atoms of our gray matter. With this in mind we "bundled up" and headed downtown. It occurred to us that a cigar might add zest to our outing. We approached one of those places where we can find things to smoke within our taste and means and firmly grabbed the latch-handle. We lifted the latch, pushed, and pushed again. The door didn't give. Remembering what had happened on the previous occasion we made no further effort but stopped abruptly, turned and walked off. It seemed only an instant later when someone had opened the door, and calling after us, said, "Hey, that door sticks." We turned and replied, "That's what we were trying to find out." A rather pert retort but we had become weary of apologies. From now on we shall patronize only those places which have revolving doors or no doors at all. That is, until this sticky weather has passed.

Just how deeply our readers have studied the question of efficiency we would like to know. We mean efficiency that calls for the saving of labor and time and other things. It is said to be more highly developed in some individuals than in others. Some people revel in the fact that they have, by planning efficiency above all things, made themselves into a superior class. Others there are, among which particular group we find ourselves, who frankly admit that this efficiency "stuff" is a trifle beyond our understanding, or at least our accomplishment. Therefore, we take a special joy in telling this anecdote. There was a grange meeting in a small town in New Hampshire. The principal speaker was an efficiency expert from Boston. He was most eloquent. For a full hour he talked of "cooperation," "coordination," "unification of effort," "psychology of administrative and executive powers" etc. His audience had been most attentive. Two old fellows in the back of the hall, who had listened to every word, seemed particularly eager not to miss a point. One of them, a trifle hard of hearing, turned to his companion. "What's he talking about?" came the query. "He don't say," replied his friend.

and bank deposits, of more and more school houses and constant additions to the zoning regulations, it is particularly gratifying and restful to a former resident of Newton, after an absence of ten years, to find so much sameness in the landmarks of the various villages which make up the Garden City.

"The most noticeable change is represented by the gaily colored bus of the M. & B. St. Railway Co., which has replaced a car on the Cross Town line. However much the villages may have grown, whatever changes may have taken place in the names on the store windows, the air of feverish activity is still missing, and the Florida boom has found no echo in the land available for house-lots.

"Most pleasing of all was to find that both City Hall and the genius who presides in the corner office have alike suffered no change in contour or content. In this period of restlessness and discontent it is indeed unique to find a city satisfied with its chief executive and a Mayor satisfied with his city."

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

Mr. Walter B. Trowbridge, a well known former resident of Newton, died Saturday at his home in Pelham Manor, N. Y., after an illness of three months.

Mr. Trowbridge was born in Boston October 30, 1869 and was the son of William Otis and Lucy Trowbridge. He was educated in the Newton schools and at the West Newton English and Classical School and graduated from Technology in 1892. During his residence in this city he served as an alderman for three years.

In 1897 he married Effie M. Hibbard, daughter of former Mayor Hermon E. Hibbard of Newton. He resided in Newton until business called him to New York, when he took up his residence in Pelham Manor.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Otis Hibbard Trowbridge, now in business in Detroit; and two daughters, Miss Madeline and Miss Barbara Trowbridge; and a sister, Miss Miriam Trowbridge of 109 Myrtle street, Boston. During the years that he resided in Newton he was a member of the Union Club, the Exchange Club, and the Algonquin Club.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the chapel in the Newton Cemetery, Rev. Dr. Raymond Calkins of Cambridge officiating.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

brought her "old English Maidens" from Simons.

COMING EVENTS

A Book Review, with all its attendant interesting discussion, reminiscences of excellent touches, differences of opinion as to motives, plot, characterization, and presentation, is the stimulating program of the Monday Club for its next meeting on the afternoon of the 25th. Mrs. J. E. Peckham and Mrs. Samuel L. Eaton have charge of the "reviews," and Mrs. Adra Bonser is hostess, at her home, 56 Fisher avenue.

C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands

Continuation of study of Alexander Hamilton, through "His Writings," the excellent topic for the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands, on the afternoon of Monday, the 25th, when Mrs. William E. Leonard will present this indication of character, and record of achievement, of this, the fourth "Maker of America," chosen by the Club for the year's subject. Mrs. Lyman P. Briggs entertains the members at her home, 38 Aberdeen street, for this meeting.

West Newton Women's Educational Club

The fifteenth anniversary of The Travel Class will be celebrated by a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Guy C. Houlbrook, on Monday, January 25th. This to be followed by the election of officers and a discussion of a subject for next year's study.

Mrs. Fred S. Sawyer will be the guest. A paper on "The Kingdom in All Its Glory" will be presented by Mrs. N. C. Church. A short history of the class will be given by Mrs. John R. McLean.

Auburndale Review Club

Mrs. Amos R. Wells is hostess for the Auburndale Review Club at her home, 40 Williston road, next Tuesday, the 26th. Africa in General is the study topic for the remainder of the year, and following upon the informal papers already presented in December and January, which brought explorations up to the middle 1800s, Mrs. J. Wycliffe Spaulding now takes up "Explorations and Surveys Since 1875." Mrs. Stephen Wright tells of "Carl Akely and Martin Johnson," and Mrs. E. P. Drew gives information "From Cairo to Cape Town." Exploration, geography, personality—surely a well-balanced program, and one that there will be a feast of little known facts, and of fascinating character.

Newton Highlands Woman's Club

The Barn Studio on Hartford street will be open Tuesday, the 26th, for the monthly tea, and the Art Committee will exhibit at that time, the collection of hand painted furniture, boxes, and trays, done by the classes in the early winter under the direction of Mrs. A. G. Caldwell of Waban.

On Wednesday afternoon, the 27th, the Philanthropic Committee is giving the annual bridge party for the benefit of its fund. Two hostesses will open their homes for the large number of players expected. Mrs. Malcolm Green entertaining one group, in her home on Woodward street, and Mrs. Ernest J. Weaver, of Walnut street, having the other party.

The second meeting of the Literature Class is scheduled for Wednesday morning, the same date when Mrs. J. E. McCourt of Lincoln street will be the hostess.

The many worth-while, and successfully accomplished, ventures of this "live" club are indicated in the few sentences above—art, combined pleasantly with industry and thrift, charity combined with friendly entertainment, and literature to complete one's culture. Where can be found a happier combination of the many-sided interests of clubdom, of the hand, of the heart, and of the mind?

Social Science Club

"Lincoln and Nationality" is the topic of the lecture by Prof. Henry G. Pearson of the Institute of Technology for presentation to the Social Science Club at its next meeting, January 27th, at Hunnewell Club, Newton, at 10 o'clock. It will be a guest meeting. Mrs. Herbert G. Pratt and Mrs. James E. Clark will be the hostesses.

Boston Woman's Civics Club

The meeting on Wednesday, January

27th, will be at the Hotel Brunswick, opening at 2.30 o'clock. The guest of honor will be Mrs. Clarence W. Clark, Second Vice-President of the State Federation, who will bear a message from that organization. The chief speaker of the afternoon will be Prof. Roger E. Roberts, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, whose subject will be "The European Situation."

Mrs. William M. Mick, well-known and beloved to us in Newton, will have charge of the Current Events period, and there will be special music arranged by Mrs. Mina Del Castillo, Chairwoman of Music.

Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A.
The mid-winter meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. will be held next Wednesday afternoon, the 27th, at 2.30 o'clock, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Newton. Announcement of these meetings always comes to attention with pleasure, for the programs provided are exceedingly entertaining, being of that rare compound, information and amusement. And this does not mention the hospitality which is extended to fortunate guests, in a social hour, with enticing refreshments. Like all true hostesses, the Club also delights in keeping open house, and sharing their good times, and extending a cordial welcome. The Wednesday meeting is open to all women of Newton, and they will be assured of a pleasant afternoon, if they wisely avail themselves of this invitation. The entertainment is to include whistling and violin solos, and tea will be served.

Newtonville Woman's Club

The Beginners' Classes in Italian Cut Work will meet at the home of Mrs. N. C. Jordan, 318 Walnut street, on Thursday, January 28th, at 10 A. M. and at 2 P. M. These classes will be held weekly, and Mrs. Jordan will be the instructor.

Mrs. P. F. Williams will conduct the class in English Drama, meeting at the Junior High School library on Tuesday, January 26th. "Androcles and the Lion" will be read by a member of the faculty of the Fessenden School.

The course in literature under the leadership of Mrs. Florence A. Reed will be continued at a meeting held Wednesday, January 27th at 2.30 P. M. The subject will be "The Life of Julia Ward Howe" as told by her daughters. Mrs. Edward K. Titus will conduct the study. It is the desire of the committee to have these occasions very informal and open for discussion.

The next meeting of the Hospital Committee will be held at the home of Mrs. E. O. Woodward, 28 Harvard street, Thursday, January 28th, at 1.30 P. M.

Members of the Posture Class are enthusiastic over the course. Exercise of the muscles, instruction in correct posture, and ten minutes of folk dancing make for health and grace. A few more could be included in this class.

Thursday, January 28th, there will be a Round Table Talk for Parents at the home of Mrs. Leroy M. S. Miner, 518 Walnut street. Speaker, Miss Carolyn Gerrish of the Girls' Latin School, Boston. Subject, "What I Know about Children." This meeting is open to all parents in Newtonville.

Newton Community Club

"Does Believing a Thing Make It True?" is the subject that the Rev. J. Edgar Park has chosen for his address to the Club at the meeting of January 28th to be held as usual in the Underwood School Hall at 2.30 o'clock. Dr. Park, pastor of the Second Congregational Church in Newton, at West Newton, is already well-known to many club members, as a preacher, lecturer, and writer. Mr. Ernest Hermann, Superintendent of the Newton Playgrounds, will speak for a few minutes on some timely recreational problems of Newton. The second of the series of food sales run by the Home Economics Committee will be held after this meeting.

There will be a hike, with Miss Margaret S. Ball as leader, on Friday, January 29th, weather permitting. Members will meet in front of the Newton Post Office at 9.15 o'clock to take the Framingham car, leaving the Square at 9.30. The walk will be from West Newton Bridge, past Norumbega Tower, along the Charles river to Roberts, Snow-shoes—if fate is favorable.

Newton Centre Woman's Club

Now is the call of Legislation heard through the land! The next month promises—as usual—to be intensive in study of measures advocated by the State Federation, and otherwise, and the Newton Centre Woman's Club has selected the date of January 28th as the meeting at which will be presented legislative information. Mrs. Ida Porter Boyer, known as a current events lecturer, will be the speaker on the topic, "Pending Legislation." It is hoped that a large club attendance will be brought out at this meeting, which is also the regular monthly business meeting. Business, to be conducted properly, as all good financiers know, must be followed carefully, and "checked up" so that club members do well to show not only interest in their club's business affairs, but active co-operation in making them a success. It is also announced that there will be Club Singing and Tea—a well-rounded program!

The Minstrel Show is attracting wide interest, and the date—or dates—draw near with almost alarming speed. February 5th and 6th will see this talent perform for edification and—perhaps—information (the promised information being as to the ability of the men of the community) of the Newton community. Wise people will not delay in ordering their tickets, which may be obtained from Mrs. Robert Chapin—telephone, C. N. 0621.

Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands
"Winter's Tale," Acts IV and V, continues as the attractive program of the Shakespeare Club, during these winter days, and the meeting of January 30th takes place at the home of Mrs. Samuel L. Eaton, 340 Lake avenue, when Miss Mary L. Sweeney is in charge of the Quiz.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Professor Kirtley F. Mather, professor of Geology at Harvard University, is one of the new instructors at the second term of the Community School of Religious Education, which opens Monday evening, January 25, at the Methodist Church in Newtonville. This is under the auspices of the Norumbega District Sunday School Association, an interdenominational association including Watertown, Newton and Waltham.

The courses to be given will last for ten Monday evenings. There are two periods of classes, 7.30 to 8.20 and 8.35 to 9.25 P. M., and four or five courses to be elected in each period.

The two courses given by Professor Mather are "The Contribution of Science to Religion," and "Christ and the Kingdom of God." Radio fans may have heard Professor Mather, and those who followed the Scopes case may have noticed that Professor Mather was one of the experts called in on that trial. He recently told some of the Sunday School Superintendents, to whom he spoke, that people down there were amazed to find that a man could be an earnest Christian and a scientist. Professor Mather comes to Harvard from Denison University, where he has been a strong Christian influence among the students. He is a teacher in the Newton Centre Baptist Church School.

Two other courses, to be given by Professor Herbert Mayer of Boston University, are "Young People at Work in the Church," and "The Social and Recreational Program of the Church." Professor Mayer is an outstanding leader of young people, known and sought widely as a speaker. The first named course under him is for young people only, age limits 15 to 24 years.

Miss Bessie Stratton, Director of Religious Education in Elliot Church, Newton, will give two courses: Dramatics in Religious Education, and Paenagony in the Church. She is especially well qualified for this, by study in Boston University under Miss Esther W. Bates, and by special dramatic training in college before she came to Boston.

Dr. J. P. Berkeley, head of the Department of Religious Education, Newton Theological Institution will teach "Life of Paul" and "Child Study." Miss Lullona Barnes of Watertown will teach "Marriage and Methods for Juniors in the Church School."

About 135 persons were enrolled in the first term of the school, which closed in December. A larger enrollment is looked for in the second term.

FIRE RECORD

Friday evening at 7.13, Box 742 was sounded for a fire in the cellar of the house at 120 Lake Avenue, Newton Centre, occupied by George H. Crosby. A defective oil burner caused the blaze. The damage was slight.

At 10.10 P. M. Friday, a still alarm called the firemen to 201 Kent road, Waban, where an overheated furnace had ignited some woodwork in the cellar of the house occupied by A. B. Harlow.

Sunday morning Box 314 was pulled for a fire in the cellar of the house at 395 Cherry street, West Newton, occupied by William Adams. The cause of the fire was unknown and the resulting damage slight. Sunday night, the alarm from Box 715, was for a chimney fire in the house at 119 Cedar street, Newton Centre, occupied by Herbert S. Morley.

MORE TAXI LICENSES

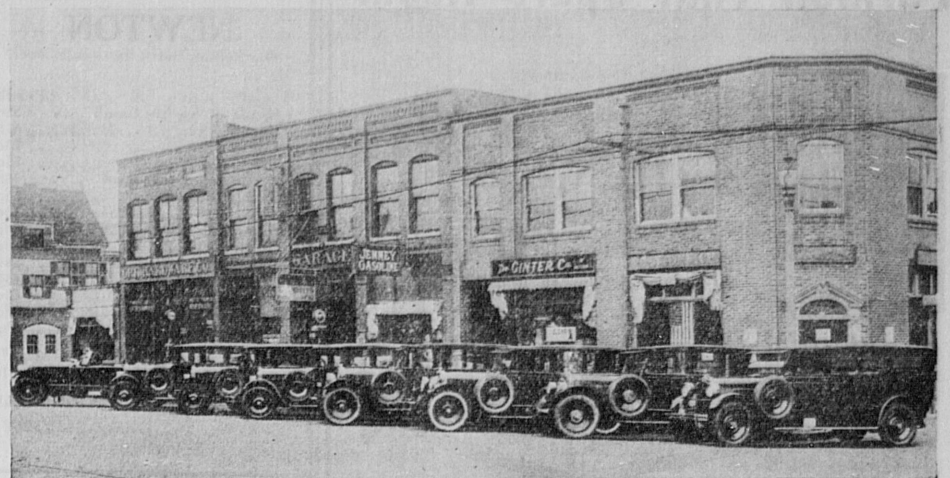

Theodore Flagg of 59 Charles street has been granted one additional first class taxi license for his stand at the Riverside station. Joseph Russo of 1271 Centre street has been granted a permit for a hackney carriage. This hackney carriage will be propelled by a gasoline motor rather than by a hackney horse; it will perhaps be termed a sedan rather than a carriage.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Odd Fellows Building Association of Newton will be held next Friday evening, January 29th, in the association building on Northgate Park at eight o'clock. The report for the year 1925 will be read and officers for the ensuing year will be elected. After the business meeting a social hour will be enjoyed.

CHURCH SERVICE

Rev. Earl E. Harper of the Centenary M. E. Church of Auburndale gave the Methodist ministers some good ideas at a meeting this week in Boston. Mr. Harper said it is time for our Methodist Church to examine its truly great heritage of liturgy and to develop for itself an order of service founded in tradition and in the religious nature of man, philosophical in outline, psychological in sequence, spiritually climactic, effective and impressive.

Mr. Harper said he was seeking a service which would combine the dignity of the Episcopal liturgy with the Methodist fervor and dash of Quaker emotion like what is found in the sixth chapter of Isaiah, in the mass and in the Anglican morning prayer. It began with a form significant of vision and adoration, which led to a confession of creaturehood, humility and penitence as man contrasts his imperfection with God. The call to worship "literally calls the people to their feet."

The reading of the psalms is a hymn of praise, not a lesson. The lessons themselves are followed by responses of gratitude. "We are finally ready for the great act of worship, the creed, which the present order has so strangely placed immediately after the opening hymn." Dedication follows in the prayer, and the climactic act of the service is the offertory, which too often is merely a collection, a material and mercenary device to get money. When it should mean the laying of our lives on God's altar. Announcements should never be made before the offertory unless they relate to it. The sermon comes as a challenge and inspiration to rededication.

Mr. Harper favored restoring the Old Testament lesson and said he found the Episcopal calendar of scripture readings valuable if used with freedom and shortened enough to keep the service of worship within thirty minutes. He advised making the lessons end in themselves instead of using them merely as points of departure for a sermon. "Sometimes I make the sermon hang on the service," he said. He deplored ministerial habit of making all the hymns relate to the sermon, so that "one monotonous idea is carried through the service."

NORUMBEGA C. E. UNION

The next meeting of the Norumbega Christian Endeavor Union will be on Saturday, Jan. 23, at the Watertown Baptist church.

This is the date of the yearly rally and a very promising program has been arranged for the evening. From 5-6 will be registration and fellowship hour, during which each person will register and get acquainted.

At 6 o'clock comes the banquet and a wonderful supper is being served, which will satisfy the needs of the most famished individual.

At the supper table there will be songs and cheers, each society competing and trying to put something over with lots of pep and speed.

After the supper is over, Mr. Clarence C. Hamilton, of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, will address the convention. Mr. Hamilton is a very interesting speaker, and it will be worth while to hear him. Special music will add to the program of the evening, to which the public is invited.

GEORGE M. CAMPBELL

George M. Campbell of 44 Green street, Newton, a resident of this city for over 60 years, died at his late home on January 19th. Mr. Campbell was born in Glasgow, Scotland, 90 years ago, and served during the Civil War with the 13th Illinois Sharpshooters. His wife died some years ago and he had no children. His funeral services were held on Thursday at the Church of Our Lady. Rev. Conrad Quirbach was the celebrant of a solemn requiem mass, assisted by Rev. Robert Mantle as deacon and Rev. Russell Healey as assistant. A delegation was present from Charles Ward Post, G. A. R., of which post the deceased was a member. Interment was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

N. C. SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

The second open meeting for the year of the Newton Centre School Association was held on Jan. 20th, at the Mason School Hall, and took the form of a civic program.

The audience heard with much pleasure and with equal surprise, in many cases, the performance of 30 members of the High School Orchestra. That a group of young people can give, with such charm and precision, music of such high calibre shows careful training and much enthusiasm on the part of both leader and performers. Mr. Chas. E. Harrington, head of the Science Department at Technical High School, has trained the orchestra and told a little of their work and that of the other smaller orchestra groups in the High School. This work certainly deserves the support and interest of all Newton people.

Mr. Ernest Cobb, of Newton Upper Falls, spoke on "The Control of City School Finances." He showed very clearly that a School Committee that must go to its governing body for permission to spend its school funds cannot do its best work. The larger cities have realized it. Of 27 cities having a population of 250,000, only seven are in the United States, in which the School Board do not administer the school funds. To do this, city charters have been changed. Boston, Lynn and Cambridge are Massachusetts cities that have done this. If this change of policy could be made in Newton, our schools would benefit in many ways. Mr. Cobb gave, as one illustration, an attempt made by the School Committee to make an increase in teachers' salaries. The increase was approved by the School Committee and could be paid without an addition to the budget, but as the Aldermen did not know, whether or not the teachers deserved it, the request was not granted. As long as the matter of what shall be included in or omitted from the equipment of our school buildings is not decided by the School Committee and is decided by the Board of Aldermen, the city cannot have schools of the best type.

Prof. Murray P. Horwood, of the Dept. of Public Health at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, spoke on "Health Sanitation and Supervision in the Newton Public Schools." "A Health Survey of 86 Cities" gives the results of a recent survey conducted by the American Child Health Association, of which Herbert Hoover is president. Prof. Horwood conducted this work in the 15 New England cities. He made it plain, by quotations from this book, that Newton stands in the front ranks of the health education done in the public schools. He paid a high tribute to Miss Bragg, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, for her planning and supervision of this work and to the fine co-operation of the teachers in carrying it out. The schools of Newton are visited by interested observers from all parts of this country and from abroad to study this work. Extension of preventive work with preschool children should be carried out, that they may enter school with good health and strong bodies.

Resolutions on the resignation of Miss Helen S. Tolman were read, and unanimously accepted. Miss Tolman has taught in Newton for 43 years and in the Mason school for 30 years. During that time she has missed only one week of school. It is with great regret that the Mason School District loses Miss Tolman, whose fine character has been an influence for great good in the community.

MAYOR VETOES GARAGE PERMIT

On December 28th the aldermen voted to grant a permit to Arthur Dupuis for a 20 car garage at 2 Moulton street, Lower Falls. Mayor Childs has declined to place his approval on this permit, so the petition will have to again come before the License Committee.

ESTIMATES FOR NEW SCHOOL

The Mayor has recommended that $371.60 be appropriated for estimates and other incidentals in connection with the new junior high school for West Newton and Auburndale.

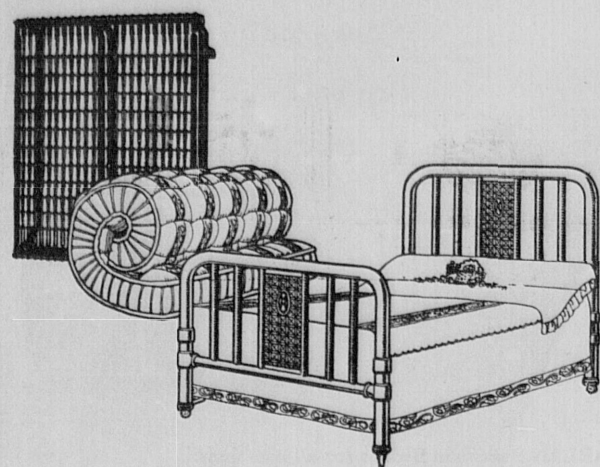

CLEAR CHURCH DEBT

In a unique service last Sunday morning members of the Newtonville Methodist church raised over $56,890 and cleared the church of its debt of some $53,000.

Rev. Albert D. Parker, pastor, and William T. Rich, chairman of the building committee, who directed the drive for funds, exceeded their fondest hopes in the success they achieved.

On Saturday morning of last week Rev. Mr. Parker was putting the finishing touches on his sermon for the following morning. "Burdens" was the subject. The calendars for Sunday had been printed, announcing the subject of the sermon. He meditated for a moment on the beauty of the

For many years he was employed by the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company of Upper Falls. He is survived by his widow, Caroline A. (Glover) Johnson and two sons, Robert Johnson of Fayville, Mass., and Seward Johnson of Wellesley. Private funeral services were held from his late home on Thursday afternoon, Rev. William Hall Williams, a former rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd officiating and the interment was in the Newton Cemetery.

MILLION DOLLAR CAMPAIGN

Representative Citizens Organize A City Wide Campaign to Give the Newton Hospital A Much Needed Up to Date Plant and Equipment

At an enthusiastic meeting of the Trustees of the Newton Hospital last Friday evening at the Brae Burn Country Club at which were present a group of representative citizens from all sections of the city, it was unanimously voted to launch immediately a campaign to secure $1,000,000 to $1,250,000 for a very much needed addition to the present hospital, at Newton Lower Falls. This will be the biggest job of its kind which our city has ever undertaken.

The Trustees have had this matter under deliberation for over a year, having consulted with the best architects and hospital experts on all phases of the problem, but before embarking on such a pretentious program, they desired to have an expression of opinion from those who might well represent the citizen-body.

Henry I. Harriman presided at the meeting. He first called upon President Charles E. Kelsey to outline the needs of a greater hospital service in Newton and the ability to widen the scope of such service to nearby communities. He was followed by Dr. George L. West, who spoke in most convincing fashion in behalf of the hospital staff of physicians and the urgent need of larger and better equipment.

These speakers were followed by Mayor Edwin O. Childs, who, in very effective and well chosen words told of his interest in the institution and that notwithstanding the ambitious program outlined, the record of Newton in all similar projects clearly demonstrated that it would enthusiastically support the new hospital plan. Clifton H. Dwinell also spoke in favor.

The present Newton Hospital which has 113 beds is making the most efficient use possible of the inadequate facilities now at its disposal. Many of the hospital buildings, however, are old, are of wooden construction, and are in constant need of repair. The nurses' quarters are very inadequate and not fitted for those who are giving a very high quality of service. New operating rooms are urgently needed. The new building project will include additional operating facilities as well as a nurses' home, a new X-Ray department, expanded facilities for outpatients, as well as providing 100 new beds for ward and private room patients.

The City of Newton is growing rapidly. No increase in hospital facilities, however, has been provided for over 20 years and such is the increasing demand for hospital accommodation that the institution is compelled daily to turn from its doors many who would gain admission.

It will be of interest to Newton people to know that 21% of the hospital patients are treated free; that 38% are treated at less than cost and only 41% pay a profit. Notwithstanding the fact that 59% yield no profit to the hospital, the annual operating deficit is only about $30,000. This latter sum is met by yearly subscriptions by Newton people.

The institution treated no less than 3551 patients last year. The private rooms are occupied at 94% of capacity while normal occupancy is not over 80%.

More than half the babies born in Newton last year first saw the light of day in Newton Hospital.

There is an endowment fund which is growing steadily and which now amounts to $464,000 from which there is an annual income of $23,000.

It was clearly indicated at the meeting referred to that the citizens of Newton would heartily support the campaign for raising the required funds to build the new plant, the same to start early this spring.

Newton has never failed in any project of this nature to more than meet her opportunities and obligations and it is confidently expected that the forthcoming effort will be crowned with abundant success.

ROTARY IDEALS

Prof. Jesse B. Davis of Boston University was the guest and speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Newton Rotary Club last Monday at the Woodland Golf Club.

The club has just been presented with a handsome Rotary Wheel made by the boys of the Vocational High School and Prof. Davis took the wheel for his subject and directed his remarks to the newer members of the Club.

The wheel has a rim marked "Rotary International," a hub marked Service and two permanent spokes marked Friendship and Fellowship. Prof. Davis called attention to the fact that the hub of the wheel was "Service" and that all its activities depended upon this fundamental factor. The first spoke is "Friendship," for friendship knows no caste and is most in evidence when needed. Fellowship is the sociability of Friendship. Mr. Davis then inserted the other spokes of the wheel, the first being "Goodwill" next "Vocation," only one business being represented in the club, next came "Community," another term for service and last the "Home" or duty to the children. All of these spokes support the rim of Rotary International, an emblem of unity and an important factor in the world's peace. The cogs on the rim of the wheel indicate the individual members of the club for the wheel is helpless without its cogs which mesh with others and develop Power for service for the Golden rule, the keynote of Rotary ideals.

The annual ladies' night of the club will take place on Feb. 16 at Lasell Seminary.

FIRE RECORD

Box 315 sounded at 10.55 Thursday morning for a fire in a barn at 58 Auburndale avenue, owned by John Pope. A horse, stabled in the barn, was rescued. The blaze was caused by a stove pipe having been stuck through the side of the building without being properly insulated. The rear of the barn was burned.

Saturday evening at 6.30 Box 243 was pulled for a fire in a Hudson touring car. The auto, owned by John P. Feeney, was in a garage in the yard of the city stable on Craft street, Newtonville. The cause of the fire is unknown.

LODGES

Norumbega Lodge of Masons will have an entertainment next Monday evening, following the regular business session, consisting of stereopticon lecture on Earthquakes by Prof. Hollis Godfrey.

At the recent installation of officers of Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent, D. V., Alice G. Beckwith was installed as guard and Alice Cunningham as assistant guard.

The annual meeting of the Odd Fellows' Building Association will be held this evening in the association building, the old Northgate Club, West Newton. Reports for the past year will be read and officers elected. A social will follow the business session.

25th ANNIVERSARY

The Channing Branch of the Alliance celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary on Tuesday, January 26th, by holding a "birthday party" in Channing Church parlors. Miss Georgia Emery, whose mother, Mrs. Daniel S. Emery, was actively interested in forming an Alliance branch in Channing Church in 1901, was in charge of the arrangements. The rooms were made beautiful by her taste and skill, and the brief program which she arranged joined past with present in delightful fashion. The only disappointment was the absence of Mrs. Barrows, the first president of the branch, who was prevented by illness from leaving her home in Brattleboro, Vermont. Her place at the head of the receiving line was taken by Miss Jessie M. Fisher, the third president, followed by Mrs. H. Leroy Simpson, Mrs. Joseph N. Palmer and the present president, Mrs. Edward M. Moore.

The program opened with two songs by one of the youngest members, Miss Dorothy Pray, followed by the reading of Mrs. Barrows' telegram of regret, and of letters from Mrs. Lutz and Miss Isabella Hardon, former residents who were unable to be present, and from Mrs. Atherton, the national secretary. Miss Marion Stone read the first Annual Report, written by her mother, Mrs. Frederick W. Stone, the first recording secretary, a stimulating recital of the accomplishments of the sixty-five earnest women who were the original members, in their first year of organized activity.

After a few inspiring words of congratulation and encouragement from Mrs. Oscar C. Gallagher, the national president, who honored the occasion by her presence, refreshments were served. Miss Fisher cut the birthday cake, Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Frederic A. Wetherbee poured tea and coffee, and Miss Stone served frappé. A hundred or more present and former members attended the gathering.

ELKS HAVE VISITATION

Newton Lodge of Elks had a visitation Thursday night from District Deputy H. Wesley Curtis of Arlington and his official suite. Because of the large number of members in attendance, over 600 being present, the ceremony was held in the hall of the Underwood School. Following the ritual, speeches were made by Deputy Curtis, Hon. John F. Malley, and others. The members then went to the Elks Home on Centre street, where an entertainment was provided and refreshments served. Wilfred Chagnon was in charge of the social session.

Albemarle Golf Club

The annual meeting and dinner of the Albemarle Golf Club will be held next Monday evening at the Newton Club, Newtonville.

TWO ALARM FIRE

Shortly after four o'clock this morning, fire was discovered in the house at 31 Central street, Auburndale, owned by T. J. Murphy of Park square and occupied by Royal C. Taft and family. The blaze had gained big headway when the occupants of the house were awakened by the flames and smoke, but they all made their escape. Box 46 was sounded at 4.14, and a second alarm was pulled as soon as the firemen arrived. The fire had such a start that despite the efforts of the firemen, the house was almost totally destroyed.

Shortly after the fire apparatus arrived on the scene, Mrs. Charles R. Butler of 1870 Commonwealth avenue prepared hot coffee and doughnuts for the firemen and notified Chief Randlett that her residence could be used by his men to obtain relief from the hardship they suffered by fighting the blaze in the biting zero temperature; many of them drenched with water.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in the soft coal in the bin in the cellar of the house.

MEN'S CLUB

Under the auspices of the Men's Club of Elliot Church, the men of the other churches in Newton were invited to a supper and conference last Wednesday night in Elliot Chapel to consider the advisability of organizing a Men's Club to include men from all churches in the Newton Corner district.

President Carl J. Thornquist of the Elliot Men's Club was in charge. After an excellent supper, there was an address by Mr. J. Victor Day on "Associated Effort" and after some discussion a committee consisting of Mr. Thornquist, Harry W. Bascom of the Y. M. C. A. and two delegates from each of the five Protestant churches was named to further consider the matter.

This committee is composed of Edgar M. Horne, Charles D. Kepner, Elliot Church; Rev. J. West Thompson, P. E. Wing, Methodist Church; Clarence V. Moore, J. William Blaisdell, Immanuel Baptist Church; Legett D. G. Bentley, Grosvenor, Calvinist Grace Church, and Dr. Edward Mellus and R. G. Howard, Channing Church. This committee will meet on Monday evening.

MIDDLESEX COURT HOLDS WHIST

Members of Middlesex Court held a largely attended whist party on Tuesday evening at Elks Hall. Mrs. Patrick Vahey was in charge and was assisted by Mrs. John Shea, Mrs. William Considine, Mrs. Martin Considine, Mrs. Michael Eustis and Miss Mary Blake. The proceeds were given to a charitable purpose. On February 9th, the Court will observe its 40th anniversary. A large committee under the leadership of Chief Ranger Thomas Peppard is making arrangements.

OWEN NOT TO TURN PRO.

On a recent trip to New York George Owen, ex-Newton and Harvard star and stellar defense player on the B. A. A. hockey team, refused to consider an offer to turn pro from Tommy Gorman, manager of the New York team, although Gorman was ready to start at $5000 and work up. The former Newton boy has been playing brilliantly all season for the Unicorn team and New York fans have raved over his showing in the games at Madison Sq. Gardens. Mgr. Gorman approached Owen to sound him out in the matter of playing for money. The colorful amateur quickly ended the conversation by declaring that no amount could induce him to turn pro, although he admitted he enjoyed watching the professionals play.

ARLINGTON DEFEATED 1-0

Arlington high forced Newton high into an overtime period Monday afternoon in a league contest at Bullough's Pond before the Newton team could cage the rubber. The Spy Ponders kept even with the orange and black until three minutes of the ten-minute extra session had been played when Captain Guy Holbrook scored the only point of the game on a pass-out from behind the Arlington net by Andres. He sent it flying into the cage past Chamberlain, the Arlington goal tend.

In the third period Capt. Holbrook and Buckley of the Arlington team crashed together and the Arlington had received a leg injury which necessitated his leaving the game.

Holbrook and Stubbs starred for Newton, while Buckley and Hilliard in the forward line and Hamm on defense played best for the visitors.

The summary:
NEWTON—Powers, Brown, Whitmore, lw; Holbrook, c; Stubbs, rw; Andres, ld; J. Proctor, rd; Thompson, g.
ARLINGTON—Everett, rw; Hilliard, c; Buckley O'Neill, lw; Lane, rd; Hamm, ld; Chamberlain, g.

There was an interested crowd around watching the roll-off and there was plenty of excitement as the matches were close.

ST. MARK'S DEFEATED 4-2

Wednesday afternoon Newton high defeated St. Mark's school at Southboro 4 to 2. It was the prep school's second defeat of the season. Anderson started the scoring in the first period with a pretty goal. Harding, centre ice for the home team, evened the count at the beginning of the second period but the orange and black went ahead when Holbrook and Stubbs each scored. The latter scored again in the final session. Thompson at goal for Newton played a remarkable game and turned aside many shots that looked like certain goals. He, Stubbs, and Capt. His topic, "The Business Outlook for 1926," was illustrated with charts. The next meeting of the Club will be held on Monday, Feb. 1st.

The Board of Directors' Meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held on Tuesday evening, February 2nd, in the Directors' Room of the Association.
January 27th to February 3rd, is Right-of-Way Week for "Association Men," the Y. M. C. A. Magazine. Any of the secretaries will be glad to take subscriptions for this magazine which should be in every home where there is a boy or young man.

More than half the places that will be available at Camp Frank A. Day for the 1926 season have already been applied for. Application for this camp may be had by writing to the Newton Y. M. C. A. Last year there was a waiting list.

SPORT NOTES

Several Newton boys are listed in the rankings recently made public by the United States Lawn Tennis Association. Malcolm T. Hill and Henry L. Johnson, Jr., of Waban, comprise the leading junior doubles team. In the junior singles Johnson is ranked third, Hill, fourteenth, and Robert Turner of Waban, thirty-sixth. In the boys' singles, Arthur D. Noble of Newton Centre is ranked tenth and in the boys' doubles Noble and E. E. Rice of Boston are ranked eighth.

Among the spectators at the B. A. A. Knickerbocker game Saturday night was William F. Garcelon, president of the Eastern Amateur Hockey Association, who was seeing his first game of the season.

Newton Centre Tennis club continues to set the pace in the Massachusetts Squash Racquets series in the Class B match. The Garden City combination defeated the Tennis and Racquet club last Saturday on the latter's court, 4 to 1. Harvard club held the top position in Class C by virtue of its win over Newton Centre, 3 to 2. The latter club is in fourth place in the third class. Newton club defeated B. A. A. 3 to 2.

George Owen was the big gun again in the 3 to 0 B. A. victory over the Knickerbocker last Saturday night. The best play of the game was when the Newton youth blocked two players, one after the other, and then continued on. He had only one other play to evade which was a simple matter and then, after drawing the goal tend out of the net, pushed the rubber into the cage. Clad Harker made another of the Unicorn's three point total.

The Newton Centre Tennis Club is developing something new in the tennis world—a tennis professional. The system is being tried in the West. At the local club are father and son, Louis Volpe, Sr., and Louis Volpe, Jr.; Louis, Sr., was born in Italy, and after coming to America took up the work of gardening. Finally, after becoming connected with the Newton Centre Squash Tennis Club he learned about both lawn and squash tennis. He is now known as an authority on courts and racquets throughout greater Boston. Louis, Jr., visiting the club, soon learned to play the games and developed rapidly into the cleverest player in the vicinity. Whenever anyone wants a little practice the fifteen-year-old lad is always ready to give it to them, and he has warmed up many champions for their tournament matches. The boy plans to make the game his life work, and he should develop into a strong tournament player and an able teacher as he grows older.

Since the rout of the Yale freshman team by the Newton high hockey sextet Newton fans are showing considerable more interest in and more enthusiasm for the local team's chances for championship honors. A few sidelights on the various members that make up the orange and black team are not amiss at this time. Captain Guy Holbrook is one of the best players in school hockey ranks this winter and his ability to lead the team is not a whit less than his ability to cage the rubber. And he has scored at least one goal in every one of the games to date with the exception of the Stoneham contest. Frank Stubbs, Jr., the brother of Joe Stubbs, a former Newton and Harvard star and now playing a stellar game for the B. A. A., is one of the outstanding wings in the interscholastic league. Powers, Brown, and Holmes, who have played the opposite wing to Stubbs, are clever athletes. Harold Andre, captain elect of the football eleven, has been putting up a first class game at left defense and with another year ahead of him should have little difficulty in making an interscholastic team before he graduates. Two other football players, John and Billy Proctor, have been alternating at the right defense position and have been doing fine work at breaking up the attack of the opponents. And now Tommy Gilligan is breaking into the picture again. His ankle injury has completely recovered and his return to his old position on the defense has caused many coaches of teams which will face Newton in the coming month to search for new ways to break through the Newton defense. At goal both White and Thompson are reliable players and not very many shots get past either of them.

Monday's game at Melrose should attract considerable of a following. It is one of the crucial tests for the orange and black. Last year at the Arena in a deciding game, the local school went down to defeat because of lack of capable secondary material. This year it should be a different story as Newton has enough material of first string calibre to make up practically two teams. Melrose has a clean slate to date and has, among other teams, defeated Stoneham which surprised Newton by taking home the bacon. Newton, however, routed the Yale freshman team by a 5 to 0 score. While Melrose fought hard to win from the Blue yearlies, 2 to 2, Monday's game should be a toss-up and the best team should win.

It looks as though Newton would have a chance to get back at Stoneham high for the defeat it suffered about three weeks ago. At present it seems likely that Melrose, Newton, Stoneham, and either Cambridge Latin or Arlington will compete in the round robin series to be played at the Arena to settle the championship of the Greater Boston Interscholastic Hockey League.

Some Saturday in the near future when there is no track meet scheduled for the high school indoor track team Samuel Moore of Newtonville is going to make another attempt to regain the world's championship for consecutive bull's eyes. Young Moore is a dash man on the high school team and the coach has asked him to defer the attempt until there is an open date on the track schedule. Two weeks ago the Newtonville lad reeled off 2499 perfect shots out of 2500, and it took a delicate instrument to detect that somewhere between 1500 and 1550 shots one shot had failed by a hair to penetrate the bull's eye. The world's record is held by an Ohio youth who hit 1785 bull's eyes consecutively last summer at Camp Perry and wrested the championship from Moore.

Samuel Moore formed a team of Newton boys last year, consisting of himself, Roland Dustin, Charles Adams, Richard Hunt, Richard Patey, Alfred Zeigler, and Philip Jacobs, which won the junior championship of the National Rifle Association in a mail match. All of these boys are still at Newton high with the exception of Dustin and Adams. Dustin is in the Army and Adams has graduated and is in business. Moore will graduate in June and he is trying to obtain the appointment to Annapolis. He won the national junior championship in a mail match against 200,000 members of the National Rifle Association.

Clem Coady seems to be following the footsteps of George Owen. It was but a few years ago that Owen was the big star at Harvard with nine letters. Clem already has won two and with the remainder of this year and next year ahead he may end up with seven. Besides winning several letters apiece, both played first base on the baseball nine, defense on the hockey sextet, and both did considerable punting in the backfield of the Crimson eleven.

The two-day meet between the Newton high and Brookline high school indoor track teams was a plan inaugurated last year between the two schools. Two meetings are staged with identical events on each track in order that competition can be staged without favoritism to either team. At Brookline no spikes can be used and at Newton with spikes and corner banks, which are hard to take without practice, conditions would be quite unfair to the visiting team. The home and home meets, with the highest total of points determining the winner provides each school with a fair chance.

Newton high swimming team journeyed out of its class last Saturday to take a defeat at the hands of the Exeter Academy nermen. While the orange and black was decisively defeated the experience of competing with superior swimmers should give them worlds of confidence when competing against teams of their own calibre.

While the standing of the Newton Y basketball teams is not very high in the Two-state league the majority of the games have been closely contested. Quincy won by but a few points and Worcester by but one goal, while in the first two games with Cambridge and Brockton the local quintet did not have its full strength available. Lynn Y which has suffered but ten defeats in 125 games in five years showed real class and speed in the game last week. Newton however was leading by one point at the end of the first quarter and it was not until the second half that the Lynn aggregation obtained a commanding lead. Another year, with a veteran five on hand and several men of first string calibre coming up from the second team the local association should have a first class outfit on the court.

Cambridge Latin climbed into third place in the interscholastic hockey league standing by beating Stoneham 2 to 0 Monday afternoon.

Dick Rogers of West Newton has been elected captain of the Dartmouth freshman hockey team.

Once again Captain Guy Holbrook pushed the rubber into the cage to win a hard-fought overtime contest with Arlington high Monday in a league game. The orange and black sextet now has only one more game to play in the preliminary round and that with Melrose Monday. If Newton can bring home the bacon in that contest it will be in a top tie with the Melrose team. The round robin series which starts next month at the Arena should bring out some real fast hockey.

The Newton Pals hockey team played a 1-1 tie with the Dorchester Tow Team last Sunday at Bullough's pond. The ice was good and both teams played a whirlwind game, but in spite of an extra period neither team could score the winning goal.

Dummer academy handed the DeWitt Clinton school a 4-13 defeat in a basketball game between the two schools at South Byfield Wednesday afternoon. Everson played best for the local private school, scoring six of his local points.

In the Newton bowling league, Wednesday night none of the three Newton teams came out on top. Chato won three out of four from the Newton Club, Waban broke even with Maugus and the B. A. took three of four from Hunnewell.

The Newton Pals hockey team played two league games this week-end at Bullough's pond. Tomorrow afternoon the local amateur sextet faces the Eagles of Dorchester and Sunday afternoon they play the Locusts of Dorchester. The latter team is leading the league and has yet to be scored upon.

The Newton Y basketball team added another game to its list of victories Wednesday night when it defeated the Boston Y 37 to 26 in a Two-state league game on the local floor. McGilivray, Newton's fast forward, could not play because of a sprained ankle which he suffered in the game with Lynn last week. It is hoped he will be able to play at Quincy Wednesday night when the local five plays its return game with that organization.

Charlie Phelps, although but a freshman at Williams College, has won a place for himself on the varsity swimming team. He took second place in the forty-yard dash in the meet with B. U. last Saturday night which upstate college won 44-9. The Nearly every home, and many business places have a radio today. Many of those owning a set, have invested in chargers to revive the batteries which provide power for their radio sets. Most persons owning these chargers do not seem to realize that the acid fumes which are created while the batteries are being charged, will not only injure and tarnish picture frames and metal articles in the room where the charging is done; but that repeating this operation every couple of weeks will eventually damage furniture and draperies in the room containing the battery. If you have a battery charger, operate it in the cellar, or in some room in your home where it will have no chance to work possible injury to the furnishings of the room.

Many persons have become such slaves to the automobile, that they walk as little as possible. It follows that such persons are obtaining insufficient exercise, to the detriment of their health. Their legs and foot muscles become so weakened through lack of sufficient use, that when these inveterate riders walk a few miles or more on any one day, they become quite fatigued, or the aches of their feet become painful.

One distinguished resident of Newton has not abandoned the art of walking. Judge Alonzo Weed takes long hikes both for exercise and pleasure. We observed him the other day walking along Commonwealth avenue, near Cottage Farm. A stroll from Boston to Newton, is a mere jaunt for the judge.

"Bob" Harrison of Newton Lower Falls, is one of the youngest old men in the city. It is some years since "Bob," having reached the age limit, was retired from the local police force. But he appears as young as he did twenty years ago, when he patrolled the Newton Corner section. "Bob" has a fund of good stories about some of the local characters who were familiar figures around the "corner" of a quarter of a century ago. One reason for Mr. Harrison's continued youthfulness, is his practice of taking real exercise. Every now and then he will cut down a tree and chop it into kindling.

Few cities in the state provide such excellent facilities for their young, as does Newton at Bullough's Pond. When the ice in other places is made unfit for skating because of snow or thaws, Bullough's Pond is kept cleared of the snow or drained of surface water over the ice. This activity on the part of our Playground Department adds a little to the cost of running the city, but it is money well invested.

One hardware store in Newton takes precautions that none of the victims of strong liquor can obtain cheap booze there. Sometime after the National prohibition law was passed, desperate drinkers who could not raise the coin to pay the high prices asked for alcoholic drinks usually sold, took a chance on wood alcohol. Wood alcohol was supposed to be a deadly poison; it would kill whoever drank it, or at least blind them. Bottles or tins containing it had to be labelled "poison." Despite this, those afflicted with the "terrible thirst," became wood alcohol addicts. They split this vile smelling stuff 50-50 with water, and made a cloudy liquor known as "smoke."

When the first "smoke drinkers" were brought to police headquarters at West Newton, unconscious, breathing heavily and exhaling fumes of corpses in the cells, and Dr. Lowe, the City Physician, was hastily called to pump the "poison" out of the stomachs of the soused individuals. But, as time went on, and more and more wood alcohol jags were interned in the cells at West Newton, it became evident that wood alcohol does not always kill or blind. But, the hardware store referred to in the foregoing paragraph has adopted a method guaranteed to discourage unfortunates who are willing to get drunk on any concoction that will make them drunk, no matter how dangerous. The proprietors of this store mix a tablespoon of another very strong liquid with every quart of wood alcohol they sell. And any dipsomaniac who becomes drunk once on this mixture, can't muster enough courage to repeat the performance. It is worse than the treatment inflicted on the "Reds" by Mussolini's followers.

One of the most beneficial institutions in this city is the Free Library. Its personnel receives little publicity and very modest salaries. The library workers are among the most efficient and courteous of any of the employees of this city. They deserve more appreciation than they receive.

Mr. Farlow, Mr. Edmands, and those other public-spirited residents of the Newton Corner section, performed a great public service a half century or more ago, when they made the Newton Free Library possible. Their generosity benefited not only Newton Corner, as it was then called, but all parts of Newton.

Loyal residents of West Newton are emulating the good work of the gentlemen of Newton Corner who many years past gave so freely of their money to establish and maintain the Newton Free Library. They will soon build a very attractive library building on Chestnut street. Residents of Aubundale have also raised funds to erect a branch library in that village.

Some of the young folks are complaining that no provision has been made in their districts for coasting this winter. Those who like skating are well cared for by the city at Bullough's Pond, but those who derive pleasures in coasting received little attention, according to the complaints we have heard. The "coasting enthusiasts" contend that some streets in different parts of the city, should be set aside for this sport and properly patrolled.

Perhaps the Finance Committee of the present Board of Aldermen will differ from that committee on recent Boards and will recommend that money be appropriated to purchase a police ambulance. With 240 miles of streets within its confines, and a population well over 50,000, Newton should not depend on one auto patrol to serve both as a conveyance for dirty drunks, and respectable men and women who may be the victims of accidents.

Many of the huge auto trucks that travel on our streets, weigh when loaded around fifteen tons or more. They carry around their rear tires, a single heavy cross chain. With these trucks speeding over the frozen streets, and these cross chains gouging into the street surfaces under the pressure of many tons, it is not to be wondered at, that hundreds of holes are made in our highways every winter, and thousands of dollars required to repair the damage caused by auto trucks carrying freight car loads.

The suggestion of Attorney General Benton, "that the police of 40 communities in Greater Boston be united into one huge department," will not be received with enthusiasm by citizens of most of the 40 cities and towns. It would mean a large increase in taxes to residents in the district would take the control of local police departments from the hands of people conversant with local conditions and needs in each community, and would create in all probability a department so large as to be unwieldy and inefficient. It would be a long step towards annexation to Boston to adopt Mr. Benton's suggestion. Newton is one city that is not anxious to become absorbed in Boston.

The new buses of the M. & B. have the best signs we have yet seen on street cars or buses. The letters painted on them are clearly defined, large enough to be easily read, and unusually well illuminated at night.

THE VILLAGE PLAYERS

The Village Players, whose efforts in the past have been so favorably received, are planning to open their fourth season by the presentation of "The Cinderella Man" at the Unitarian Parish House in Newton Centre next month, the precise dates to be announced later.

It is the purpose of the organization to present two or more carefully prepared plays each season. The seats for these performances are to be obtained solely by subscription, and the success of the organization materially depends upon the generous interest and support of its friends and well wishers. Subscribers may obtain any desired information from the members of the executive committee, as follows:

Mrs. Frank A. Mason, chairman;
Mrs. Willard Dittymple, Mrs. Arthur L. Lewis, Mrs. Lorenz P. Muther, Mrs. Charles F. Powers, Mrs. Frank L. Richardson, Mrs. Edward Ray Speare, Mrs. Graham P. Spencer, Mrs. J. Rollin Stuart, Mrs. Ralph B. Webber, Miss Rosamond Spalding, Miss Marion Whitcomb, Miss Katherine Wilkins.
The executive committee will also be pleased to confer with any aspirant for a part in their productions.

COMMON VICTUALLER'S LICENSES

The applications of Paul Novers to conduct a boarding and lodging house in the rear of 1335 Centre street and of John Shamsholian for a common victualler's license at 38 Mechanic street were referred to the License Committee for further consideration.

ARTICLE No. 15

"When should the declarer lead trumps?" is a question that is frequently asked. As a general rule, don't lead trumps until you have established your long suit, unless your trump holding is so strong that you can lead trumps and still retain control. Such hands, however, play themselves and the difficulty usually arises when the trump strength is or may be evenly divided between the declarer and his opponents. It often happens that the declarer has been forced to bid in response to his partner's informative double and has only a four card suit, often without top honors. Such hands as these offer many difficulties, even for the experienced player, so any analysis of such hands should be interesting and instructive. The hand published as a problem in the preceding article was of this type. It is as follows:

Answer to Problem No. 8

Hearts — Q, 9, 3
Clubs — 10, 9, 4, 3
Diamonds — 8, 3
Spades — Q, 7, 4, 3

Score, YZ 16, AB 10, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump. A and Y passed and B doubled. Z passed. A bid two spades, Y and B passed and Z bid two no-trump. A and Y passed, B bid three spades, Z doubled and all passed. If Y opened the six of clubs, how should A plan the play of the combined hands? A should figure Z with at least four spades to the king jack. Z would not have been justified in bidding two no-trump and doubling three spades with any less holding. He also should hold the king of hearts, the ace of diamonds and the king of clubs. It should be apparent, therefore, that A should not lead trumps. Z's trump holding is much stronger than his own and in addition,

Hearts — 6, 4
Clubs — Q, 8, 7, 6, 5, 2
Diamonds — 10, 7, 6, 5
Spades — 5

Hearts — Q, 9, 3
Clubs — 10, 9, 4, 3
Diamonds — 8, 3
Spades — Q, 7, 4, 3

Hearts — K, 8, 5
Clubs — K, J
Diamonds — A, J, 9, 2
Spades — K, J, 9, 6

See what happens if A should lead the ace and a low spade after winning the first trick. The lesson to learn from this hand is not to lead trumps until you have established your long suit. Here's another hand that is an example of good play that comes up frequently enough to make a study of it well worth while. Think it over and compare your results with the analysis that will be given in the next article.

REALLY NOT IN ANY HURRY

Not Hard to Believe Naive Statement Made by Men Condemned to Be Hanged.

Augustus Thomas has a story to relate of his early days which illustrates the very telling effect to be achieved by just a few words, the New York Herald says. Thomas was then an advance agent, working the territory ahead of a famous mind reader of a generation ago, and generally working it for all it was worth. In Minnesota he managed to land his thought diviner on the front pages of the newspapers by asking for a reprieve for two brothers, due to be executed for murder, until his psychic wizard could arrive on the spot, read the minds of the condemned men and determine whether the jury were good guessers in finding them guilty.

The following day, in order to get a good second-day story, Thomas decided to work up further interest in a delay of execution and incidentally in his mind reader—by visiting the jail and having the two prisoners sign an important statement to go to the governor.

"They were men of limited intelligence," says Thomas, "rather illiterate, and so I thought it best to confine their statement to one simple sentence. I merely had them say: 'We're willing to wait.'"

MANY HOME-MAKERS' CLUBS

Institutions Flourish in North Dakota —Interesting Program Made Up by Experts.

Home-makers' clubs in North Dakota, which constitute an outstanding feature of home demonstration work in that state, number 66 clubs in 22 counties, with a total membership of 1,036 rural women. The county extension agent represents the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural college, and helps develop the program for the women's clubs.

These club programs include clothing, food, poultry, gardening, home management, and household decoration. Under food the clubs include the study of the family diet, the hot school lunch, a yearly food budget, meal preparation and planning, etc. Clothing work embraces the making of the paper dress form, the use and modification of patterns, the drafting of patterns, infants' and children's clothing, remodeling, trimmings and accessories, home dresses and aprons, household methods of cleaning and dyeing, directions and patterns for homemade toys, and other Christmas suggestions, and millinery. Poultry culling, diseases, housing, the care of baby chicks and turkey raising are all part of the poultry work that is being done.

Pictures and Appetites.

Christiania, Norway, has a restaurant where the "fast of reason and flow of soul" is nightly associated with crowded tables. A Norwegian painter of repute was engaged to decorate the walls of the dining saloon. When he had completed the work, he could not obtain payment, and took the proprietor to court.

The owner declared the pictures were inartistic and drove customers away. He wanted the artist to pay for erasing the paintings, and also to pay for another to decorate the walls in a more attractive manner. Several critics bore testimony to the excellence of the work. While the court is considering the question, the restaurant is crowded nightly with guests more critical of its pictures than of its viands.

Drawing a Fine Line.

Many Indianapolis needy people go to a certain charity worker for advice as well as for aid. The other day a colored woman came with a lacerated face. She told her story in plain language. Her husband had beat her whenever he wanted exercise. She wanted the charity woman to tell her how to cure him of the "fault."

The charity worker looked at her a few minutes. Then she said: "A man who beats a woman needs pretty severe treatment. Have you a rolling pin?"

For a minute the colored woman stared at her. Then she caught at what the other woman was suggesting. "No, I ain't got no rolling pin," she returned. "But, lady, I has got a razor."—Indianapolis News.

In China.

They had printing presses and other "modern improvements" in China when our ancestors were running around dressed in blue paint.

Now China is adopting many humane and sanitary measures. To promote higher standards in industry the Chinese Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai recently approved a set of regulations in which the following are included: There shall be no employment of children under twelve years of age; one day's rest in every seven; sanitary conditions improved; safety devices installed for machinery.

Makes Demand for Cotton Cloth.

The cotton cloth used in the manufacture of bags for the cement trade last year would make a strip thirty inches wide and 17,000 miles long, or one that would reach two-thirds around the earth at the equator. In order to maintain the necessary stock of 200,000,000 sacks, the cement industry yearly orders approximately 30,000,000 new sacks, consuming 30,000 bales, or 15,000,000 pounds of cotton.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

WORLD STILL RULED BY MAN

Masculine Mind Continues to Be a Factor in Things That Are Really Worth While.

Those who either rejoice or lament—as the case may be—over the supposed fact that this is the woman's age, that the male has been entirely superseded, we commend a study of the following figures given out by an Eastern sociologist that bear on this debatable subject, says the Los Angeles Times.

Of the thousands upon thousands of sermons preached in this country last Sunday women preached not more than 170.

Of the pleas made in all the courts in the United States only one in every 100 is made by a woman.

Of all the newspaper editorials not more than one in thirty is written by a woman.

It is estimated that 95 per cent of the successful inventions and of "opinion-making ideas" still emanate from masculine minds.

So, according to Mrs. Gillman, the well-known educator, we continue to live in a man-made world.

On the other hand, 90 per cent of the education of our children is in feminine care and in the whole country 11,000,000 women are earning their living independent of masculine support.

Man still appears to be the chief factor in molding public sentiment. Perhaps, however, this is but another case where the hands are the hands of Esau, but the voice is the voice of Jacob.

LEARNED MUCH OF INTEREST

British Attempt to Reach Summit of Mount Everest Was Not Altogether a Failure.

Although the 1922 British expedition to Mount Everest failed in its principal aim, which was to reach the top of the highest mountain in the world, it did succeed in finding out a number of things of much interest to scientific men. These things are now being made known in various scientific journals.

Certain brave little plants, such as edelweiss, were found blossoming at a height of nearly 20,000 feet. Wild animals and birds, such as mountain sheep, ravens and rock doves, unacquainted with human beings, showed no fear of them at all, readily eating from the climbers' hands. These wild sheep, ravens and doves, together with wolves, foxes, rabbits, rats, mice and condors, with a few other birds, were found at an altitude as high as 20,000 feet, and occasionally even a thousand or more feet higher. Condors were observed flying high above the mountain's north summit, 24,000 feet above sea level, where the atmosphere was only one-third as dense as at sea level.

Some naturalists have proposed the theory that life on the earth must have begun first on mountain summits, for these summits might be considered as the first parts of the earth to be cool enough for the existence of living things. Geologists point out, however, that many of our highest mountains were formed since those earlier geological epochs in the rocks, of which plant and animal fossils have been found.

Vandals Destroying Carthage.

Vandals strip Carthage of her time-honored ruins, and it is feared these imposing remains of an older civilization will soon disappear altogether. In 1802 Thomas Rald, an Englishman, in imitation of Lord Elgin tore down the hot baths of Antonin in order to send their columns to London. This act aroused the indignation of the civilized world. But the French have done even more. They have destroyed the magnificent marble staircase of a hundred and twenty steps which led to the Platea Nova, taken down the small pillars, transformed the splendid cemetery of officials into a tillable field and converted the wall of Theodosius into road-building material. At present the ruins of buildings and monuments of bygone days are not very numerous, and each year, according to Doctor Carton, corresponding member of the academy of inscriptions, five or six thousand cubic meters of stone are taken away.

Mushrooms Endanger Building.

On account of large mushrooms of the poisonous type known as Phellium cryptarium having elected to exist on the large wooden beams of the Versailles chateau it is reported that the building is in danger and immediate repairs must be made if one wing is to be saved. Hereafter all windows are to be kept open for three hours daily in an attempt to exterminate the mushrooms, which it is said spread with great rapidity and eat their way right through the woodwork. Phellium cryptarium mushrooms, which hate fresh air and sunlight, were recently discovered in an old schoolhouse in Etampes where they caused the building to collapse.—Scientific American.

Electrical Appliances Modern.

An interesting fact in regard to the development of electrical appliances has just come to light. It seems that about 1902, Reginald Trautschold, M. E., of the Society for Electrical Development, demonstrated to Louis Sherry at his famous cafe in New York city the first electrically-operated dishwasher probably ever used on Fifth avenue. Curiously enough at that time the Sherry cafe stood on the spot now occupied by the offices of the Society for Electrical Development.

ADDED TO VALUE OF RADIO

Galena Detector Said to Have Made Concerts Practically as "Clear as a Crystal."

Radio has brought new life to the worn out phrase "clear as a crystal." In the early days of the radiophone it was difficult to get a tube set which functioned without annoying the listener with scratches and sandy noises. This difficulty has partly vanished, due to better design of receivers and more tuning knowledge on the part of the radio public. Perhaps the first person who heard a flawless radio concert rushed out immediately afterward to broadcast the information to his friends. If so he probably described the reception by saying that it was as "clear as a crystal."

He referred to the old meaning of the phrase, which likens the object, compared to the perfect lucidity of a soothsayer's glass ball or crystal. Many amateurs have used the phrase in its old meaning, and it is only lately that the newer application has been understood. In a reflex receiver, where vacuum tubes are used in connection with the galena detector, the reception is remarkably distinct and free from annoying tube noises. The galena detector is responsible of course, and when a radio enthusiast says his reflex receiver is as "clear as a crystal" he means it.—New York Times.

TESTING STRESS ON PLANES

"Accelerometer" Registers Information of Value to Builder, as Well as Showing Pilot's Ability.

Not long ago the national advisory committee for aeronautics undertook to obtain information about the stresses that are produced in maneuvering an airplane. At the beginning of a series of experiments it was observed that, when the plane was flying a straight and level course, a spring balance with a one-pound weight attached to it would register just one pound. If the craft was put into a turn or made to rise, the apparent weight of the one-pound object increased to two or three pounds, while on a downward dip the spring balance would indicate less than one pound or even zero. Based upon the conclusions of these tests, an instrument, which has been called an "accelerometer," was designed, to detect and record the variation and relative magnitude of the forces that tend to set up stresses in an airplane structure when in flight. In doing this, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, it also gives an unbiased record of the relative ability of pilots in handling their machines in the air, and in making a satisfactory landing.

King Tut's Discoveries.

Mr. Howard Carter, the American archaeological expert, who recently uncovered for the late Lord Carnarvon the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen in the Valley of the Kings, is no amateur, but a graduate of the school of experience. In 1903 he was inspector general of the antiquities of upper Egypt and was entrusted by Mr. Theodore Davies, a wealthy patron of archaeology, with the direction of some excavations that disclosed the tomb of Thutmose III. In the same year the tomb of Queen Hatshepsut was cleared out by him on a Davies' endowment. Under a Davies' commission, Mr. Carter discovered the last resting place of Queen Ti, mother of King Akhnaton, predecessor of Tut-Ankh-Amen. He gave up his government post in 1904 to prosecute his recent search.

Flea Season.

Have you a little flea in your home? If you have you're not in the scratching these days. If you have, don't try to camouflage by calling it a "sand flea," because it is just plain dog and cat flea.

That's what H. F. Dietz, assistant state entomologist, says. Fleas are beginning to become numerous. It takes a flea only a little time to be a great-great-grandfather, Dietz said. The flea question has become so engaging that the entomology division of the state conservation department has prepared a bulletin on how to wage war on the flea. It will be ready for distribution soon, but one has to go some to get a jump ahead of a flea.—Indianapolis News.

Playgrounds in Mexico City.

The public playgrounds presented to the City of Mexico by the American colony as their gift on the occasion of the centennial celebration of 1921, apart from their intrinsic value, have been the means of providing thousands of little ones with undreamed-of luxury. Excellently equipped and capably managed and sustained by an international association, they have succeeded in so impressing the local authorities that two more playgrounds have been laid out and completed.

Bigger Demand for Diamonds.

According to reports to the Commerce department, the United States is now taking in about $800,000 a month in cut or partly cut diamonds, as compared with $400,000 a year ago. The change has increased employment in the Amsterdam cutting establishment and has made the market much more active and hopeful.

Fifty-Mile Skating Trip.

Clifford L. Simonds and Paul L. Rider of the University of Vermont last winter made the 50-mile trip on states from Burlington, Vt., to Plattsburg, N. Y., and return. About two hours was required in going to Plattsburg, but, owing to severe winds and a snowstorm, four hours more passed before they reached Burlington.

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by DOROTHY E. BUSHNELL

General

The Literary Digest, quoting Dr. George Counts of Yale, notes an interesting condition of our modern society which has been an existing influence against individual efficiency since the first pick-and-shovel-man envied the wearer of white collars. Dr. Count's statement reads, "In our society, in spite of what has been said about the dignity of labor, many occupations which are clearly necessary to the promotion of the common good are stamped as unworthy and are thus essentially given a negative standing." He goes on to say that the betterment of this rather snobbish condition rests entirely upon Education's ability to place each profession in a light which will beautify its service and enable it to call its own well fitted workers.

Perhaps, however, a little more education in the difference between mediocrity and superiority and their relative importance might help to place occupations on their rightful levels. Snobbery doesn't prevent the wearer of the black shirt from rising to the presidency if he has the executive ability and doesn't keep the wearer of the white collar from begging bread if he hasn't ability to do anything else. There are many teachers who are unable to speak grammatically and who haven't the faintest spark of intellectual quality—there are many jobbers whose sole recommendation is the "poorest work for the most money" and it is a surprising fact that these misfits are the ones who practice the snobbery of which Dr. Counts speaks.

It is most certainly up to education to go guide the minds of those choosing a life work that their entire choice will depend only upon their particular abilities and not in the least upon the social status of the occupation, but it is still more up to education to stamp out the pest of "contentment with mediocrity" which is far and above the ruling passion of the smaller fry in any field of today. Those who will rise in any field are those who can lift their hands from a hard day's work filled with the fruits of superior labor. There are no social limitations for these except they be exclusions from the society of mediocrity.

F. A. Day Junior High School

"Listen in" this evening to a radio program given by the F. A. Day Junior High School. From Station WEEI. The Big Brother Club, you will hear a program by F. A. Day school pupils. The weekly assembly was in charge of Mr. Rush this week with the following program: Violin solo, Dorothy Morris, accompanied by Dorothy Adams; violin solo, Frederick Mouser, accompanied by Miss Hinkley; vocal solo, Yvonne LaCroix; Two Educational Films a Day with Thos. Edison—Bimutinous Coal.

Saturday morning about fifty pupils of the F. A. Day Junior High School, accompanied by two teachers of the social studies, Miss Sanborn and Miss Goodnow, attended the historical play of "Columbus and the Discovery of America" in the Chronicles of America series, at the Repertory Theatre in Boston. Prof. Countryman of Yale University, sponsor for the films, gave in vivid language the European background for the pictures.

Through Mr. Harrington of the Newton High School, we had a very enjoyable concert, the proceeds of which will be used to buy instruments for our orchestra.

Miss Tracy and Miss Wright were hostesses at an afternoon get-together in the newly furnished teachers' room Wednesday. Coffee and waffles were served.

Mr. Carr and several of the teachers attended the lecture last Saturday at Rogers Hall, by Superintendent Washburn of Wintek, who spoke on the individual teaching used in the Wintek schools. The talk was illustrated by many slides.

Mason School

The eighth grades clubs met as usual on Monday afternoon.

In the Science Club, Charles Small described the process of obtaining hydrogen from water which was followed by Mr. Heavens' performing the experiment.

The English Club had a debate on the advantages of the radio over the victrola.

In the Music Club, the wind instruments of the orchestra were described, charts with pictures of each were shown, and their differences in tone given on the victrola. Then the orchestra of five instruments rendered selections, while some club singing of familiar songs closed the meeting.

Several of the teachers lunched on Monday noon at the Trinity Episcopal Church social and thoroughly enjoyed not only the appetizing food, but also the friendly welcome by many of the ladies of the church.

Room 6 for the second time received the N. C. S. A. banner given for the best attendance of parents at the open meeting held Jan. 20. Congratulations to Miss Swallow and the children.

Stearns School

The Children's Museum of Boston was visited by a group of sixth grade pupils on Tuesday afternoon. The Museum lectures and exhibits offer cultural instruction which schools are not equipped to give. Miss Van Housen, of the educational staff of the Museum, gave the children an interesting and profitable talk on the North American Indian, after which attention was called to a remarkable exhibit from the Iroquois and Abnaki confederations and from the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes of eastern Maine.

Thrift week commenced with a bang when young orators from Miss McLaughlin's room visited the upper classes and spoke on thrift. Miss Edson's class held first place of honor with a total of eighteen dollars saved. Not satisfied with this splendid record, they gave an interesting program at Assembly, Philippi Roy announcing. The children of the primary grades are very enthusiastic with the new seat work. It has a marked educational value and supplements the required work in reading, number, and language.

A Kinder Orchestra is being organized in the first grade. Drums, triangles, bells and tambourines are the instruments used. Several classes have attended rehearsals and have been much impressed with the skill of the youngsters.

Ralph Waldo Emerson School

Miss Simon completed this week a course of twenty lessons in grades 7 and 8 on the general subject, "Personal and Home Hygiene." There has been good interest throughout the course because of the practical nature of the lessons.

The pupils of the grammar grades had the opportunity on Friday, Jan. 22, of seeing two reels of motion pictures in the Hall. The Industrial Film Service Company of Boston presented the films which were on the Banana and Wheat. The processes of planting, cultivation, harvesting, and marketing of crops from each plant were clearly and minutely shown. So much interest and value were contained in the pictures that a return exhibition has been arranged for on March 1.

A school hockey team has been organized. John O'Shaughnessy is captain and George Bennett manager of the team.

At the last assembly in the Hall the graduating class gave in dramatic form a summary of the progress of the world through the world's greatest inventions.

Former supervisor of music, Horace M. Walton, paid the school a visit on Wednesday, renewing friendships and showing interest in his favorite line of school work.

The school is emerging from its slump in attendance due to the prevalence of whooping cough. The last report showed 93.6 for the whole school.

Miss Horgan's class enjoyed another lantern lecture last week in their study of the United States.

Individual photographs of all the pupils in all the classes were made last week. They will be arranged in class groups for those pupils who wish to secure them.

Pierce School

On Thursday morning, before the entire Assembly of the Peirce School, Mr. Ernst Hermann, superintendent of playgrounds in this city, awarded the 1925 baseball and football trophies to the victorious Peirce teams, champions of both sports in the Grammar School League, conducted under the guidance of the Peirce school superintendent.

The exercises consisted of regular morning assembly, introduction and awarding of trophies by Mr. Hermann and speech of acceptance by Mr. Scarborough, principal of the school.

The baseball trophy, a beautiful engraved shield, was presented to the 1925 baseball captain, William J. Reilly, one of the most promising athletes turned out at Peirce School, and a member of this year's football team at Newton High.

Captain Reilly thanked Mr. Hermann and expressed his praise for the hard work and untiring efforts of Mr. Brean, coach, in welding together a champion team.

Captain Arthur Cavallo of this year's champion football team, accepted the football trophy.

Last May and June, Peirce school conducted a Tennis Tournament, and this morning two beautiful cups were presented: one to Miss Nancy Mandell for the girls' singles and the other to John G. Gill, winner of the boys' singles.

Congratulations were then extended by Mr. Hermann to the Peirce teams. He exhorted the boys to participate in athletics, and while they might not always be winners, it was the fellow who could lose and still have a winning smile in defeat, who was the real red-blooded athlete.

Mr. Scarborough accepted the presentations in behalf of the school and extended a most hearty welcome to the Peirce school superintendent to come and visit Peirce school frequently.

The exercises closed with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," followed by the salute to the flag.

Underwood School

The children of the Underwood School are justly proud of their Savings Bank record. The amount to their credit during Thrift Week was $70.05.

Thursday afternoon all the teachers of the fourth and fifth grades had a very enjoyable trip to the Children's Museum of Boston.

We were glad on Monday to welcome Miss Higgins back after a week's illness.

The Assembly Hall has been equipped with beautiful brown stage curtains, which add greatly to its attractiveness.

Bigelow School

At the Friday morning assembly, moving pictures were presented which proved to be both entertaining and educational. Two films were shown, "The Romance of a Grain of Wheat," and "The Story of the Banana." Both the pupils and teachers wish that they might have more of this very useful kind of entertainment.

Mr. Baker's class leads in attendance this month with Miss Searle's a close second. Miss Hamilton's class holds the claim of no tardiness for the entire month.

The new student council organized recently with Donald Plouff as president, Francis Barba, vice-president, and Virginia MacAleer, secretary.

A contest in good posture has been inaugurated in the various classes and there seems to be considerable enthusiasm. We hope there will be much improvement, not only for the sake of good appearance but because of better health habits.

The Bigelow hockey teams have been playing a fine game this season. The last game played was between the Angler Juniors and the Bigelow Juniors

PROFESSOR K. F. MATHER

The January meeting of the Lydia Partridge Whiting chapter, D. A. R., was held on Tuesday, the 26th, following a luncheon at the Women's City Club, Boston. In addition to the regular routine business, Miss Annie S. Head, Mrs. Sanford Thompson, and Mrs. Albion Brown were elected delegates to the spring conference of the State D. A. R. to be held in Boston, March 18. Miss Adelaide Webster is the chapter's delegate to the annual meeting of the National D. A. R. in Washington.

The guest of the afternoon was Mrs. Archibald Jordan of Winchester, state chairman of the Auditorium Bond Committee. Mrs. Jordan explained the method of financing the proposed Auditorium to be built in Washington, characterizing the undertaking as a sound business proposition and not a missionary movement.

A description of the social work carried on at Angel Island, the Ellis Island of the Pacific Coast, by Miss Annie Head concluded, the afternoon's program.

DEATH OF MRS. TAYLOR

Mrs. Myra Taylor died at her son's home in Worcester on Wednesday, January 20, 1926.

In her death the Mothers Rest Association of the City of Newton loses a devoted worker and friend.

Mrs. Taylor came to the Mothers Rest as its matron in the spring of 1911 and for fifteen years she has cared for its guests each summer, giving to their welfare spiritual, as well as physical, wisdom and devotion.

The experience gained as matron of the Frances Willard Settlement work fitted her especially to give the wise and motherly care which caused many a weary mother to say "She made us so happy."

Mrs. Taylor will be mourned by many to whom she has given a long and faithful service.

Funeral services were held on Friday, Jan. 22, in the Park Avenue Methodist Church, Worcester, and were attended by officers of the Mothers Rest Association.

EDITORIAL

Governor Fuller's annual address to the Legislature should be read by every good citizen of the Commonwealth, for he strikes at the roots of many sources of maladministration with particular emphasis on the tolerant attitude of the state towards crime and criminals. The Governor's recommendations in this respect should be carefully considered and, in the main, should be followed by appropriate legislation.

We do not believe that the proposed limitation of trial by jury will work. It leaves the determination of such a method to the criminal and it would appear logical that 99 per cent of the defendants would demand a jury merely to cause such a congestion in the Superior courts, and in minor cases finally lead to a nol pros of the case. It seems to us that the proper method would be to take the bull by the horns, so to speak, and get to work on a constitutional amendment which would limit a trial by jury to felonies. Such a course would give the district judge final authority to act in all cases of misdemeanors, except in matters of law which would be reviewed by the upper courts, and, to a large degree, reduce the number of jury trials in the Superior court, making jury service far less onerous to the average citizen.

While the Circumferential highway which is now under consideration by the Legislature, does not directly pass thru this city, our citizens are deeply interested in any project which will relieve the tremendous traffic congestion in the Metropolitan district. Incidentally we are pleased that this important matter is fathered by the Metropolitan Planning Board, of which Mr. Henry I. Harriman is the efficient chairman, and Mr. Edwin H. Rogers the chief engineer.

While the friends of the Newton Hospital have entered upon a tremendous campaign to raise a million dollars, we have faith that the city of Newton will stand loyally behind this movement and that it will be carried to a great success. Let's Go.

The many friends in this city of Congressman Luce will sympathize with him in the death of his wife.

FIRE IN LUMBER MILL

Just after midnight Sunday fire was discovered in the Boyer mill on Webster street, West Newton, and Box 351 was pulled. It started near the boiler of the mill and was believed to have been caused by hot ashes. It spread into a pile of sawdust and was making a real blaze when the firemen arrived. It was extinguished before much damage resulted. Some months ago a serious fire occurred in this same mill.

Knowledge and Understanding. The improvement of the understanding for two ends: First, our own increase of knowledge; secondly, to enable us to deliver and make out that knowledge to others.—Locke.

THE SECOND CHURCH

On Friday, the twenty-second of January, every seat in the hall of the Second Church Parish House at West Newton was filled at the annual church supper and the overflow spread to many of the outside rooms. After supper the reports were reviewed showing that the church had the largest membership in its history and that the sum of $11,370.13 had been raised for benevolent purposes by the church and its organizations during the year. The following officers were elected: Mr. Frederick S. Hardy, Deacon; Mr. Charles E. Gibson, Moderator; Mr. Elbert G. Allen, member of the Executive Committee. Touching reference was made to the five members of the church who had died during the year, a message of congratulation was sent to Miss Mary E. Cushman who has been a member of the church for seventy years; also to Mrs. Emma H. Thompson who united with the church sixty years ago. Addresses were made on behalf of the old members by Deacon Edward A. Marsh, who united with another church in 1855 and has been for many years a member of the Second Church; also by Mr. W. J. David, representing the new members and by Mr. Robert L. Underwood. The arrangements for the supper were under the care of Mrs. H. M. Cole. At the close of the Annual Meeting the choir of the church rendered a most instructive and amusing town concert in accordance with the old style.

"THE WINNING WIDOW"

The first of a series of theatrical performances was given at Odd Fellows' Hall, at Northgate Park, Monday evening. A parlor comedy, "The Winning Widow," by Edith F. A. W. Painter in two acts was presented by Sumner P. Lawrence Rebekah Lodge No. 177, all the parts being taken by young ladies.

The cast of the play included L. Evelyn Weldon, Gladys A. Kidder, Jessie Adams, Marjorie P. Perkins, Florence J. Goff.

Mrs. Weldon, as Kitty, the mischievous daughter, made a hit with the audience with her easy and spontaneous action. The part of the more dignified, but wilful daughter, was taken by Miss Evelyn Keith, who acted the part in self-possession and pleasing manner.

Miss Gladys Kidder took the part of the maid, who in reality was a rich girl in disguise and her acting was cleverly done.

Miss Jessie Adams and Miss Florence J. Goff, who took the parts of the audience with her easy and spontaneous action. The part of the more dignified, but wilful daughter, was taken by Miss Evelyn Keith, who acted the part in self-possession and pleasing manner.

The part of the widow, as the beautiful mother, who charmed her masculine callers, was successfully carried out by Miss Marjorie P. Perkins in her usual pleasing manner. Miss Perkins also coached the play, and taking it as a whole was a great success from start to finish. The stage furniture was kindly loaned by the Fox Furniture Co. and part of the music given by friends. Dancing was enjoyed after the performance, an unusually large number of dancers staying till the last strain of music was played. A goodly sum of money was realized.

JURORS DRAWN

The aldermen held a special meeting Monday night to draw nine jurors for the civil session of the Superior Court at Cambridge. Alderman Charles Favinger performed the duty of drawing names for the first time, and to show he is impartial, drew the name of one of his colleagues on the Board. Alderman Fred Hawkins of Ward 1. Besides Mr. Hawkins, those drawn for jury duty were Lewis H. Bacon, Jr., 91 Wyman St.; Robert Fitzpatrick, 28 Austin street; Herbert E. Hatch, 390 Waverley avenue; Frank Ackerman, 129 Rowe street; Harry Mitchell, Washington Park; Ernest L. Miller, 20 Woodside Road; Francis Buswell, 40 Eddy street; Charles E. Nichols, 93 Cabot street.

Astronomy.

In ancient times star lore was handed down from one nation to another. Where it started no one knows, for astronomy was the first groping of man for truth. Symbols for the sun and moon, the earth and planets, the same ones in use today, have been found among the relics of the old Stone age, where even implements of polished flint were lacking.

Training.

Beyond all books, beyond all classroom at the school, beyond all special opportunities of what I call my "education," it is this drill and pressure of my daily task that is my great schoolmaster. My daily task, whatever it be, that is what mainly educates me. All other culture is mere luxury compared with what that gives.—William C. Cullen.

Cut Bamboos for Needles. Whole forests of bamboo are being cut down to supply the need of phonograph needles every year.

FINED FOR SELLING LIQUOR

Chelsea may have been wide open for the manufacture and sale of "hard liquor," but it was evidenced again Wednesday morning that Newton is a poor place in which to barter strong booze. In the West Newton court on that day Judge Allen fined Joseph Pouliot of 306 California street, $100 for making an illegal sale of intoxicating liquor and gave him a suspended sentence of six months in the House of Correction. It was Joseph's second conviction on such a charge; he had been arrested before in 1923. Placide Sampson of Cook street, Nonantum, was fined $100 for committing a similar offense, but he insisted that he was not guilty and appealed.

The two men were in court as a result of some sleuthing by Patrolman John Green, assisted by John L. Bedford of Faxon street, who obtained the evidence. They had been arrested on January 9th, and the trial had been twice postponed. On that night Green gave Bedford, who was well known to Pouliot must have had a suspicion that money and followed him to the houses of both men. Bedford testified he went into Pouliot's home and bought a pint of booze from him, paying $2 for it. Pouliot must have had a suspicion that Bedford was not merely to be trusted, for, as he told him the liquor he asked, "Are you buying this for Bernie or for Reagan?" The "Bernie" referred to was Chief Burke of the Police Department. Bedford gave a very truthful answer. He told Pouliot that he was buying the booze for "Johnnie" Green. Pouliot replied, "Do you mean that, or is it a joke?" Bedford answered, "It is a joke." It was a joke, but an expensive one for Pouliot.

After Bedford had obtained the liquor from the two men, the police got search warrants and raided the houses of the twain. When Pouliot's residence was reached the police were admitted after a short wait, but could find no intoxicants. Sampson's house was next visited by the squad under Serg. Leehan. According to the police, when admission was demanded, someone was heard coming down stairs and entering the bathroom. Then, the gurgle of liquor being emptied was heard.

Thereupon, Johnnie Green acted as "shock troops" and tried to smash the door. Unfortunately, Johnnie is light weight, and each time he hit the door with his 140 pounds, he merely rebounded. Motorcycle Officer "Bill" Dowling, who was with the attacking army, acting as dismounted cavalry, seeing Green's futile efforts at invasion, forced the kitchen window of Sampson's house, and jumped inside. Bill thought he stepped on the floor, but he had landed on top of a table. When he took the next step he hit the table, but not his feet. The tumble "Bill" took did not lessen his fighting ardor, so he rushed the bathroom and made a flying tackle of Sampson, catching the latter by the neck just as Placide was pouring the last of his liquor into the tub. A small amount of the alleged "hard stuff" was saved and used as evidence.

Sampson testified that when Bedford entered his house on January 9th, he did not sell him any booze, but after Bedford had made a tearful plea, he gave him a little of his private stock on the supposition that it was for the sick mother of his betrayer. Asked by Judge Allen, "Why he attempted to dispose of the liquor he had in the house for private purposes, when he heard the police?" Sampson explained, that he became nervous when he heard the officers, and feared he might be arrested for having any liquor in his home.

LAYMEN'S LEAGUE

Members of Channing Chapter and of the West Newton Chapter of the Laymen's League were the guests last night of the Newton Centre Chapter at the Unitarian Church in Newton Centre. President A. G. Catheron presided and after a delicious supper introduced the speakers of the evening. Hon. Sanford Bates, Commissioner of Correction of the Commonwealth and Hon. Herbert C. Parsons, Deputy Commissioner of Probation, to discuss the subject of "Crime and its Treatment."

Mr. Bates gave a most interesting account of his recent visit to England and the Continent and contrasted the treatment of prisoners in several countries with what was being done in America. He gave statistics to prove that the more severe the penalty for crime, the more crime ensues, and that an increase in the penalty does not prevent the commission of crime. He also contrasted the attitude of the public, particularly in England, where sentiment is always behind the government and the police, with the maudlin sentiment which usually attaches to the criminal in this country.

Mr. Parsons discussed the value of the Probation system, saying that notwithstanding considerable adverse publicity, the figures show that about 82 per cent of the cases under probation never appear a second time in court, that 5 per cent eventually leave the state and that only 11 per cent are surrendered back to the court by the Probation officers.

He showed the value of the system in such cases of non support of wife and parents, and showed how the pending bill to refuse probation for a second offence would destroy the present excellent method of handling all non-support cases.

Mr. Parsons was also emphatic in his opinion that it was unwise to limit the discretion of the judges of the state of whose ability he had the highest praise.

BOYLE-BUCKLEY

The marriage of Miss Lena Buckley, former supervisor in the Newton Centre telephone exchange, and Martin J. Boyle, formerly of Newton Centre, now of Brighton, took place Wednesday afternoon at the Church of Our Lady, Newton. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Buckley, and William P. Boyle, a brother of the groom, was best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 12 Gardner street. After an extended wedding trip in the South, Mr. and Mrs. Boyle will reside at 19 Arden street, Allston, where they will be at home after March 1.

ABOUT TOWN

The automobile has supplanted the horse. Almost, but not entirely. Some of the surviving members of the original New York 400 continue to ride in vehicles drawn by handsome horses and driven by coachmen attired in resplendent livery. A few of the ultra-ultra families of Boston still use victorias as well as sedans.

Patrick Kone has resurrected the stylish vehicle of pre-auto days in Newton. Mr. Kone, who is employed on the estate of St. Agnes School in Newton, recently acquired a landaulet and a horse. The landaulet, which was the property of the late J. F. Flanagan, who lived on the magnificent estate which he bequeathed to the Sisters of St. Joseph, the order which conducts St. Agnes School. Mr. Kone attracts as much attention now, as he drives his equipage around the city, as the pioneer autos did when they made their early appearances on the highways.

Those residents of Newton who ride in the cars of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company, cannot but observe the poor condition of many of these cars. When this transportation company was under private management, efforts were made to keep the cars in good condition. But not now. The push buttons which are supposed to notify the conductor, or operator, that passengers desire to alight, are largely not in working order. In former winters the cars had double windows, but now they have single windows. Today, not only are there no double windows, but the single windows are frequently loose, and cold breezes blow on the passengers. Nor do these windows appear to be washed very frequently. It is a common occurrence to see the doors of the cars fail to operate properly.

It would seem that the present management of the "Elevated" has gone too far in its effort to economize. Economy is a good policy. But it should not be carried to the extent that the rights of that portion of the public which rides on the "Elevated" system, shall receive scant consideration.

Henry Ford is performing a great service in restoring somewhat the popularity of the old fashioned dances. Mr. Ford, as well as millions of other persons believes that the old fashioned dances will provide healthy amusement and are better for the morals of the country than the erotic, neurotic jazz. Mr. Ford might be pleased to learn that old fashioned dances have been conducted in Newton for some time.

The other Thursday evening as we climbed the stairs of the Warner Block on Centre street, we heard the strains of an old-time reel played on a fiddle. Then the voice of a prompter, "Right hand to your partner; Grand right and left." A quadrille was in progress. Making inquiries, it was learned that every Thursday night a dance is held in Bay State Hall, attended largely by young men and women from the Maritime Provinces. The programs consist partly of modern dances, partly of old time waltzes and two-steps, and every third dance is a quadrille. A three-piece orchestra furnishes the music for the round dances and for the hiking dances. But when the quadrilles are in action, Joe Rooney gets busy. "Joe" conducts a welding business in West Newton, but there is nothing metallic in the tones that "Joe" produces from his fiddle when he plays the old Scotch and Irish airs. Needless to say, the quadrilles are the most popular numbers at these dances.

Patrolman Frank Dow returned to duty this week after having been off his route because of injuries sustained by being struck by an auto. Frank was guiding children from the Underwood School across Centre street at Vernon the other day, when he was hit by a car driven by Harold Jensen of Newton Centre. Jensen misunderstood the officer's signal to stop and stepped on the gas. To prevent hitting the policeman, he jammed on the brakes and the car skidded down the icy street and struck the officer. Dow received bruises and abrasions, but was not seriously hurt.

Hoseman Dan Corcoran of Hose 6, one of the oldest members on the department, received a severe shaking up and painful bruises this morning while returning on the wagon from the fire at Abundant. The truck driver, Mr. Corcoran was hurled to the street. He was carried to the Newton Hospital, where it was found he had suffered no serious injury.

Newton Highlands children and grown-ups are mourning for Prince. "Prince" was the friendly dog which for five years daily accompanied his owner, Officer Horace Bailey, around the streets of that village. Lately he has been missed, and his friends, knowing how faithful "Prince" had always performed his self imposed task of assisting in patrolling Newton Highlands, made inquiries of his master as to his whereabouts. They were informed that the big brown spaniel died a few days ago.

Better library facilities are needed at Waban. The branch library in that village was formerly housed in a large room in the Angier School. This room was needed for school purposes, so the library was removed to a smaller room which is inadequate in size. The library trustees contemplated placing a portable steel building in Waban to be used as a branch library, but it was decided that such a structure would not be desired by many of the residents of that section. This beautiful village should have a branch library in keeping with its surroundings.

THE BARE KNEED GIRL

"Blessings on thee, little dame, bare of neck and knees the same; With thy rolled-down silken hose, and thy thin, transparent clothes; With thy pretty made-up face, and thy bobbed hair's jaunty grace; With thy red lips reddened more with the lipstick from the store. With all my heart I give thee joy, Thank the Lord I was born a boy."

Mr. James Sullivan of Circuit avenue has returned from the Newton Hospital, where he underwent a successful operation.

A group of M. E. Church young people held a coasting party last Saturday on Boylston Hill. They enjoyed a social time at Mrs. Temperley's afterwards.

The Pageant given by the young people of the M. E. Church last Sunday evening was greatly enjoyed by a large audience. The Antiphonal Singing was a feature much appreciated.

Miss Florence Meredith of Oak street leaves Sunday to enter training at the Memorial Hospital, Worcester. The employees of the State House, where she has worked the past few years, gave a dinner and theatre party in her honor.

The reports given at the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Methodist Church held on Tuesday evening showed that the church has made considerable progress during the year. The Conference unanimously asked for the return of the pastor for the next year. At the close of the Conference there was an informal reception given to Dr. Shepler, the District Superintendent, who having completed the term of office will retire from that position at the coming session of the Annual Conference to be held in April.

NEW SCHOOL PLANNED

The revised plans of the West Newton-Auburndale Junior High School, to be erected at Washington and Myrtle streets, West Newton, are being prepared for the members of the Board of Aldermen by the architects, Ripley & Boutillier. Plans that had met the approval of the School Committee were in the hands of the Building Commissioner last week, but it was deemed advisable to make several changes. With the plans as they now are, it will be possible to add at slight expense many classrooms as the need arises. It is estimated by Alderman Harry Pitts of the School Committee on Schools that the new school will register 650 pupils when it opens in September, 1927. A three-story building is now planned, with an ornamental tower similar to that on the High School of the Church of Our Lady in Newton or the one on the Weston Town Hall.

POLICE NEWS

John P. Dolan, without a home, was in court Monday morning charged with breaking and entering the market of C. A. Stimets and stealing a small quantity of food stuffs. GOOD WORK

Andrew Prior, sealer of weights and measures, in addition to his work of verifying the various scales and other measures of weight and volume, is analyzing in many places the quality of anthracite and bituminous coal sold by local dealers. Despite the coal conditions, Mr. Prior has received very few complaints this winter relative to the quality of fuel. It is incumbent upon the dealer to furnish good quality just as much as full weight and in cases where the dealer fails to make restitution for poor quality fuel, prosecution is started by Mr. Prior. In no case this winter has Mr. Prior been compelled to resort to prosecution. In the few cases where it was shown that the coal delivered was of poor quality, the dealers have made good to the customer. Mr. Prior finds in the Newton coal yards plenty of soft coal, coke and some anthracite, mostly buckwheat. Dealers who have good anthracite in their yards are reserving it for old customers and doling it out in half-ton or ton lots. Practically every dealer in the city has some anthracite, but prices are so much higher than those of soft coal that consumers are contenting themselves with the bituminous.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by LEVERETT D. G. BENTLEY

Seated one night, wearing earphones, I was weary and ill at ease. With Shepard's and Edison silent. And nothing from W. B. Z. The artists had finished their labors. The broadcasts had ceased for the night.

I twisted and twisted the tuner. But got nary nibble or bite. I'd been told that the far-distant stations

Could be heard when the hour was late. With patience I held my position. In vain did it seem I must wait. I hoped for a dance from Miami.

From gay Cuba the snatch of a song. From Pittsburgh, maybe, a sweet ballad. Whatever the waves brought along. When ready to give up the struggle.

I was roused by a sharp, rattling cry. "At last," I exclaimed in my triumph. "Who says it is useless to try?"

I turned every knob in my fervor. Employed every thing I'd been taught. I promised myself some fine boasting. When I'd tell all my friends what I'd caught.

"Just listen," I shouted in gladness. "Here's something from very far off." But soon came the truth, disappointing.

I was "getting" my own heavy cough. It is not our intention to plunge into the discussion of crime, its prevention and cure, which subject seems to demand wide public attention these days.

There is a phase of it, however, which concerns Newton and Newton people, and to this we would like to make reference. With so many reports of the activity of bandits and petty thieves in the neighborhood places, the minds of many of our fellow citizens are not entirely free from thoughts of the possible invasion of Newton by desperate people.

Happily, Newton has been comparatively free from this form of trouble. And, we are informed that it is not entirely due to luck, but to other more practical conditions. In the first place Newton is not regarded as an "easy place to get out of it."

A robber of the modern school depends much on the automobile, but at that Newton whether from geographical causes or something else, presents a problem to those who make certain first they are going to accomplish a successful getaway. There is apt to be a mix-up on roads and byways that may bring the criminal into a fix from which he cannot extricate himself before his capture is effected. Secondly, there is no assurance that a man who commits a crime will be lightly dealt with. In other words, potential criminals have an idea that Newton believes pretty thoroughly in respecting the law, that the police are aware of that fact and proceed with that understanding and that further the courts and the District Attorney of Middlesex County are functioning as they should. All this makes the would-be hold-up man think twice before he tackles a "job" in any part of Newton.

Now just a word or two to our citizens who perhaps have not given as much consideration as they might have to the general system of police protection in our city. Of course everybody knows that there is a police force and in a general way has a fair knowledge of the duties of the patrolmen. We would make bold to suggest that every household bear in mind that more can be accomplished by helping the police rather than indulging in criticism of the department. Like all other agencies a police force, no matter whether from geographical causes or something else, presents a problem to those who make certain first they are going to accomplish a successful getaway. for one to be innocent and guilty of the same offence. However, that was not all the information contained in the article from which the above excerpt was taken. The chief point made was the success of a local organization of business men and others in having "no parking" signs placed on railroad bridges. We confess that it surprised us to learn that the bridges had previously been left out in the wholesale distribution of signs throughout the city. We had supposed that having evolved the simple rules for traffic in Nonantum Square and scattered signposts with a free hand in that square and all other available spots, the work of the organization had been completed. Apparently it has not been. It seems that this paternal interest extends further. As we view the enthusiasm of these thoughtful fellow citizens, there are vast opportunities ahead. Before going into that, we feel we should say that they have done something in preventing automobilists from choking themselves to death with locomotive smoke or steam and blinding themselves with cinders. Now that the matter has been called to our attention we remember that we seldom crossed a railroad bridge in Newton that was not crowded with parked cars, the occupants of which were gathering soot, etc., from the passing trains underneath. The signs will put a stop to this, we are pleased to believe. But other places must be in great need of signs. We are not sure what places these may include or where they are located. We haven't time to make the survey, but we are happy in the consciousness that there is such a vigilant group keeping watch that no place that needs a sign shall be required to go without it.

NEWTON CO-OPERATIVE BANK

The Newton Co-operative Bank is one of the oldest banking institutions in the City of Newton. It was chartered in June, 1888, and commenced business in September, 1888. The bank has very attractive banking rooms at 299 Walnut street, Newtonville. It also has a Boston office at room 651 in the Tremont Building, situated at 73 Tremont street.

The officers are:
President, James W. French; vice-president, Frank H. Stuart; treasurer, J. Cheever Fuller.

The directors are:
Charles R. Brown, William M. Cahill, J. Edward Callanan, Thomas C. Donovan, Harry W. Fitts, Charles A. Fitzgerald, James W. French, Samuel W. French, J. Cheever Fuller, George S. Fuller, Frank H. Stuart, George M. Weed.

This bank has total assets of almost $1,900,000. The present earnings are 5 1/2% on serial shares and 5% on matured or paid-up certificates. Shares are issued quarterly in March, June, September and December, but usually can be purchased in any month in the year.

Paid-up share certificates may be bought at any time in multiples of $200 and the dividend checks at the rate of 5% are mailed to the holder quarterly. This is one of the best plans of investing money, and saving, in that they are safe, transferable, exempt from income tax, never depreciate and the money is always available.

The directors meet on the first Tuesday in each month at the banking rooms, 299 Walnut street, Newtonville, at 8.00 P. M.

The co-operative banks in Massachusetts offer an exceptionally fine form of savings for the average man or woman. It is a system whereas one learns to save systematically, and to save monthly a portion of their income. If one desires to save $5.00 a month, he subscribes for five shares, which will reach their maturity with the present 5 1/2% dividend in about seven years and eight months. The depositor pays in approximately $700 and receives in return $1000, a profit of almost $300 on an investment of $5.00 a month.

There was a large and appreciative audience in the Channing Church Parson on last week Thursday when the Channing Alliance Dramatic Club, assisted by Mr. Drummond, presented three plays, "The Twilight Saint," a play by Stark Young; "Op o' me Thumb," by Frederick Fenn and Richard Pryce; and "The Grand Cham's Diamond" by Allen Monkhous.

The cast of characters was as follows: "The Twilight Saint"—Mr. Chester Drummond, Miss Hester Cushing, Mrs. Alvah C. Cummings, Mr. Horace C. Harrington; "Op o' me Thumb"—Dorothy E. Bushnell, Grace Evelyn Brown, Virginia Stokes, Anna Sylvia Bartlett, Mrs. R. W. Bartlett, Dr. L. H. Naylor; "The Grand Cham's Diamond"—Chester C. Smith, Mrs. Joseph W. Palmer, Miss Dorothy Pray, Stephen Howe, Leonard Gifford.

The Music was by David Grant. Miss Greta Lundholm sang a group of Japanese songs by Amy Woodforde-Finden and was accompanied by Mrs. John many variations. His ready wit, pleasing voice, and charming personality completely captivated the audience.

Newtonville Woman's Club

Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, Literature Chairman of the State Federation, was the leader at the first meeting of the class in English Literature on Wednesday afternoon, January 20th. These classes will meet the last two Wednesday in each month and are under the direction of Mrs. Florence A. Rose.

"Popular Books of the Day" was the subject of Mrs. Schrader's talk and she made many suggestions of value. She recommended loyalty to the classes which should not be crowded out by "best sellers." The new and attractive editions of these old favorites kept them before the public eye. "David Copperfield" is still the idol of childhood. Mrs. Schrader advised mothers to visit the "Children's Bookshop," a branch of the "Woman's Educational and Industrial Union." Among books of fiction she noted those of the North-west trails including "Wild Geese," "Barren Ground," and "The Emigrant." "Drums," a story of the Revolution, is highly praised by Prof. W. L. Phelps. "The Great Pandolfi," by Locke, Mrs. Schrader considered one of the books of sterling worth.

She spoke of the marked interest in biography, which at the present day is frequently written in the style of Strachey, "friendly and ironical." Among the outstanding biographies she recommended "Modelling My Life" by Lord Gray, Dr. Gordon's "My Education and Religion," and Nora Smith's life of her sister, Kate Douglas Wiggin. Drama and poetry were included in her talk, and she read delightfully selections from Daly and Milne. Tea was served by the Education Committee, Mrs. J. Walter Allen presiding at the tea table.

Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands

Pursuing their love for the drama of their chosen writer a large group of members of the Shakespeare Club attended one of the performances of "Much Ado About Nothing," last week, at the Repertory Theatre, and thoroughly enjoyed the production, so splendidly was it acted and presented.

Social Science Club

Prof. Henry G. Pearson, head of the History Department of the Institute of Technology, spoke to the Social Science Club on Lincoln and Nationality. Interested in Abraham Lincoln, as well as are, and well read on the subject, Prof. Pearson deepened our interest and added much to our knowledge by his treatment of the subject.

Briefly stated, Prof. Pearson said: "Abraham Lincoln preserved the nation by acts not words. Much pressure was brought to bear on the President to negotiate peace, or if not peace, at least a year's armistice. And this pressure came heaviest just before he went before the people for another term. But he did not hesitate. He wanted war to the finish rather than winning at the polls, and he would accept no suggestions for peace when the rebels came with fire arms in their hands. He had the force of will and moral courage to carry clear through to a complete surrender, and he did. His power and wisdom made him the greatest ruler during a war. His purposes were, first, to win the war, and second, to bring back peace. He saw our country fighting as brothers in error. When the fight was fought out they must live together again as brothers.

His second inaugural address towered above the North and the South, pleading that malice be entertained toward none, charity held towards all. Lincoln's beginnings toward peace were annihilated by Booth's bullet, which scattered them far and wide, but his vision has met and will meet the needs of all people.

COMING EVENTS

Waban Woman's Club

February 1st, the Waban Woman's Club takes a winter flight—which are so fashionable nowadays—with a most pleasing lecturer, Mr. Albert Leonard Squier, who will not only tell of delightful experiences, but display in lantern slides lovely scenes portraying "The March of the Seasons." Through which suggest winter sports in the playground of New England, has the added advantage of recalling and visualizing summer days, and budding spring, and autumn foliage, viewed in the warmth of the club rooms—a veritable feast of a whole year of nature's charms—so that the allure of merely winter sports is quite overshadowed possibly. Mr. Squier adds to his great ability as an artist that satisfying pleasure to wait or toil to gain the very finest view of nature's display. The Club is assured a happy mountain trip.

Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club

"Health" is the topic to be brought before the members of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club on Monday evening, the first of February. Dr. G. Philip Grabfield, Medical Director of the Boston branch of the Life Extension Institute, will be the speaker. And the Secretary of the Newton Y. W. C. A. will tell the club what their work can do for the village. In these days when strength, and attention is called so strongly to the claims of cold upon our unwilling notice, the topic may be termed a "timely" one, that Mrs. Walter Stevens, Club Secretary, and Chairman of the evening, has arranged. Emerson Kindergarten is the place of meeting, at 7.30 o'clock.

Newton Highlands Woman's Club

The Art and Home Economics Committees of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club have combined in presenting the program for the meeting next Tuesday, February 2nd, at 2.30 o'clock, in Lincoln Hall, when Mrs. Ernest Willis, President of the Brockton Woman's Club, will speak on "Interior Decorations." This is a subject dear to the heart of every woman. Mrs. G. D.W. Marcy of Rockledge Road will entertain the Literature Class, Wednesday morning, the 3rd, and Mrs. Louis H. Marshall will continue her talks on "Tendencies in Modern English Prose and Verse."

Newtonville Woman's Club

Dr. Henry H. Crane of Malden will give his lecture on "The Scarlet Letter" before the Newtonville Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon, the 2nd. Dr. Crane returns to the city for a little visit, as he was formerly pastor of the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church. As a lecturer he is establishing a reputation that is making him much in demand. Music for the afternoon will be arranged by Mrs. John F. Gilbert, and tea will be served by the Hospitality Committee.

Auburndale Woman's Club

The Auburndale Woman's Club is rich in pleasing activities this month, with plays that are always delightful entertainment, especially when composed of "home talent," and with courtesy extended to new members. Events that make for better acquaintanceship, and for amusement are always welcomed in club circles.

On Tuesday, February 2nd, the regular meeting of the club takes the form of a "Home Talent" day, and two plays: "For Distinguished Service," and "Sardines," will be given under the direction of Mrs. Royal G. Whiting, Coach. Certainly if "catchy" titles fulfill their promise, it will be amusing to view the latter production. To add to the enjoyment Mrs. Dana Kendall is to sing a group of songs.

Thursday, the 11th is the date chosen for "A Better Acquaintance Tea," which is to be held from 3 to 5 P. M. in the Auburndale Club House. This is given by the Reception Committee of the Auburndale Woman's Club and the new 1925 members and their sponsors.

There will also be an Art Exhibit by young local talent in charge of the Art Committee. It is noteworthy that with hospitality goes recognition of outstanding ability in the thoughts of the club members, and the thoughtfulness that renders such encouragement is most understanding.

On Thursday evening, the 18th, the Auburndale Woman's Club will present "The Hottentot," under the direction of Mrs. Lyman W. Gore, and announcement is made early so that members may secure their tickets at their regular club meetings before then, at $1.50 each, or they may order from Mrs. G. F. Nudd, 367 Central Street, Tel. W. N. 0924-W.

Newton Centre Woman's Club

Mrs. Ida Porter-Boyer will give the fourth in the series of six Current Events Lectures on Thursday, February 4th, in the Underwood School Hall, at two-thirty o'clock.

Newton Centre Woman's Club

Three interesting days follow one another for the Newton Centre Woman's Club next week. On the 4th is the regular meeting at 2 o'clock, when the Community Service Committee, of which Mrs. George Willard Smith is Chairman, will present as speaker Prof. David D. Vaughn, whose subject will be "Standards of Community Welfare," and our own well-known Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, who will tell about "Newton Welfare Organizations." Prof. Vaughn has made his way in the world through hard but enlightening experiences from the foot up many a rung of the ladder, and knows people as few have the chance to know them, rubbing elbows with all kinds and conditions. Those who heard him last year at Swampscott before the State Federation know that he can tell many a vital story with much of humor and more of understanding, and give messages of inspiration. Newton club women need no introduction to the work, character, and splendid aims of one of our own who has so aided to make women's clubs a vital force, and respected by those who possibly know little about them. Mrs. Palmer has been identified with her own Newtonville Club as the President with the Newton Federation, and with many other clubs of the State.

The Minstrel Show occupies all thoughts for the 5th and 6th, and promises to be a success financially, socially, and officially. Tickets are in charge of Mrs. George J. Murphy, Director of Activities, instead of in Mrs. Chapin's charge, and may be obtained from her by calling C. N. 9914, or by getting to or calling the Club House, where it has been arranged that tickets may be obtained from 10 to 12 o'clock, for the convenience of purchasers. The Club House telephone is C. N. 2222. Like all of the Annual Mid-Winter Events the show is being eagerly awaited, while Mr. Roy Harlow coaches the "minstrels."

A fascinating course is offered by the Home Economics Committee, of which Mrs. E. D. Leonard is Chairman, for three Wednesday afternoons, at 2.30 o'clock. Miss Welmer, of Washburn-Crosby Co., is to demonstrate how to make cakes, icings, pastries, cookies and unusual desserts, on February 3, 10 and 17. One of the most inviting attractions among Miss Welmer's courses is that she distributes her samples. Miss Welmer herself, moreover, has that gift for a teacher of making her instructions a real treat—not in the samples alone—because of her sense of humor, quaint expression of it, and quick wit under all circumstances. Applications for the course of these lectures—and this is almost an enormous work for an excellent program—should be made to Mrs. Leonard, telephone C. N. 2373. The course is fifty cents.

C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands

"Shakespeare" is to be enjoyed by members of the C. L. S. C. for their coming three meetings, beginning with the 8th of February. Prefacing this program in the calendar is quoted from Anthony and Cleopatra, "To bustle that we love we rise betimes, and go to't with delight," and all who have indulged in studying or acting plays of this master can appreciate the state of mind that caused this quotation to be chosen to express the pleasure in the coming meetings. Appropriately, too, the play from which the apt lines are taken is to be the one studied. Mrs. Emory Clark is to be hostess for the first meeting, on the 8th, and Miss Anna S. Thompson has charge of the opening presentation of the play.

Monday Club of Newton Highlands

An Author's Reading is the program for the Monday Club on the afternoon of February 8th, at the home of Mrs. Florence E. Foster, 1058 Walnut Street. Miss Emma Downing Coolidge will read two of her own stories: "Mr. Goddard Gives An Address," a comedy-satire on the usefulness of family members feminine to the all-sufficient male of the species, and "Hoarded Gold," a business drama, companion volume to her well-known book, "The Dreamer." Music and guests will make the afternoon a festive occasion for the club.

Advance Notice of the Social Science Club

The year's business was the best in the history of this oldest chartered Life Insurance company in America. The new insurance of 1925 was $117,647,075, exceeding that of 1924 by $13,691,875. The insurance in force is $857,429,816, an increase of $76,344,849.

The Company has never transacted so large a business, nor has it ever been so strong financially. Its progressive administration faces a most encouraging outlook for the future.

Barrows; Master of Work, Maurice E. Beardsley, P.C.; Trustee, P.C.; Rep. to Grand Lodge for 2 years, Walter A. Whalen, P.C.

The retiring Chancellor, Maurice E. Beardsley, was presented with a P.C.'s jewel. The incoming Chancellor announced his committee for the ensuing year and all promised to do their part to make it a banner year.

The entertainment committee announced that they had several events planned, the first to be a whist party, February 9th, in the lodge room, Denison Hall, Newtonville. The installing officers were accompanied by a delegation from Hyde Park Lodge, who all voiced the pleasure derived by a visit to Newton Lodge.

Refreshments and a social time brought to a close a most enjoyable evening.

WELCOMED HOME

Over 300 members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company gathered at Faneuil Hall, Boston, Monday night, with a population of approximately 200,000. It was a welcome home to Capt. Frank L. Nagle of Newtonville, the commander of the company. He has just returned from Philadelphia where he represented the State.

In a brief address Capt. Nagle told of arrangements now in progress in the Quaker City for the patriotic veterans of the country at the coming celebration. He expressed the hope to see the Ancients at the head of the line as the oldest military organization in the country, and said that while he would not be in command of the company on that occasion, as his term expires in June, he surely would be there in the ranks.

Chaplain Ellis, pastor of the Central Congregational Church in Newtonville, also made a brief address.

A delegation of Ancients under the command of Captain Nagle left Boston this afternoon to attend the 100th anniversary of the Old Guard of New York at the Waldorf-Astoria this evening. The company expects to have at least three sections on the floor in the military march.

WALTHAM TRADE SHOW

Waltham has been rapidly becoming a trading center of a group of towns surrounding it, with a population of approximately 200,000. These towns include Acton, Concord, Lincoln, Lexington, Belmont, Watertown, Newton, Needham, Wellesley, Weston, Sudbury, and Weymouth.

Particularly has trading in Waltham increased since parking facilities for automobiles have become so difficult, if not impossible in Boston, whereas not only has Waltham provided a municipal parking space within a step of Hall's corner, parking space which is fenced in, electrically lighted and the privilege of being the only Saturday night, but also because there are various other parking spaces available.

Today there is in the Waltham stores a greater variety of merchandise than is to be found anywhere between Boston and Worcester, and so, more clearly and definitely than has heretofore been possible, the Trade Show is planning to combine under one roof, a sample of the large and varied assortment of merchandise available.

Thousands of free souvenirs will be distributed during the show, which will be held at the "Cutting-on-the-Chair" Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, February 2, 3 and 4.

MYSTERY REVEALED AT LAST

The mystery surrounding the close friendship of Col. Edward M. House and President Wilson and the amazing part that friendship played in world history is finally to be revealed. Col. House, the only person who could now give the whole story to the public, has decided to publish his personal diary, his correspondence and the record of his activities as confidential spokesman for the President during those fateful years.

This promises to be one of the most remarkable and intimate documents in American political history. The Boston Globe paid $25,000 for the privilege of being the only New England newspaper to print this extraordinary record, and "The Intimate Papers of Col. House" will be given to the public for the first time in the Sunday and daily editions of the Boston Globe, beginning next Sunday, January 31.

BLUE TRIANGLE NEWS

The Blue Triangle Club is still hard at work on "The Cool Collegians," which they plan to present on Friday and Saturday, February 12th and 13th, at the Young Women's Christian Association. There will be dancing both evenings.

The "B. T. C." had a guest night on Monday, the 25th, at which some of their club talent was displayed. This was a great success and they are planning to have another one within the near future.

The new semester for basketball and gymnasium starts February 2nd, and material is being sent out regarding the special rate which is now being offered. Information may be secured by calling Newton North 3447.

The children's gymnasium class, which is held every Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock under the direction of Miss Faire, is thriving, but there is always room for more and any children from the ages of nine to twelve, who would like to join, will be welcomed.

DOG BITES CHILDREN

O. K. Smith of 371 Waltham street, West Newton woman dog. It has been variously described by the papers as a German police dog, and a Belgian police dog. Anyhow, it is of that breed of dog, somewhat wolfish in appearance, popular in Germany and Belgium for many years, and quite the vogue in this country since the war. Dogs of this breed are red-blooded, vigorous canines, frequently somewhat too rough in their playful moods.

It was reported to the police that Mr. Smith's dog had bitten some children who were coasting on the grounds of the Albemarle Golf Club. The animal had chased Dorothy Shea of 82 Randlett Park, Winifred Walden of 194 Elliot avenue, and Eleanor Carey of 1159 Watertown street, and nipped the little girls, but not severely. The dog was given to City Veterinarian Bouteille for observation, and Mr. Bouteille decided that the animal showed no symptoms of rabies.

BENEFIT SHOW

At the Newton Catholic Club Hall in West Newton Sunday evening a special motion picture show will be given for the benefit of the West Newton Memorial Library fund. The show will be under the auspices of the officers and directors of the club. The club quote for the erection of the building was not raised during library week last October, although work will be started on the construction shortly. The building will be built on the corner of Chestnut and Davis streets and besides providing quarters for the library will also contain accommodations for the West Newton Community Centre which now meets in the Davis School.
